About the author

M. S. King is a private investigative journalist and researcher based in the New York City area. A 1987 graduate of Rutgers University, King's subsequent 30 year career in Marketing & Advertising has equipped him with a unique perspective when it comes to understanding how "public opinion" is indeed scientifically manufactured.

Madison Ave marketing acumen combines with 'City Boy' instincts to make M.S. King one of the most tenacious detectors of "things that don't add up" in the world today. Says King of his admitted quirks, irreverent disdain for "conventional wisdom", and uncanny ability to ferret out and weave together important data points that others miss: "Had Sherlock Holmes been an actual historical personage, I would have been his reincarnation."

King is the webmaster of TomatoBubble.com – which also features The Anti-New York Times for select readers. He is also the author of:

INTRODUCTION

Since its founding in 1851 by Republican Henry Jarvis Raymond, The NY Times has been a big player in shaping public opinion. But it was not until 1896 that the Times took a turn to the internationalist Left when it was purchased by a German-Jew named Adolph Ochs. In 1897, Ochs himself would coin the paper's now famous self-serving slogan, printed on its masthead every day ever since: "All the News That's Fit to Print".

Adolph Ochs

Ochs' daughter married Arthur Hays Sulzberger, who became publisher when Adolph died. Ochs' great grandson Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, Jr. is the publisher of the NY Times today. So, for 1.2 centuries, America's most influential propaganda sheet has been in the hands of the same Zionist-Marxist family. Count on The Times to promote big government, Globalism, phony environmentalism, Israel, the Fed, and endless wars.

Just how powerful is what your fighting author likes to refer to "Sulzberger's Slimes"? The erudite writer Gore Vidal may have been a morally degenerate sodomite who was wrong about many things, but his reference to the Slimes as "the Typhoid Mary of American journalism" was as spot-on as it was witty. One need only glance at the morning headlines of "the paper of record", and then take note of how the superficial infomercials known as "the Nightly News" will so often pick up on whatever front page fairy-tale that the Manhattan Mendacity Machine spun that very same morning.

Like some journalistic plague; the virus of lies, half-truths and cherry-picked data then infects the unguarded minds of the whole country, and indeed, the world. Such is the indisputable power and undeserved "prestige" of this dreadful "Orwellian" institution.

The Anti-New York Times was originally established as, and still is, a pay-to-view daily sub-page of TomatoBubble.com. Beginning in 2015, the collected rebuttals to the Slimes' Spin were published in Quarterly book format – which you now hold in your hands. To best understand the bare-knuckled and often humorous rebuttals, it is recommended that readers also purchase and study, Planet Rothschild: The Forbidden History of the New World Order. That will give you a firm grounding in REAL history while The Anti-New York Times informs you of the contemporary world which had grown out of that tragic history.

When gathered in one place, the rebuttals expose The Slimes as a deceitful naked Emperor. If the Slimes is the disease of deception, let The Anti-New York Times be your antidote of truth.

NY Times: Russians Strike Targets in Syria, but Not ISIS Areas

By HELENE COOPER, MICHAEL R. GORDON and NEIL MacFARQUHAR

Russian aircraft carried out a bombing attack against Syrian opposition fighters on Wednesday, including at least one group trained by the C.I.A. eliciting angry protests from American officials.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Just yesterday, your favorite prophets here at The Anti-New York Times forecast:

"Once the Russians begin pounding the mercenary scum who have turned Syria into hell-on-Earth, the Globalists will scream that Russia is attacking the "moderate rebels" that the U.S. is supporting."

Nailed it!

We were, however, expecting the Slimes-Pentagon propaganda attack to materialize a week or two after the strikes began. It turned out to be an hour or two instead! Secretary of Offense Ass Carter, speaking out of same:

"We have been observing Russian activities, and I don't want to go into detail about that at this time, but the reason, one of the reasons, why the Russian position is contradictory is exactly the potential for them to strike as they may well have in places where ISIL is not present ... others are present."

Bust out the hip-waders! In the coming days and weeks, Carter's Pentagon and Sulzberger's Slimes will spewing out rivers of raw rubbish aimed at Russia.

Coming next on the heels of Globalist whining about Russia's attack on the "moderate rebels" will be tall tales of civilian casualties -- supported by crying ketchup-stained crisis actors. Bet on it! These cunning clowns become very predictable after a while.

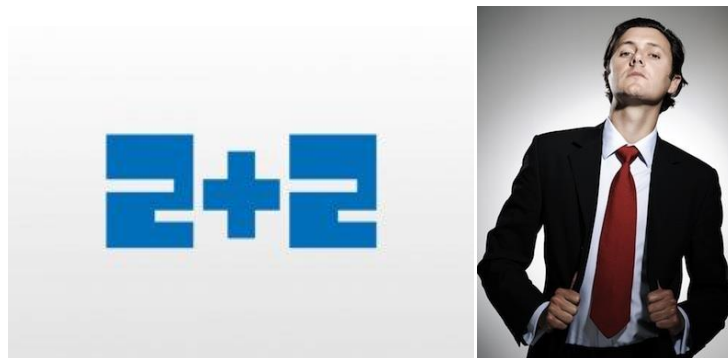

According to the article, Asston Con-man added:

"By supporting Assad and seemingly taking on everybody fighting Assad," Defense Secretary Ashton B. Carter said on Wednesday, Russia is 'taking on the whole rest of the country that's fighting Assad.' Some of those groups, he added, are supported by the United States and need to be part of a political resolution in Syria."

Even the Pentagram and The Slimes are essentially admitting (and have never really concealed) that the U.S. is inciting and prolonging the conflict by aiding certain "groups". Again, from the opening line of this article: "including at least one group trained by the C.I.A.".

But the key word there is, "essentially". For a media-addled dummy, "essentially" is not good enough. They need everything spelled out for them. You see, the obedient Boobuses who kneel in Sulzberger's filth every day, in spite of some of their advanced degrees and "education", are simply not capable of putting 2 + 2 together. How can people not realize that the U.S. (and Israel/Saudi) are responsible for keeping the bloodbath alive, even after The Slimes, as dishonest as it is, has actually been giving them the key elements of the equation all along?

Evidently, without the "=" and the "4" handed to them, they still can't figure out a logical equation on their own.

Typical Times subscriber on "2 + 2": "There is insufficient empirical data to arrive at a definitive conclusion in regard to such a complex matter."

This explains why the very same people now figuratively crying over the deaths and suffering of so many Syrians, and the related "migrant crisis", are not the least bit angered by America's admitted -- "essentially" admitted, that is -- role in prolonging the war in Syria. How weird is that?! And yet, these very same non-thinking blockheads (who fancy themselves as "intellectuals") will soon be crying on command when images of "dead civilians" - purportedly killed by the big bad Putin - start appearing on the Slimes front page.

Dadgummit! If The Slimes were to report that dog feces sandwiches were delicious and nutritious, Boobus Americanus would head out to the nearest park with a pairs of tongs, hamburger buns and a bottle of A-1 steak sauce -- and that's no joke!

Oh how the Editorial Board of The Anti-New York Times wishes it had Sulzberger's power and influence over people. What fun we would have!

ADDENDUM: This just in, from another Slimes piece entitled:

Syrian Rebels Say Russia Is Targeting Them Rather Than ISIS

By ANNE BARNARD

“They are the most violent strikes,” says a man filming the grim aftermath of what he asserts was a Russian air attack on the town of Talbiseh, in the Homs Province of Syria. “This is the Russian criminal regime.” The voice then trails off into laments and prayers: “Oh God, oh God, oh God. God is all we need.”

He concludes: “This is what the criminal Russian planes did.”

The Bolshevik bull-shine is only going to get worse!

Boobus Americanus 1: The war in Syria seems like an endless humanitarian tragedy -- going on 4 years now.

Boobus Americanus 2: Tragic and endless indeed! Absolutely heart-breaking. I am against putting American 'boots-on-the-ground, but we have to support the moderate rebels.

*"Double-thinking cretinss want to sstop the war by prolonging the war!

(It is amusing --sad, but amusing.)

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The images above are all we care to say about the latest crisis-actor shooting hoax. With all due respect to those of our readers who still believe all of these bloodless mass shootings are real -- you either "get it" by now, or you don't.

OCTOBER, 2015

NY Times: Pope Francis Met With Kim Davis, Kentucky County Clerk, in Washington

By JIM YARDLEY and LAURIE GOODSTEIN

Pope Francis met privately in Washington last week with Kim Davis, the county clerk in Kentucky who defied a court order to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

In spite of intensely sympathetic media hype, the Pinko Pope paid a dear price for his recently (and thankfully) completed political tour through the New York - Philadelphia - DC corridor. As elements of the "conservative" press and the Catholic faithful themselves savaged Frankie's Marxist positions of Global Warming TM, open borders and wealth redistribution, much of the shine was removed from Frankie Fakeout's felonious facade. Vatican image-makers were left with some serious repair work to do.

This is just a speculative observation; but it is one that we are now 90% certain of. Here goes:

What if Kim Davis serves the same "powers that be" that Frankie Fakeout does? What better way to tone down the growing and troublesome image of a liberal pope who is soft on abortion and homosexuality than to issue a false claim of a "secret meeting" having taken place between Poop Fakeness and anti-homosexual marriage activist Kim Davis (the Kentucky clerk who did a brief stint in jail for denying marriage licenses to a pair of fags).

Though our previous coverage of Kim Davis was sympathetic, we were a tiny bit suspicious that she may have been a plant; and that her principled denial of homosexual marriage licenses was a stunt intended to show the world what the true face of Southern Christian "intolerance" looks like. (Yikes!)

Indeed, in retrospect, the comically unsophisticated and crazed-looking Ms. Davis, and her hilarious husband Joe, really do seem like invented characters straight out of Hollywood casting, a la "The Beverly Hill Billies". This meeting with the Pope - for which there is zero evidence - adds further weight to our belief that the actors involved in these corny dramas are all, well, actors.

Crazy Kim the Kentucky Christian with a very checkered moral past -- straight out of CIA-Hollywood casting. Check out the overalls and straw hat on Joe Davis!

Excerpts from the article simply do not ring true:

"Vatican officials initially would not confirm that the meeting occurred, finally doing so on Wednesday afternoon, while refusing to discuss any details."

"Initially would not confirm" -- "refusing to discuss details". Why not?

"I put my hand out and he reached and he grabbed it, and I hugged him and he hugged me," Ms. Davis said Wednesday in an interview with ABC News. "Thank you for your courage.""

You have any pictures, Kim?

"The secretiveness of the meeting, and the Vatican's refusal to give any information, will inevitably raise questions about why Francis chose to meet with Ms. Davis — and why he kept the meeting secret."

Why such secrecy? With millions of eyes and cameras on the Pope Fakeness and his entourage, how were the Davises smuggled in?

Beverley Hill Billies

"We sho nuff don't reckon the good Lord was a fixin' for dem dere sodomites to be a gettin' hitched."

For God's sake Joe, can't you ditch the grungy overalls and straw hat for your meeting with Governor Huckabee?! (Notice the "Don't Tread on Me" Tea Party Snake in the background -- Nice touch!)

More:

"Mr. Staver (Davis's lawyer) said that he, the Davises and Vatican officials had agreed to not publicize the meeting until after the pope had left the United States because, he said, "we didn't want the pope's visit to be focused on Kim Davis."

It is inconceivable that the Vatican would risk exposure of such a controversial meeting during this all-important propaganda trip. Sorry -- not buying it.

"Mr. Staver said the idea for a meeting was first discussed on Sept. 14, more than a week before the pope's arrival. He declined to say who proposed the meeting."

Why would a Pope who has been so accommodating and so "tolerant" of opposing views on homosexual "marriage" want to meet with the heroine of "homophobia"?

"The Davises snapped selfies inside the Vatican Embassy.

Can we see these 'selfies' -- Kim? Hello? Kim?

However, he said, "out of deference and respect they didn't want to pull out a cellphone with the pope.

Of course. (rolling eyes)

"The Vatican had their own photographers there and we're told the pictures will be released later. No photographs had been released by Wednesday evening in Rome."

No photographs yet, eh? We anxiously await the release of the photos -- along with the photos of the dead Osama Bin Laden as well as the "victims" of the Aurora Movie Theater, Sandy Hook School, Charleston Church, and Umqua College mass shootings.

Anonymous and unseen "sources" in the Vatican have "confirmed" the Davis-Pope meeting.

"Coincidentally", news of this "secret meeting" broke on the very same day that a story about the Pope's conflict with Ignazio Marino, the Marxist Mayor of Rome, made the rounds of the Piranha Press. From Yahoo:

Pope shows no mercy as he blasts Rome mayor as a 'pretend Catholic'

"He pretends to be Catholic, it came on him all of a sudden. It doesn't happen like that," Francis said.

The pope's cutting comments on the politician -- who observers say rubbed the pontiff up the wrong way with his vocal support of gay marriage and euthanasia - came as Francis returned from a barnstorming visit to the United States."

Image 1: Don't believe Vatican Press releases about the Marino-Francis split! The Pinko Pope of Poofterism and the Marxist Mayor are totally in sync.

As it was with the Davis meeting, there is no video / audio evidence of the Pope's "attack" upon the Marxist Mayor. This is yet another indication that the Pope's public relations handlers are feeding disinformation to willing (or just gullible) accomplices in the Piranha Press. These two unconfirmed and un-confirmable "events" have suddenly confounded and confused Frankie's conservative critics and empowered his libtarded apologists. "See! The Pope is not as liberal as you right wingers make him out to be." - goes the latest liberal line.

In order to re-sheep dip His Unholiness, it may be necessary for the liberal media to lob a few more soft attacks against him -- just enough to silence critics and allow the moderately damaged Pope some time to recover his standing as a "conservative". It's all showbiz, folks -- nothing but magic tricks and misdirections.

Yeee Haww! Praise Jesus!

Hollywood Joe later changed his straw hat for a hunter's cap -- an NRA member we presume?

2nd Amendment supporter Joe Davis, in his own words:

"I'm an old redneck hillbilly, that's all I've got to say. Don't come knocking on my door."

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times that Pope Francis secretly met with that Kentucky clerk during his visit here. Evidently, he is not as liberal as his conservative critics say he is.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's amazing how they managed to pull that meeting off with all the media scrutiny surrounding both of them.

"No Boobus! What'ss amazing is how you frickin' ssimpletonss are sso eassily fooled time and time and time again."

(It is amazing -- and also amusing.)

NY Times (Friedman Editorial): Syria, Obama and Putin

By Thomas L. Friedman

Your Honor, I rise again in defense of President Barack Obama's policy on Syria. Obama has been right in his ambivalence about getting deeply involved in Syria. But he's never had the courage of his own ambivalence to spell out his reasoning to the American people.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Like the rest of his Tribal brethren at the Marxist madhouse in Manhattan; Slimes' senior slanderer Thomas Friedman is beside himself over Putin's intervention in Syria. But unlike most of his hysterical colleagues, Friedman sees a delusional version of a silver lining that he is desperately clinging to. You see, according to Friedman, Putin is "stupid" because this is all going to blow up in his face. Keep dreaming, fatboy!

Let's examine some key excerpts from Freakman's fantasy.

Friedman: Let's say the U.S. did nothing right now, and just let Putin start bombing ISIS and bolstering Assad. How long before every Sunni Muslim in the Middle East, not to mention every jihadist, has Putin's picture in a bull's eye on his cellphone?

Analysis: Really, Tom? You mean to say that every Sunni Muslim in the Middle East supports the murderous mercenaries of ISIS? Really? Newsflash, Tommy-Boy -- every Arab schoolchild knows by now that ISIS / "moderate" rebels are frontmen for the CIA-Mossad. The corrupt regime in Saudi Arabia doesn't like what Russia is doing, but the average man in the Arab street - is either ambivalent, or actually happy to finally see someone stand up to the U.S. / Israel Axis of Evil.

Almost the entirety of Egypt's Muslim population is Sunni --- and they LOVE Putin!

Friedman: The Sunni Muslims are the vast majority in Syria. They are the dominant sect in the Arab world. Putin and Russia would be seen as going all-in to protect Assad, a pro-Iranian, Alawite/Shiite genocidal war criminal.

Analysis: If the Sunni Muslim super majority truly views Shiite Muslim Assad as a "genocidal war criminal", then how does Assad retain such strong support among them? Why hasn't this "vast majority" joined ISIS or "the moderate rebels"? You speak of Assad as a "genocidal war criminal" -- yet, as it was with Saddam Hussein's "Weapons of Mass Destruction" -- you offer zero evidence of this "genocide."

The truth of the matter is that the difference between a Sunni Muslim and a Shiite Muslim is sort of like that between a Catholic and a Lutheran. It is a difference of doctrine that only purists, divide-and-conquer Zionists, and the CIA make a big deal out of.

1- Sunni-Shia girls are best friends

2- Sunni-Shia couple on wedding day

3- Uncle Sam and scum like Thomas Friedman stir up the Sunni-Shia tension

Friedman: Putin would alienate the entire Sunni Muslim world, including Russian Muslims.

Analysis: The defeated remnants of the mercenary filth of Chechnya might not care for Putin; but Putin is respected and admired by the Muslim masses of the Central Asian part of Russia. Sorry, Freakman. But there isn't going to be any "Muslim" uprising or "color revolution" in the new Russia.

1- Putin just attended the ceremony for the opening of one of Europe's biggest mosques -- in Moscow!

2- Give up already, Friedman. The pro-Putin Muslims of Russia see themselves as Russians.

3- The Christians, Muslims and Buddhists of far-reaching Russia are all on the same patriotic page.

Friedman: Moreover, let's say by some miracle the Russians defeat ISIS.

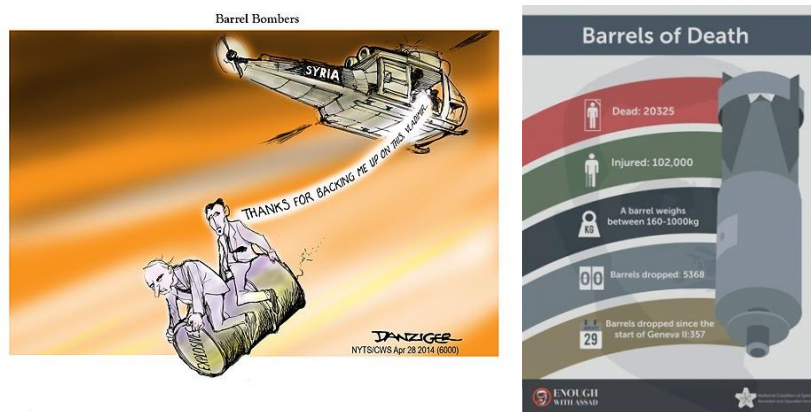

Analysis: "Miracle"? With Russia bombing supply lines and munitions depots from the air, and the Syrians, Iranians and Hezbollah cleaning up the scum on land, what would be so "miraculous" about putting these thugs out of business, once and for all?

Friedman: The only way to keep them defeated is by replacing them with moderate Sunnis.

Analysis: Really? Why do you say that? Most Sunnis and all Christians support Assad. Who says a Shiite can't govern Syria? You, Friedman?

Friedman: Which moderate Sunnis are going to align with Russia while Putin is seen as the prime defender of the barrel-bombing murderer of more Sunnis than anyone on the planet, Bashar al-Assad?

Analysis: "Barrel bombing" -- "barrel bombing" - "barrel bombing" - "barrel bombing". When and where did this mendacious mantra originate from all of a sudden? I must have heard or read it 100 times in just the past week alone! The marketing boys in Langley (CIA) must have sent out a talking-point E-mail blast.

Barrel Bombs - Barrel Bombs - Barrel Bombs - Barrel Bombs

Friedman: Putin stupidly went into Syria looking for a cheap sugar high to show his people that Russia is still a world power.

Analysis: Yes! Of course! That's it! With his popularity only at 90%, the "stupid" Vlad the Bad needed a "sugar high". Brilliant philosophical analysis there, Freakman!

Friedman: Well, now he's up a tree. Obama and John Kerry should just leave him up there for a month --

Analysis: Speaking of trees, Freakman, it sure would be fun to string your lying ass up from a tree - 'good old boy' style, circa 1890's. (by the feet, of course - just for fun)

Friedman: - him and Assad, fighting ISIS alone — and watch him become public enemy No. 1 in the Sunni Muslim world.

Analysis: Dream on, Freakman. --- Although, if, repeat, if you do turn out to be correct about a Syrian quagmire, it will only serve to further confirm what the object of this ghoulish game was all along.

Friedman: “Yo, Vladimir, how's that working for you?”

Analysis: Freakman - you are a sick, twisted, evil, odious, petty, envious, immature, insecure, feckless, unprofessional, lying little sack of Marxist manure. Enough for today.

Good day, loser.

Charlie Rose's little buddy is throwing a journalistic hissy-fit for over Putin's actions in Syria.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an Op-Ed in the New York Times by Thomas Friedman. According to Friedman, Putin's air-strikes and Assad's barrel-bombing will soon turn the whole Muslim world against Russia.

Boobus Americanus 2: Friedman is a three-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize. When such an astute observer of the world scene speaks, Putin would be wise to listen.

"Hey Boobuss! Come here. I got a 'barrel bomb' I want to sstick up your --"

NY Times: In Putin's Syria Intervention, Fear of a Weak Government Hand

By STEVEN LEE MYERS

The specter of mass protest seems to have haunted President Vladimir V. Putin throughout his political life, and that fear informs Russia's forceful intervention in Syria.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Slimes correspondent Steven Lee Myers (robable cough-cough) is the author of the recently released propaganda book "The New Tsar: The Rise and Reign of Vladimir Putin". A brief glance at some of Myers past anti-Putin articles, as well as the "glowing reviews" from known Globalists and Zionists, pretty much tells us, sight unseen, what a load of garbage must be compressed within the pages of his new book.

Today's focus will be on select excerpts from Myers' most recent journalistic turd - about Putin's intervention in Syria. Haz-Mat suits on -- into Sulzberger's seditious cesspool we go!

Myers: On the night of Dec. 5, 1989, Vladimir V. Putin, then a lieutenant colonel in the K.G.B.

Analysis: "KGB. KGB. KGB." Give it a damn rest already!

Myers: ... watched with alarm as thousands of East Germans in Dresden swarmed the riverside compound of the dreaded secret police, the Stasi.

Analysis: Myers misrepresents the cause of Putin's "alarm" over the event just described -- insinuating that the "alarm" was over the collapse of communism. In reality, Putin's "alarm" that night was due to a frenzied mob that was advancing towards KGB Headquarters.

Myers: The takeover of the Stasi headquarters was relatively peaceful --

Analysis: "Relatively peaceful?" Methinks Marxist Myers has left some data out of the equation.

Myers: -- but in Mr. Putin's mind the crowd was frenzied, deranged and dangerous.

Analysis: Putin the paranoid -- understood (rolling eyes).

Myers: The experience that night haunted him like nothing else in his mostly undistinguished career as an intelligence officer.

Analysis: A "mostly undistinguished career" -- grow up, Myers. Grow up!

Myers: East Germany soon ceased to exist, as did the Soviet Union, suffering from an affliction that Mr. Putin described as "a paralysis of power." That diagnosis has been a driving force in his consolidation of political power, and it does much to explain Russia's forceful intervention last week to bolster the besieged government of Syria's president, Bashar al-Assad.

Analysis: So, the show-off Putin went into Syria just to show everybody how powerful Russia is. What a profound psycho-analytic diagnosis, Dr. Myers.

Myers: The specter of mass protest — of mob rule — is one that has haunted Mr. Putin, and that fear lies at the heart of his belief in the primacy of state authority above all else, both at home and abroad.

Analysis: "Mass protest" is a euphemism for CIA "color revolution". As a former KGB man, Putin understands this tactic very well --- and so does Myers!

The media-sanctified "Protesters" consist of CIA-NGO rent-a-mobs, dupes, mercenaries, foreign agents, homosexuals, malcontents, stupid idealistic college kids, and bored bystanders.

Myers: The East Germans considered their protests an expression of popular will, just as many Syrians did when protests against Mr. Assad's government began in 2011.

Analysis: East Germans (though assisted by the CIA) did have legitimate aspirations of reuniting with their brothers in the West. To the contrary, the Arab Spring "protests" which targeted Syria (and other states) were totally rigged for the purpose of overthrowing governments and installing U.S. / Israel puppet states. Again, Myers knows this.

Myers: But Mr. Putin viewed them as an unlawful usurpation of government authority. And that, in his mind, leads inexorably not to positive political change, but rather to chaos.

Analysis: Libya? In chaos. Iraq? In chaos. Syria? In chaos. Ukraine? In chaos. Well, Mr. Myers, it does indeed appear that Vlad the Bad was right, no?

Myers: The lesson he said he learned was that only the strong hand of the state could avoid the economic and political chaos that consumed Russia in the 1990s. That belief is widely shared in Russia, and is one reason for Mr. Putin's genuine popularity at home.

Analysis: Interesting; even a degenerate liar and anti-Putin fanatic like Myers is forced to admit that Putin is "genuinely popular" at home. This alone undermines the mendaciously manufactured image of a tyrannical "ex-KGB" dictator.

Myers: "The Russian people are backward," Putin told a group of foreign academics in 2005, according to Marie Mendras's account in "Russian Politics: The Paradox of a Weak State."

"They cannot adapt to democracy as they have done in your countries. They need time."

Analysis: Marie Mendras is a professor of Political Science at the ~~Rothschild~~ ^{Rothschild}, er, London School of Economics. She is also affiliated with the Globalist Chatham House (sister of the New York based Council on Foreign Relations). Third or even fourth party hear-say filtered through this wicked wench is about as reliable as The Slimes Editorial page.

Myers: This distrust of popular will ...

Analysis: What "distrust of the popular will?" You just admitted that Putin is very popular. So how can he "distrust" people who are in full agreement with him?

Myers: ... has been the justification for laws that have throttled dissent at home.

Analysis: "Dissent" is a code word for CIA-Soros-NGO propaganda being injected into Russia. Myers refers to the expulsion of these criminal interlopers as "throttling of dissent". Don't fall for it!

Myers: When tens of thousands of Russians took to the streets to protest fraud in the parliamentary election in 2011 and Mr. Putin's own re-election in 2012 ...

Analysis: Those were CIA-NGO flash-mobs. The elections were legitimate -- and monitored by cameras, enforced by Voter ID requirements (unlike elections in America!), and preserved with permanent paper ballots (unlike elections in America!)

Myers: ... the Kremlin responded forcefully to stanch the contagion.

Analysis: What "contagion", Stevey Boy? Again, you earlier admitted that Putin is very popular (90% approval and rising) -- so on what basis did these mobs claim "voter fraud?"

Myers: The police arrested and convicted dozens of protesters ----while the authorities harassed the most prominent leaders of the opposition, like the anti-corruption crusader Aleksei Navalny.

Analysis: "Leaders of the opposition" and "anti-corruption crusaders" = bought and paid for CIA stooges, like Navalny in Russia or Porky Pig Poroshenko in Ukraine. The world is wise to this game now, Meyers.

CIA-owned traitors, er, "opposition leaders" like Navalny and Kasparov play the game of deliberately provoking their own photographed arrests for disorderly conduct. This allows The Slimes to run front pages photos of "tyrannical" Russia.

Myers: And in February, Boris Nemtsov, a former deputy prime minister, was assassinated outside the Kremlin.

Analysis: Steven! Nemstsov had 3% support among Russians. Why would Putin need to make a Western martyr out of him? (Besides, the "shooting" appeared to be a "Sandy Hookish" fake, anyway)

Myers: What is striking, though perhaps consistent, is how Mr. Putin's view of public protest has become the basis for an increasingly assertive foreign policy...

Analysis: No. What is "striking" is how deceiving low-life trash like you continue to get away with printing such monstrous and deadly lies days day after day -- week after week -- month after month -- year after year -- decade after decade since the Ochs-Sulzberger gang bought The Times in 1896.

Myers: ... one aimed at countering what he views as efforts by the United States and others to violate the sovereignty of nations by encouraging political change.

Analysis: The U.S. is indeed the world's foremost violator of "the sovereignty of nations". It's not a question of "what Putin views as" -- it is what he knows. And you do too, Myers.

Myers: Mr. Putin considered United States support for the “color revolutions” that swept former Soviet republics — Georgia in 2002, Ukraine in 2004 and Kyrgyzstan in 2005 — as evidence of an American policy to topple governments in what had historically been Russia’s sphere of influence.

Analysis: Now why would Putin think that the U.S. would ever be involved in "toppling governments?" Silly Putin! (heavy on the sarcasm)

Putin KNOWS!

McCain the Insane incited violence in Ukraine -- and bolstered 'ISIS' in Iraq and Syria!

Myers: The civil war in Syria, in that view, is merely the latest in a series of messy conflicts that arise from the toppling or weakening of central authority through American aggression. Previous instances include the American war in Iraq that overthrew Saddam Hussein, and NATO’s military intervention in Libya in 2011.

Analysis: Notice how miscreant Myers continues to present Putin's statements of indisputable facts as "views". There are no "views" (opinions) here. The destruction of Syria, Iraq and Libya have "Made in the USA" stamped all over them - and also stamped "Kosher for Passover" as well.

Myers: When the Qaddafi government violently repressed the protests in Libya...

Analysis: The Libyan "protesters" turned out to be murderous mercenary scum. Too bad Qaddafi couldn't kill them. Look at Libya today!

Myers: Mr. Medvedev was moved by the humanitarian appeals of his American and European counterparts. He instructed Russia's representative at the United Nations to abstain from the resolution, allowing the American and NATO air campaign that ultimately toppled Mr. Qaddafi.

Analysis: "Humanitarian appeals" my butt-crack! Medvedev is a weak pro-western punk who got played by Obongo and Killary Clinscum in Libya; and who had previously dithered and delayed as puppet Georgia invaded Russian Ossetia and Abkhazia in 2008. No wonder the Slimes is so fond of him.

Myers: Mr. Putin was furious, and said so, prompting the most public breach in the "tandem" of power that governed the country from 2008 to 2012. "It reminds me of a medieval call to crusade," he said of the resolution, denouncing the war as another manifestation of American hegemony that, left unchecked, would spread.

