

HOW LONG WILL IT TAKE

In cases involving business, workplace or neighborhood disputes mediation will often take place in a single session over a day or half a day. Family dispute mediation sessions could be from 1 to 4 sessions, of around 80 minutes each. This allows clients to try out interim agreements that are reached in between sessions. All cases differ and a full and detailed discussion will take place at the outset to determine your particular needs.