6 UNUSUAL BUT TEMPTING SCOOPS OF ICY TREATS THAT ARE SUMMER HITS

BY LORELEI SAVARNY

» Cinnamon

Summer custard seekers luck out with this surprising flavor, which has been served at Leon's since the 1970s. It originally was only served during the holidays, but gained so much popularity that it is now in regular rotation. "I've never seen it anywhere else. It's sort of an odd flavor," says owner Ron Schneider. "It's not overpowering. It goes real well on a pie or cake."

» Zanzibar Chocolate

This is not your ordinary chocolate ice cream. "It's more decadent because it's made with three African cocoas. It's really dark and rich," says owner Christine Cruz. Babe's is the only store to serve this flavor in the area, and because of its popularity, she offers it daily. "I enjoy people having fun with my ice cream and enjoying it," she says. "There is nothing like the Zanzibar Chocolate."

» Rum and Coke

If you think rum and Coke is solely an adult beverage, think again. The people at Kopp's have turned it into a unique and refreshing summer custard treat. "It tastes exactly like a rum and Coke," says one manager. "It's thirst quenching." This popular flavor is part of Kopp's extensive rotation, so check the flavor forecast on the Web site (www.kopps.com) to see when it's coming up.

» Cake Batter

Bring back early memories of baking in the family kitchen with this fun flavor from Divino Gelato. "It tastes just like scraping the bowl," says owner Lori Lester, who has mastered the art of gelato mixology by creating or perfecting more than 130 flavors of gelato and sorbeto. She suggests combining Cake Batter and Peach gelato to create a refreshing frozen peach cobbler.

» Mango Tango

For anyone with a sweet tooth, the idea of putting custard and candy together is a dream combination, and Kehr's Candies has made this dream come true. Kehr's uses its own candies to create exciting custard flavors, like Mango Tango. This intriguing combination of tangy meltable mango flavored custard is a must-try. One employee calls it "a fruity burst in your mouth."