Analysis: Putin was right then; and he is right today.

Myers: According to several officials close to the Kremlin, Mr. Medvedev's dangerous irresolution was a decisive factor in Mr. Putin's decision to return to the presidency, which he announced six months later. Since his return, Russia has blocked resolution after resolution against Syria's government, prompting criticism that its intransigence has only worsened the conflict.

Analysis: Medvedev needs to be purged from government, along with the remaining remnant of western-wannabee Russian '5th columnists' still embedded within the press, Duma and Central Bank.

Medvedev the Meek got played for a fool by Killary "We came. We saw. He (Qaddafi) died" Clinscum -- with disastrous results for Libya and migrant-overloaded Europe!

Myers: By the time protests erupted again in Ukraine in the winter of 2013 and 2014, Mr. Putin was firmly back in the presidency. The upheaval seemed to him the continuation of an aggressive foreign incursion that was marching inexorably to the Kremlin itself.

Analysis: "Seemed to him?" --- The Globalist hand behind the "upheaval" did not "seem to him". It WAS! Period!

Myers: Mr. Putin used the chaotic flight of Ukraine's president, Viktor F. Yanukovych, in February 2014

Analysis: Point of Clarification: The "chaotic flight" of the violently ousted President Yanukovych was actually an escape for his life. The CIA's mercenaries were going to murder him as they did Qaddafi. Sneaky Myers purposely omits this little detail because it contradicts the big lie of a "peaceful" and "spontaneous" people-power uprising.

Myers: ... to justify annexation of Crimea and support of the armed rebellion in eastern Ukraine that has splintered the country and led to more than 7,000 deaths.

Analysis: (Oh God -- palm to face -- deep sigh) I better let Sugar handle this one.

Ssteven Lee Myers! You no good %$#^# lying ^6^ $#* &^%(^$#%!!!*

Myers: Many have variously interpreted Mr. Putin's intervention in Syria as a response to domestic pressures caused by an economy faltering with the drop in oil prices and sanctions imposed after Crimea; a desire to change the subject from Ukraine; or a reassertion of Russia's position in the Middle East.

Analysis: "Many have interpreted", eh, Myers? Who are these "many" of which you speak? We can be sure that the "many" in Myers' insular circle are all either CFR members, Slimes writers, two-bit U.S. politicians, think-tank eggheads and libtard college professors.

Myers: All are perhaps factors, but at the heart of the airstrikes is Mr. Putin's defense of the principle that the state is all powerful and should be defended against the hordes. It is a warning about Russia, as much as Syria.

Analysis: Wrong again, sleazy Steven. "At the heart of the airstrikes is Mr. Putin's defense of the principle that" the Globo-Zionist Axis of Evil must be stopped from killing and conquering all states which dare to defy it. That's the truth, and even a few of your readers are waking up to it.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a really interesting piece today in The New York Times. It explained how the collapse of the Soviet Union affected the psychology of Putin and guides his aggressive actions today.

Boobus Americanus 2: Interesting. I also think he needs to distract his people from the bad effects of the sanctions in place against Russia.

"The frickin' lies in the Ssslimes articless are getting worsse by the day -- as is the sstupidity of you two Boobuses."

(All we can do is to keep telling the truth, Sugar.)

NY Times (Op-Ed): On Guns, Fear Is Winning

By Charles M. Blow

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

If there is a "positive" (for lack of a better way of putting it) side-effect to the cheapening of human life in post 9/11 Marxified modern America; it is the complete failure of all these mass shootings (whether real or faked) to bring about the abolition of the 2nd Amendment right to own firearms. People are numbed, and hence, harder to emotionally manipulate. They don't care about dead babies, dead Palestinians, dead Ukrainians, dead Syrians. And neither do they care about dead Americans.

Think about it! If "dead" movie goers (rolling eyes), "dead" kindergartners (rolling eyes), "dead" church goers (rolling eyes) and "dead" on-air blond reporterettes (rolling eyes) haven't incited any significant movement to abolish gun rights, nothing will! If anything, more people are coming to see these incidents as arguments in favor of the 2nd amendment as a defense against all these "psychos".

Thus foisted on their own petard of public immorality and apathy, the gun-hating Marxists and their libtard zombies are left to flail away in vain until the day finally arrives when the Democrats will control the Federal Government with the same monopolistic majority with which they now rule California. The present frustration is evident in the most recent journalistic bowel movement of Slimes columnist Charles M. Blow -- irreverently referred to here as 'Blowhard'.

Let's get it on, Blowhard!

EVIL Obongo's empty hugs and dry tears have failed to bring about the gun ban that he so badly desires.

1- Hugging Gabby Giffords 2- Hugging Aurora victim's family member 3- "Crying over Sandy Hook" 4- "Crying" over Charleston Church

Blowhard: An exasperated — and frustrated — President Obama said of the gun massacre last week in Oregon...

Analysis: As if the behind-the-scenes butcher of Libya, Afghanistan, Syria, Somalia, Sydan, Yemen, Pakistan, Ukraine is actually capable of shedding tears for mostly White victims of these alleged shootings.

Blowhard: (quoting Obongo): “Somehow this has become routine. The reporting is routine. My response here at this podium ends up being routine. The conversation in the aftermath of it. We have become numb to this.”

Analysis: Why does Obongo even have to "respond" to what are local matters? Notice how he never "responds" to the endless shootings that take place in American inner cities. Hypocrite!

Blowhard: (quoting Obongo): “What’s also routine is that somebody, somewhere, will comment and say ‘Obama politicized this issue.’”

Analysis: Well, Obongo, that's because you are politicizing this issue! Nice attempt at building a straw-man argument.

Blowhard: And as if on cue, leading Republican candidates came out against more gun restrictions.

Analysis: We already have "gun restrictions" - such as instant background checks at both gun stores and gun shows. What Blowhard and Obongo want, but dare not say, is not "gun restrictions" - but rather, gun bans. Tell us, Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one!

(Cue sound of crickets)

Blowhard: (Jeb) Bush continued: "But I resist the notion — and I had this challenge as governor — because we had — look, stuff happens, there's always a crisis. And the impulse is always to do something and it's not necessarily the right thing to do."

Analysis: We here at The Anti-New York Times despise the whole Bush family - but what exactly is wrong with the logic behind Bush's observation about resisting impulsive actions in response to crises?

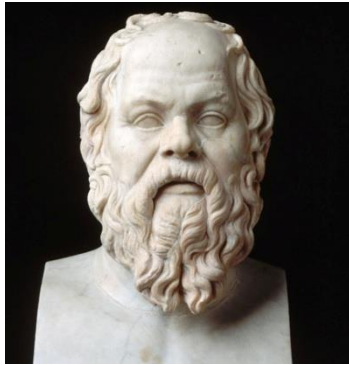

Blowhard: Stuff happens? Really? That stuff is the continued gun slaughter of Americans by other Americans. This "stuff" is a scourge.

Analysis: Granted, Bush's goofy use of the pop-term "stuff happens" in response to the Oregon event was less-than-artful oratory. But you and your Leftist ilk have yet to propose a "solution". Again, tell us, Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one!

Blowhard: But Obama is right: We have grown numb to this scourge, and even when politicians politicize gun violence, Washington can't seem to muster the political will to make even the most modest changes to our federal gun laws.

Analysis: Sorry, Blowhard. Your relentless pit-bull reporter and his feline sidekick here aren't going to release the bites that we have hooked into your lying ass.

Once again, tell us, Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one!

No one lays down the Socratic Method of inquiry any harder and more relentlessly than Mad Dog Mike & salty-mouthed Sugar!

Blowhard: This has to change. We have to start the process of curtailing our gun culture...

Analysis: More pious platitudes! Define your proposal, or Obongo's proposal, for "starting the process of curtailing our gun culture".

Blowhard: ... and I don't say that as an anti-gun absolutist, but as a person who grew up around guns, and even owned a gun.

Analysis: It's soooo reassuring to know that you are not "an anti-gun absolutist". We suppose that means that B-B guns, single shot 1700's revolvers, and collectible muskets will be safe from confiscation? Awesome! But what exactly is your damn proposal for further "gun restrictions"?!

Blowhard: When I was growing up in the rural South, boys had rifles. There was nothing odd about it. Every boy in wood shop made a gun rack. A rifle wasn't a weapon as much as a tool. People hunted. They raised and slaughtered food animals. Rifles were used to keep the snakes out of the grass and the vermin out of the garden

Analysis: OK. We get it! You're a 'good ole boy' from the land of cotton who supports the 2nd amendment. But methinks thou does protest your pro-gun credentials a bit toooo much. Clever Blowhard! But again, what is it that you want to see happen?!

Blowhard: But that seems to me another time and place. There didn't exist the fear and paranoia that grips so many now when it comes to gun ownership.

Analysis: Fear and paranoia of gun owners -- blah, blah, blah. Same old worn out ad hominem attacks. What's your damn proposal?!

Blowhard: And there wasn't the fetish for military-style weapons...

Analysis: (face - palm - deep sigh) -- Charlie, "military style" only means that the rifle looks like a fully automatic machine gun (a banned gun since the 1930's). The "semi-automatic assault rifle" actually only fires one bullet at a time. And FYI - fists kill more people each year than "military-style weapons". So, again, we ask, Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one! (bark bark, hiss hiss)

Blowhard:... and armor-piercing bullets.

Analysis: Evidently, Blowjob is 'OK' with flesh-piercing and organ-piercing bullets. It's those "armor-piercing" bullets that keep him awake at night -- killing all those brave Knights on horseback. Yes -- such a big problem those "armor-piercing" bullets be.

1- Senator Feinstein (cough-cough) holding "a military-style rifle". Does this dopey douche-bag not understand that it can only fire 1 bullet at a time?

2- Watchout Sir Lancelot! Those "armor-piercing" bullets are no joke!

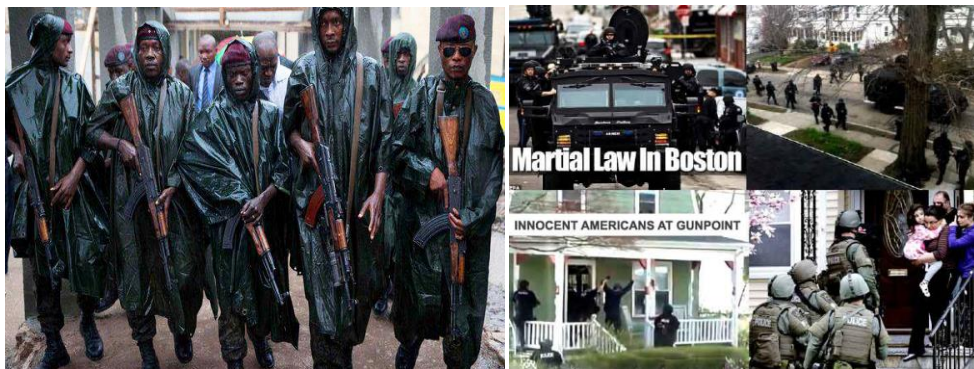

Blowhard: And as I have mentioned before, my oldest brother is a gun collector. He is a regular at the gun shows, buying and selling, but even he talks about a sense of unease at those shows as people engage in what can only be described as panic buying and ammunition hoarding.

Analysis: So, gun show enthusiasts are paranoid psychos. Got it. But they aren't the folks shooting up our inner cities and committing random mass shootings. So, again, we ask, Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one!

Blowhard: These people are afraid. They are afraid of a time conservative media and the gun industry has convinced them is coming when sales of weapons, particularly some types of weapons, will be restricted or forbidden. They are afraid of growing populations of people they don't trust. Some are even afraid that a time will come when they will have to defend themselves against the government itself.

Analysis: You're bloody dad-gum right that folks are afraid of where this country is headed. Aren't you? But then again, Blowhard, you probably have a few million bucks stashed away and live in some gated community with armed guards. But we digress. AGAIN, we ask, Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republican's and the NRA. Name just one! (bark bark, hiss hiss)

The Panther and Fed thugs above sure ain't about to disarm. And Blowhard wonders why people are concerned!

Blowhard: Do we want a society in which some 33,000 people in America lose their lives to gun violence each year and more than twice as many are injured by guns?

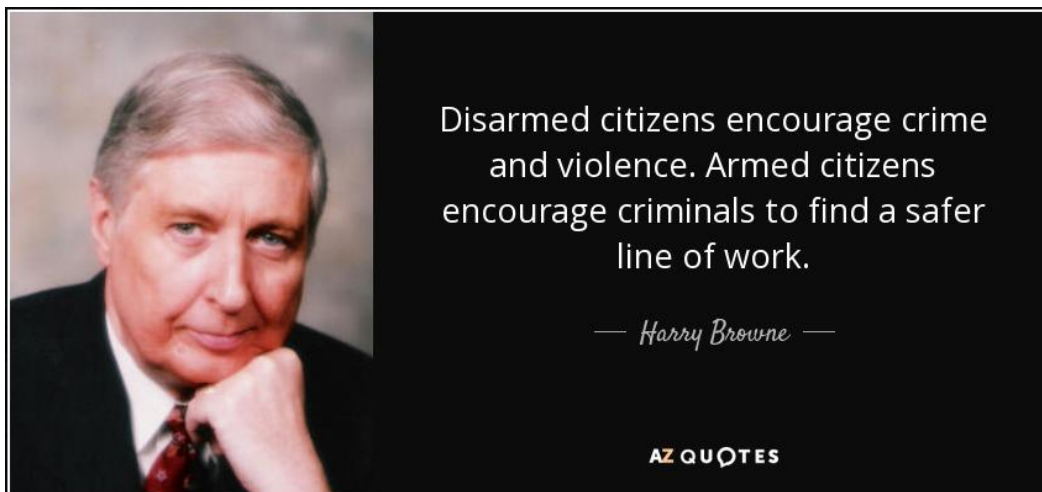

Analysis: The astute observer of the piranha press will have noticed by now how "gun deaths" have suddenly jumped from about 7,500 per year to 33,000. That's because deceptive slime like Blowhard and Obongo are now including suicides in their statistics.

Blowhard: Do we want a society in which mass shootings are routine? If we do, well, we have it. But if we don't, and I believe that most of us don't, then we have to start thinking about ways to not only keep guns out of the wrong hands, but also about how we slow or reverse the proliferation of guns.

Analysis: This question may have come up already, so pardon us for any redundancy; Mr. Blowhard, in precise terms, what further "restrictions" would you like to see implemented, but are being blocked by Republicant's and the NRA. Name just one!

Blowhard: These hundreds of millions of guns will most likely be part of our society for decades, and some even for centuries, regardless of what laws we pass now. That is something of which we should truly be afraid.

Analysis: No Charles. What we all should be afraid of is what will happen when the Department of Homeland Security is empowered to lord over a disarmed and de-balled citizenry. But why should scum like you care about such matters. As an "elitist" in good standing, you will be living large in The New World Order.

Now, there is an important reason why Blowhard, Obongo, Killary and the Piranha Press can offer no specific plans for further "sensible" gun control. You see, with the updated-monthly National Instant Criminal Background Check System (NICS) having been in place and working well since 1998 (actually, too well, as innocent people have been blocked), coupled with the fact that "assault rifles" account for fewer murders than fists and baseball bats, there is really nothing further that can be done to curtail gun murders in America -- except for a total ban on ownership and manufacturing of guns and ammunition. That is exactly what the Globo-Marxist vermin want. Indeed, Obongo even cited, albeit cryptically, how Great Britain and Australia reacted to school shootings (guns were banned).

The problem is, they just can't say this out loud. Even many Democrats would turn on them if they tried such a bold stunt. So, all they can do at this point in time is continue to shed crocodile tears over the "mass shootings" while making vague generalizations -- generalizations which may lead to total confiscation at some time in the future, but not today.

These patient devils play the long game very well.

Boobus Americanus 1: Something has got to be done about these mass shootings. Enough is enough!

Boobus Americanus 2: Absolutely. But the NRA won't allow it.

"Boobuss! Gunss don't kill people. Libtardss do!"

NY Times: Mr. Putin's Motives in Syria

By ~~ANDREW ROSENTHAL~~, THE EDITORIAL BOARD

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise of the Not-So-High and Not-So-Mighty "Editorial Board". It's only a pathetic little word-smith named Andrew Rosenthal typing out lies from behind the curtain.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": Why President Vladimir Putin is sending "volunteer" ground forces into Syria is not entirely clear.

Analysis: Liar. Liar. Yarmulke on fire! Putin is not sending ground forces into Syria. Why would Putin use his own men when there are more than enough Syrian soldiers and Hezbollah warriors to finish the job -- a job now made much easier due to Russian airstrikes.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": ... it may be because Russia's Syrian ally, President Bashar al-Assad, is in such danger of falling that Russian ground troops will actually enter the fray against the innumerable insurgent groups fighting him.

Analysis: Keep dreaming Rosenrat. Not only is Assad not in any danger of falling, but your beloved rebels are surrendering, dying, or fleeing by the hundreds, if not by the thousands.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": What is clear is that these "volunteers" are there about as voluntarily as were the Russian soldiers ordered into Crimea or eastern Ukraine.

Analysis: My God, Rosenscum! Your evil and deceit is boundless! Russian soldiers were neither "ordered" into Crimea, nor eastern Ukraine. Both regions had their own volunteer National Guard / Self Defense units that self-activated for the purpose of resisting Washington's puppet-thugs of Kiev. For once and for all; present your evidence of any Russian troop "invasions" of Crimea or Donbass. Do it now!

1- The people of Crimea VOLUNTARILY reunited with Russia. ZERO shots fired -- ZERO Russian troops "invading".

2- The Self-Defense Forces of Donbass are better motivated and better trained than the demoralized draftees controlled by Kiev. Russian troops are not needed.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": Russians might want to ask why young Russians are being sent to face mortal danger in the Middle East in service of Mr. Putin's very dangerous gamble.

Analysis: The Russian people don't need to ask anything, Andy. You see, unlike the chumps who worship the "prestigious" Sulzberger's Slimes, the average Russian knows all about the geo-political forces that engineered the tragedy in Syria, and would like to import the same chaos into Russia. That is why more than 90% of Russians support Putin.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": Propping up a flailing ally is only one of Mr. Putin's probable motives.

Analysis: Should Putin simply allow his "flailing ally" to be replaced with a Zionist-Globalist puppet, hostile to Russia?

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": He no doubt wants to flex his muscles (again) before a Russian public increasingly feeling the pain of a mismanaged economy.

Analysis: "The pain of a mismanaged economy", eh, Rosenvermin? From Forbes Magazine, October 7, 2015:

Russia Turning The Corner On Sanctions

Russia has turned the corner --- For investors, this may be a time to start dipping into Russian stocks.

Nice try, Rosenfilth.

1- Moscow's business district is humming along nicely.

2- The Russian Far East still lags behind, but is now developing at a steady pace. (Russky Bridge, Vladivostok)

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": ... and to deflect attention from the stalemate in Ukraine.

Analysis: What "stalemate"? Russia is not at war in eastern Ukraine - the Donbass freedom-fighters are. So, how can Russia be "stalemated"? FYI -- it is the puppet-gangster state in Kiev that is teetering on the brink of economic and political collapse. Even the Frumpy Frau of Germany and Horrible Hollande of France are now advocating for the Donbass regions to be allowed to go their own way!

Pro-Russian Donbass seems destined to win its independence without Putin having to fire a shot. Nice try, Rosenslime.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": But he may not be strutting for long.

Analysis: Rosenfeces; you are as delusional as you are deceitful. Putin is on a roll and you can't accept it.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": Syria is the proverbial quagmire.

Analysis: Correction. Syria (like eastern Ukraine) was intended to be "the proverbial quagmire" -- but it is not going according to Globalist-Zionist plan.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": If the United States and its allies have failed -- to eradicate the Islamic State, it is not only because of the limited effort but also because the tangle of insurgent groups, with their ever-shifting alliances, offer only an array of bad choices.

Analysis: The reason that the U.S. has "failed to eradicate the Islamic State" is because it never intended to! The IS, Al Qaeda, and the "moderate" FSA all answer to various factions of the New World Order crime gang -- the same gang that Rosenpuke faithfully serves at a very high level.

The real reasons why the U.S. has "failed to eradicate" the ISIS bogeyman are obvious.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": By sending warplanes to bomb rebels, including those the United States has tried to shape into some semblance of an opposition, and now by sending in Russian soldiers, Mr. Putin stands to make matters far more complex.

Analysis: "Complex"? Russia bombs the mercenary scum and their weapons; Syrian, Lebanese, Iraqi and Iranian ground forces mop up. What is so "complex" about it?

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": There is no assurance that his move will bring an end to the fighting any sooner.

Analysis: But there is total assurance that the U.S. approach would never bring an end to the fighting.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": If Mr. Putin had ever been eager for peace, he could have exerted pressure on the Assad government before it stoked the civil war that has killed hundreds of thousands of Syrians, driven millions from their homes and destroyed vast stretches of the country.

Analysis: Assad "stoked the civil war" - really? Damn dirty lying journalistic criminal! Even the Slimes now openly admits that the CIA financed and trained foreign fighters to wage this "civil war"! The only thing Assad is guilty of is saving his country from a full Axis-of-Evil NWO takeover -- what' left of his country, that is.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": Instead, he supported Mr. Assad and his brutal reprisals against civilians and the opposition, which opened up space for extremists to operate and expand.

Analysis: Assad did not carry out "brutal reprisals". The "gassing" story, as even the UN acknowledged, turned out to be fake Nice try, Rosensnake.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": It may not be too late for Mr. Putin to reconsider.

Analysis: Putin has never bent over and spread em' at Rosenstink's "advice" to date. He is not about to start now.

Rosenthal, er, "Editorial Board": And it would certainly be a better way for Mr. Putin to satisfy his need for respect and a role in the Middle East.

Analysis: Long before this bombing mission, Putin was already respected -- both at home and abroad.

Nice try, Rosenrat.

Boobus Americanus 1: The New York Times is saying that Putin is about to get stuck in a Syrian quagmire.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yeah. He needs a foreign diversion to take the Russian public's mind off of their failing economy.

"Hey Boobusess! Your pea-brainss are sstuck in a quagmire! Russsia jusst passed Germany for #5 on the GDP lisst!"

(Russia is winning the future, and Rosenskunk can't accept it.)

NY Times: Oregon Killer's Mother Wrote of Troubled Son and Gun Rights

By JACK HEALY, MIKE McINTIRE and JULIE TURKEWITZ

In online postings, Laurel Margaret Harper said she kept numerous firearms in her home and discussed the difficulties of raising a troubled son.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

There is a huge "devil in the details" that turns up in this human interest story - one that really warrants a closer examination. From the file marked: "This-Is-Just-Too-Damn-Weird", comes this bizarre revelation from Laurel Harper, the alleged mother of the alleged "college shooter" of Roseburg, Oregon:

"An online posting from six years ago included the unlikely revelation that she used to read to her son a book by Donald J. Trump, the real estate mogul now running for president ---- 'Fact: Before my son was even born, I was reading out loud to him from Donald Trump's 'The Art of the Deal,' she wrote."

So, the "killer", while still in fetal form, was already being weaned on an in utero diet of Donald Trumpisms? Seriously? How conveeeenient! Next thing you know the CIA-Slimes complex will be telling us that Christopher Harper-Mercer was also a fan of Vladimir Putin!

Mom to pre-born killer: "I can always tell a loser when I see someone with a car for sale that is filthy dirty. It's so easy to make it look better." -- Page 84:

Say what you will about Donald Trump - and indeed, we here at The Anti-New York Times have already said a lot, much of it negative, about the big-mouth blusterer with an ego the size of his Trump Tower. However, we must concede that Trump is the only remaining viable candidate who is not, in essence, calling for World War III with Russia. To the contrary, Trump has said, on numerous occasions, "I will get along with Putin."

In spite of his Democrat past and troubling love affair with all things Israeli; Trump's admiration for Putin, recently-stated tolerance for Assad of Syria, pro-growth tax plan, and his strong stand against illegal immigration, are more than enough to bring down the wrath of the CIA-Sulzberger Complex down upon his huge head. Therefore, this dubious pre-natal link to the equally dubious mass shooter of Umpqua Community College ought to set off alarm bells and raise red flags in the minds of any thinking person.

We may, repeat, MAY, have to just hold our noses (very tightly!) and vote for 'The Donald' after all.

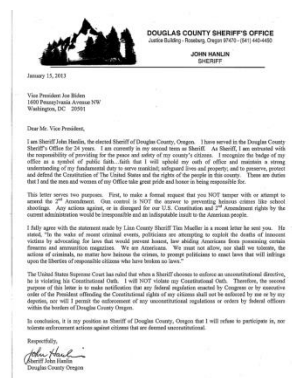

Another oddity that has come to light is the fact that the Sheriff of Douglas County, Oregon, who has jurisdiction over this matter, had previously generated "controversy" by taking a strong stand against gun control. In the wake of the Sandy Hook Shooting Hoax, Sheriff John Hanlin, who once attended Umpqua Community College, wrote a defiant letter to Vice President Joe Biden in which he stated: "Gun control is NOT the answer to preventing heinous crimes like school shootings."

Hanlin also posted the letter on the his Facebook page.

Concluding excerpt:

"The United States Supreme Court has ruled that when a Sherriff chooses to enforce an unconstitutional directive, he is violating his Constitutional oath. I will NOT violate my Constitutional oath. --- nor will I permit the enforcement of any unconstitutional regulations or orders by federal officers within the borders of Douglass County, Oregon.

In conclusion, it is my position as Sheriff of Douglas County, Oregon that I will refuse to participate in, nor tolerate enforcement actions against citizens that are deemed unconstitutional."

In 2013, the ballsy Hanlin minced no words in his powerful and public letter to Joe Biden. He is still not backing down.

But Sherriff Hanlin didn't stop there. He then went on to share a video - 'The Sandy Hook Shooting: Fully Exposed' - which has been viewed more than 11 million times. Next to the shared link he wrote: "This makes me wonder who we can trust anymore. Watch, listen, and keep an open mind." A Google Search of 'Hanlin Sandy Hook' shows just how intense, and how ugly, the recent hate-attacks against this brave "truthur" are becoming.

Imagine that -- out of the 3,008 Sheriffs in America, how conveeeenient that this most recent, and most suspicious shooting event should happen right in Hanlin's backyard, at a Community College which he once attended. And, again, how conveeeenient that the dirty deed was perpetrated, we are told, by a pre-natal devotee of Donald Trump.

Something doesn't smell too rosey in Roseburg, Oregon,

Slimes' whipping boys, who actually resemble each other, "coincidentally" figure into the scripted drama in Oregon.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times that the mother of the Oregon shooter used to read Donald Trump's book to him while she was pregnant.

Boobus Americanus 2: Wow! What an embarrassing coincidence for Trump.

"Coincidencse my ass! It'ss a frickin' consspiracy!."

(Never underestimate the gut instincts of a ~~beast~~, er pretty young girl.)

NY Times: U.S. to Release 6,000 Inmates From Prisons

By MICHAEL S. SCHMIDT

The release, scheduled to start at the end of the month, will be one of the largest one-time discharges of federal inmates in American history, officials said.

REBUTTAL BY

Loretta Lynch Mob, aka Al Sharpton in Drag, is p reparing to release roughly 6,000 ostensibly "non-violent" inmates from federal prisons starting at the end of this month. The release of these soon-to-be Democrat voters will be one of the largest Federal discharge of inmates in American history. It coincides with a "bipartisan" and Papal effort to ease the mass incarcerations that followed years of strict sentencing for drug offenses — such as dealing crack cocaine.

"Today's announcement is nothing short of thrilling because it carries justice," said Jesselyn McCurdy, a lawyer at the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU).

"Far too many people have lost years of their lives to draconian sentencing laws born of the failed drug war. People of color have had to bear the brunt of these misguided and cruel policies."

About a third of the inmates are illegal aliens who, we are told, will be deported -- and most likely return to some "sanctuary city" in Commiefornia. The sentence reductions would be retroactive if the legislation is enacted, and lawmakers estimated that up to 6,500 other prisoners — many of them charged with offenses related to crack cocaine — could qualify for resentencing under the changes.

As we wrote last month:

"The unseen danger of this 'turn-em-loose' initiative lies in what it might grow into. Beyond the approximately 12,000 federal prisoners serving excessive sentences for drug crimes, there are much larger numbers of inmates in state and local prisons who, by the same standards, should also be liberated. That would add up to about 500,000 prisoners that could, theoretically, be turned loose if new sentencing guidelines are retroactively enacted by Obongo and the Republican't Congress."

1- The cunning and cold-hearted Demonoid Obongo surely wants something in return from these prisoners.

2- ~~Rabbi~~ Pope Frankie's disgraceful jailhouse foot-wash & kiss routine coincides with the sudden push for an open door prison policy.

The essence of the scam here is that many of these prisoners only appear to have been excessively punished. The dirty little secret that Sulzberger the Seditious and Obongo the Merciful know, but won't tell you, is that many of these "excessive sentences" were actually the result of law enforcement officials using whatever means necessary to take some very dangerous actors off of the streets, including suspected murderers. Just like the brutal but evasive gangster Al Capone was finally jailed for the relatively minor offense of "tax invasion", so too were some of the 500,000 "non-violent" prisoners that could be set free if Obongo's logic plays out fully.

The potential prospect of 100's of 1000's unemployable Black men suddenly being set free and cared for by America's Phony Pharaoh is chilling indeed. From their loyal ranks, the Big Zero's Black right hand man who runs Homeland Security, Jeh Johnson, could secretly recruit and train an ISIS type army of cutthroats. Even if just 100,000 of the 500,000 have violent inclinations, imagine what type of organized havoc they could wreak at the behest of the Demon in the White House.

The openly Communist activists from the Ferguson, MO "Black Lives Matter" protest of 2014 chanted:

"Won't Be No Police Brutality, When the Revolution Comes. Won't Be No Mass Incarceration, When the Revolution Comes."

