

Los Angeles Airport Police Lieutenant Appointed To California Contractors State License Board

Los Angeles Airport Police Lieutenant Marlo Richardson was recently appointed to the California Contractors State License Board (CSLB). The CSLB protects California consumers by licensing and regulating the State’s construction industry, was established in 1929 and today licenses about 290,000 contractors in 43 different license classifications.

Lt. Richardson has been with the Airport Police since 1999. She wears many hats in the community; she is a member of the Westchester-Playa Democratic Club Executive Board, Los Angeles African American Women’s Public Policy Institute, California Women Lead and the Jack and Jill of America Foundation. Lt. Richardson has a Bachelor’s Degree in Communication with a minor in Public Administration from California State University Dominguez Hills.

“Lt. Richardson possesses a will and a drive to be successful not only in her full time position with the Airport Police Division but in all the other organizations she is a member of. When she places her focus on something she is very determined to meet her goals and I support the California Contractors State License Board’s decision in appointing her”, Airport Police Chief Patrick M. Gannon said.
