Video Monitoring Services

Video Alarm Intervention - a security specialist intervenes when a live video alarm is received from a customer's location. Specialized video surveillance software alerts the security specialist at our video command center that a person has breached a restricted area. The security specialist can make an announcement over an intercom.

Example: "Warning you are on live video surveillance. You are in a restricted area, leave immediately or law enforcement will be dispatched to this location."

Video Patrols - a security specialist views all security cameras at a location on a pre-determined schedule to provide visual security checks for suspicious behavior.

Example: The owner/manager of a manufacturing plant needs to make sure that all of its workers are wearing their hard hats while they are working. If the audit finds someone does not have their hard hat on, the owner/manager would receive a report of the instance with an attached video clip.

Video Monitored Openings/Closings – many businesses like Jewelry Stores, Banks, Pawn Shops, Check Cashing, and others are required by insurance or company policy to have two or more people present when opening or closing a store. Live Video Monitored Openings/Closings can help meet this requirement.

Video Panic/Suspicion Assistance Alarm - a security specialist receives a panic/suspicion alarm activated at a customer location. The security specialist will view live video to determine the security threat and can dispatch law enforcement and EMS.

Video Interactive Doorman - a security specialist can check a person into a gated or controlled area. The security specialist can check and record the person's information and if they meet the requirements of the customer, our security specialist can grant them access to the restricted area.

Total Threat Surveillance - a dedicated security specialist is assigned to watch in real-time all streaming video from a customer's location.