We know for a fact that some harmless prisoners will soon be released. We also know for a fact that some real bad-asses will be released as well. But here are a few non-violent offenders who most certainly will not be released early from any prison - be it Federal or State:

- Income Tax "evaders"
- Men who fell behind on ~~ex-wife extortion~~ child support payments
- Violators of EPA "Clean Air" regulations that are based on phony science
- Violators of unconstitutional gun laws
- Foolish pranksters who aimed harmless laser pointers at airplanes

Evidently, some "crimes" are less worthy of "mercy" than others.

1 & 2- Non-violent 88-year old tax protester Irwin Schiff (Peter's father) -- still in prison for "tax evasion". Neither Obongo, the Fake Pope, nor the ACLU seem to care about "tax evaders" -- an "offense" that has been decriminalized in "tyrannical" Russia (remedied by fines instead of prison).

3- The annoyance of aerial laser-pointing can be remedied and punished with hefty fines and/or community service. One to five year prison sentences amount to cruel and unusual punishment. One California man was sentenced to 14 years in prison!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times that Obama is going to release a bunch of non-violent prisoners.

Boobus Americanus 2: That a very gracious act on his part. Bravo Barack Obama ---- I just hope they don't place them in my neighborhood on some Section 8 free rent deal.

"I PRAY that one of these animalss moves in nexsst-door to you -- you frickin' libtard hypocrite!"

(So says the former violent street cat that I bailed out of a shelter and domesticated -- somewhat domesticated, that is.)

NY Times: Svetlana Alexievich, Belarussian Voice of Survivors, Wins Nobel Prize in Literature

By ALEXANDRA ALTER

The journalist and prose writer is best known for works about female Russian soldiers in World War II and the aftermath of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Although the Globalist CIA agents who almost always win the "prestigious" Nobel Peace Prize are instantly puffed-up on the front page of Sulzberger's Slimes; Nobel Laureates in the scientific or literary fields are generally confined to the inner pages. This is not the case with this year's Literature winner - Svetlana Alexievich of Belarussia (sister state of Russia).

Far from being back-paged, Ms. Alexievich is prominently plastered smack-dab in the center of the all-important front page. News of her victory has also been prominently mentioned by the TV talking heads of America and vassaled Europe. This is unusual for two reasons. First of all, she's not an American. Why such hype over a Belarussian?

Secondly, her works are not even widely read in English - the de facto "international language". So, what's up with the sudden shout-out for Sveltana? Moreover, why was the Nobel Prize for Literature even awarded to a non-fiction writer in the first place? That hasn't happened in 50 years!

The astute and discerning real intellectuals who read The Anti-New York Times will have already deduced a theory behind the unusual and overnight hyping of the previously unknown Ms. Alexievich. Excerpts from the article itself will serve to confirm those suspicions - as they did for your rat-smelling reporter and his rat-killing feline sidekick here.

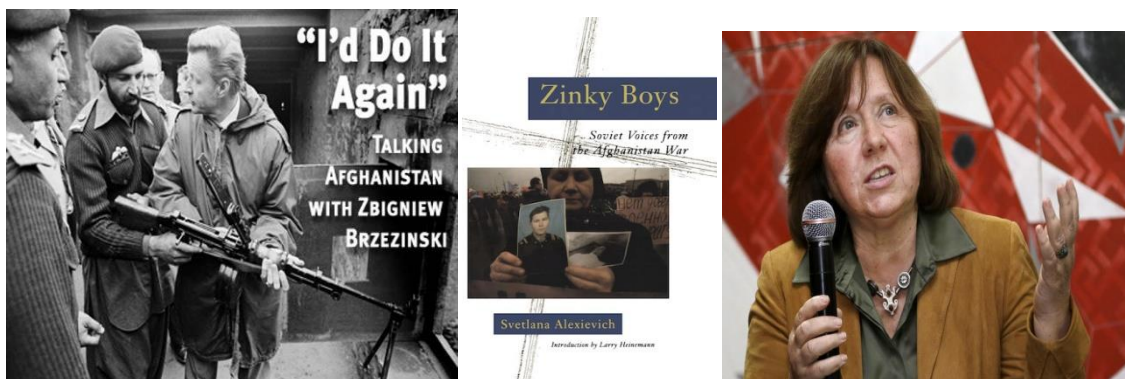

Check out these excerpts, and our analysis:

Excerpt: Ms. Alexievich often took risks by taking on contentious elements of Soviet history and challenging the official narrative.

Analysis: Well, the old Soviets were not exactly choir boys. Criticizing the old regime doesn't necessarily make her a traitor.

Excerpt: She was seen as a traitor, as unpatriotic,” said Gerald Howard, the executive editor at Doubleday. He published Ms. Alexievich’s book “Zinky Boys: Soviet Voices From a Forgotten War,” about the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan and the trauma experienced by the Russian soldiers and their families. The title refers to the zinc coffins that dead Russian soldiers were sent home in. “She was vilified all over the place for this book,” he said, “and she didn’t back down for a second.”

Analysis: Red flag! Alarm bells! In 1979, the Soviets were baited into Afghanistan after a CIA rent-an-army overthrew a non-aligned government and set up a hostile regime on Russia's border. This is not to defend the old USSR, but any Soviet writer who cast blame on their own country for the Jimmy Carter-Zbig Brzezinski proxy war in Afghanistan, was, in fact, a traitor to her country.

Instead of blaming Brzezinski and the Globalists for the suffering caused by the proxy Afghan War against Russia, seditious Svetlana blamed her own country.

Excerpt: Because of her criticism of the government in Belarus, a former Soviet republic, Ms. Alexievich has periodically lived abroad, in Italy, France, Germany and Sweden, among other places.

Analysis: So, long after the disintegration of the Soviet Union, this bitch is still a causing trouble by criticizing the Putin-friendly government of Belarus. Interesting.

Excerpt: In a 2013 interview with German television, she said she hoped the international attention would give her “a degree of protection” in Belarus, where press freedom is under constant threat.

Analysis: Ah, yes. The old "freedom of the press" and "human rights" routine.

Excerpt: "The scope and consistency of her project is unique — the sheer number of people whose stories she's been able to record," the writer Keith Gessen, who translated her book about Chernobyl into English, said in an email.

Analysis: Keith Gessen (cough-cough) translated one of her books? Gessen? He wouldn't perhaps be related to Masha Gessen -- the militant lesbian author of a best-selling anti-Putin book who openly stated that she wants to abolish the institution of marriage and traditional family. Nah. It's just a coincidence. But just in case, let us Google: 'Keith Gessen'.

Result: Wikipedia: Russian-born American novelist --- Harvard --- Sibling: Masha Gessen

Preach it, Church Lady -- preach it! Sleazy Svetlana's translator just happens to be the brother of the wicked Putin-hating Masha Gessen (Keith & Masha in Image 2).

Excerpt: Some see an obvious political message in the Nobel committee's choice. Ms. Alexievich's honor arrives at a moment when Russia is once again flexing its military muscles, in Ukraine and in Syria. In choosing Ms. Alexievich, the Swedish committee continued a long tradition of using the award to tweak Soviet and now post-Soviet authority.

Analysis: Bingo!

Excerpt: On Thursday, Belarus's President, Aleksandr G. Lukashenko, who has been a frequent target of Ms. Alexievich's writing, issued a terse congratulatory note.

Analysis: Double Bingo! The Globalists hate President Lukashenko almost as much as they do President Putin.

Excerpt: At a news conference after her award was announced, Ms. Alexievich pointedly referred to Russia's actions in Ukraine as "occupation."

Analysis: "Here's your Nobel Prize -- and your check for $972,000 --- now do your thing, baby!"

1 - Lukashenko and Putin -- both targets of Svetlana's poison pen and big mouth.

2 & 3 - Subversion pays nicely, eh Svetlana?

Excerpt: The spokesman for President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia, Dmitri S. Peskov, dismissed Ms. Alexievich's critique of Russian military aggression. "Apparently, Svetlana just doesn't have enough information to offer a clear evaluation of what is happening in Ukraine."

Analysis: Oh we beg to differ on that, Mr. Peskov. Diplomacy may preclude you from saying so, but not us. This vile villainette, this traitorous tramp, this betraying bitch, has all the information -- as do the sleazy scribblers of Sulzberger's Slimes.

This anti Putin, anti-Russian obsession is really getting more and more ridiculous by the hour -- and more and more ominous as well.

Boobus Americanus 1: A Belarussian woman was awarded the Nobel Prize for literature.

Boobus Americanus 2: I saw that. She took a shot at Putin during her news conference. Brave woman.

"Bravery hass nothing to do with it, cretin! It wass a frickin' sset up!"

(I'm afraid the conspiracy cat is right again.)

NY Times: The Families Funding the 2016 Presidential Elections

By NICHOLAS CONFESSORE, SARAH COHEN and KAREN YOURISH

Just 158 families have provided nearly half of the early money for efforts to capture the White House.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Masquerading as investigative journalism, this ugly, and we do mean ugly piece of class-warfare propaganda dominated the Sunday front page. Both the graphics and the prose are intended to leave the unwitting readers with the impression that a bunch of old rich White Republican families, worried about the diverse little people represented by the oh-so-caring Democrat Party, are out to conspiratorially dominate American politics and keep the uppity 'proles' poor and hungry.

Though the names of Tribesmen Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg and George Soros are listed in the piece, no distinction is made between the Whites and the numerous Jews on the big donor list. Hence, the disproportionate number of Jewish string-pullers just blend in with the rich old "overwhelmingly White" guys.

Shockingly (even by the low standards of The Slimes) a series of intrusively detailed Google Earth images of the palatial homes of eight Houston area donor families are featured in the piece -- along with a street map showing exactly where they live! All eight are non-Jews, presumably Establishment or conservative Republicans (Hildebrand, Nau, Sarofim (Arab), McNair, Flores, Ansary (Iranian), Kinder, Krohn). Clearly, the evil intent of Sulzberger's Slimes is to "name & shame", and perhaps even frighten, these Texas families.

1- 138 Republican Families / 20 Democrat Families

As if they were criminals that needed to be exposed; the whole world now knows where the Hildebrand (1) and McNair families (5) live. Did anyone at The Slimes seek their consent before plastering their private homes and streets all over the front page of the nation's foremost newspaper? As if the Sulzberger family live in a shack or something?

The anti-White Marxist Slimes can manipulate the early election cycle statistics all they want; but in the final analysis, big donors, though an important element of the QFS (Quanrennial Freak Show), can neither win elections nor drive public policies. Ultimately, it is media families that do that! A single cover shot on Slime or Sheeple Magazine; or a puff-piece on 60 Minutes; or an appearance on MTV; or a front-page viral love letter from Sulzberger's Slimes, the Washington Compost or the Wall Street Urinal, are worth more money to any candidate or political party than any single "funding family" or group of families could ever put together.

The tsunami of highly positive, FREE 'prime-time' publicity that the owners of the Piranha Press gave to Mr. and Mr. Obongo in 2008 & 2012 was worth BILLIONS of dollars -- far more than what any rich group of "White" families could ever donate.

And just who exactly are the first families of the Piranha Press? To paraphrase the opening line of this piece: They are "overwhelmingly" Jewish, rich, older and male. Let's meet a few of these mighty media moguls:

- Sulzberger-Ochs: Owners of the Jew York Slimes since 1896
- Andrew Rosenthal: Editorial Page Editor of The Slimes
- Meyer-Graham: Owners of the Washington Compost since 1933 (sold to non-Jew Jeff Bezos in 2013)
- Martin Baron: Editor of the Washington Compost
- Sumner Redstone: Majority owner and Chairman of Viacom (which owns CBS, MTV, VH 1, Nickelodeon, BET, Paramount Pictures)
- Jeff Zucker: President of CNN Worldwide
- James Goldston: President of ABC News
- Barry Diller (IAC) and Estate of Sidney Harman: Owners of Newsweek / Daily Beast (Internet)
- Scott Greenstein: President and chief content officer of Sirius XM Radio

Sumner Redstone (born, Rothstein), Arthur Ochs-Sulzberger, Jeff Zucker

Some more:

- Andrew Lack: President of NBC News
- Brian Roberts: CEO of Comcast
- Leslie Moonves: Chairman & CEO of CBS
- Larry Kramer: President of USA Today
- Paula Kerger: President and CEO of PBS
- Mike Bloomberg: Bloomberg News and Businessweek
- Newhouse Family: Advance Publications (which own Parade Magazine, Newark Star Ledger, Jersey Journal, Birmingham News, Cleveland Plain Dealer, New Orleans Times & Picayune, Trenton Times, Portland Oregonian, GQ, Glamour, Vogue, The New Yorker and numerous other newspapers and cable TV stations.)
- Mort Zuckerman: Owner of NY Daily News and US News & World Report
- Eddie Hartenstein: Chairman of Tribune Publishing (which owns the Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, Baltimore Sun, San Diego Union Tribune, Hartford Courant, Orlando Sentinel and numerous other newspapers)

Andy Lack, Mort Zuckerman, Sam Newhouse

The cash value of the targeted mass propaganda that these 'heavy hitters' of news and entertainment media can and do disseminate to the American public dwarfs the total cost of the 30 second TV ads and mailers which candidates need to raise money for.

And there are plenty more lesser players that we can add to that list of kosher con men (Barbara Walters, Chris Wallace, Morley Safer, Wolf Blitzer, Dana Bash, Gloria Borger, John King, Paul Krugman, David Brooks, Tom Friedman, Bill Kristol, Dorothy Rabinowitz, Charles Krauthammer, Rachel Maddow, Alan Colmes, Michael Kinsley, Carl Bernstein, Geraldo Rivera (1/2), Amy Goodman, Dennis Prager, Michael Medved, Matt Drudge, Mark Levin et al).

Then, of course, there is all that AIPAC (Israel Lobby) money pouring into Congressional coffers year in and year out. Many a Congressmen has peed his pants when "The Lobby" came a knockin'.

But let's get all breathless and worked-up over a handful of insignificant Texas businessmen chipping in a few hundred thousand bucks each (worthless chump change in the grand scheme of things) for Political Action Committees linked to the Republican't Party. Ridiculous!

The criminal Zionist media and its death grip upon the American mind must be smoked-out for the entire world to see. But who will do the exposing when the 'exposing machine' is owned and operated by the kosher criminal cabal itself? Therein lies the entire essence of our pathetic predicament. And it has been a big problem for a long, long time.

1941 / A CLEAN SWEEP! L-R: Adolph Ochs (NY Times) – William Paley (CBS) – Eugene Meyer (Washington Post) – David Sarnoff (NBC Radio)

With World War II raging in Europe, the Big 4 of the U.S. media were all under Jewish control. Will Zionist influence again lead us to war?

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that a small group of rich White families account for most of the political donations, mainly to Republicans.

Boobus Americanus 2: That doesn't surprise me. In spite of our growing diversity, America is still run by WASPs.

"WASsP'ss my assss! It's the $#@&^%$#@!"*

(Sugar, that type of blanket generalization is totally uncalled for -- as is the salty language.)

NY Times: Aleksandr Lukashenko of Belarus Wins Fifth Term as President

By ANDREW E. KRAMER

Aleksandr G. Lukashenko, the authoritarian president of Belarus, who suffered the indignity last week of seeing one of his sharpest critics win the Nobel Prize in Literature, won a prize of his own on Sunday

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

It is long past time for Russia to take a page out of China's book and expel the foreign-based correspondents of Sulzberger's Slimes once and for all. Slandering scum such as Andrew Kramer (cough cough) are not there to report news. They are there to wage propaganda war - nothing else. Reporting from Moscow, about the Presidential elections just completed in nearby Putin-friendly sister state of Belarus, Kramer's crap about the latest allegations of "voter fraud" serves as the latest example of The Slimes' childish anti-Putin / anti-anyone who gets along with Putin hysteria. Time for a bit of truth polishing -- starting with the photo:

Return of the Red Scare?

The Slimes has a long history of publishing CIA propaganda photos. A recent example was the "iconic" image of the drowned "migrant" child -- the one who washed up on shore feet first -- which triggered the opening of the floodgates into Europe. The above photo of the three "soldiers" all pulling aside red curtains as they exit their respective red voting booths, at the same exact moment, just reeks of NGO-CIA stage management. The unspoken but powerful message is that Belarus is a throwback Stalinist military state infested with soldiers in the streets. Many a New York libtard will surely soil his pink panties at the site of these Halloween pranksters in camouflage.

Kramer: Aleksandr G. Lukashenko, the authoritarian president of Belarus, Analysis: The "authoritarian" President? How so? Belarus has a bi-cameral Parliament with 174 members, does it not?

Kramer: ... who suffered the indignity last week of seeing one of his sharpest critics win the Nobel Prize in Literature, won a prize of his own on Sunday: the presidency of Belarus,...

Analysis: If he is so "authoritarian", then why does he allow "one of his sharpest critics" to openly attack him? So, we were right in concluding that Ms. Alexievich's Nobel Prize was linked to a political stunt!

Kramer: ... though that outcome had never been in doubt.

Analysis: Because Lukashenko is very popular.

Kramer: Mr. Lukashenko, a former collective farm director..

Analysis: Yes, a former commie -- blah, blah, blah. But today's Belarus is much more market-oriented than it was during Soviet days. The remnant Communist mini-minority of Belarus actually opposes Lukashenko. So why even bring up this irrelevant nonsense about Lukashenko having once been a "collective farm director"?

Kramer: ..who has led Belarus for 21 years, got nearly 83.5 percent of the vote, the Central Election Commission reported late Sunday.

Analysis: Who bloody cares how long he has led Belarus if that's what the people have voted for? He is generally popular at home. So mind your damn business, Kramer.

Guardian (London) / August 14, 2014

Lukashenko's Popularity in Belarus on the Rise

"The popularity of the Belarusian president, Alexander Lukashenko, has increased since the start of the Ukrainian crisis, a survey found, as voters show their appreciation for stability in their country."

Hockey buddies -- brotherly relations among two brotherly nations --- driving The Slimes nuts!

Kramer: Analysts of the country's political system said the results, like those of many elections in the old Soviet Union, had been determined long before voters marked their ballots.

Analysis: What "analysts" say this? Name them and cite the evidence of "Soviet" style voter fraud.

Kramer: The election, in fact, would not have drawn much attention but for the announcement on Thursday that Svetlana Alexievich, a Belarussian journalist and nonfiction writer, had won the Nobel Prize. She has long been a prominent critic of Soviet and post-Soviet governments, including the one in Belarus.

Analysis: To which, we would add -- the awarding of the Nobel Prize to that lying wench "in fact, would not have drawn much attention but for the announcement" of her victory all over the front page of The Slimes, and the echoing provided by the rest of the Piranha Press.

Kramer: Speaking to reporters in Berlin on Saturday, Ms. Alexievich, who has spent periods of her life in exile, described Sunday's election as a rigged contest that Mr. Lukashenko was sure to win, as always.

Analysis: Will Mr. Kramer and Ms. Alexievich kindly cite evidence that this election was "rigged"?

Kramer: "No one doubts that Lukashenko will win," she said. "To paraphrase Stalin, it's unimportant who votes for whom; what matters is who counts the vote. I don't think we can expect any surprises."

Analysis: Stalin, eh? Nice smear job, bitch. But again, Mr. Kramer and Ms. Alexievich, we request: Kindly cite any evidence that this election was "rigged". Do it now!

Lying liberal libelers Kramer and Alexievich: Plenty of accusations --- not a trace of hard data to back them up with.

Kramer: Ms. Alexievich, who was awarded the Nobel for her sweeping nonfiction works about events like the Soviet-Afghan war and the Chernobyl nuclear disaster, also described Russia as a place where “one can no longer speak of democracy” and “where ‘liberal’ is a dirty word.”

Analysis: If modern Russia is indeed "a place where 'liberal' is a dirty word" -- then send me a one way ticket, baby!

Kramer: Although citizens are not required to vote, the government offers free doughnuts at polling stations to draw crowds.

Analysis: Wait a second! If the "authoritarian" Lukashenko is actually so unpopular that the elections have to be rigged in his favor, wouldn't the government be trying to suppress voter turnout?

Kramer: About 30 percent of registered voters cast ballots in early absentee voting, a practice often criticized by election observers for offering opportunities for fraud.

Analysis: That's true -- but here in America, any word of warning against early absentee voting is always dismissed by The Slimes as "racist". Something to think about, Kramer.

Kramer: The largest observer mission monitoring the vote, with 397 members, arrived from an organization of former Soviet states ...

Analysis: Dadgummit! Can we knock it off already with the constant references to Stalin and the long defunct "Soviets", please?! It is getting to be almost as annoying as Hitler references (blessed be his name). Ironically, when Stalin was alive, the seditious scribblers at Sulzberger's Slimes puffed him up as really great guy, even before World War II!

What Con-Man Kramer neglects to mention is that there were an additional 500 observers from nations that were not "former Soviet states." Their final verdict? The elections were fair and valid.

Kramer: ... its observers invariably approve one another's elections.

Analysis: Hey Kramer! Could it be "its observers invariably approve one another's elections" because those elections are "invariably" valid? Ever think of that?

And with that, Kramer's latest piece of propaganda poop closes without having offered the reader so much as a single piece of even circumstantial evidence to support the allegation of an election having been stolen. Not one! Typical -- just another day at the office for the silly slanderers of Sulzberger's Slimes.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the elections in Belarus were rigged in favor of a Putin stooge.

Boobus Americanus 2: Wow! There was a Nobel Prize winning writer from Belarus who just the other day was warning us about Belarus.

"Sssay it with me, Church Lady!"

(Church Lady, you have no idea what a little devil you are partnering with.)

NY Times (Science): Gene May Prompt Male-to-Male Attraction in Worms

By SINDYA N. BHANOO

Tiny nematode worms called Caenorhabditis elegans have a peculiar reproductive story.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Much like the never-ending search for the elusive "missing link", the quixotic quest to pinpoint "the gay gene" has become as lucrative as it is foolish. Like their evolutionist colleagues, "gay gene" hunters have had to twist irrelevant observations about other life forms in order to make something out of nothing. In the tenuous tradition of Darwin's finches, peppered moths and "super-rats", the science section of Sulzberger's Slimes now brings you, gay worms -- faggot maggots, if you will.

Now, just to be clear and honest here, the piece itself does not link the genetic findings about worms to any human "gay gene". But the not-so-hidden insinuation of this "research" should be obvious to the astute reader. Trust us -- much like the NFL's mandatory wearin' of the pink during October "Breast Cancer Awareness Month" has nothing to do with "raising awareness" for breast cancer; this study and article on worms has nothing to do with scientific discovery. Nobody cares about worms!

Subtle subversion: The new tradition of Pink October is all about de-masculinization and homosexualization.

A goofy bit of gobbledey-gook from the story:

"A new study reports that a variation in a single gene results in male worms with excretory pores that attract the sexual attentions of other males.

'Other males copulate with this excretory pore, located on the neck,' said Matthew Rockman, a biologist at New York University.

*Researchers report that the gene variant, known as plep-1, may somehow be altering the chemical profile of the excretions in a way that makes them more attractive to other males.*

Copulation often does not work out well for the male that is approached, Dr. Rockman said. Males that mate with the excretory pore of another male usually leave behind a plug that weakens the worm and reduces life expectancy.

*Next, the researchers want to learn what it is about a mutation in the plep-1 gene that makes males attractive to other males."*

"Baby -- I was born this way!"

Before you accuse The Anti-New York Times of jumping to hasty conclusions in regard to the true motive of Dr. Rockman's "research" and Sulzberger's publishing of this article; consider this excerpt from an article in Science Daily, about the same study, confirming our suspicions:

"Rockman and his colleagues were intrigued based on a general interest in understanding how and why individuals differ from one another when it comes to sexual behaviors, as well as other traits. They went in search of the genes responsible for male-male mating in the worms."

In other words, they are twisting and bending facts relating to certain reproductive oddities of worms in order to manufacture a politically correct theory which will normalize homosexuality. Not other primates, mind you, nor even other mammals, no -- frickin' worms! Can you smell an IgNobel Science Prize cooking? All that Rockhead and friends need to do now is concoct a tenuous link between worm and human genetics - maybe take a cheap shot or two at Vladimir Putin - and it's Sweden, here we come!

Again, Dr. Rockhead has not stated that the sex practices of his little lab worms suggest that there is a "gay gene" in humans. No. That would be much too drastic of a statement to issue at this "early stage" of the "scientific process". But we all know where this "science" will eventually end up, don't we?

Although Rockhead (above) did not directly state (yet!) that his worm study suggests that there may be a "gay gene" in humans; his research - even if legitimate - will surely be used to help build the fraudulent case.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read about a fascinating study in the New York Times today. Evidently, certain species of male worms possess a gene that causes them to be attracted to other males.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's amazing! Once scientists finally succeed in isolating the gay gene, the homophobes will be silenced for good.

"Ewww. A queer worm!"

(We had better get your stool checked, Sugar. But don't worry; he won't multiply.)

The Star Ledger (Newark, NJ): Christie Says He Would Take On Russia

By CLAUDE BRODESSER-AKNER

Governor says he would shoot down any of Putin's jets that crossed into no-fly zone.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For today's rebuttal, we cross the Hudson River back into our home state of New Jersey to address a story appearing only in the widely read Newark Star Ledger - owned by the Newhouse Family (cough-cough). This piece was simply too good (or bad) to pass up. The only reason that Sulzberger's Slimes didn't pick up on it is because Jersey Governor Chris 'Crispy Creme' Christie is no longer a serious political contender to win the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show). Though the Jersey Fatboy is a total non-entity at this point; his recent blustering about "taking on Russia" is cause for concern for what it reveals to us.

The fact that a desperate bottom-tier candidate would suddenly issue such highly provocative anti-Russian threats - before a TV audience (FOX) which really doesn't care about what Putin is doing Syria - is very telling. Truth be told, most of the Republicans who do care about foreign policy are actually cheering for Russia against ISIS! So, if not to the voting public, then to what audience is this ogre of obesity playing to with his vile anti-Putinism? Answer: The anti-Putin Zionist Mega-Donors of the GOP and the anti-Putin Marxist Moguls of the Piranha Press - that's who!

Christie's saber-rattling is intended to convince Putin-hating scum such as Adelson and Sulzberger to resurrect his dormant campaign.

Christie's ambition is as boundless as his waistline. Indeed, it was his enthusiastic service to the coverup of the 9/11 false-flag attacks that launched his meteoric rise -- first in New Jersey, and then nationally. In 2003, as a U.S. Attorney in Newark, blubber-boy threatened a local NJ Sheriff who uncovered a plot in which a check cashing store (Sphinx Trading) provided the fake ID's for two of the 9/11 "hijackers". From the Huffington Post:

"Christie, who reminded Republicans during the debate that he'd been appointed by President Bush the day before 9/11, went so far in '03 as to actually threaten to arrest that Passaic County sheriff (whose office uncovered the fake ID scandal) and "shut down" his department. Such was the embarrassment to the FBI that Christie seemed bent on protecting -- despite the massive counter terrorism failure that the ID lapse revealed."

(Christie wasn't protecting "the embarrassment to the FBI", of course. He was protecting the real perps behind 9/11!)

Sheriff Jerry Speziale was onto to something regarding fake ID's and 9/11. U.S. Attorney Christie then stopped him cold and threatened to have him arrested! A few years later, the previously unknown attorney who had never held political office was puffed-up (literally and metaphorically) for NJ Governor. Evil bastard!

Now, back to the Star Ledger article and Christie the Corpulent's comments:

Star-Ledger: Speaking on Fox News, Christie said the first thing he would do in Syria would be to "call Putin, and tell him, 'Listen, we're enforcing a no-fly zone against everyone, and that includes you, so: Don't test me.'"

Analysis: Hey lard-ass. Isn't it Syria's business to determine who can and cannot fly over its airspace? By what authority would you declare and enforce this "no-fly" zone.

Star-Ledger: And then he flies through your territory?" asked host Martha MacCallum.

"You take him down," Christie answered, without hesitation.

"You shoot him down?" asked MacCallum.

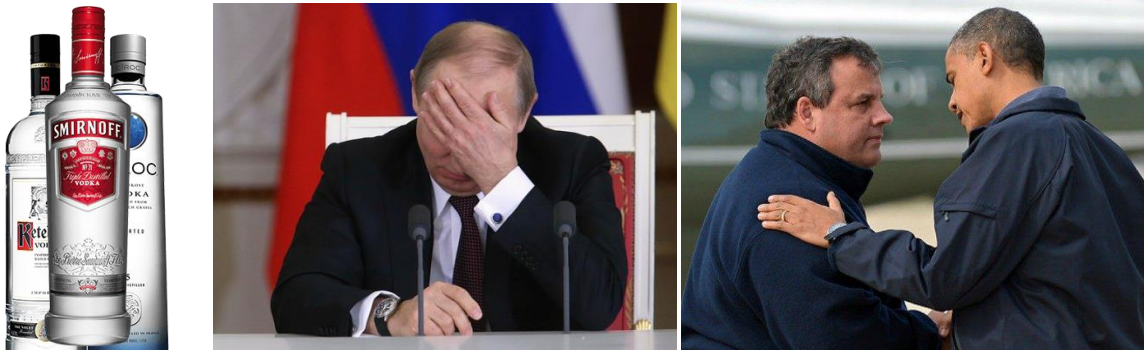

"Yes, you do," Christie said.

Analysis: Tubby the Terrible is telegraphing to "the powers that be" that if they resurrect his dead candidacy, he will hand them World War III on a silver platter -- after he had eaten from it, of course.

Star-Ledger: MacCallum followed up, saying that such bellicose action could bring the United States "back into, not even a Cold War, a hot war. ... Are you prepared to do that?"

"I'm not prepared to allow Russia to bring communist domination back to the world...". It's about choices. ... It's not just about what are you willing or unwilling to do. It's about what are you willing to permit to have happen. We spent untold American treasure and blood to eliminate the Soviet Union. We should not let it come back."

Analysis: Communist world domination? The return of the Soviet Union?

1- Stay strong, Mr. Putin. Have a shot of vodka or two -- we'll take care of Lardo.

2- If Crisco Christie is so concerned about "Communism", then why did he pump up Red Obongo (for his "great job" on Hurricane Sandy) just days before the 2012 re-election?

