STUDENTS

Although they are young, the students at Marymount Academy understand the meaning of true holiday spirit. For the second year in a row, the students have organized their very own toy fund collection for Sun Youth. One student even raised $215 from her peers and with that money went to Tour de Jeux Fairview where she and friends bought toys at an especially low discount. The main goal was to not only raise funds for the less fortunate but to give a kid somewhere an unforgettable Christmas. Although they've collected a staggering amount of toys and goods the students are hoping to purchase even more items for Sun Youth whose slogan this year is: "Give today so we can give all year."

Homeroom Classes competed against each other. The room that collected the most canned goods would be deemed the winning team. Miss Doughan's class came in first this year.

Inspiring talk from student to students

Herzliah High School students were inspired by listening to Tommy Glatzmeyer talk about his sister, Melanie, her rare congenital syndrome called Cornelia de Lange and his reasoning behind writing a book called Melanie and Tommy have two pet rats and one Syndrome. Seen here (left to right) in the back row: Secondary I student Matthew Mann, Meran Asefa, English Teacher and Student Advisor, Melissa Sculnick and Hannah Kain. Front row, Melanie and Tommy Glatzmeyer, holding their two pet rats with student Ethan Kovac.
