

Why you should choose a MASSAGE THERAPY career

If you are interested in a flexible career where you make good income, you may want to consider massage therapy!

- First, the pay is great. According to AMTA, a massage therapist charges an average of $71.64 for an hour massage. For other massage related work, $46 an hour. That's pretty good for starting out.
- The second biggest perk of becoming a massage therapist is, education without a substantial amount of debt. If you want a bachelors degree in the U.S., it will cost you around $132,000. Let's face it, a large portion of these people drop out before they receive their bachelor's degree, what a bummer.
- The massage industry is a GROWING industry and becoming more needed. Most Americans see massage therapy as an essential part of self-care and well-being.
- If you dread the thought of a 9-5 job, massage therapy is for you. Most massage therapists have a flexible schedule, whether working for themselves, a spa or Chiropractor.
- One more thing, do you like helping people? Massage therapy can bring you great satisfaction. Massage therapists can relieve chronic pain, promote relaxation, relieve stress and SO much more.

If you like helping people, making money, and working on your own time, it may be time to consider becoming a Massage Therapist.