Analysis (con't): One might be tempted to say that Fatboy needs a lobotomy to go along with that 'on-the-down-low' stomach surgery he had done two years ago -- but the rotund Republican't isn't stupid. He's cunning -- very cunning.

Star-Ledger: As to how to confront ISIS, Christie said that when it comes to committing U.S. ground forces, "if we have to, we will. ----- Putin has no interest in taking on ISIS," Christie said. "Putin wants to prop up Assad and take down Syrian rebels."

Analysis: More telegraphing from Crispy Creme. U.S. troops on the ground in Syria, coupled with a no-fly zone in the air, would surely lead to a U.S. vs Russia/Iran battles on land, sea and air. "Pick me Mr. Adelson. Pick me!"

November, 1935, (4 years before WW 2): With the world at peace and many prominent people openly admiring Adolf Hitler, Winston Churchill auditioned for the Jewish warmongers by writing an article in Strand Magazine. In the piece, Churchill is forced to acknowledge Hitler's great accomplishments and even praises him. But he also drops a 'poison pill' by writing that it was not yet clear whether Hitler would turn out to be "a monster or a hero".

This veiled hit-piece marked the beginning of Churchill's Zionist-assisted comeback from the political graveyard -- culminating with him eventually becoming Prime Minister.

The masters of the neo-con Jewniverse have plenty of trained warhorses in their stable. They don't need to put up someone who was damaged by a bad scandal (Crispy Creme deliberately caused traffic jams near the George Washington Bridge in order to punish a local Mayor). It is doubtful that Elephant Boy's campaign will ever be resurrected. He's done. Unfortunately, the blood-thirsty "elite" scum that he is pandering to are, sad to say, alive, well and still squeezing America by its balls.

Degrading himself on late night TV wasn't enough to overcome his "Bridegate" scandal. So now the super ambitious human butter ball has turned to advocating for World War III.

Boobus Americanus 1: Chris Christie said he would shoot down Russian jets in Syria.

Boobus Americanus 2: How foolish of him to say that! Voters don't want to go to war with Russia.

"Voterss may not want war Boobuss, but ssince when do they matter?"

(As astute as you are cute!)

NY Times: Indian Writers Return Awards to Protest Government Silence on Violence

By DAVID BARSTOW and SUHASINI RAJ

The revolt now confronts Prime Minister Narendra Modi with a critical test of his vaunted ability to shape the public narrative of his administration.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The "I" in BRICS (Brazil - Russia - India - China - South Africa) has just been hit with "spontaneous" protests - triggered by "dissident" writers concerned about "human rights abuses" in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Nationalist India. "Dissenters now live in fear and uncertainty.", whines novelist Nayantara Sahgal.

"Violent retrogressive forces are dictating terms in the field of literature and culture." alleges short-story writer G. S. Bhullar.

"(I protest against) the attacks on rationalists.", moans poet Mandakranta Sen.

If these 35 liberal "intellectuals" are actually under threat of physical attack by Modi's Indian Nationalists; would they really be so "brave" as to further provoke their tormentors with a public stunt to be plastered across the front page of Sulzberger's Slimes? This sounds very much like the boastful "bravery" of the small handful of Russian "dissidents" who never seem to have any fear at all when publicly bashing "tyrannical" Russia -- while in Russia itself!

The cause of Sulzberger's steadily growing animosity towards India is linked to the developing giant's growing defiance of the NWO Globalists. As it is in Russia and China, economic and cultural conservatism is back in fashion -- and the Leftist degenerates of India don't like it.

The New York-based Globalist Ford Foundation has been playing its wicked game of promoting "human rights" in India for many years. Subversive "NGO's" (Non-Governmental Organizations) and their Indian agents / sympathizers are now under attack in India.

Standing in stark contradiction to the predictable narrative that India's 15% Muslim minority is now being "persecuted" by Modi's Hindu Nationalists, is the fact that many Muslims (perhaps as many as half of them) voted for the Hindu Modi! Nonetheless, it is very thoughtful and touching of Zionist Sulzberger to suddenly care about Muslims so much. (rolling eyes)

The article describes the liberal temper tantrum:

"With each passing day of silence from Mr. Modi (regarding the killing of some liberal writer), more writers stepped forward to say they, too, were returning their awards from the academy, also known as Sahitya Akademi."

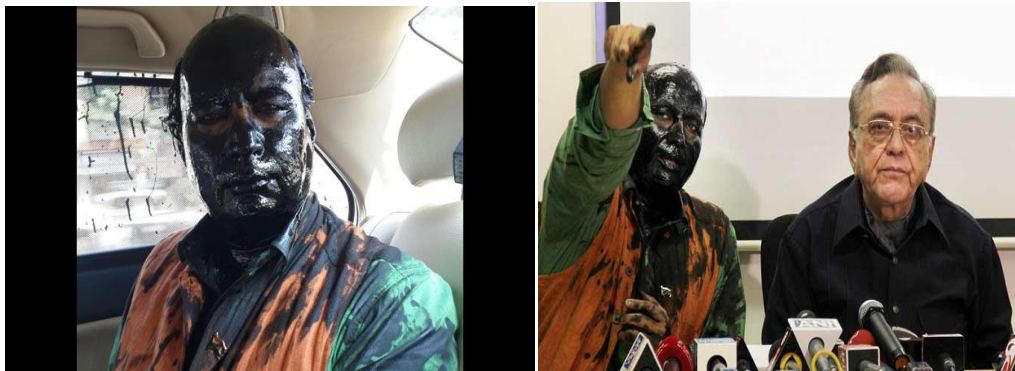

Waaaa! Waaaa! Waaaa! Why is it Modi's role to make a spectacle of condemning the killing of some writer (assuming the murder wasn't a false-flag of some sort)? Doesn't it go without saying that all murders are wrong?

The following excerpt is good for a smile and a laugh:

At least a dozen more writers have joined since Monday, when right-wing Hindu activists in Mumbai smeared black paint on the face of Sudheendra Kulkarni, a think tank leader, for agreeing to host an event for a book for a former Pakistani foreign minister."

The term "think-tank leader" is Globalese for CIA-NGO traitor -- so, this facial paint-job, if true, is actually wonderful news! By the way, Kulkarni was once a member of India's Communist Party.

This is how NGO liberals should be treated. Or was the Al Jolsonization of Kulkarni actually a staged stunt to make Nationalists look bad? Wash your face and stop looking for sympathy, dude!

In a Facebook post, Modi's finance minister ridiculed the writer protests as sour grapes by leftist writers reeling from "the shrinking fortunes" of their traditional government patrons, the Indian National Congress and the Nehru-Gandhi dynasty.

"A few questions to the protesters: How many of them courted arrest, protested or raised their voice against the dictatorship of Mrs. Indira Gandhi during the emergency?"

"With an insignificant Left lacking legislative relevance, the recipients of past patronage are now resorting to 'politics by other means. The manufactured protest of the writers is one such case."

Naturally, the liberal writers scoff at the idea that their protests have a hidden political motive. But the fact remains, any Prime Minister who is pissing off "think tanks", "dissidents" and Sulzberger's Slimes - to the extent that Modi is - has got to be doing something right!

Namaste Mr, Modi!

1- Sending a message: Indian military units were invited to march in Moscow's Victory Day parade.

2 & 3 - Like Putin of Russia and Jinping of China, the conservative Narendra Modi is traditionalist, nationalist and pro-business. Good news for India. Bad news for the Globalists.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times that Indian Nationalists are harassing intellectuals.*

Boobus Americanus 2: India is starting to act just like Russia and China.*

"Harasssing ain't enough! They sshould hang thesse liberalss!"

NY Times (Op-Ed Contributor): Making Pesto? Hold the Pine Nuts

By JONATHAN C SLAGHT

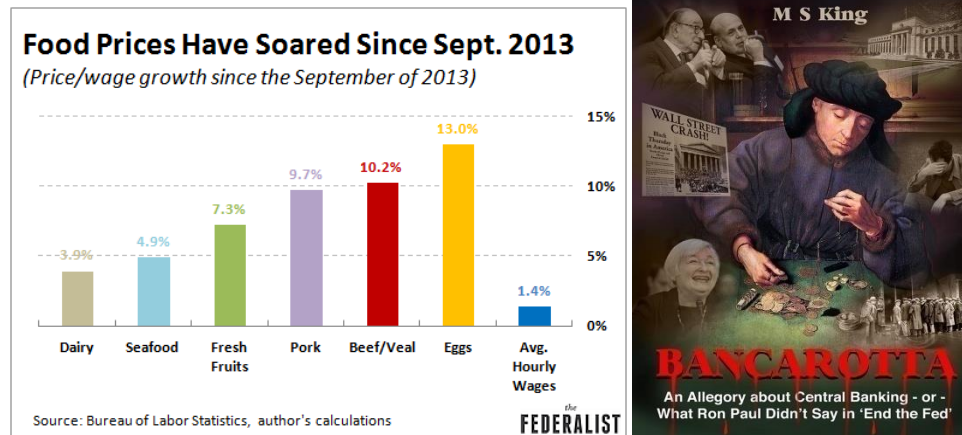

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As a cooking aficionado and a "conspiracy theorist", this piece caught the attention of your amateur chef / "paranoid" reporter here for those two reasons. Several years have passed since we abandoned the use of pine nuts for our pesto sauce recipe. You see, just like the cost of coffee, chocolate, laundry detergent, cereal, ice cream, butter etc. have all risen steadily; so too has the cost of pine nuts. Because the nuts were already a bit on the expensive side to start with, the price increases are really noticeable. Pesto recipes today consist of pistachios instead - although at the rate they are also rising in cost, peanuts may soon take their place!

As anyone with even a basic understanding of the counterfeiting operation known as The Federal Reserve knows by now, it is the incessant creation of debt-based currency that is causing food prices to rise and rise and rise - and store packages to shrink and shrink and shrink. Not to worry, dear reader. The evil geniuses at the Bureau of Labor Statistics have been good enough to remove food prices from the Consumer Price Index. You're fine!

- 1- Food inflation is rising far faster than wages!
- 2- BANCAROTTA! by M S King (due out soon) will explain why.

From the point of view of a Globalist criminal, this piece is deceptive on three levels. First, it completely ignores the true "How" and "Why" of pine nut inflation. Secondly, the writer, Jonathan Slaght, uses the piece to promote goofy unscientific environmentalism. And finally; well, we'll leave that as the not-so-hard-to-predict surprise.

A few excerpts, each followed by truthful analysis:

Slaght: The tiny, delectable pine nut is often viewed as essential to a classic pesto “alla Genovese,” but it is the most vexing ingredient — for the high cost of even a small packet or jar of them.

Analysis: You got that right Slaght. As previously stated, we at The Anti-New York Times have switched to pistachio pesto sauce.

Slaght: They also come at another kind of price: The pine nut industry may be contributing to the crash of an ecosystem.

Analysis: Oh please! Pine trees are as abundant as blades of grass (well, not quite). What are you trying to accomplish by peddling this nonsense about "the crash of an ecosystem?"

Slaght: According to the International Union for Conservation of Nature...

Analysis: The IUCN is a Globalist organization founded by Julian Huxley -- an "evolutionary humanist", Fabian Socialist, and an outspoken proponent of One World Government. Thanks for the clue, Slaght.

Huxley's Globalist IUCN couldn't care a rat's rear-end about polar bears or pine nuts.

Slaght: ... a majority of pine nuts imported into the United States come from the Korean pine tree, a keystone species found primarily in the southern parts of the Russian far east.

Analysis: So, the IUCN, an NWO "environmentalist" front if there ever was one, is calling attention to America's Russian imports of pine nuts. Where are we going with this, Mr. Slaght?

Slaght: The temperate rain forest of this wild corner of Russia represents a mere 1 percent of the country's territory yet contains about a quarter of its endangered vertebrate species.

Analysis: So many "endangered species" now barely holding up in Putin's Russia, eh Slaght? The astute readers of The Anti-New York Times are on to you now.

Slaght: As a biologist, ...

Analysis: "As a biologist" -- Self promoting sophist! Sleazy Slaght is expecting that we all bow down to his "scientific credentials" and accept everything he says at face value.

Slaght: I've spent much of the last 20 years exploring the region's forests ...

Analysis: Oh yeah? And your humble reporter here, speaking "as a historian", has "spent much of the last 20 years" studying and exposing the Globalist bullshit of folks like you, Sulzberger and the IUCN. How's that for "credentials", Slaght?

Slaght: An ever-expanding road network, driven by selective logging, is exposing more and more of the region to the covetous reach of pine nut harvesters. Once collected, the cones are shucked and the nuts, still in their shells, are sold to Chinese merchants, who haul truckloads across the border to China. From there, they are shipped to overseas markets.

Analysis: Oh the bloody drama! Slaght's ominous description of "covetous pine nut harvesters" and "Chinese merchants" hauling their loot "across the border" sounds like he is describing African poachers trafficking in elephant tusks or rhino horns. They are just frickin' pine cones!

*Oh those naughty, naughty Russian pine cone harvesters. They are as bad as ivory poachers -- shipping pine cones "with the nuts still in their shells".
Despicable!*

Slaght: The global demand is making this harvest unsustainable. The entire Korean pine ecosystem (located in Russia) could collapse if it continues.

Analysis: And exactly what observable scientific evidence of this "ecosystem collapse" can you provide for us, Mr. "biologist"?

Slaght: We are already seeing the cracks appearing: The shortage of pine nuts in the forests may have contributed to recent incidents of starving bears roaming the streets — and even attacking residents — in Luchegorsk, a Russian town near the Chinese border.

Analysis: Lions and tigers and "starving bears in the streets" -- Oh my! Mamma Mia! Ban pesto sauce, now!

Slaght: The Korean (Russian) pine nut pesto you eat today thus carries with it an unseen cost that could shatter an ecosystem bottom to top, seedling to tree, and chipmunk to tiger.

Analysis: Oh no! Not the chipmunks too! This is really serious.

Even the chipmunks and Tony the Tiger are not safe from Putin's pesto poachers! Have you no sense of decency, Mr. Putin?

Slaght: For those who feel that it's the combination of roasted nuts and fresh basil that gives pesto its unique flavor and texture, walnuts, cashews, pistachios and even almonds are all palate-pleasing alternatives. Or if you must have pine nuts, then one option is to buy local.

Analysis: In other words, pine nuts are still OK to eat, just not the ecosystem-busting ones that come from Russia. Cue up Church Lady in 3...2...1...

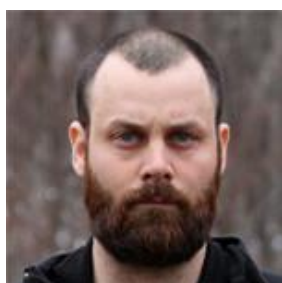

Slaght: The other possibility is simply to leave the pine nuts out. Cookbooks and websites are rife with pine-nut-free recipes. Ask yourself: Is a nutty pesto really worth risking a priceless ecosystem?

Translation: Save the planet. Boycott Russia.

Closing line: Jonathan C. Slaght is the projects manager for the Russia program of the Wildlife Conservation Society.

Analysis: From the website of Slaght's Wildlife Conservation Society:

"We apply our science to discover how best to limit the impacts of climate change on ecosystems, wildlife, and people, increasing resilience and providing insurance against a rapidly changing world."

Enough said.

Pardon the corny pun, but Sulzberger's anti-Russian obsession is getting "nuttier" by the day. It's time for this cook to switch back to pine nut based pesto sauce-- regardless of the cost!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times that pine nut harvesting in far eastern Russia caused a hungry bear to eat someone.

Boobus Americanus 2: Crazy things happen when delicate ecosystems are disrupted.

"Daddy; do they make pessto cat food?"

NY Times: Killing of Eritrean Migrant Shakes Israeli Confidence Amid Surge of Violence

By ISABEL KERSHNER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

What's this? Sulzberger's slippery and sleazy Zionist Slimes reporting on the murder of an African migrant by a racist Israeli mob? Well, obviously the accusations of Zionist bias aimed at the Jewish-owned "paper-of-record" need to be re-examined now. Right? Not exactly.

You see, this outrageous attack, caught on film, could not so easily be disappeared down the Orwellian memory hole. So the Slimes had to run it. The trick was putting it at the very bottom of the front page and with no accompanying photo to draw the reader's attention. Compare and contrast this semi-silent treatment with the front page or front International page spreads of dead migrants in Europe (faked images) or the "iconic" image of that righteous (or acting?) Hungarian camerawoman tripping a fleeing migrant. The whole damn piranha press cried for a week straight over that one!

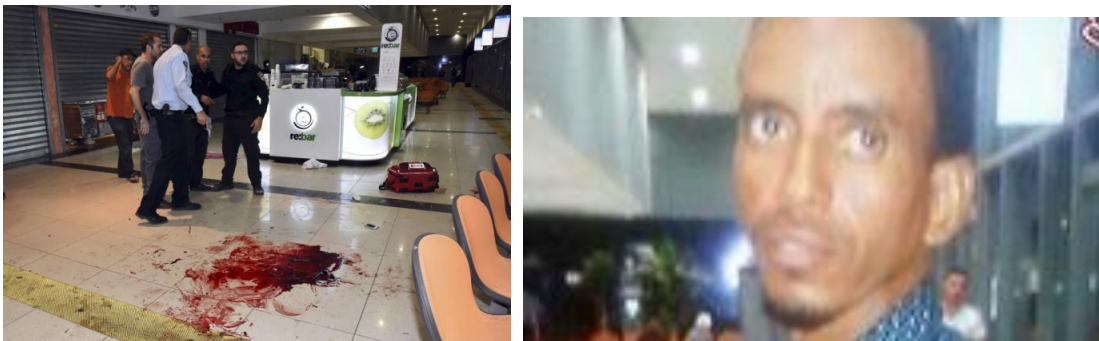

"Waaa! Waaa! She tripped me on the way to the welfare office!"

But there is no such degree of hysterical hype for Haptom Zerhom, the Eritrean man (mistaken for an attacker) who was beaten to death with whatever the Israeli mob could get its bloody hands on. Evidently, the tripping in the grass of some welfare-seeking foreign invader is a far greater offense than the mistaken mob murder of a legal African migrant who actually had a work visa and a job! Can you say, "Double standard"?!

From the bottom page, small headline story:

JERUSALEM — An Eritrean asylum seeker who was mistaken for an assailant in an attack Sunday at a bus station in Beersheba was shot by a security guard and then beaten by a mob. ---

Graphic video images of the beating appeared to show people kicking the Eritrean man, identified by the Israeli authorities as Haptom Zerhom, 29, and hurling a chair and bench at his head as he lay injured on the ground."

The gruesome photo above is nowhere to be found in Sulzberger's Slimes. Had the murder happened in Europe, the bloody images would be front-center paged and whined about for days!

You may be still wondering to yourself -- why even cover the story at all? Why not just spike it totally? Answer: By giving the story some coverage instead of no coverage at all, Sulzberger's Slimes cleverly inoculates itself from charges of bias or self-censorship. This clever ruse becomes all the more effective when the "right wing" Zionists accuse the Slimes of "bashing Israel". That is how they play the dirty game of journalistic good cop - bad cop. Don't fall for it!

Boobus Americanus 1: Did you catch that story in the New York Times about the African migrant killed in Israel?

Boobus Americanus 2: That's odd. I read The Times everyday. I must have missed that story.

"A brief glance of the main headlines does not constitute critical reading; you &%$#@ superficial clod!"

("Clod?" I was wondering where my Thesaurus went.)

NY Times: Assad Makes Unannounced Trip to Moscow to Discuss Syria With Putin

By NEIL MacFARQUHAR

President Vladimir V. Putin of Russia called his counterpart, Bashar al-Assad of Syria, to Moscow for an unannounced visit to discuss their joint military campaign and a future political transition in Syria.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

A Google Search of the term 'Assad Must Go' yields an astounding 3,520,000 results. Here is but a small headline sampling of the rogue's gallery of Globalists, Zionists, Communists and other assorted scumbag regimes that have been repeating this worn out mantra ever since the early days of the WikiLeaks-triggered 'Arab Spring' protests:

- Assad Must Go, Says Obama -- Washington Post:
- Britain Says Assad Must Go At Some Point -- Jerusalem Post:
- Saudi Arabia insists Assad Must Go or Be Overthrown -- AFP:
- U.N. Envoy to Syria: Assad Must Go -- The Daily Beast:
- Turkey Insists 'Assad Must Go' -- Today's Zaman (Turkey):
- Francois Hollande of France Says Assad Must Go -- NY Times:
- Assad Must Go Declares Dutch Foreign Minister -- DutchNews.nl
- U.S. Senators (McCain & Graham): Assad Must Go -- Daily Sabah

That was before the surprisingly impressive Russian military unleashed hell from land and sea upon the terrorist mercenary scum of ISIS / FSA / "moderate opposition". But over the course of the past few weeks, a different tune is being sung, albeit with qualifiers -- 'Assad Can Stay'!

Russia has spoken in the only language that tyrants understand.

And now, a few lyrics from the new tune:

- Turkey: Syria's Assad Can Stay in Power for Six More Months
- UK: Assad can stay in power for 3 years or longer
- Saudis: Assad can stay in power temporarily
- Let's talk to Syria's Assad, Merkel says

This is not to say that the NWO will give up on subverting Syria (and Russia) in the long term; or that the Globalists don't have some other tricks up their sleeves. But for now, clearly, Putin has beaten them. Dr. Assad ain't going nowhere! (pardon the grammar).

There are two ways to analyze this. It can either mean that the world is a safer place, or, a more dangerous place. It all depends upon how far the Globo-Zio crime syndicate wants to keep pushing the Russia-China bloc.

The psycho neo-cons clearly want World War III and they want it now. But the long term, generational chess playing faction (Brzezinski, Kissinger et al) probably think that the NWO can resume subverting Russia and attacking its allies after Putin is gone. As long as traitors, weaklings and western wannabees continue to infest elements of the Russian ruling class, the game is not over.

There's a new sheriff in the Middle East -- and the neo-cons are seething!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Assad visited Putin in Russia.

Boobus Americanus 2: Maybe it's best if Assad stays in power.

"Boobusess armchair warriorss ain't talkin sso tough anymore since Russsia showed what it can do."

(Too bad Russia was on its back when the neo-cons destroyed Iraq back in 2003.)

NY Times: Bashar al-Assad Finds Chilly Embrace in Moscow Trip

By STEVEN LEE MYERS

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Fanatical anti-Russian, anti-Syrian degenerate liar Steven Lee Myers (cough-cough) has become as delusional and he is hateful. So deep is the psychosis of Sulzberger's seditious scribblers that it really appears as though these odious characters are actually beginning to believe some of their own bull-shine! Let's have a look at a few excerpts. Haz-Mat suits on -- into the filthy fraudulence we go:

Myers, Myers, one of the worst liars -- rip out your tongue with a pair of pliers.

Myers: In the winter of 2012, when the civil war in Syria had already consumed tens of thousands of lives...

Analysis: Dadgummit! Stop calling it a "civil war"! It's a proxy war and you bloody well know it. Myers. A civil war is a fight among fellow countrymen (U.S. Civil War, Spanish Civil War, etc). The majority of these imported terrorists are mercenary killers recruited, financed, armed, trained and organized by the U.S. - Israel - Saudi Axis of Evil.

Myers: (In 2012) Vladimir V. Putin, the Russian president, sounded dismissive of Syria's beleaguered leader, Bashar al-Assad, and unconcerned about his future. Mr. Assad, he said, acidly, had spent more time courting leaders in European capitals than he ever had in Moscow.

Analysis: Your snooping reporter here and his feline sidekick scoured the Internet to confirm any such statement from Putin, and we came up empty. Notice that Myers does not use quote marks to indicate what Putin actually said. Sloppy journalistic hear-say.

Myers: "We are not that preoccupied with the fate of Assad's regime," Mr. Putin said then.

Analysis: That is an accurate quote, but for Meyers to take a 3-year old quote out-of-context in order to support his fictional narrative of Putin and Assad having a troubled relationship, shows just how deceitful and desperate he is. Here is the full quote, from a 2012 press conference:

"We are not that preoccupied with the fate of Assad's regime," the Russian president told a press conference. "We understand what's going on there and that his family has been in power for 40 years. Without a doubt, change is demanded. We're worried about something else – what happens next. We don't simply want for today's opposition, having come to power, to start fighting with the current authorities, who then become the opposition, and this continues forever."

It is interesting how Myers ignores a much more telling, and much more recent Putin quote. When asked, during his recent 60 minutes interview with Charlatan Rose last month, whether Syrian President Bashar al Assad should be forced to go, Putin said: "It's only the Syrian people who are entitled to decide who should govern their country, and how."

Myers: Three years later, the two presidents have bound themselves together in an alliance that reflects not only the urgent priority of salvaging the crumbling central government in Syria, but also each man's eroded standing on the international stage.

Analysis: "Each man's eroded standing on the international stage?" You cannot be serious, Myers! Well, you are a degenerate Marxist-Zionist liar -- so I guess you are. But as even many of your colleagues in the Piranha Press have conceded, Putin is the man-of-the-hour on the "international stage".

The "international stage" is much bigger than the dying U.S. and already dead Europe.

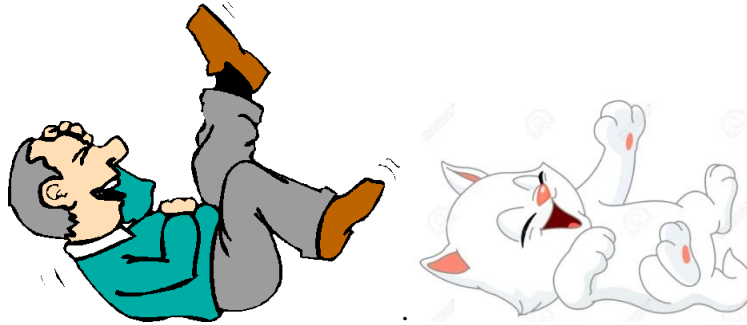

Myers: Mr. Putin's military has forcefully intervened to shore up Mr. Assad's government in its struggle against an array of insurgents...

Analysis: Oh those naughty, naughty "insurgents". That doesn't sound nearly as bad as calling them what they really are -- MERCENARY TERRORISTS!

Myers: ... but, even as Mr. Assad flew secretly to Moscow on Tuesday night for a meeting to assess the fighting in Syria, the chilly personal relationship between the two men has not changed

Analysis: Pray tell us, Mr. Myers - from a one investigative journalist to another - How did you personally come to know of this "chilly personal relationship" between Putin and Assad? Be specific.

Myers: ... according to officials, diplomats and analysts.

Myers: By all accounts, the two leaders remain distant and wary of each other.

Analysis: Ah, yes! The time-tested "by-all-accounts" trick -- a staple of Yellow Journalism if there ever was one. "By all accounts" of the specifically cherry-picked "officials, diplomats and analysts" that Myers counts among his "sources".

Myers: The Kremlin in particular has been frustrated by what it sees as Mr. Assad's arrogance.

Analysis: Says who?

Myers: "It's not personal, this whole thing," said Dmitri Trenin, the director of the Carnegie Moscow Center, referring to Mr. Putin's intervention.

Analysis: That's your source, Myers? The Director of the Carnegie Moscow Center -- one of the most notorious Globalist NGO-NWO traitor groups in Russia? You may as well just quote the skanks of 'Pussy Riot', or the hideous hag, Masha Gessen!

Myers: "To them, Assad is not a sacred cow," Mr. Trenin added. "The issue to them is to save the Syrian state, to prevent it from unraveling the way Libya unraveled, Yemen unraveled."

Analysis: Directly speaking, Assad may not be a "sacred cow" for Putin. However, a sovereign and secure Syria is indeed a high priority for Russia. Given the fact that Assad is popular with most Syrians, the difference between the continued rule by Assad and a sovereign Syria is one without a distinction. You see, in a sovereign Syria, the people themselves would keep Assad. So, in essence, Putin is indeed personally committed to Assad because he is personally committed to a sovereign Syria. Nice try, Mr. Tenin and Mr. Myers --- but an epic fail nonetheless.

Myers: That has given hope to those who want to see a negotiated end to the war in Syria and hasten the departure of Mr. Assad himself —

Analysis: Keep dreaming. Assad ain't going.

Myers: ... something Mr. Putin has signaled he is prepared to accept.

Analysis: "Prepared to accept" IF -- repeat -- IF that's what the people of Syria want -- which they don't!

Assad, like Putin, is not without support on "the international stage".

Myers: Others, though, remain skeptical. "Not being wedded to Assad does not mean that they're prepared to negotiate a way for him to go," said a senior administration official in Washington.

Analysis: Finally! A bit of truth. Putin is NOT going to sell out Assad.

Myers: Despite such similarities, the two (Putin & Assad) have strikingly different backgrounds and temperaments that have precluded a close bond, the officials and analysts said.

Analysis: UNNAMED "officials and analysts". It's bad enough that Myers cherry-picks his "sources", but it seems that he also has a tendency to cherry-pick imaginary ones as well.

The "diplomats and officials" of Myers' imagination.

Myers: even as the events in Syria and beyond have forced them together. Mr. Assad, the awkward son of an authoritarian leader, ...

Analysis: "the awkward son". What is that supposed to mean? You ain't exactly Clark Gable either. Mr. Myers.

Myers: Mr. Putin, a former intelligence officer,

Analysis: KGB! ---KGB! --- KGB! We knew that was coming! How childish.

Myers: "There's not much chemistry in the relationship," said one long-serving Western diplomat in the region.

Analysis: "Not much chemistry" -- so says yet another cherry-picked and unnamed "long-serving diplomat". Perhaps Assad should send some flowers to Putin.

Myers: Mr. Trenin, of the Carnegie Center, described Mr. Putin's relationship with Mr. Assad as based on coinciding interests as much as ideology or values. "it remains essentially transactional, rather than values-based or strategic."

Analysis: Carnegie's Traitor Trenin, again. Ignore.

Myers: Mr. Putin's primary goal in Syria, as he laid it out in remarks at the United Nations last month, has been to prevent the toppling of another sovereign state in the Middle East by what he considers foreign interference...

Analysis: No, Myers! It's not what Putin "considers" foreign interference. It's what IS foreign interference! Tell the truth, dammit!

Myers: A secondary purpose, though, has been to reassert Russia's re-emergence as a crucial player in the Middle East and beyond, forcing through military action an easing of the diplomatic isolation imposed on Mr. Putin after events in Ukraine.

Analysis: Myers, PLEASE -- don't even get us going with that bullshit about "the invasion of Ukraine"! Sugar is getting old and is already at risk of getting a heart attack from reading Sulzberger's Slimes every day.

Myers: At the same time, they emphasized their united front against terrorists, which is how both characterize not just the Islamic State but all armed opponents of Mr. Assad's government.

Analysis: And don't us started on this "bad terrorists" vs, "moderate terrorists", either!

Myers: The question now is whether Mr. Putin can press Mr. Assad to accept a negotiated end to his rule.

Analysis: Myers; get it through your skull. Putin is not going to press for anything that the people of Syria do not want. Give it a rest already.

Myers: Mr. Assad has, in fact, proved at times to be a reluctant partner in Russia's efforts to end the conflict. He has stood up on many occasions to the Kremlin, to the extent that diplomats and analysts say it has irritated Mr. Putin.

Analysis: There go those "diplomats and analysts" again.

Myers: "I think they know how confused the Assad regime is, and they're frustrated by it," said Andrew J. Tabler, an expert on Syria at the Washington Institute for Near East Policy who has followed the conflict closely, referring to the Russians.

Analysis: Andrew Tabler (cough-cough) of the 'Washington Institute for Near East Policy'?! Those Globalist-Zionist madmen still want to blow up Iran! Do you ever talk with any normal people, Mr. Myers?

Myers: After the failure of talks, Mr. Putin summoned Syria's foreign minister, Walid al-Moallem, to Moscow in late June, for a meeting that was described as tense.

Analysis: "a meeting that was described as tense" --- described by who, exactly?
(Myers doesn't say)

"Psssst! The meeting was tense."

Myers: It was then, evidently, that Mr. Putin began laying the groundwork for the military intervention. That appears to have given him far more leverage over Mr. Assad, something analysts said could weaken Mr. Assad's standing at home by emphasizing his junior status to Mr. Putin.

Analysis: Wrong again. Assad remains popular as the Syrian army continues to do the bulk of the heavy lifting -- only now, with Russian air cover. A final victory will only enhance Assad's standing.

No more to say about this piece, dear reader. Dissecting liars like Myers is as exhausting as it is frustrating.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Putin and Assad don't get along too well.

Boobus Americanus 2: Hopefully, Putin will convince Assad to step down after the civil war is over.

NY Times: New York Leads the Way on Transgender Rights

By ~~ANDREW ROSENTHAL~~, THE EDITORIAL BOARD

Gov. Andrew Cuomo on Thursday announced an executive action establishing the first-ever statewide regulations protecting transgender New Yorkers from discrimination.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Remember the "good old days" when, although homosexuality had become socially acceptable, mentally disturbed cross-dressers were still universally regarded as deranged freaks? That was like, what -- 1 year ago?!

Yes indeed; the 'slippery slope' to degradation is now covered with grease and blanketed with banana peels; and we have the seditious scum of the Jewish Piranha Press and Jewish Hollywood to thank for it. Speaking as "The Editorial Board", sex-mad degenerate pig Andrew Rosenthal (cough-cough) comes out full force in favor of trannie "rights".

Let's dig into Rosie's rant:

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise. It's only a pathetic little word-smith typing out lies from behind the curtain.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": Gov. Andrew Cuomo on Thursday announced an executive action establishing the first-ever statewide regulations protecting transgender New Yorkers from discrimination.

Analysis: Apart altogether from the evil and degeneracy that is the sudden "tolerance" for female (and also, male) impersonators, this trend of Presidents and Governors throwing Executive Orders around as if they were ordering pizzas should be a cause for great concern and alarm. Where is the "American Civil Liberties Union" on this?

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": The regulations extend the provisions of a 1945 state human rights law to prohibit discrimination on the basis of gender identity in housing,...

Analysis: A tranny freak wants to rent the upstairs of an owner-occupied two-story home. If the owner, a good family man who is appalled by cross-dressing freaks, refuses to expose his children to the spectacle of a freak tenant -- he will be fined and could even lose his home.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": ... employment...

Analysis: A Catholic school tells a tranny freak that he / she / it cannot cross dress, that school can be fined or even shut down.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": ... and public accommodations like restaurants,

Analysis: A degenerate tranny freak is asked to wear men's attire in order to eat at an upscale or even just a family restaurant, that restaurant can be fined or shut down.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": They also protect transgender people from discrimination when seeking mortgages, credit cards and other financial services.

Analysis: As if money lenders give a hoot about how tranny freaks dress!

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": Transgender people who have experienced discrimination can file a complaint in court, with the attorney general or with the State Division of Human Rights. If the division finds that discrimination has occurred, it can award compensatory damages, require policy changes, and levy fines and penalties of up to $100,000.

Analysis: $100,000!!! America, land of the free, eh?

Attention all landlords and school districts. You WILL rent your home to these psychopaths and allow them to cross-dress at the prom.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": The regulations come after years of failed efforts to enact a state law. The State Assembly has passed an anti-discrimination bill called the Gender Expression Nondiscrimination Act, or Genda, eight times, but the Republican-controlled State Senate has repeatedly blocked it.

Analysis: So, if Cuomo the pro-homo is passing executive orders in defiance of EIGHT denials of "Gender Expression Nondiscrimination Act" (barf!), doesn't that mean that he is violating his oath of office? The Slimes is "OK" with such dictatorial action? Evidently so.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": And transgender people in New York face disturbingly high rates of discrimination: 75 percent have experienced workplace harassment, 53 percent have suffered discrimination or harassment in a public place like a restaurant, and 19 percent have been denied a house or an apartment because of their gender identity, according to a 2011 survey.

Analysis: Stop acting like sick twisted degenerate fools in public. Keep your insanity at home and no one will bother you. Problem solved!

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": Nationwide, transgender people are at high risk of unemployment and homelessness.

Analysis: Yes; because they are freakin' nuts! Duh.

"Ya know -- I wonder why my career isn't where it should be by now."

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": In the absence of an anti-discrimination law, Mr. Cuomo's executive action offers much-needed protections quickly.

Analysis: The people that we should be giving "much-needed protections" to are the innocent little children being raised in the cesspool that is modern day Trotskyite Marxist America.

Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": The new regulations set an important example for the country. More than 30 states lack comprehensive anti-discrimination laws that protect transgender people. Their governors should study Mr. Cuomo's move and see if they can do the same.

Analysis: A very ominous recommendation by Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board" -- because that is EXACTLY how the successful drive to mandate faggot marriage played out. Pedophiles will be next. Bet on it!

How civilizations die!

- 1- The parents of those children should be fined $100,000 -- and lose custody!
- 2- When going wigless and sans make-up, the deteriorating First Tranny manifests classic Male Pattern Balding -- and a face that would make the Frankenstein Monster run away.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Governor Cuomo used an executive action to implement anti-discrimination laws that will protect transgenders.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's good. If a man wants to become a woman or vice versa, it's their business.

*"If I were to put on a spiked collar, does that make me a pit bull terrier?
Do I get to stay in a dog kennel? -- Wuff wuff! Dumbasss! "*

NY Times: Russian Ships Near Data Cables Are Too Close for U.S. Comfort

By DAVID E. SANGER and ERIC SCHMITT

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For this piece of Yellow Journalism, Sulzberger's Slimes enlists two of its big shot "correspondents" -- David Sanger (cough-cough) and Eric Schmitt (possible cough-cough and two-time winner of the "prestigious" Pulitzer Prize) -- to frighten us all with tales of Russian submarines lurking about in close proximity to our undersea Internet cables. Our first reflex is to laugh - but considering the historical reality of "predictive false-flag pre-programming" - the journalistic joke of Messrs. Sanger & Schmitt may not be a laughing matter.

Let's examine this selected excerpts from this newest version of "The Hunt For Red October".

Schmitt and Sanger are the type of dirty hacks that Publisher Joseph Pulitzer (cough-cough) would have hired. Putrid Pulitzer, along with competitor William Randolph Hearst, shamelessly incited for the Spanish-American War of 1898.

Schmitt and Sanger: Russian submarines and spy ships are aggressively operating near the vital undersea cables that carry almost all global Internet communications,...

Analysis: The subs are "aggressively operating"? What the bloody hell does that mean? Are the subs biting surfers? Harassing dolphins?

Schmitt and Sanger:... raising concerns among some American military and intelligence officials that the Russians might be planning to attack those lines in times of tension or conflict.

Analysis: "American military and intelligence officials" -- the same cast of characters who "raised concern" about "Iraq's Weapons of Mass Destruction"; and Assad's "gassing of children"; and Putin's mythical "invasion" of Crimea. No thanks! "Talk to the hand", bloody no-good liars!

"Aggressively operating" submarines? Talk to the hand, Dr. Strangelove.

Schmitt and Sanger: The issue goes beyond old worries during the Cold War that the Russians would tap into the cables — a task American intelligence agencies also mastered decades ago.

Analysis: Oh? Are you two ass-clowns saying that the U.S. can not only "tap into the cables", but that this nasty task was "mastered decades ago"? We must have missed that headline story. Sure sounds like "aggressive operating" to us!

Schmitt and Sanger: The alarm today is deeper: The ultimate Russian hack on the United States could involve severing the fiber-optic cables at some of their hardest-to-access locations to halt the instant communications on which the West's governments, economies and citizens have grown dependent.

Analysis: Total crap! Russia would never undertake such an aggressive action to start World War III - unless the U.S. attacked first.

Schmitt and Sanger: While there is no evidence yet of any cable-cutting,...

Analysis: OK. Heart palpitation time. Sugar, you have my permission to go full blown psycho on this one.

"No evidencse"?! If there issn't any &^%$#^ evidencse of wrong-doing; then why would you %$#(&% sscumbags even bother writing ssuch a provocative sstory?!!

Schmitt and Sanger:... the concern is part of a growing wariness among senior American and allied military and intelligence officials over the accelerated activity by Russian armed forces around the globe.

Analysis: Ah, those "senior military and intelligence officials", again. These are the same crazed cast of villains who operate as many as 1,000 troop, proxy and missile bases "around the globe" -- many of them encircling Russia. Project much, Dr. Strangelove?

"The Russians are coming! "The Russians are coming!"

Schmitt and Sanger: At the same time, the internal debate in Washington illustrates how the United States is increasingly viewing every Russian move through a lens of deep distrust.

Analysis: Classic criminal psycho behavior -- accusing the innocent of not being "trustworthy" when it is the Globo-Zionist U.S. that should be viewed "through a lens of deep distrust" -- given how it has been setting the world on fire as far back as 1898.

Schmitt and Sanger: "I'm worried every day about what the Russians may be doing," said Rear Adm. Frederick J. Roegge, commander of the Navy's submarine fleet in the Pacific.

Analysis: Rear Adm. Roegge is talking out of his own rear. Only a paranoid ignoramus or a filthy warmongering liar would say that "what the Russians may be doing" is a cause for daily worry.

Schmitt and Sanger: Cmdr. William Marks (cough-cough?), a Navy spokesman in Washington, said: "It would be a concern to hear any country was tampering with communication cables; however, due to the classified nature of submarine operations, we do not discuss specifics."

Analysis: Of course! The good old "We-can't-tell-you-how-we-know-what-we-know-because-it's-classified" trick. Very well, Cmdr. Marks, we shall take your word at face value. (rolling eyes)

Schmitt and Sanger: One NATO ally, Norway, is so concerned that it has asked its neighbors for aid in tracking Russian submarines.

Analysis: The pathetic p-words of de-balled Norway ought to be more "concerned" about the rape epidemic brought to its once gentle society by the real invaders pouring in from the Turd World.

Schmitt and Sanger: The operations are consistent with Russia's expanding military operations into places like Crimea, eastern Ukraine and Syria...

Analysis: (Deep sigh, face-palm) All proxy problems engineered by CIA - NGO's - "Muslim"mercenaries.

I know Vlad I know.

Schmitt and Sanger: “The risk here is that any country could cause damage to the system and do it in a way that is completely covert, without having a warship with a cable-cutting equipment right in the area,” said Michael Sechrist, a former project manager for a Harvard-M.I.T. research project funded in part by the Defense Department.

Analysis: This statement truly is cause for "concern"! "Any country" damaging the system "covertly" could mean the U.S. inflicting the wound on itself -- or -- our "best ally" in the Middle East (cough-cough) dispatching one of its state-of-the-art German subs to do the job.

Schmitt and Sanger: So important are undersea cables that the Department of Homeland Security lists their landing areas — mostly around New York, Miami and Los Angeles — at the top of its list of “critical infrastructure.”

Analysis: If this means, and it appears as though it does, that the dangerous DHS has "protective" jurisdiction over our undersea cables, well ---

"We got problems. Drink up, sweetie."

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that the Russians are stalking our Internet cable lines.

Boobus Americanus 2: Wow! That is scary. It sounds like a plot from a Hollywood movie.

NY Times: Calm Manner Has Ben Carson Rising in Polls

By TRIP GABRIEL

The candidate's gentle demeanor has resonated with supporters as some recent polls show him now in the lead in the early-voting state of Iowa.

By DAVID E. SANGER and ERIC SCHMITT

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Throughout the process of the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show), the Piranha Press will generally grant every candidate his or her "15 minutes of fame" (unless their name ends in 'Paul'; in which case there are 0 minutes)-- before knocking them down. Like played-out pop songs, the Republican's will wear out their welcome before the badly-wounded eventual winner gets to face off against Killary Rotten Clinscum in the QFS Stuper Bowl of 2016.

The current flavor-of-the-fortnight (and hoped-for de-railer of the unpredictable Donald Trump) is ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson. We here at The Anti-New York Times once had a soft spot for ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson. He seemed like such a decent, humble, logical-thinking and godly man who, though a bit light on knowledge, was trustworthy and intelligent enough to offer a bit of hope for the hopeless GOP. Alas, even your intrepid reporter and his feline sidekick here err in judgement from time to time.

But we now know that beneath the veneer of the soft-spoken Christian gentleman, ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson is little more than an ambitious book salesman and deceitful Zionist tool whose sudden rise is directly related to his expressed love for Israel and, more importantly, his wildly aggressive posture towards Putin and Russia.

Nothing sells books like a Zionist-approved QFS campaign!

From the mendacious mouth of ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson himself:

On Israel: "Israel is our only democratic ally in the Middle East. She is surrounded by nations that threaten her very existence. We can never let her enemies believe that our deep commitment to Israel's peace and security will waver. --- We must always stand with Israel and her people."

On Vladimir Putin: "Vladimir Putin's Russia has become dangerously belligerent. It is actively destabilizing Ukraine, endangering Europe in the process and continuing to fuel destabilization in the Middle East. This newfound aggressiveness is a rising threat to the peace and security of the American people."

"History has painfully taught us that letting dictators run amok and hoping for the best fails. -- President Putin must come to learn that there will be grave and serious consequences when Russia engages in naked aggression against other sovereign nations and free peoples. All options should remain on the table when dealing with international bullies such as President Putin."

On the use of force against Russia: "I would, obviously, do that in consultation with very competent generals and people who are more knowledgeable in that area than I would be. -- But, clearly, if the interest and the existence and the safety of the people of the United States was at stake – and that was the only way to protect them – of course, I would do whatever was necessary."

~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson is currently polling very well in Iowa - a state infested with fellow mentally deranged Zio-Christian fundamentalists who worship Israel and await man-made Armageddon so that they can be zapped up to the Pearly Gates while the rest of the world burns. It is doubtful that he will outlast Trump, but we suspect that he doesn't want to anyway. You see, ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson's dubious dabbling in this QFS campaign (which happens to coincide with a book tour!) has pushed his book sales through the roof - for all of his best-selling, platitude-filled titles!

The "humble" doctor sure loves to have his mug plastered on his own books. Even his wife has one!

Congratulations, ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson! You are the first candidate for any office to have ever fooled The Anti-New York Times. In our defense, let us just say that there was no record to go on other than your conservative rhetoric, your calm manner, your medical achievements (which we now understand were a bit exaggerated) and your facade of devout Christianity. But after listening to your disgusting warmongering and filthy slandering of Christian Russia, the pious "soft-spoken" TV act is oh-so-transparent now. To the Devil with you, ~~Uncle Tom~~, er, Dr. Ben Carson -- and your equally money-grubbing wife too!

"Massa" Bill Kristol of 9/11 PNAC "New Pearl Harbor" fame LOVES ~~Uncle Tom~~, er Dr. Ben Carson.

Kristol tweet: "Best ticket for country: Cheney-Cotton. But Cheney won't run. Next best, electable, can govern: Sen Tom Cotton & Ben Carson."

--- Enough said!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Ben Carson is polling ahead of Trump in Iowa.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes, his calm and humble demeanor is really resonating with voters.

NY Times: Challenging Chinese Claims, U.S. Sends Warship Near Artificial Island Chain

By HELENE COOPER

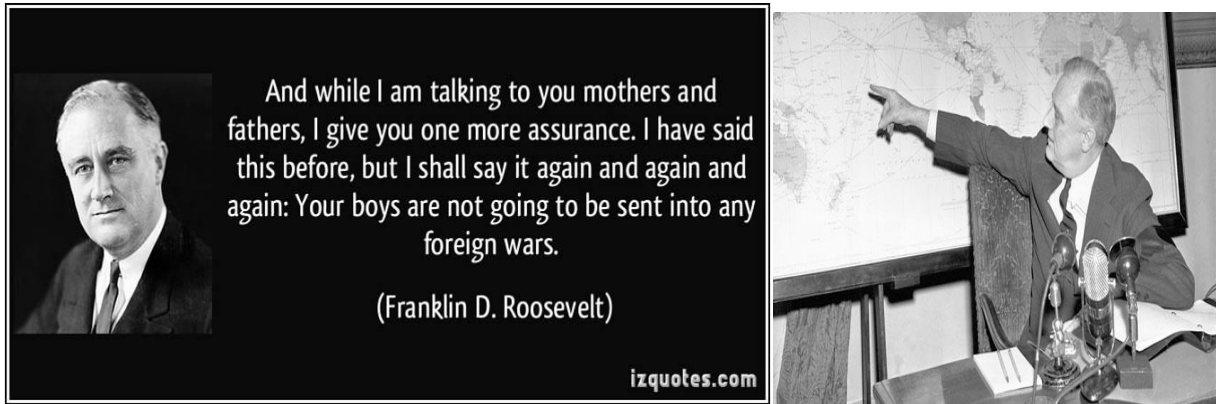

United States Navy destroyer entered waters near the Spratly Islands in the South China Sea late Monday, Defense Department officials said, directly challenging China's claims that the artificial island chain is within its territorial borders.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Flashback -- 1941: The non-compliant Nationalist Asian government of Japan has refused to submit to the dictates of the tyrant Roosevelt. Though Japan is also a target of the NWO, the more pressing concern is Hitler's Germany -- which is allied with Japan by a mutual defense treaty. Because Hitler will not take FDR's bait (attacks on German submarines, impounding of vessels, direct aid to Britain etc) the warmongers shift their provocations toward Japan. Included among these various bullying tactics are the "Pop-Up Cruises" which grew out of The McCollum Memo.

The McCollum Memo, also known as the Eight Action Memo, was a 1940 memorandum sent by Commander Arthur McCollum, to Navy Captains Dudley Knox - who agreed with the actions described within the memo. The memo outlined the general situation of several nations in World War II and recommended an eight-part course of action for the United States to take in regard to the Japan, suggesting the U. S. provoke Japan into committing an "overt act of war". Several in the Office of Naval Intelligence also promote the idea of goading Japan into war.

As he publicly spoke of peace during his 1940 re-election campaign, FDR secretly plotted war against Germany and Japan. A series of 1941 provocations was necessary to negate his 1940 campaign promises.

The McCollum Memo was first widely disseminated with the publication of Robert Stinnett's Day of Deceit: The Truth About FDR and Pearl Harbor. Stinnett made a convincing case that the Roosevelt gang conspired to provoke the Japanese to attack the U.S. in order to bring the U.S. into the European war -- without enraging the public over broken political promises. The Great Deceiver had, on many occasions, issued impassioned campaign promises that the U.S. would not enter in Europe's war.

The memo contained an eight-part plan to challenge Japan:

- A. Make an arrangement with Britain for the use of British bases in the Pacific, particularly Singapore
- B. Make an arrangement with the Netherlands for the use of base facilities and acquisition of supplies in the Dutch East Indies
- C. Give all possible aid to the Chinese government of Chiang-Kai-Shek
- D. Send a division of long range heavy cruisers to the Orient, Philippines, or Singapore
- E. Send two divisions of submarines to the Orient

F. Keep the main strength of the U.S. fleet now in the Pacific, in the vicinity of the Hawaiian Islands

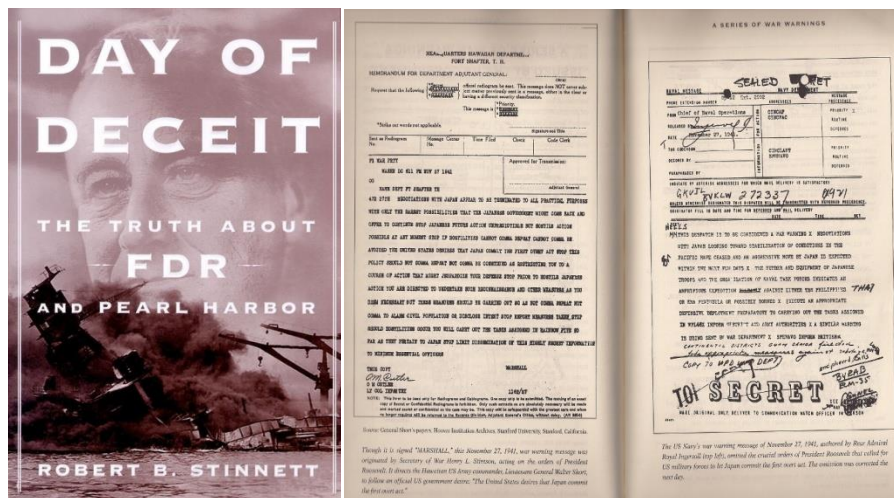

G. Insist that the Dutch refuse to grant Japanese demands for undue economic concessions, particularly oil

H. Completely embargo all U.S. trade with Japan, in collaboration with a similar embargo imposed by the British Empire

Stinnett goes on to write, "throughout 1941, it seems, provoking Japan into an overt act of war was the principal policy that guided FDR's actions against Japan" and "Roosevelt's cabinet members, most notably Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, are on record favoring the policy, according to Stimson's diary".

Further evidence that suggests Roosevelt was operating in accordance with the memo was his support of "pop-up" cruises -- an elaboration upon Points D & E of the eight recommended actions. FDR wrote:

"I just want them to keep popping up here and there and keep the Japs guessing. I don't mind losing one or two cruisers, but do not take a chance on losing five or six."

Stinnett's research into original source material leaves ZERO DOUBT!
Roosevelt deliberately baited Japan with 'Pop-up Cruises' and knew of the Pearl Harbor attack in advance.

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel (later wrongly blamed for negligence over the Pearl Harbor attack) opposed the "pop-up" cruises, saying they were "most ill-advised and will result in war if we make this move", but "the decision [on the 'pop-up' cruises] may go against me". In fact, at the time, Kimmel was not even aware of Washington's 8-point policy.

Admiral James O. Richardson also opposed the plan and quoted FDR as saying: "Sooner or later the Japanese would commit an overt act against the United States and the nation would be willing to enter the war."

Japan never did take the "pop-up cruise" bait. But they were forced to react to FDR's oil embargo and direct threat of war. That is why Japan struck first at Pearl Harbor. And the rest, as they say, is history.

Understand that, and you will know all there is to know about the true motives behind Homo-Obongo's provocative challenge to the Chinese Navy, and Sulzberger's misrepresentation of same. This ain't about "freedom of the seas", folks. As it was with World War II, so it is with current events. It's all about The New World Order and the Russia-China alliance's refusal to submit to it. Keep that in mind should the Chinese Navy fire upon Obongo's outrageous "Pop-up Cruise" near "the disputed islands".

HARRY STIMSON'S CONFESSION!

"We face the delicate question of the diplomatic fencing to be done so as to be sure Japan is put into the wrong and makes the first bad move. ... The question was how we should maneuver them into the position of firing the first shot."

"When the news first came that Japan had attacked us my first feeling was of relief that ... a crisis had come in a way which would unite all our people. This continued to be my dominant feeling in spite of the news of catastrophes which quickly developed."

From the diary of Henry Stimson, FDR's Secretary of War

CORROBORATED BY HIROHITO

Text of War Declaration by Hirohito

By The Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7.—The following is the text of Emperor Hirohito's proclamation declaring war against the United States and Britain, as picked up and translated by the National Broadcasting Company's listening post here:

We, by grace of Heaven, Emperor of Japan and seated on the throne of a line unbroken for ages eternal, enjoin upon thee, our loyal and brave subjects. We hereby declare war upon the United States of America and the British Empire.

The men and officers of our army and navy shall do their utmost in prosecuting the war. Our public servants of various departments will perform faithfully and diligently their appointed duties. The entire nation united will shall mobilize its total strength so that nothing will miscarry in the attainment of our royal aims.

To insure the solidity of these ages and to contribute to world peace is the far-sighted policy which was formulated by our great, illustrious imperial grand-sire's and our great imperial sire's experience, and which we lay constantly to heart to cultivate friendship among nations and to enjoy prosperity in common with all nations.

It has been truly unavoidable and far from our wishes that our Empire has now been brought to crossed swords with America and Britain. More than four years have passed since China, failing to comprehend the true intentions of our Empire, and recklessly causing trouble, disturbed the peace of East Asia and compelled our Empire to take up arms.

Although there has been re-established the National Government of China, with which Japan has effected neighborly intercourse and cooperation, the regime that has survived at Chungking, relying upon American and British protection, continues its opposition.

Sage for the realization of their ambitions to dominate the Orient, both America and Britain, by supporting the Chungking regime, have aggravated disturbances in East Asia. Moreover, these two powers, inducing other countries to follow suit, increased military preparations on all sides of our Empire to challenge us. They have obstructed by every means our peaceful commerce and finally resorted to a direct severance of economic relations menacing gravely the existence of our Empire.

Patiently have we waited and long have we endured in the hope that our government might retrieve the situation in peace, but our adversaries, showing not the least spirit of conciliation, have unduly delayed a settlement and in the meantime they have intensified the economic and political pressure to compel our Empire to submit.

This turn of affairs would, if left unchecked, not only nullify our Empire's efforts to stabilize East Asia, but also endanger the very existence of our nation.

The situation being such as it is, our Empire, for its existence and self-defense, has no other recourse but to appeal to arms and to crush every obstacle in its path.

We rely upon the loyalty and courage of our subjects in our confident expectation that the task bequeathed by our forefathers will be carried forward and that the sources of evil will be speedily eradicated and an enduring peace established in East Asia, preserving thereby the glory of our Empire.

NY Times: Greenland Is Melting Away

By CORAL DAVENPORT, JOSH HANER, LARRY BUCHANAN and DEREK WATKINS

This river is one of a network of thousands at the front line of climate change.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The deceptive shock-headline, along with the psychologically manipulative shock-photo of "melting Greenland", dominate the front page of Sulzberger's Slimes. The headline and photo are intended to implant the illusion of a massive, Global Warming TM caused meltdown of the icy northern landmass. Weak-minded libtards will surely wet their pink panties over this shocking bit of "evidence". Between sips of their Starbucks lattes they will shriek: "Look! The ice is melting in Greenland!"

Calm down girly-boys and manly-girls. It's called a river -- you know, a flowing body of water usually fed by melting snow and ice. A photo of a flowing river in Greenland is no more indicative of Global Warming TM than an image of the Hudson River flowing beneath the George Washington Bridge. Yes, you heard right! Greenland has, and has always had, thousands of rivers -- and happy inhabitants too! Of course, most of the huge island is uninhabitable -- but it ain't all Antarctic-ish either. Nothing to be alarmed about here; but shame on Sulzberger's

Slimes for frightening their child-like readers with such out-of-context imagery and hype.

Greenland is an autonomous country with 58,000 inhabitants, a Queen and a Prime Minister. We ought therefore not be shocked by images of fast-flowing rivers, seasonal melting and greenery.

As for the accompanying article, some of it is just a rehash of typical pseudo-scientific alarmist dog crap. For example, a Professor Laurence C. Smith, head of the geography department at UCLA, and the leader of the team that worked in Greenland this summer, makes the following shock claims:

“The rivers melt down faster than the surrounding ice, like a knife through butter.”

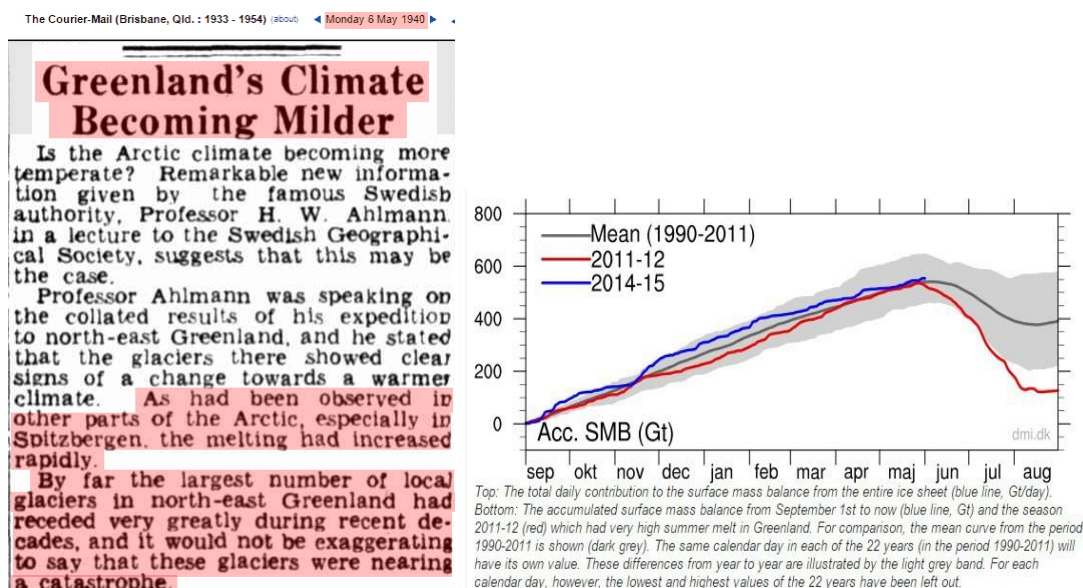

And ---

“The ice sheet is porous, like Swiss cheese. We didn’t know that until this year.”

"Great Scott! The ice is like Swiss Cheese! We shall need more money to study this dangerous phenomenon!"

Note: According to the Danish Meteorological Institute, the ice shelf has slightly expanded over the past 5 years. The article below, from 1940, tells of a warming spell in Greenland.*

But the main subject of the article is not so much about the "science" as it is about the funding cuts for Global Warming TM research that some Republicans are pushing for. Here are a few very telling excerpts from the article, accompanied by some analysis from The Anti-New York Times:

From the story: Each year, the federal government spends about $1 billion to support Arctic and Antarctic research by thousands of scientists like Dr. Smith and his team.

Analysis: One BILLION dollars?! That amount of taxpayer-cash can feed a lot of scientific sluts such as Dr. Smith for a long time! Several state governments, the E.U., the U.N. and various tax exempt Left Wing Foundations and NGO's also fund this gravy train.

From the story: Any cuts could directly affect the work of Dr. Smith and his team, who are supported by a three-year, $778,000 grant from NASA.

Analysis: In other words, if a no-talent punk like Dr. Smith wants to keep eating, he better find some "melting ice-shelves" and frozen "swiss cheese" to scare the commie kiddies with.

From the story: Every scientist, Dr. Smith said, is keenly aware that the research costs "a tremendous amount of taxpayer money."

Analysis: This is known as a "yeah-but". Psychos will often utilize this tactic to patronizingly pacify you, before returning to their original position. The true sentiment expressed here is : "Yeah. Yeah. I know it costs taxpayers a lot of money. But we need it --- so screw you!"

Academic con-men like Dr. Smith and friends should immediately be cut off from the government teat. Better still, they ought to be thrown in Federal prison for fraud. No, scratch that. Prosecute and hang these lying bastards for TREASON! But ultimately, these university usurpers aren't the problem. They amount to little more than hired "expert witnesses" -- similar to the ones that a crooked ambulance-chasing lawyer would use to "prove" his case. Forget Smith, for now. It's the "big boys" that we should focus on -- the ones that even some of the most vocal "skeptics" of Global Warming TM never want to talk about - and we know who those "big boys" are, right?

On Planet Rothschild, all roads lead to the Globalist Crime Syndicate. Global Warming TM is about instituting "carbon taxes", controlling private enterprise, stifling the development of poor countries, and absorbing national sovereignty. Sulzberger's seditious scribblers know this, but the pathetic "intellectuals" who worship the unholy scripture of "the paper of record" do not.

Laurence Smith's apocalyptic 'The World in 2050' was puffed by the Piranha Press. But book-sale income and a fat university salary aren't enough for the profiteering pinko professor. He wants to keep his government grants too!

Boobus Americanus 1: I saw a most disturbing image of Greenland on the front of The New York Times today.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes! I saw that too! The ice is melting so rapidly that it's flowing like a river! And now the damn Republicans want to cut off funding for Global Warming research!

inevitable that Bin Laden would be killed, not captured.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The public acceptance of stories such as "the killing of Osama Bin Laden" demonstrate that the mentally debilitating effects of Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press go beyond mere stupidity and gullibility. Whereas the belief in most media lies is the result of superficiality, stupidity and blind trust -- faith in this singularly transparent fairy tale is truly a sign of insanity.

Apart altogether from the fact that the 9/11 attacks were carried out by clandestine elements of the Israeli and American Defense and Intelligence establishments; and apart from the fact that Bogeyman Bin Laden repeatedly denied any role in the attacks; and apart from the fact that even the Director of the FBI and the Secretary of Homeland Security both admitted that no evidence linking Bin Laden to 9/11 was ever discovered; and apart from the fact that Bin Laden never made another video after the area that he was known to be hiding was bombed to kingdom-come in December 2001 --- the story of the 2011 "raid" in which U.S. Navy Seals were said to have "killed" Bin Laden is supported only by some very, very weird photos and the ridiculous claim that Bin Laden's body was quickly dumped in the ocean out of respect for Muslims (who bury their dead in the ground!).

2002: HS Director Ridge and FBI Director Mueller admitted that neither "Al Qaeda cells" nor a "paper trail" linking Bin Laden to 9/11 could be found.

London Times (2002): "Thousands of FBI agents have rounded up more than 1,300 suspects across America since September 11, but they have failed to find a single Al-Qaeda cell operating in the United States...Tom Ridge, Director of Homeland Security could not explain why none had been caught."

"In our investigation, we have not uncovered a single piece of paper - either here or in the treasure trove of information that has turned up in Afghanistan and elsewhere - that mentioned any aspect of the September 11 plot." - FBI Director Robert Mueller

Predictably, Directors Ridge and Mueller attribute this total lack of any evidence to the skill of the Al - Qaeda "terrorist network".

Let's examine a few excerpts from this latest incarnation and elaboration of the Bin Laden Fairy Tale:

From the article: Weeks before President Obama ordered the raid on Osama bin Laden's compound in May 2011, four administration lawyers developed rationales intended to overcome any legal obstacles — and made it all but inevitable that Navy SEALs would kill the fugitive Qaeda leader, not capture him.

Analysis: If Bogeyman Bin Laden was truly the head of this vast international terrorist operation, why on earth would you deliberately plan in advance to kill him on the spot? It would have been child's play for a team of Navy Seals to gas him, grab him and then put him on a helicopter. Just imagine the inside information that could have been obtained from "the leader of Al Qaeda".

Can it possibly be that the addle-brained masses are not even capable of asking themselves this basic question? Evidently so.

From the article: Stretching sparse precedents, the lawyers worked in intense secrecy. Fearing leaks, the White House would not let them consult aides or even the administration's top lawyer, Attorney General Eric H. Holder Jr. They did their own research, wrote memos on highly secure laptops and traded drafts hand-delivered by trusted couriers.

Analysis: Oh the bloody drama! "Intense secrecy" -- "trusted couriers". Sounds like quite a "conspiracy theory", eh Sulzberger? We wonder which Hollywood script-writer fed this crap to Sulzberger's Slimes?

From the article: Just days before the raid, the lawyers drafted five secret memos so that if pressed later, they could prove they were not inventing after-the-fact reasons for having blessed it. "We should memorialize our rationales because we may be called upon to explain our legal conclusions, particularly if the operation goes terribly badly," said Stephen W. Preston, the C.I.A.'s general counsel, according to officials familiar with the internal deliberations.

Analysis: There it is -- "according to officials familiar with the internal deliberations". Which "officials" revealed these new facts? The article does not say. Typical!

Those "official sources" are at it again.

From the article: While the Bin Laden operation has been much scrutinized, the story of how a tiny team of government lawyers helped shape and justify Mr. Obama's high-stakes decision has not been previously told.

Analysis: The story "has not been previously told" because it was only recently invented. Duh!

The rest of the piece reads like a chapter from some cornball B Level legalistic suspense novel. The most outrageous part are the "iconic" photos which The Slimes boldly resurrected. We say "boldly" because the photos alone should have been enough to discredit the silly story of "The Bin Laden Raid" years ago. That's how bad, how laughable, how amateurishly sloppy these staged photos are.

Take a look:

Bin Laden watching news stories about himself on television in a video image released by the Pentagon in May 2011. Five incriminating videos were "conveniently" found in his compound.

Packed together like sardines, Homo-Obongo, Joe Biden, Killary Clinscum, Robert Gates and others watch a "live video feed" (with blank laptops open?) of the raid that killed Osama bin Laden. Weren't there any bigger and more comfortable rooms available in the grand White House? After 4 years, why can't the rest of us see the video that are looking at? Or at the very least, a still image from the show? Why hasn't the media demanded to see it?

Answer: Because the video doesn't exist!

With regard to the persistent public belief in this particular bit of moronic mythology -- we have already said; this is more than just stupidity and gullibility that we are dealing with here. It is MASS INSANITY! And Boobus Americanus thinks that is we 'conspiracy theorists' who are "crazy"?

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a fascinating piece in The New York Times today about the behind-the-scenes legal maneuvering that led up to the Bin Laden raid in 2011.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's too bad we couldn't catch him alive and get some information out of him before we killed him. Nonetheless, the killing of that monster will go down in history as an important part of Obama's legacy.

"You frickin' cretinss are inssane! Ossama the Innossent was killed in 2001!"

(Sugar, what did you do with that bottle of vodka you finished off yesterday? I want to smash it over one these Boobus's head!)

NY Times: Russian Airliner Crashes in Egypt, Killing 224

By NEIL MacFARQUHAR and MERNA THOMAS

The Kogalymavia flight from the Egyptian resort of Sharm el-Sheikh to St. Petersburg crashed shortly after takeoff, officials said.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

We here at The Anti-New York Times have always been averse to jumping to hasty conclusions. But we have no qualms about quickly forming hypotheses based on preliminary data, possible motives, means, and known historical precedent. With regard to the Halloween crash over Egypt of Russian Airbus A321, operated by Metrojet, we hereby present some pieces of the puzzle that appear, at this point - to lead to a 'conspiracy theory' involving 'the usual suspects' (cough-cough).

A very unusual wreckage pattern for a plane said to have free-fallen out of the sky -- no craters, an intact door standing on its side, and no evidence of fire.

The data points:

1- This "accident" occurred at a time when Russia is pounding the Israeli-U.S. proxy force known as 'ISIS' / ISIL / IS / Daesh' -- (the script writers keep changing their minds on what name to use).

2- The crash date of October 31 (Halloween) is not only symbolic for dark, occult reasons; but it is also the date when Egypt Air Flight 990 crashed into the Atlantic Ocean in 1999 -- while carrying 33 (another cult number) Senior Egyptian military officers. The 'powers-that-be' and the Piranha Press blamed it on 'pilot-suicide'. The Egyptian public blamed it on Mossad.

3- Speaking through the known Israeli operation of SITE (same fake group that somehow manages to obtain all the 'beheading' videos) -- ISIS (Mossad) has claimed credit for the attack on a Russian plane.

4- The images of the wreckage are suspicious as heck (see above)! There is no crater --- just wreckage strewn about on a flat dessert. As an astute reader named 'Dave' noted in an overnight E-mail sent to us:

"Why are there no indentations on the ground for wreckage which fell nearly SIX MILES? Why isn't the debris smashed to LITTLE ITTY BITTY PIECES? Tire track are clearly visible in background..... this was not hard ground.

No smoke discoloration, either, on the white paint job. No crumpled like aluminum foil fuselage pieces, either.

This was staged, or my name ain't Earl J. Wagadorn. Very Pentagon style..... strewn the night before from about 3 ft., not 30,000 ft."

5- The 'mourners' appear to be bad actors -- crisis actors.

From Sandy Hook to Charleston to Malaysia -- the dry-eyed 'hands-to-the-face' routine wows em every time!

The two dry-eyed actresses above were filmed repeatedly. The images scream "FAKE!"

Hypothesis #1: The Zionists actually did obliterate or commandeer a Russian airliner and then used staged props and Russian agent-actors to enhance the drama.

Hypothesis #2: There was no shoot-down / hijack at all --- the whole affair is a fake and Russian traitors are hip-deep in it (Recall the cleverly-staged 'shooting' of Boris Nemtsov?

Either way, false-flag or false-false flag, the strategic move was probably aided and abetted by cells of highly positioned Yeltsin-era 'pro-western' traitors known to exist within the Russian hierarchy. Putin is in a tough position in which he cannot speak the truth or he will be denounced as an "anti-semitic conspiracy theorist", both by the world press and elements of his own Russian traitor-press.

The question is, will Putin pretend to accept the ISIS 'claim' and thus be forced to send in ground troops to appease an angry Russian people? Or will he attempt to defuse the situation by covering up the crash - or non crash as 'an accident'?

One thing is for damn sure --- with US 'boots' already on their way to Syria, somebody wants to U.S. and the Russians to start fighting each other on the ground. And it's the same people who put out those phony SITE videos (cough-cough).

SITE, which claims that ISIS downed the Russian plane, is headed by Rita Katz (cough-cough) --- the same wench who put Just For Men hair-gel coloring in Osama's beard!

Boobus Americanus 1: I understand that ISIS is claiming credit for taking down that Russian airliner.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. They even have video of the event.

"You frickin' cretinss! The Mossad is trying to get the U.Ss. and Russsia to desstroy each other!"

(Sugar is not one for hypothesising.)

By DOUGLAS MARTIN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

If a man can be judged by the degree of fecal filth which the enemies of humanity dump upon his head - even just after his death - then surely, Mr. Willis Carto must rank as a heroic warrior for truth. In its obituary for Carto, Sulzberger's Slimes begins savaging Carto right from the opening line:

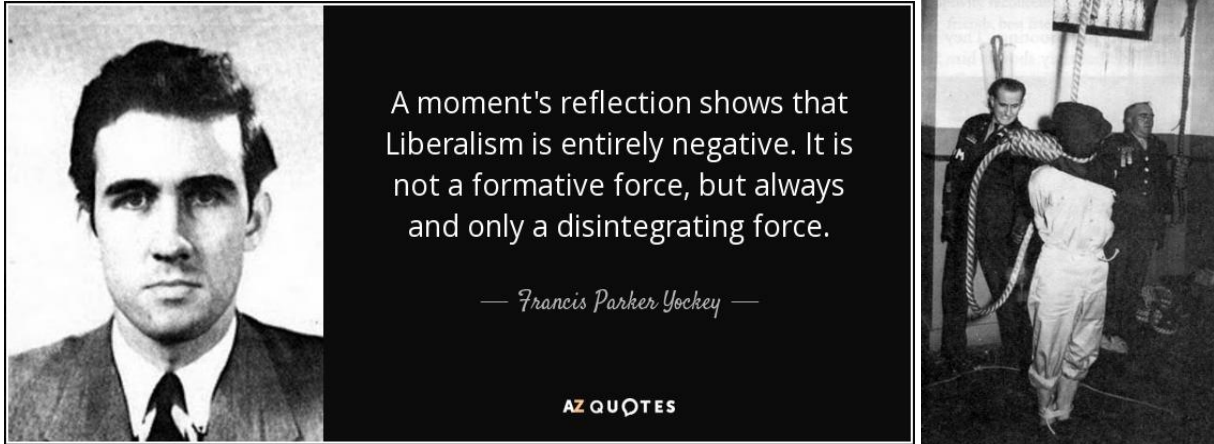

"Willis Carto, a reclusive behind-the-scenes wizard of the far-right fringe of American politics who used lobbying and publishing to denigrate Jews and other minorities and galvanize the movement to deny the Holocaust, died last Monday at his home in Virginia. He was 89."

Translation: Carto was one the great ones.

Willis Carto was born in Fort Wayne, Indiana in 1926. He was wounded twice in fighting in the Philippines during World War II and earned the Purple Heart. After the war, he began his career working for Proctor & Gamble in Cincinnati, then moved to San Francisco where he worked for Household Finance Corporation. By 1950, he had become heavily involved in his true passion - what The Slimes refers to as "right wing causes" (oooooh, sounds so scary!) and started a monthly bulletin called 'Right'.

In 1960, Mr. Carto had a profound experience. He visited a San Francisco jail to interview Francis Parker Yockey, who was being held for the trumped-up charge of 'passport fraud'. Yockey was an embittered lawyer who quit his job as a prosecutor in the post World War II Nuremberg trials because he was disgusted by the tactics of the Allied prosecution. He then dedicated his life to exposing Communism & Zionism. Yockey was either murdered or committed 'suicide' in prison, leaving a note in which he claimed that he was committing suicide (by swallowing poison) in order to protect the anonymity of his political contacts.

1- The cruel and deceitful savagery of Nuremberg affected Yockey so deeply that he quit the effort. The "conspiracy theorist" eventually died under FBI supervision.

2- German Foreign Minister Ribbentrop is hanged after Nuremberg.

Inspired by Yockey's writings, insider revelations and strange death, Carto soon took a forbidden turn to the "anti-Semitic" Right. Among the educational and activist organizations which Carto founded were, the Liberty Lobby, which published the 'Spotlight' newspaper, maintained a mailing list of more than 300,000, and eventually broadcast on 470 radio stations.

In 1978, Carto started the Institute for Historical Review to spread a revisionist view of the Holocaust TM through its glossy, heavily footnoted Journal of Historical Review and conferences of historians from the U.S. and Europe. Dismissing the Holocaust TM as "atrocious propaganda," the Institute offered a reward of $50,000 to anyone who could prove that Jews had been gassed at Auschwitz. Though there were plenty of insults hurled toward Carto, there were no takers to the generous offer!

Amid allegations of "financial fraud", Carto was forced out of the Institute of Historical Review in the mid-1990s. Not surprisingly, the new IHR has since watered down its position on Holocaust TM. Carto eventually lost The Spotlight, but replaced it with The American Free Press. He also started another publication, The Barnes Review, named after the great revisionist historian, Harry Elmer Barnes.

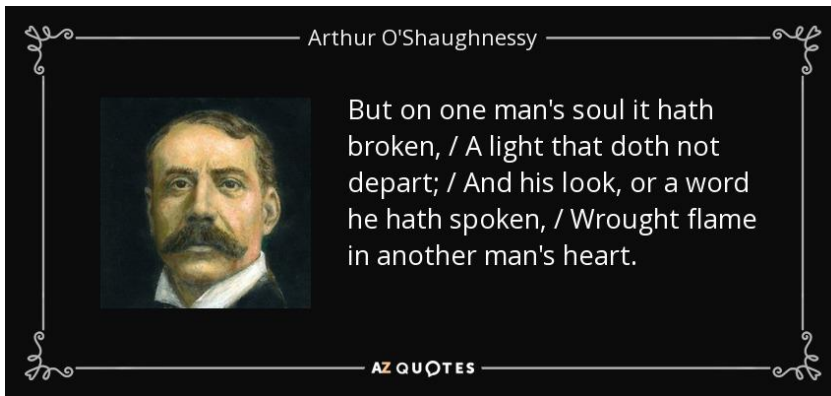

Harry Elmer Barnes -- his work also inspired Willis Carto

As Francis Parker Yockey opened the eyes of Willis Carto, so too did Carto open the eyes of many others. Indeed, were it not for the trail-blazing work and courage of men Willis Carto and David Irving, your intellectually liberated reporter here might still be hanging on Rush Limbaugh's every utterance!

It's a weird kind of funny how the flame of truth can be suppressed, but never fully extinguished, isn't it? Yockey & Barnes begat Carto -- Carto, in part, begat TomatoBubble / Anti-New York Times (and many others) -- and TomatoBubble has enlightened many of you (so say many of the grateful E-mails that we receive).

Now, it's up to YOU to not only keep the flickering flame of truth alive in your own heart, but to keep passing the torch until it one day becomes an inferno again. Godspeed Mr. Carto; and give Saint Adolf a big hug from Sugar and me.

Spread the word about sites like TomatoBubble.com and The Barnes Review

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an obituary in The New York Times today. The notorious holocaust denier Willis Carto just died.

Boobus Americanus 2: I didn't know that anti-Semite still alive all this time. Hopefully, his hateful ideology will die with him.

"As long as I have breath left in me, I will keep hissing out the truth to all who will listen -- including you two brain-dead cornballss!"

NY Times: A Mass Migration Crisis, and It May Yet Get Worse

By ROD NORDLAND

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Reading between the lines of this story of the shocking scope of the Turd World invasion of Europe; one can almost sense the demonic glee with which the Slimes editors ran this story. The elements of the piece which describe both the invasion and what is still to come are, sad to say, accurate assessments. Where the article fails (intentionally, of course) is in its omissions and false explanations as to why the invasion is happening and, most of all, who is behind it (cough cough).

1- Barbara Lerner Specter: "We Jews are going to be at the center of Europe's transformation (to multiculturalism)"

2- Specter's "migrant" friends are fueling an epidemic of violence and rape in formerly peaceful Sweden; an emasculated nation of only 10,000,000 with a birth rate below replacement and 100,000 + virile, fertile immigrants pouring in each year.

Let's examine some selected excerpts and fill in the blanks.

Slimes: There are more displaced people and refugees now than at any other time in recorded history — 60 million in all — and they are on the march in numbers not seen since World War II. They are coming not just from Syria, but from an array of countries and regions, including Afghanistan, Iraq, Gaza, even Haiti, as well as any of a dozen or so nations in sub-Saharan and North Africa.

Analysis: Does anyone think to ask how so many piss-poor people were able to cross thousands of miles of desserts, mountain ranges and, in the case of Haitians, whole oceans to get to Europe? They certainly could not have marched on foot! Who is transporting them? Who is feeding them? Who is organizing and financing this sudden mass movement? To what end? The article doesn't say.

Slimes: They are unofficial ambassadors of failed states, unending wars, intractable conflicts.

Analysis: The article does not explain why the states in question "failed"; nor who orchestrated all of the "endless wars" and "intractable conflicts".

Slimes: The most striking thing about the current migration crisis, however, is how much bigger it could still get.

Analysis: Yes, now that the "migrants" realize just how easy it is to stroll across the Sahara Dessert and raft across the Mediterranean Sea, everybody is going to be doing it. "You can do it grand-mom! Just 2000 more miles and we'll be in Belgium!"

Slimes: What if Islamic State militants are not beaten back but continue to extend their brutal writ across Iraq and Syria?

Analysis: And who exactly is funding, arming and training these "Islamic militants"? The U.S. isn't even hiding the truth about its support for the "moderate rebels" anymore.

McCain the Insane meets with members of the "Free Syrian Army" -- Why is the direct cause & effect of America's OPEN support for Syrian "rebels" never discussed as the root cause of the Syrian part of the refugee crisis.

Slimes: What if the Taliban continue to increase their territorial gains in Afghanistan, prompting even more people to flee? A quarter of Afghans told a Gallup Poll that they want to leave, and more than 100,000 are expected to try to flee to Europe this year.

Analysis: And who exactly was it that blew up somewhat-stable Afghanistan under the pretext of "getting Bin Laden" -- the mythical mastermind behind the U.S. - Israeli engineered attacks of 9/11?

Slimes: There are between six million and eight million people displaced in Syria, along with more than four million Syrian refugees in Lebanon, Turkey and Jordan.

Analysis: And who exactly was it that orchestrated the "rebels" that blew up once-stable Syria? Hint: Same gang that blew up the World Trade Center.

Slimes: Ancient minority groups like the Yazidis of Iraq are already homeless, as are many small communities of Assyrian, Nestorian and Chaldean Christians from northern Iraq.

Analysis: And who exactly was it that not only blew up once-stable Iraq, but has since infiltrated 'ISIS' into that doomed country?

Slimes: While the flow of migrants to Europe this year already represents the biggest influx from outside the Continent in modern history, many experts warn that the mass movement may continue and even increase — possibly for years to come. “We are talking about millions of potential refugees trying to reach Europe, not thousands,” Donald Tusk, the President of the European Council, said in a recent Twitter posting.

Analysis: Former Polish Prime Minister and EU Council President Tusk is an arch-criminal Globalist. The obliteration of Europe's borders and culture are exactly what scum like him and Merkel want.

The ambitious Tusk has hitched his wagon to CIA superstar Merkel.

Slimes: Many of the migrants are fleeing persecution, poverty, ethnic and religious strife and war, but these afflictions are often symptoms of more profound changes.

In the Middle East and Africa, borders drawn by Ottoman dynasts and European colonialists are breaking down as the autocratic Arab states that enforced a grim peace for generations continue to implode.

Analysis: The "autocratic Arab states" are "imploding", in large part, as the result of the CIA-orchestrated 'Arab Spring' uprisings.

Slimes: As traditional lines of authority break down, militant groups like the Islamic State and Boko Haram, in Nigeria, seek to fill the vacuum while minority sects and ethnic groups suffer unspeakable treatment at their hands.

Analysis: "Islamic State and Boko Haram" = CIA/Mossad and CIA/Mossad

Slimes: While Yemenis have yet to abandon their homeland in substantial numbers, their plight is worsening daily amid wartime shortages of food and medicine and persistent bombardment by Saudi warplanes.

Analysis: The war in Yemen, brought to Yemen by the scummy Saudis, with the blessing of their U.S. and Israel masters.

Slimes: Yemen is not much farther away from Europe than Eritrea, now the biggest source of African refugees, just across the Red Sea, and at some 25 million it is as populous as Afghanistan.

Analysis: Eritrea for 25 million, eh? Sure. Why not? Bring em in!

Slimes: Nor is it only the Middle East and North Africa that European leaders need to consider. The Gallup Poll, based on data compiled from more than 450,000 interviews in 151 nations from 2009 to 2011, found that in Nigeria, which already has double the population of Germany, 40 percent of people would emigrate to the West if they could. And the lesson of 2015 — for them and much of the world — is that they can.

Analysis: So, 40% of Nigeria's 180 million people want to come to Europe. That's only about 70 million. Hello Nigeria! Come on up!

Welcome to Europe!

Slimes: Climate change, too, is roiling societies across the Middle East and Africa. large areas of sub-Saharan Africa are becoming uninhabitable. With rising sea levels, a single typhoon in the Bay of Bengal could drive millions of Bangladeshis from their homes in low-lying coastal areas and render that land uninhabitable, too.

Analysis: Well, we all know that the big bad White Man and his internal combustion engine are the culprits behind Global Warming TM -- so it is only fair that the homeless of the Turd World should be dumped into Europe (and America).

Ironically, it is the Global Warming TM scam itself that is being used to block poor countries from developing. This also contributes to the 'migrant crisis'.

Slimes: While the migrant crisis has inspired a backlash among Europe's right-wing nationalist parties....

Analysis: Let us hope that "right wing backlash" continues to grow as the libtards of Europe come to their senses (but don't hold your breath on that one)

Slimes: ... authorities say the problem is still manageable. "We need to keep our perspective on the numbers," said Alexander Betts, who heads the Refugee Studies Center at Oxford University.

"If Lebanon can host one million Syrians, despite being the size of Maryland, a region the size of Europe should be able to host millions."

Analysis: You can 'bet' that Mr. Betts won't be adopting any migrants into his exclusive home or neighborhood!

Slimes: “Throughout Europe, xenophobia and open racism are running rampant, and nationalist, even far-right parties are gaining ground,” Joschka Fischer, the former German foreign minister, wrote recently in an article that appeared on Project Syndicate, an online news service.

Analysis: "Xenophobia" and "open racism" --- typical Communist clichés from a known "ex-Marxist" - Joschka Fischer (possible crypto cough-cough).

Slimes: Those stresses pose a challenge for the future, experts say, because the flow is unlikely to ebb anytime soon.

“I don’t think this wave can stop,” said Sonja Licht of the International Center for Democratic Transition. “It can maybe from time to time be somewhat less intensive, we simply have to prepare. The global north must be prepared that the global south is on the move, the entire global south. This is not just a problem for Europe but for the whole world.”

Analysis: “I don’t think this wave can stop.” -- There it is! Straight from the mouth of Serbian-based Sonja Licht (definite cough cough) - a known agent of N.W.O. Kingpin, George Soros (cough cough -- phlegm phlegm).

The lovely and gracious Sonja Licht works for George Soros' ICDT.

Lord have mercy! Can it possibly be any more obvious that the Jewish Supremacists are, in broad frickin' daylight, intending to genocide European man in his own house? And let there be no comforting delusion about the 'Final Solution to the White Question' that is in store for the White Man. This is not going to end with a quiet blending out / dying out of the European genomes. When the curtain rises for the final act of the Monster Plot, with childless sports-addicted feminized European man outnumbered and weakened by old age; the long-awaited frenzied genocide of the non-connected White man, and the rape-mating of the White woman, WILL happen worldwide. (The elite Whites and Jews will keep their bloodlines intact as they lord over a mixed race planet of oblivious tax and debt slaves.)

Sons of Rome! Sons of Gaul! Sons of Britannia! Sons of the Greeks, Celts, Vikings and Goths. Turn off the dadgum football games and smell the genocide cooking. You had better grow a damn pair and resist today, or you will be dead tomorrow. Believe it!

1 & 2 - The artwork for Israel Zangwill's 1908 Broadway play, 'The Melting Pot' spells out the Jewish Supremacist agenda. It's not about "tolerance" and "diversity". The game is about wiping out Whites.

3- Wall Street banker Jacob Schiff was one of the early founders of the NAACP.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that as many as 60 million migrants may be on the move and heading for the U.S. and Europe.

Boobus Americanus 2: 60,000,000 MILLION?! Oh sh!t! --- I mean, --- I wish them all the best.

"You had it right the first time, Boobus #2! To hell with political correctness. Always go with your first instinct. I do."

NY Times: Death Rates Rising for Middle-Aged White Americans, Study Finds

By GINA KOLATA

Increases in mortality rates due to suicide and substance abuse rose in parallel with increasing reports of pain, poor health and distress.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

More bad news for the White Man. As if the plunging birth rates, the incitement against all things White, and the Turd World invasion of his countries weren't enough, now comes confirmation of what your intuitive reporter here has suspected for some time now -- White men, in growing numbers, are dying young. The main manifestation of this epidemic of despair is suicide, both the instant variety (gun shots, bridge jumping, gas inhalation etc.); and also the drawn-out variety (drugs, alcohol abuse, overeating).

Oh the psychotic joy with which Sulzberger's Satanic scribblers decided to front-page this research! From the sobering piece:

"... rising annual death rates among this group are being driven not by the big killers like heart disease and diabetes but by an epidemic of suicides and afflictions stemming from substance abuse: alcoholic liver disease and overdoses of heroin and prescription opioids."

The mortality rate for whites 45 to 54 years old with no more than a high school education increased by 134 deaths per 100,000 people from 1999 to 2014.

"It is difficult to find modern settings with survival losses of this magnitude," wrote two Dartmouth economists, Ellen Meara and Jonathan S. Skinner, in a commentary to the Deaton-Case analysis to be published in Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

“Wow,” said Samuel Preston, a professor of sociology at the University of Pennsylvania and an expert on mortality trends and the health of populations, who was not involved in the research. “This is a vivid indication that something is awry in these American households.”

Stay strong, brother. Stay strong.

The piece itself, and the study which it cites, seem to be soundly based upon hard numbers. No political twist here. But where the researchers fail is in their oblivious attempts to come up with an explanation. Again, from the article:

"It is not clear why only middle-aged whites had such a rise in their mortality rates. Dr. Meara and Dr. Skinner, in their commentary, considered a variety of explanations — including a pronounced racial difference in the prescription of opioid drugs and their misuse, and a more pessimistic outlook among whites about their financial futures — but say they cannot fully account for the effect."

"Not clear?" Leave it to a pair of number-crunching Ivy League 'intellectuals' to not be able to see what lies right under their noses. Newsflash professors! White men are killing themselves because this sick and diseased society that Marxists and feminists have created has rendered them emasculated and powerless. Sick societies create broken men (women too), and broken men neglect or kill themselves.

"No fault" divorce and the Jewdicial system have destroyed millions of fathers.

Dr. Meara and Dr. Skinner, we humbly suggest that you dig a bit deeper and find out how many of these prematurely deceased men were divorced, court-abused, financially raped, and vindictively estranged from their children. Men like 'Bill', a former co-worker of your reporter whose adulterous wife not only ditched him because he was "boring", but refused to marry her scumbag 'lover' because she wanted to keep her alimony payments. After 4 years of court-imposed financial extortion, drinking, hair loss, and estrangement from his daughter, Bill did himself in with garage fumes.

Dr. Meara and Dr. Skinner, find out how many of these men were never even married to begin with -- perhaps because they couldn't support a wife and children in this low wage debt and tax economy; or perhaps they weren't deemed 'marriage material' by the millions of modern (and also depressed) sluts which our Hollywood culture is producing.

The pain of an unfulfilled and lonely life can wear on a man -- particularly if he once 'had it all' and lost it. This sad situation is part of our Marxist culture - a sick society in which the White male has been dispossessed of his country, his home, his money, his woman, his children, his power, and his dignity. That's why he is dying!

The White Man is openly mocked in Jewish-Marxist inspired TV shows and ads. The disrespect often spills over into real life situations.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that the death rates for middle-aged White men have risen substantially.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's awful. I wonder what's causing it? (as he pops his Prozac).

"So assks the poor fool whosse ex-wife cleaned him out and whosse company passsed him over for a promotion in favor of a 'minority'."

(Sugar, if you can get that temper of yours under control, you'll make a fine traditional cat wife one day.)

Wash Post: Does Iran's anti-Semitism run too deep for deterrence?

BY GEORGE WILL

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

We break away from rebutting Sulzberger's Slimes today to instead respond to an opinion piece that recently appeared in the almost-as-influential Washington Compost - and was carried by many other newspapers nationwide.

Readers / subscribers to The Anti-New York Times are constantly sending in E-mail items or ideas that they want your intrepid reporter and his feline sidekick here to research and write about. It's impossible to accommodate most of these requests while maintaining The Anti-New York Times, regular TomatoBubble updates and periodic books and booklets. So, please don't take it personally if we don't respond to your suggestion.

However, one recent request, from reader 'K.D.' really caught our attention. He asked us to rebut one of nationally syndicated columnist George Will's recent hit pieces -- insisting that it was exceptionally bad and must not go unchallenged. So, out of respect and curiosity, we took a look, even though there wasn't any intention of doing a full scale, patented Mike & Sugar the Cat smack-down.

Well, just a few lines into Will's putrid piece of propaganda, we quickly realized that K.D. wasn't kidding! Even by the low standards of that grossly overrated sophist, his pseudo-psychoanalysis on Hitlerian & Iranian "anti-Semitism" TM really floored us. It's time for this erudite egghead, this pompous propagandist, this odious orator, to be taken to TomatoBubble's woodshed, and spanked with a barbed-wired verbal cable until he cries for that bitch of an elitist mother who raised such a deceitful little warmongering psychopath.

Hazmat suits on everybody -- into George Will's cesspool we go!

Sophist: A well-spoken person who reasons with clever but fallacious arguments

The silver-tongued bow-tied bull-shiner is about to get a vicious beat down.

Does Iran's anti-Semitism run too deep for deterrence?

By GEORGE WILL October 30, 2015

PHOTO ANALYSIS: We think the photo, which opens for the Will piece, is awesome. But in the reactive minds of millions of pink panty-wetting worshippers of American newspapers, the Washington Compost's manipulative linking of The Great One to a story about Iran's "anti-Semitism" TM serves the purpose of "proving" Iran's evil intentions. What a dirty way to set the table for the written filth that is to follow.

WILL: Yale University historian Timothy Snyder is indebted to Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, who recently made Snyder's new book even more newsworthy than his extraordinary scholarship deserves to be.

ANALYSIS: There are four affiliations that you need to be aware of regarding this 'historian', Professor Timothy Snyder (cough cough), that Will is puffing-up.

1. Yale 2. London School of Economics and Politics 3. Oxford 4. Harvard

In short, sight unseen, we already know that Snyder produces Globalist-Zionist garbage.

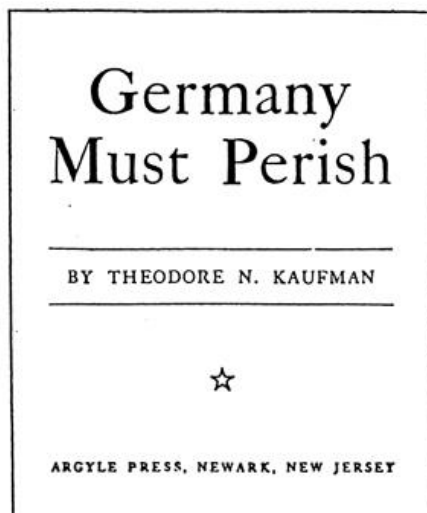

Ivy League "scholars" like Timothy Snyder are a dime-a-dozen deceivers.

WILL: And Netanyahu is indebted to Snyder, whose theory of Hitler's anti-Semitism is germane to two questions: Is the Iranian regime's anti-Semitism rooted, as Hitler's was, in a theory of history that *demand*s genocide?

ANALYSIS: "Hitler-Hitler-Hitler." Oh if your pan-handling reporter here had a Federal Reserve Note for every time one of these seditious scribblers dropped Hitler's name!

The fact of the matter is -- Hitler, Hitler, Hitler never spoke nor wrote in favor of "genocide". His racist theory of history did indeed call for the preservation of the Aryan peoples, but never did he "demand genocide" of other peoples. If Will and Snyder want to find an example of people "demanding genocide", then perhaps they ought to dust off an Old Testament (Book of Esther, for example) or find a translated version of the Talmud.

Theodore Kaufman's 1939 'Germany Must Perish' will also do the trick.

Must Kill Every German, Paris Cleric Warns Flock

New York Times News Service
Paris, France—Some idea of the temper of Paris during the struggle for liberation can be gained from a sermon preached a week ago Sunday in a Paris church. To a congregation made up largely of people who had spent the previous night fighting the Germans behind barricades, the clergyman said:

"There is one thing that we must not forget right now; that is, that this war is not ended. It is not enough to win a victory. We saw that in 1918. What remains to be done is to kill every German."

"It often happens that, when a war has been won and victory has been assured, our minds soften. Let us pray God to have the strength and courage to go on to the end. Every bullet must kill its Boche, every bomb must find its target. There must be no distinction between soldiers and civilians in the destruction of men, women and children. For we speak of a damned race."

"Once the destruction is over, legal minds may come, if they like, to establish international organizations that will perhaps be of some use—I do not know. But, in any case, the Germans who are already dead will be unable to fight again, or to multiply. I know that, when I speak as I do, I preserve the spirit of the Bible—at least of the Bible that is read from beginning to end and not only in its soft and gentle passages. Because God is as terrible toward the evil as he is kind toward the good and humble."

"Let us therefore pray to God to exercise his severity against this people, to send it disasters and floods worse than anything until now; punishments more terrible than the 10 plagues of Egypt. Let their towns be more completely destroyed than Jerusalem. The object is to finish for all time with those whom, mindful of certain passages in the holy Bible, I may rightly call the damned Boche, the damned swinish Boche. So be it."

Although it was in a church, the congregation applauded.

Who wants genocide?

WILL: If so, when Iran becomes a nuclear power, ...

ANALYSIS: Georgie, we have been hearing that same old song about Iran "becoming a nuclear power" for the past 30 years now. Just stop it already! Even most specimens of Boobus Americanus as well as many Jews are openly laughing at this 'conspiracy theory' of Iran's imminent nuking of nuclear-armed and U.S.-protected Israel.

WILL: ... can it be deterred from its announced determination to destroy Israel?

ANALYSIS: We must have missed the grand "announcement". Georgie-girl; please quote and source for us this "announced determination to destroy Israel". Do it NOW! -- Thank you.

(And don't even go there with that deliberately misquoted / mistranslated "wipe Israel off the map" nonsense.)

WILL: Netanyahu recently asserted, again, that a Palestinian cleric was important in Hitler's decision to murder European Jews. Netanyahu said that on Nov. 28, 1941, when Hitler supposedly preferred to expel Europe's Jews rather than exterminate them, Haj Amin al-Husseini, grand mufti of Jerusalem, met with Hitler and urged him to "burn them."

ANALYSIS: George, your boy Bibi Satanyahu was scoffed at - again, even by many Jews - for making such a baseless claim about what the Grand Mufti said to Hitler, Hitler, Hitler. You're not seriously giving any credence to that warmongering nutter's claims, are you?

WILL: Certainly the mufti favored genocide; he certainly was not important in initiating it.

ANALYSIS: You use the definitive word: "certainly". How do you know that "certainly, the Mufti favored genocide"? Were you at the meeting? Can you produce an actual tape-recording or stenographer transcript of the Hitler-Mufti conversation? Offer evidence NOW or speak no further!

Funny -- but neither Will nor Satanyahu appears to have been present at the Hitler-Mufti meeting. Perhaps 6-month-old baby Georgie is hiding behind the Mufti's chair?

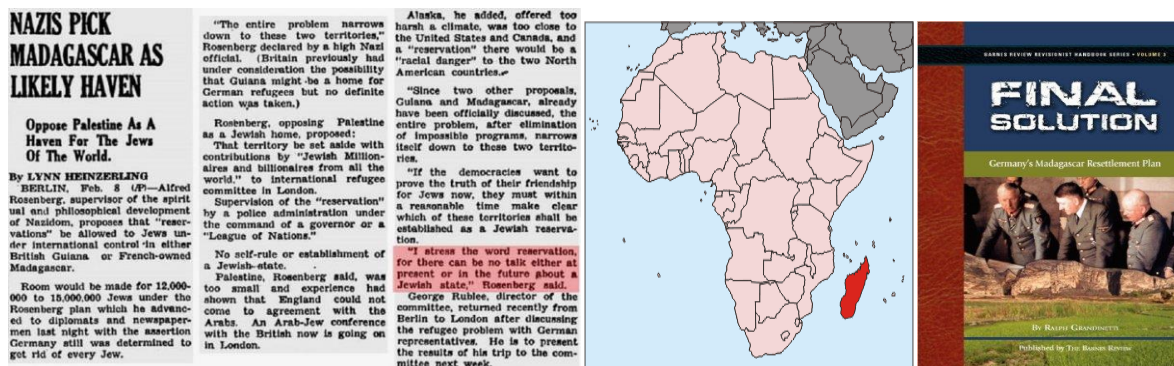

WILL: Mass murder — the Holocaust — accompanied the German army, especially after the September 1939 outbreak of war, and especially after the June 1941 invasion of the Soviet Union.

ANALYSIS: Notice how Will, after having slickly preceded his lie with the word "certainly", smoothly transitions away from the subject of the Hitler-Mufti conversation. Dim-witted readers will roll on with a foundational lie embedded in their subconscious. Again, Georgie-girl, we must insist, -- produce an actual transcript of the Hitler-Mufti conversation NOW!

WILL: Granted, it was not until the January 1942 Wansee Conference that the "final solution" became explicit.

ANALYSIS: Actually, George, there was NOTHING "explicit" about the Wansee Conference and its use of the vague term "final solution" (to the Jewish Question). For example, a boss and his advisers may speak of "a final solution to the question of John Doe" - a poorly performing employee. John Doe may soon be fired, but that doesn't mean they are going to murder him!

The "Final Solution" was a reference to the expulsion of Jews from Europe and their resettlement in sunny Madagascar. Many Jews were actually excited about the idea!

WILL: But by the time Hitler met the mufti, approximately 700,000 Soviet Jews had been shot.

ANALYSIS: Where are the bodies? Where are the mass graves? Ya got anything more credible than the shock claims of Stalin's 'Extraordinary Commission', Georgie? It is absolutely inconceivable that a propaganda master such as Stalin would not, upon retaking the territory, have invited the Red Cross and the Western Press to come and photograph the evidence of "700,000 (dead) Soviet Jews".

Now, there were indeed isolated cases (but not 700,000!) of non-uniformed Red and Jewish Partisan terrorists who were summarily executed by the SS. But they were not killed because they were Jewish. They, both Jew and non-Jew alike, were executed because they themselves tortured and murdered German prisoners.

WILL: Snyder, not Netanyahu, should be heeded concerning the Holocaust's genesis.

ANALYSIS: "Holocaust - hoocaust - holocaust". OK. Let's hear what Snyder has to say about "the Holocaust's genesis".

WILL: Attempts to explain Hitler's obsession with Jews began with the idea that he was unfathomable, a lunatic "Teppichfresser" (carpet eater). The comforting theory was that no theory can explain Hitler because he was inexplicable, a monster, a phenomenon without precedent or portent.

ANALYSIS: These "attempts to explain Hitler's obsession with Jews" originated with Jewish 'scholars' and psycho-babblers.

WILL: In 1996, however, Daniel Goldhagen's book "Hitler's Willing Executioners: Ordinary Germans and the Holocaust" argued that the explanation for the genocide was acculturation — centuries of German conditioning by the single idea of "eliminationist anti-Semitism."

ANALYSIS: The problem with Daniel Goldhagen's (cough cough) theory of "centuries of German conditioning" is that "anti-Semitism" TM has existed in many other places throughout history and loooong before Hitler, Hitler, Hitler was ever even born -- ancient Egypt, ancient Persia, ancient Greece, ancient Rome, Spain, Portugal, England, France, Holland, the various Kingdoms of Italy, Russia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, the Arab world and then some.

WILL: This cognitive determinism reduced Hitler to a mere catalyst who unleashed a sick society's cultural latency.

ANALYSIS: "Hitler - Hitler - Hitler". Leave that man alone already!

George, you and Goldhagen are full of crap. The fact of the matter is, as even Holocaust TM "scholars" admit, that during the half-century between Chancellor Bismarck (founder of modern unified German state) and Hitler, Hitler, Hitler -- the Jews were accepted and thriving in "sick" Germany. By 1930, as many as 40% of German Jews were "marrying out" to native Germans. Jews enjoyed full citizenship rights as far back as the 1870's, and "anti-Semitism" TM existed only on the fringe margins of society.

It wasn't "cultural latency" that triggered "anti-Semitism" TM -- it was something else that Will dares not talk about.

From the days of Bismarck throughout the first 30 years of the 20th Century, the tolerant and decent Germans treated the Jews very well -- and the Jews did indeed prosper in a BIG way! A Jewish Student Union in Germany is shown above / 1900.

So, what went wrong?

WILL: This drew a rejoinder from Christopher Browning, author of “Ordinary Men” (1992), a study of middle-aged German conscripts who became consenting participants in mass-murder police battalions in Poland.

ANALYSIS: What is this nonsense about "mass-murder police battalions in Poland?" Weren't the Jews of Poland rounded-up, then interned and "gassed" at Auschwitz?"

WILL: Browning noted that protracted socialization — centuries of conditioning — could not explain the Khmer Rouge’s murder of millions of Cambodians or the Chinese slaughter of millions of Chinese during Mao’s Cultural Revolution.

ANALYSIS: Now we are analyzing the Khmer Rouge and the Cultural Revolution? It's amusing to hear these "intellectuals" muse endlessly about how many angels can fit on the head of a pin. Those who aren't paid liars are certifiably insane. By the way, this Browning clown also claims that "envy" of the Jews fueled German "anti-Semitism" TM.

WILL: What happened in those places proved the power of an idea — Marxism understood as a mandate to extirpate “false consciousness” — to legitimize, even mandate, mass murder. In “Black Earth: The Holocaust as History and Warning,” published in September, Snyder argues that the Holocaust’s origins have been hidden in plain sight, in ideas Hitler articulated in “Mein Kampf” and speeches.

ANALYSIS: So, after 90 years of researchers analyzing every dotted 'i' and crossed 't' of Hitler, Hitler, Hitler's 'Mein Kampf' (oooooh, sounds scary!), Snyder has finally cracked the riddle of the Holohoax -- and it was "hidden in 'plain sight'" all along! Do tell.

WILL: Snyder presents a Hitler more troubling than a madman, a Hitler implementing the logic of a coherent worldview. His life was a single-minded response to an idea so radical that it rejected not only the entire tradition of political philosophy but also the possibility of philosophy, which Hitler supplanted by zoology.

ANALYSIS: So, Hitler, Hitler, Hitler was "more troubling than a mad man" and his views were based on "zoology". Interesting! Professor Snyder; this has Pulitzer and Nobel Prize written all over it!

Hitler the mad "zoologist" -- Brilliant psychoanalysis!

WILL: "In Hitler's world," Snyder writes, "the law of the jungle was the only law." The immutable structure of life casts the various human races as separate species. Only races are real and they are locked in mutual and unassuageable enmity, in Hitler's mind-set, because life is constant struggle over scarcities — of land, food and other necessities.

ANALYSIS: When one reads 'Mein Kampf' - and all of Hitler, Hitler, Hitler's writings - closely and within full context, it becomes very clear that Hitler, Hitler, Hitler's references to "racial struggle" are spoken within the context of European / Aryan self-defense and survival.

As a self-taught learned historian of the highest rank, Hitler, Hitler, Hitler understood the deadly nature of the never-ending racial assault against the peoples of Europe. At varying times, Moors, Mongols, Tatars, Turks, Arabs, Khazars and Huns have sought to subdue and enslave parts of White Christian Europe. Even today, the anti-White hatred emanating from elements of the Turd World migrant hordes is off the charts. That's not "zoology", Georgie-girl -- that's real history!

WILL: One group, however, poisoned the planet with another idea. To Hitler, says Snyder, "It was the Jew who told humans that they were above other animals, and had the capacity to decide their future for themselves."

ANALYSIS: Of course! In attempting to uplift humanity to something higher than animals, the idealistic Jew (Weishaupt, Rothschild, Marx, Trotsky, Liebknecht, Luxemburg, Kuhn, et al) set himself up for 'persecution' by 'mad men' such as the zany zoologist with the funny mustache.

Silly me! And all along we were under the impression that it was things like the Jewish domination of the Communist parties of Europe, the newspapers, the trade unions, the Central Banks, the pornographic cinema and the universities that so alarmed the destitute and desperate Germans of the pre-Hitler, Hitler, Hitler years. Who knew that the revolutionary Marxist Jews were only trying to free the people of Europe from their animal cages?!

NY Times Headline (1918): 'Berlin Seized by Revolutionists'

Communist Jewess leader Rosa Luxemburg and her Red Radicals seized Berlin immediately after Germany's catastrophic collapse at the end of World War I. Jewish-led Reds and Zionists had undermined the war effort for their own purposes. The betrayal came to be known as: 'the-stab-in-the-back'.

German military units were able to save Germany from Communist takeover and genocide. Red Rosa was executed.

WILL: To Hitler, “Ethics as such was the error; the only morality was fidelity to race.” Hitler, who did not become a German citizen until 11 months before becoming Germany’s chancellor, was not a nationalist but a racialist who said “the highest goal of human beings” is not “the preservation of any given state or government, but the preservation of their kind.”

ANALYSIS: So, Hitler, Hitler, Hitler was a monster because he wanted to “preserve his own kind?” Why is that such a sin? Isn't that exactly what Zionist Jews have been obsessed with for many, many centuries?

Heck, one Jewish devotee of The Anti-New York Times (yes, there are a few!) tells of a case of a local Jewish woman whose parents DISOWNED her for marrying an Irish-American -- a 'goy'. After 20 years of a happy union, the innocent kids have never met their Jewish grandparents!

And lest any reader accuse your humble reporter here of 'cherry-picking' an isolated case, have a Google of the term 'Jews disowned for marrying' and see how 'Hitlerian' some of Snyder's Tribesmen can be when it comes to the “preservation of their kind”.

And oh, by the way, Professor Snyder is married to Marci Shore, (cough cough).

WILL: And “all world-historical events are nothing more than the expression of the self-preservation drive of the races.”

ANALYSIS: This is not Hitlerian "zoology". It is historical fact. Even the pre-Columbian American Indian tribes fought each other either to gain advantage or to protect themselves. The same for African tribes and Asiatic sub-groups. It may sound animalistic, tragic and downright primitive -- but it is real history. This is exactly why millions of Turd World migrants are flooding into Europe demanding a house, an income and a car-- and it is also why more and more White Europeans are growing alarmed and finally starting to push back.

WILL: Now, assume, reasonably, that Iran’s pursuit of a potentially genocidal weapon will not be seriously impeded by parchment barriers such as the recent nuclear agreement.

ANALYSIS: What kind of insane leap of logic, what manner of juvenile journalism is this that suddenly takes us from Hitler, Hitler, Hitler's "zoology" to Iran's NON-EXISTENT “potentially genocidal weapon?!”

Of course, Oxford Georgie is neither insane nor juvenile. He is actually - sophism aside - quite intelligent (though not nearly as much as people believe), and just as cunning. This ridiculous connection between Hitler, Hitler, Hitler and Iran is the product of his evil black heart, not an insane mind.

WILL: And assume, prudently, that the Iranian regime means what it says about Jews and their "Zionist entity."

ANALYSIS: "Assume, prudently?" That's actually an oxymoron -- moron! Sorry punk. We at The Anti-New York Times do not "assume" foundational arguments - especially ones built on a lie that is now 30 years old, and counting. That wouldn't be "prudent", as you say.

Please Georgie, state for us, exactly what has "the Iranian regime" ever said about Jews and Israel that would indicate any short term plot to build a nuclear weapon; and a long term plot to launch a nuclear first-strike against Israel. Do it NOW before you blather on any further. -- Oh, and by the way, Georgie, you never did answer our earlier questions about the Hitler, Hitler, Hitler meeting with the Grand Mufti, nor the lack of physical evidence to substantiate the 700,000 "murdered" Soviet Jews, nor the "grand announcement" of Iran's intent to attack Israel with nuclear weapons. One should never hurl accusations without offering supporting evidence, Georgie girl. It's simply not "prudent"

WILL: Then apply Snyder's warning: Ideas have consequences. The idea of anti-Semitism is uniquely durable and remarkably multiform. It can express a mentality that is disconnected, as in Hitler's case, from calculations of national interest.

ANALYSIS: "Uniquely durable and remarkably multiform." -- What a pointy-headed, self-absorbed, cliched dork. Who the hell talks like this?

Sorry Georgie-girl. Your puffed-up platitudes and obsessive lies about Hitler, Hitler, Hitler will not hold up in this court of journalistic truth. Again, we must insist -- state for us, exactly what "the Iranian regime" has ever said about Jews and Israel that would indicate a long term plot to launch a nuclear first-strike against Israel.

WILL: Hence an anti-Semitic regime can be impervious to the logic of deterrence.

ANALYSIS: Projecting again, eh Georgie? It is YOU who are "impervious to the logic" of sound argument -- as your inability to support claims with basic facts clearly indicates. You of all people, the son of a Professor of Philosophy, should know better than to publish such fallacious and unsourced High Schoolish slop. Better bone-up on your Socrates, Georgie.

WILL: Much, including Israel's calculation of what military measures are necessary for its safety, ...

ANALYSIS: There are no military measures necessary for Israel's "safety!" Apart from the fact that both you and Satanyahu know that Iran has no intention of launching a nuclear first strike, Israel's massive nuclear arsenal as well as its defense guarantee from the U.S., would negate any Iranian thought (imaginary as it already is) of launching a suicidal nuclear attack on Israel. Even Iran's mighty allies (China and Russia) would drop Iran like a hot potato in the case of such an event.

Again, the very thought of Iran launching a nuclear surprise attack upon Israel is so preposterous that even many Israelis have ridiculed it as fear-mongering.

WILL: ... depends on the nature of Iran's anti-Semitism.

ANALYSIS: The "nature of Iran's anti-Semitism", eh Georgie-girl? "Anti-Semitism - Anti-Semitism - Anti-Semitism" --- "Holocaust - Holocaust - Holocaust." --- "Hitler - Hitler - Hitler". Can we get a Neville Chamberlain reference thrown in for good measure?

Evidently, Georgie, you have not heard of the loyal Iranian-Jewish leaders who have essentially told Israel to "F-off". Or perhaps you do know about them; but won't acknowledge them because you have sold your lost soul for millions of shekels?

On second thought, Georgie, you are insane, and with a black heart to boot!

What Iranian "anti-Semitism" TM is George Will talking about?

- 1- Iran's loyal Jewish community is happy and has refused Israeli requests to "come home".*
- 2- Iran's former "anti-Semitic" TM President is warmly greeted by non-Zionist Jews in New York.*

January, 2009: Homo Obongo arrives at the stately Maryland home of George Will for his very FIRST DC dinner party. Also dining at the Will residence that evening were "conservative" political pundits David Brooks (cough cough), Charles Krauthammer (cough cough) and Bill Kristol (cough cough)

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a most fascinating column by George Will today in which he draws disturbing parallels between the irrational anti-Semitism of Hitler's Germany and that of modern day Iran.

Boobus Americanus 2: George Will is a rare case of a thoughtful conservative. He is one of the most intelligent contemporary American thinkers.

NY Times: Citing Climate Change, Obama Rejects Construction of Keystone XL Oil Pipeline

By CORAL DAVENPORT

The president's decision was a major victory for environmentalists and a bitter loss for the oil industry.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

In the name of fighting Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM , Homo Obongo has delivered the final death blow to the Keystone Pipeline idea. With his dictatorial decree, thousands of American jobs, which would have been financed by Canada, will not materialize -- as Warren Buffoon, that self-promoting money-junkie with the phony "folksy" image, pops a bottle of celebratory Champagne.

In 2008, the famed Nebraska-based investor endorsed Obongo for President and has remained in his left corner ever since. Buffoon's support provided much-needed protective political cover for the Marxist-in-Chief. Simple minds reasoned that if the "capitalist" Buffoon could support Obongo, then Obongo can't be that much of a radical after all. Buffoon's endorsement was HUGE!

To add credibility to his own class warfare rhetoric, the Red Menace of Pennsylvania Avenue has often cited "The Buffett Rule" (tax hike on rich investors). Homo-Obongo even went so far as to borrow Buffoon's secretary - whose income tax rate is higher than the capital gains tax rate - to use as a pathetic prop during a State of the Union speech. Why the love affair between these two seemingly opposite personages?

.Buffoon's Secretary - with Buffoon's blessing - allows herself to be used as a class-warfare prop at Obongo's State of the Union Address and all over network TV. The game is all about killing the Pipeline that threatens to cut into the action of the money-junkie Buffett.

Here's the deal. In 2009, after a year or so of planning, Warren Buffoon's investment company, Berkshire Hathaway, purchased the Burlington-Northern railroad outright, to the tune of $34 Billion. It was the largest acquisition of Buffoon's investment career. Burlington-Northern ships the oil from Canada on down across the western-central United States. So when the Trans-Canada oil company proposed the construction of the Keystone Pipeline - a project that would create 20,000 construction jobs, Buffoon's stocks stood to suffer a loss -- or, more accurately, not gain as much as expected.

The cunning old fox then, from behind the scenes, started a fake "grass roots" front organization called Bold Nebraska; an environmentalist group. Bold Nebraska has agitated relentlessly against the pipeline deal. The shady group's founding donor (string puller) is Richard Holland - a Berkshire Hathaway business associate and friend of 40 years to Warren Buffoon! Holland serves as "Buffet's Buffer" to conceal 'The Godfather's' hidden hand in killing Keystone.

1- The "instant environmentalist" -- Richard Holland's 'Bold Nebraska' is a Buffoon front group.

2- Krista York-Wooley, Communications Director for Burlington Northern:
"If Keystone doesn't happen, we are here to haul".

With his phony grassroots campaign having long agitated against the Keystone Pipeline from the outside, and his boy Obongo finally killing the pipeline's construction once and for all, Canadian oil will continue to be transported on Buffoon's railroad. This comes with hefty fees and, ironically, at a danger to the environment should a train derail - as is often the case. To cover his dirty hand in this corrupt business, just this past March, Buffoon, after 7 years of cleverly calculated public silence, said that he would like to see the Keystone pipeline built -- this was said as his minions at Bold Nebraska continued to fight against it!

Transporting fuel on trains is dirty and dangerous -- not pipelines!

So you see, the monopolistic capitalist and the Marxist demagogue actually have much in common. Both are degenerate liars and both are CONTROL FREAKS! The strange blocking of the Keystone Pipeline represents the worst of what Ron Paul rightly refers to as "Crony Capitalism" - aided and abetted, as always, by Sulzberger's crony journalism.

"Mr. President. You kill that damn pipeline and I'll endorse your stupid Communist schemes. -- and I'd like a Medal of Freedom too."

Boobus Americanus 1: What did you think about Obama killing the Keystone project?

Boobus Americanus 2: It's the smart move. We need to protect the environment.

"You dolt! That fag issn't protecting the environment! He'ss protecting Warran Buffoon'ss bottom line."

NY Times: A Putin Ally Is Found Dead in a U.S. Hotel

By NICHOLAS FANDOS

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Just one week after the bizarre 'coincidence' of a Russian airliner blowing up over Russia-friendly Egypt - coming just as Russia is bombing the daylight out of CIA-Mossad-ISIS - comes word that a close ally of Vladimir Putin has died of a 'heart attack' in a Washington DC hotel room. Media mogul Mikhail Lesin, just 57, was more than just a member of Bad Vlad's inner circle, he was the founder of Russia Today (RT) -- Russia's widely watched, and much maligned, English language (now also in German) television network. His daughter Catherine leads the RT bureau in the United States.

*In the immortal words of Willie Cici (sunglasses) in Godfather, Part I -- speaking of the sudden heart attack death of another mobster: "No, that was no heart attack."

In establishing a murder hypothesis, it is critical to understand that there is no exaggerating the depth of hatred for RT News by the Western Globalists and their henchmen. The network was intended to counter the lies and libels of the major Western media companies. Mr. Lesin once said. "We need to promote Russia internationally. Otherwise, we'd just look like roaring bears on the prowl."

Truth-seekers everywhere have come to appreciate the refreshing blasts of truth that have emanated from RT over the past decade. Well known Internet 'conspiracy theorists' such as Paul Craig Roberts, Webster Griffin Tarpley, Michael Rivero and Ryan Dawson have all appeared as guests on RT programs. The horrific crimes of the untouchable "State of Israel" are routinely exposed on RT, and even 9/11 truth has been strongly hinted at.

Truthers Dawson, Roberts, Tarpley. Hell would freeze over before any of these men would be allowed to speak on a U.S. News program!

A taste of the hatred:

Secretary of State John Frankenkerry refers to RT as a "propaganda bullhorn."

The oh-so-'presigious' Columbia School of Journalism calls RT "the Kremlin's propaganda outlet".

Newsweek/The Daily Beast: "Putin's propaganda TV"

The Guardian (UK): "Russia's propaganda machine"

Der Spiegel (Germany): "Putin's Weapon of War"

The Spectator (UK): "Putin's Weapon of Mass Deception"

Time Magazine: "Putin's On-Air Propaganda Machine"

The Washington Compost: "Mouthpiece for the Kremlin"

BBC: "State propaganda"

New York Slimes: "A modern propaganda machine"

And those are just a few of the hate-balls that have been thrown at RT by 'elite' journalists and politicians of the "international community". Thanks to RT News and the Internet (on which RT also has a large footprint) the phony narratives about 'the invasion of Crimea' and 'the aggression in eastern Ukraine' have been harder for the Globalists to sell. And boy-oh-boy are they pissed!

In light of these facts, and in light of what we already know about what the various intelligence agencies of the DC-Tel Aviv Axis are indeed capable of, a reasonable person must strongly suspect that the sudden death of Mikhail Lesin was really a 'Sicilians messege' -- from Rothschild to Putin.

Your move, Mr. Putin.

1- Banner created by Canadian liberal group

2- RT promotes itself right in the heart of DC!

3- Borrowing a page from the book of FOX News, RT uses pretty young women to lure in viewers.

Boobus Americanus 1: A close aide to Putin just died in a hotel room.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. He had a heart attack, I understand.

"Heart attack my assssss. They 'Breitbart' him!"

(Neo-con blogger Andrew Breitbart openly boasted that he was about to reveal hard evidence (videos, it is believed) linking a young Homo-Obongo with Communist terrorists -- but then he had a 'heart attack'--)

NY Times: Russian Athletes Part of State-Sponsored Doping Program, Report Finds

By REBECCA R. RUIZ

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Though World War III against Russia' (and China) is still limited to Cold War tactics of propaganda, proxy fights, sanctions and "accidents"; it is getting uglier by the day. It's turning so ugly, in fact, that one can easily envision this thing turning "hot" in the very near future -- thus fulfilling the chilling 2008 prediction of historian Webster Tarpley. Play it again, Webster:

"The project of the next administration, if its Obama, is to smash both Russia and China. People in Europe had better wake up. That sill romantic illusion that they have about Obama is going to be suicidal...Obama's foreign policy is to have a global showdown with Russia and China".

Nobody is laughing at Webster Tarpley's bold prediction now.

We had been expecting the push to remove the 2018 World Cup of Football (Soccer) from Russia - the host nation - under the pretext that Russia was awarded the quadrennial tournament as part of some underhanded deal arranged by FIFA boss, and defender of Putin, Sepp Blatter. That dirty game of pulling the Cup away from Russia remains in effect and might still happen.

But this sudden effort to embarrass Russia and possibly ban Russian athletes from next year's Summer Olympics in Brazil represents an equally bold and aggressive move by the Globalists who control these international competitions. From the article:

"GENEVA — Top Russian athletes, including Olympians and winners of prestigious events like the Chicago marathon, have for years participated in a systematic doping program that involved some of Russia's sports officials, the World Anti-Doping Agency said on Monday.

The agency released a lengthy report here that described a pervasive doping culture among Russia's sports programs, evoking notorious drug regimes like the state-run doping system of East Germany. The report recommended that Russia be suspended from competition by track and field's governing body, and one of its authors said it would encourage the International Olympic Committee to bar Russia's athletic federation from next summer's Rio Olympics."

As if athletes from other nations don't use performance-enhancing substances, or 'doping'!

A Double Standard

Blood clots are often caused by needle injections (steroids). One year after having a blood clot, Serena Gorilliams - who, inexplicably, continues to get bigger, faster, and stronger with age (34) - utterly destroyed her younger Russian opponent to win an Olympic Gold Medal. Where's the investigation?

Incredibly, Interpol (The International Criminal Police Organization) is now working with the World Anti-Doping Agency on this matter. How is that with international human trafficker rings flooding Europe with criminal invaders, and child pornography rings proliferating throughout Europe and America, Interpol is more interested in determining who may or may not be cheating in what are, in the grand scheme of things, meaningless foot races around a track? Interpol's motto - 'Connecting police for a safer world' - tells us all we need to know about this greasy bunch of Globalists.

Should any attempt be made to ban Russian athletes from next year's Olympics, it will mark a major escalation of the Cold War. Nobody in Russia is that stupid to see such an effort as anything other than what it truly is - a pre-meditated spit in Russia's face. Coming on the heels of Homo-Obongo's announced plan to dispatch U.S. Special Forces to Syria; the strange event involving that Russian airliner in Egypt; the mysterious explosions occurring at Chinese and Russian energy / chemical installations; the probable 'heart attack' murder of the founder of RT News; and the ongoing 'South China Sea pop-up cruise' provocations of China -- this latest move is clearly part of a pattern of escalation.

Doesn't Interpol have anything better to do than worry about Russian female track stars?

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Interpol is investigating Russian coaches and athletes for doping.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's shameful. Between this doping scandal and their aggression in Ukraine, they should kick Russia out of the Olympics.

"It'ss not about 'doping' -- you frickin' dopes!"

(Pun intended.)

'VETERANS DAY' FLASHBACK

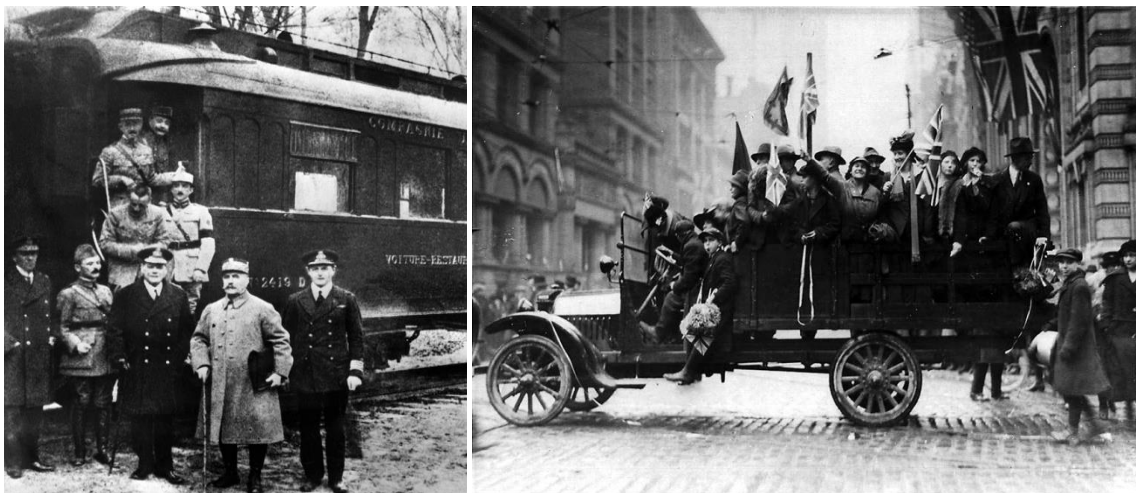

11-11-1918

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Most Americans know November 11 as 'Veterans Day' -- the day we honor the poor chumps who have "died for our freedom" (barf), as well as the living ones who knew not and know not of dark powers that misuse the Department of Offense. But what few people know is that the date originated as, and still coincides with, 'Armistice Day'. The date is commemorated every year on the 11th of November to mark the armistice signed between the Allies of World War I and Germany in a railway carriage at Compiègne, France.

Make a mental note of the famous railway carriage of 11-11-1918. It is where Germany was tricked into capitulating, triggering celebrations throughout France, the U.K. and the U.S.

The official cessation of hostilities on the Western Front of World War I took effect at eleven o'clock in the morning—the "eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month" of 1918. Off topic here for a moment; but three decades later, the Allied 'D-Day' (Devil's Day) invasion of Normandy was launched at the "sixth hour of the sixth day of the sixth month" of 1944 -- 6-6-6. Globalists just love their Satanic symbolism, don't they?

As the above headline of the 1918 Sulzberger's Slimes shows - (yes, even back then, the Ochs-Sulzberger Crime Family owned "the paper of record!") - Berlin was immediately "Seized by Revolutionists" (Communists). Leading the 'German' counterparts of the murderous 'Russian' Bolsheviks who has already seized Petrograd / St. Petersburg and other areas of Russia (October 1917, 'Red October') were Rosa Luxemburg (cough-cough) and Karl Liebknecht (cough-cough).

To make a long story short, the Red Revolution was quickly put down by the brave volunteers of the German 'Freikorps'. Red Rosa and Kommie Karl soon got what was coming to them. In 1919, the bitch was beaten with rifle butts and thrown into a nearby river; while Liebknecht was forced to step out of the car he was being transported in and then shot.

1- Arrogant Communists Luxemburg and Liebknecht strut through Berlin, thinking they were about to brutally lord over defeated Germany. The heroic Freikorps boys put an end to that notion!

2- Freikorps boys party it up after taking care of business. (Wish these MEN would come back and show their pussified great grandsons how to take care of the 'migrants' -- and Merkel too!)

Though spared from Communist takeover, Germany could not be saved from the cruel punishment of the Treaty of Versailles which was to come. The loss of territory, the 'ethnic cleansing' of Western Prussia, the isolation of Eastern Prussia, the hunger, the hyper-inflation, the imposed war guilt, the debauchery and degradation of the Wiemar Republic years and so much more -- it all began with the inexplicable and total surrender of 11-11-18.

We say "inexplicable" because, at the time of the armistice / surrender, not one square inch of German territory had been occupied by the Allies. Though it is certainly true that the tide of war had begun to turn (due to America's entry), there was no need to capitulate so easily -- not when 120,000 Americans had already died after just 7 months of fighting (70,000 combat / 50,000 Spanish Flu / other) with an additional 200,000 wounded!

A certain highly-decorated and twice-injured (badly) war hero was not pleased by the treason of 11-11-1918 and its horrible aftermath. He took to political activism in order to right the wrongs.

"We must call to account the November Criminals of 1918. It cannot be that two million Germans should have fallen in vain and that afterwards one should sit down as friends at the same table with traitors. No, we do not pardon, we demand - Vengeance! "

- Hitler, Munich Speech, September 1922

So, who or what forces prompted Germany's bizarre decision to just lay down its substantial arms and suddenly retreat from the Western frontiers?

Three groups:

1. The internal force of Jewish-led Marxists (Luxemburg, Liebknecht et al) and ambitious liberals who wanted Germany to lose and become a "democracy" or even a full blown Communist state.
2. The internal force of Zionists (who overlapped with #1) who wanted Germany to lose so that British forces could be freed up to take Palestine away from Turkey - Germany's ally.
3. The internal force of deluded war-weary fools who trusted in Woodrow Wilson's empty promises of a fair and just "peace without victors".

After the capitulation and collapse of Germany, the Jewish-led home front betrayal - which cost the German military the war - came to be known as 'The Stab in the Back' -- depicted in 1920's cartoons above.

As readers of 'The Bad War' and/or regular subscribers to The Anti-New York Times already know; the railroad car armistice / treason of 11-11-1918 did not sit well with a certain young and unknown war hero. When the Judeo-British-French troublemakers started their crap again in 1939-1940, the revived German Reich put a quick end to World War II on the European continent -- or so it seemed until Stalin and FDR got into the act. And where do you think Hitler arranged for the signing of the 1940 armistice with France to take place? Have a look:

Foto: v. Ang. 122. Juni 1940

Bundesarchiv, Bild 183-10112-500
Foto: v. Ang. 122. Juni 1940

Back to the same railway carriage! Who's 'badder' (in a good way) than The Great One?! No one!

Unfortunately for Germany, Europe, and the whole world, Germany's victory in 1940 was short-lived. The subsequent post-war punishment of Germany would make the post-World War I horrors seem merciful by comparison. The world is still suffering today from the New World Order which was constructed upon the corpses of the many millions who died in those closely-related genocides that were the two wars.

The traitors and fools who delivered Germany to disaster in 1918 set the 'world stage' for the horrors that are still unfolding to this day -- and could soon lead to World War III. What a mess they made in 1918! That is why The Great One coined the term, "The November Criminals" to describe this greasy and pathetic bunch who signed onto 11-11-18. And that is also why your intrepid reporter and his fearless feline side-kick will most certainly not be commemorating 'Veterans Day.'

Boobus Americanus 1: Today is Veterans Day.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. Thank a vet for your freedom.

"Freedom my asssss! The Government takes half of every dollar I earn while the Fed debassess the value of whatever I get to keep!"

(Sweetie, you haven't worked a day in your life.)

NY Times: India Is Caught in a Climate Change Quandary

By EDUARDO PORTER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Sulzberger's Slimes offers its brain-dead readers a two-for-one propaganda special with this bit of brazen bull-shine promoting the hoax of Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM and a mild bashing of the 'I' in BRICS at the same time. Let's dissect select parts of this putrid pile of Marxist manure.

The Yellow Journalism begins with the stupid caption to the photo (above) that accompanies the article. It reads:

Analysis: Waves crashing on the shore? Oh my!

Slimes (caption continued): Some 150 million people in India are at risk from storm surges associated with rising sea levels.

Analysis: There is zero evidence that sea-levels are rising. Even many Warmist Cult members openly admit this. You see, the "rise in sea levels" is only 'observable' in rigged computer model predictions.

Slimes (Eduardo Porter): Spare a thought for poor India.

Analysis: Gotta love liberals and their phony altruism. As if you really give a rat's rear about "poor India", Eduardo.

Porter: India is home to 30 percent of the world's poorest, those living on less than $1.90 a day. Of the 1.3 billion Indians, 304 million do not have access to electricity; 92 million have no access to safe drinking water.

Analysis: Yes -- which is precisely why India is doing all it can to rapidly develop along the lines of China. It is the Globalists who want to keep as many Indians down and dependent as possible.

India is making material progress. Leave them alone, Sulzberger!

Porter: And India is going to be hammered by climate change.

Analysis: Yeah - yeah - yeah. We've been hearing that scary song for nearly 40 years now.

Porter: The livelihoods of 600 million Indians are threatened by the expected disruption of the southwest monsoon from July to September, which accounts for 70 percent of India's rainfall.

Analysis: The annual monsoon season is part of life in India -- been going on for millennia. Move along, Eddie.

Porter: India's rivers depend on the health of thousands of Himalayan glaciers at risk of melting because of a warming climate

Analysis: Better do your homework before you dabble in "science", Eduardo.

Headline from the Globalist London Telegraph (2012):

Himalayan Glaciers Growing Despite Global Warming

From Live Science (2014):

Why Asia's Glaciers Are Mysteriously Expanding, Not Melting

Eduardo is busted! Oops.

FACT! Himalayan glaciers have been expanding, not retreating.

Porter: ... while 150 million people are at risk from storm surges associated with rising sea levels.

Analysis: Again, Porter fails to cite any empirical evidence of "rising sea levels".

Porter: A lot of damage is already inevitable, ...

Analysis: It's "inevitable"? If there is no observable evidence that sea-levels are rising, then on what do you base such a bold statement, eh Porter?

Porter: ... a consequence of the emissions of heat-trapping greenhouse gases by richer countries.

Analysis: Blah - blah - blah. Rich White people and their cars are destroying the lives of poorer dark people. Pure Marxism! Why is that the satellite data shows zero warming for the past 19 years, Eduardo?

Porter: So, many Indians ask, Why must we pay more? On what grounds can India be asked to temper its use of energy to limit its emissions of greenhouse gases like carbon dioxide?

Analysis: Well, dear Indians, you must pay more because if your country ever becomes as strong and vibrant as China, the Globalists will lose all control over you. Get it?

1- Modi withf Putin's BRICS group

2- Military units of nuclear-armed India march in Moscow's 2015 parade (as do Chinese units) -- a message to the West.

Porter: The United Nations expects India's population to reach 1.5 billion by 2030, bigger than China's. If over the next 15 years it follows anything like the fossil-fuel-heavy path out of poverty that China took over the last 15, it could blow any chance the world has of preventing a disaster.

Analysis: No, Porter. The real "disaster" would be preventing those millions of poor Indians, that you profess soooo much love for, from ever having a chance to build a decent life for their families, in their own lands!

Porter: Scientists, environmentalists, executives and government diplomats packing their bags to attend the climate summit meeting in Paris, starting Nov. 30, must keep the challenge in mind.

Analysis: "Scientists, environmentalists, executives and government diplomats" is Slimes-speak for paid academic whores, communist radicals, corporate cronies, and sleazy Globalist politicians --- all converging upon Paris in a few weeks.

Porter: ... there is still a significant risk that India will say no to the West's climate change agenda. "It plays hugely well domestically," Mr. Ramesh told me. "One should never discount that possibility."

Analysis: Out of a respectful fear of the Globalists; India, Russia and China have paid lip-service to Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM -- but it is clear that none of the BRICS powers has any intention of self-sabotaging a la the U.S. and E.U.

And that is just one more reason why the Globalist Slimes continues hating upon the BRICS.

Modi's India is wise to Globalist environmental scams -- which is why Globalist Greenpeace was just banned from India!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times that India is resisting clean energy initiatives needed to fight Global Warming.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's a difficult problem. I understand that these poorer countries want to develop; but in the long run it will hurt them as sea levels rise higher and higher.

"The only thing rissing is my frickin' blood presssure from having to lissten to you cretinss discusss politicss every day.

NY Times: At University of Missouri, Black Students See a Campus Riven by Race

By JOHN ELIGON

Many black students say that racial tensions were already woven into the fabric of everyday life at the University of Missouri, well before the recent cascade of events.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

With first semester final exams only a few weeks away, one would think that the Affirmative Action 'dindoo nuffins' at the University of Missouri would be thanking their lucky stars for their unmerited, grant-funded, quota-based, grade-inflated college enrollment; and studying non-stop to make the most of their good fortune. By the way, that good fortune doesn't end with the gift of graduation. Upon entering de-balled Corporate America, the 'dindu nuffins' will continue to be pampered with the undeserved job offers and advancement opportunities which companies dole out to avoid lawsuits and harassment by the Feds at the EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission). Those 'dindu nuffins' who don't go the corporate route will often land a 6-figure, layoff-proof, do-nuffin job with a State or Federal agency.

Waaaaa! Waaaa! Waaaa! A fecal swastika drawn by parties unknown, a week of childish tantrums about 'racism', and the school football team threatening to forfeit its remaining games, is all it took for President Tim Wolfe to turn into a pathetic little sniveling lamb and resign under student charges of "not doing enough to address racism!"

It is not necessary for the Black readers of The Anti-New York Times to write to us with proud reviews of legitimate academic and career achievements. If the shoe doesn't fit, you needn't wear it. It is the spoiled, entitled, Marxified, radicalized, anti-White bums who just cowed a university President into resigning that we take offense with, not you. Little girls such as Symone Lenoir, a 23 year-old Black Seniorette majoring in "Interdisciplinary Studies" (WTF?) at Missouri. Silly Symone whined to Sulzberger's scribbler:

"It can be exhausting when people are making assumptions about you based on your skin color."

Honey; it is not the color of your skin that is the problem. But rather, the thickness of your skin. Grow up, brat!

"It can be exhausting feeling like you're speaking for your entire race."

Wait a second! You college libtards have been preaching for years that "there is no such thing as race". Race is nothing but "an artificial social construct." Now you claim to be "exhausted" from "speaking for your entire race". You need to get over yourself girl. Get a real Major and go study.

The pathetic whine concludes with a very telling remark from Sick Symone:

So exhausting, she said, that some mornings she asks herself, "Do I even want to go to class and sit with people?"

There it is! Protesting against imaginary 'Nazis' and 'Klansmen' on campus is much more fun than going to class and studying. Don't be surprised if the protesters are excused from upcoming exams.

Incited and emboldened by Missouri Marxist Professors such as the lovely and charming Melissa Click (on right / possible cough-cough?) --simple-minded Symone (left) has "exhausted" herself representing "the whole race".

Of course, it is pointless to focus too much, as much of the 'conservative media' always does, on idiots like Slothful Symone and Commie Click. The real analysis here should center around the 'who' and the 'why' behind the sudden campus 'unrest' at the University of Missouri and other colleges. The stated grievances may be about 'racism' or 'free tuition' or 'health care cuts' or 'the 1%' -- but veteran students of the New World Order well know that, dating back to the revolutionary days of 19th century Europe, the Globalists, through their media and their agent-provocateurs, have been skillfully manipulating the immature passions and the sophist stupidity of college students for their own selfish ends. Give this latest movement a bit more time, and watch as the hidden hands of Homo-Obongo and George Soros reveal themselves -- albeit very subtly.

1- The Marxist mayhem in Missouri began when an "oppressed" Black student named Jonathan Butler, who comes from a multi-millionaire family, went on a fake hunger strike to protest over a Swastika, drawn with feces, on a dormitory wall. (rolling eyes -- the oldest trick in the Leftist book!)

2- Oh the pain of it all!

3- Self explanatory

* A reader points out: "A self-respecting 'Nazi', the only kind, would never denigrate the swastika by using fecal material to draw it. This is a Jewish thing."

Boobus Americanus 1: That fecal swastika incident in Missouri shows that many in the South have not yet learned to be multi-cultural.

Boobus Americanus 2: Agreed. What kind of racist would do such a thing?

"Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz"

NY Times: Paris Attacks Kill More Than 100, Police Say; Border Controls Tightened

By ADAM NOSSITER and RICK GLADSTONE

The Paris area reeled Friday night from a shooting rampage, explosions and mass hostage-taking that President François Hollande called an unprecedented terrorist attack on France.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

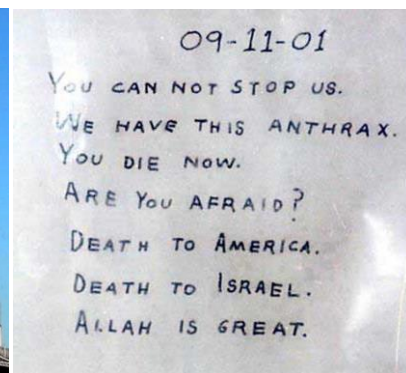

In answering the question of 'Whodunnit' in regard to the horrific 'Friday the 13th' massacre in Paris (11-13-15), your normally cautious reporter here at The Anti-New York Times finds it completely unnecessary to go through a criminological version of the 'scientific method'. Sugar the Cat is instinctively calling this one a false-flag, and Papa Mike stands behind her 100%.

It is too early to tell if this was a real massacre or a crisis actor deal. Some early photos seem a bit strange. Either way, the true culprits and the intended effect are well known to those of us who understand how the world really works.

We don't need no stinkin' hypothesis -- no observation of data -- and no investigation here. It's all about precedent, precedent, precedent (King David Hotel Bombing (1946), Lavon Affair (1954), USS Liberty (1967)) combined with motive, means, opportunity - and still more precedent, precedent, precedent (Marine barracks attack in Lebanon (1983), German Nightclub bombing (1986), Pan Am Flight 103 (1988)), and also, let us add, precedent, precedent, precedent (9/11 attacks (2001), anthrax attacks (2001), 7/7 attacks (2005)).

Regardless of whatever 'Muslim' patsies (now all declared to have been conveeeeeniently suicided!) carried out the attacks, this bloodbath (whether real or faked) is the work of the clandestine intelligence services of the western / Zionist Axis of Evil. Case closed -- no doubt about it -- done deal -- take it to the bank!

It's them -- it's them -- it's always bloody them! (cough cough)

It will be interesting to see if Mossad's patsie attackers were recent 'migrants'. Though if they were, Francois Hollande -- that fiendish faker who is finishing off France -- that slippery, sleazy, slimy piece of human escargot, isn't likely to tell us. Only now is Hollande le Horrible even talking about "tightening the borders". Damn traitorous swine!

Clearly, France, and its Allies, are going to have to go into Syria and "do something" about 'ISIS' now. Russia is already there. China and Iran have been sniffing around as well. And U.S. Secretary of Defense Ass Carter had recently deployed an undetermined number of Special Forces.

Said Homo-Obongo of the attacks, which oh-so-conveeeeeeniently occurred during, and physically close to, a heavily watched soccer match between the main political powers of the EU -- France and Germany:

"This is an attack not just on Paris; it's an attack not just on the people of France. But this is an attack on all of humanity and the universal values that we share."

"We're going to do whatever it takes to work with the French people and with nations around the world to bring these terrorists to justice."

Israel's nuclear missiles can be fired from state-of-the-art German submarines, and blamed on _____ ?

The combustible elements of World War III are being gathered all in one place -- suggesting that a dangerous East vs West conflict - as depicted on that spooky and cryptic magazine cover of the Rothschild-owned (partly) Economist Magazine back in January 2015 - is about to unfold. Will an Israeli match spark the long-awaited Great War for Globo-Zion? Stay tuned.

The two numbered arrows from the controversial 'The World in 2015' Economist Magazine cover (January 2015) unscramble into 11.13.15. The portrait-painting near the arrows is DaVinci's 'La Belle Ferronnière' -- housed in the Louve in Paris. Behind little Alice in Wonderland is what could be an abandoned soccer ball (football) -- which may symbolize the internationally televised France-Germany soccer match that was interrupted by the attacks.

Little Alice in Wonderland (the masses) turns her attention away from the ball to the ongoing geo-political freak-show.

You will also notice Angela Merkel making the Illuminati triangle over a button on her jacket (the Illuminati eye), the Globe divided against itself (East vs West), a game called 'Panic' with 'Federal Reserve' written on it (in tiny letters), the turtle that symbolizes the Fabian Socialist Society, Alice in Wonderland symbolizing the fake world of 'the rabbit hole', and a nuclear device detonating.

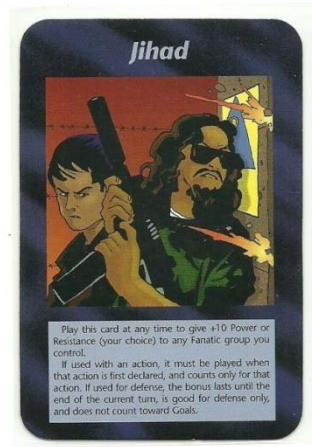

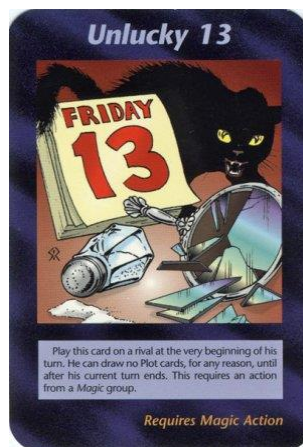

The Frumpy Frau is the NWO's Golden Girl.

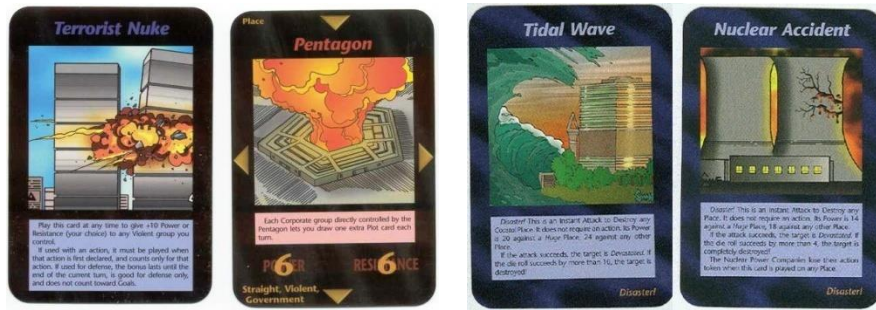

Boobus Americanus 1: Such a horrific terrorist attack in Paris.

Boobus Americanus 2: And on Friday the 13th of all days.

"11-13-15. Very interessting numerology. Never trusst a Zionisst black cat."

(Wow! Those 1995 Illuminati Game Cards are a great find, Sugar. There are some more 'prophetic' warning cards below.)

NY Times: Paris Terror Attacks May Prompt More Aggressive U.S. Strategy on ISIS

By PETER BAKER and ERIC SCHMITT

With lethal strikes against Russia, in Lebanon, and now in Paris, the Islamic State shows its chilling reach, and becomes a broader threat.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Monsieur Hollande, America's feckless little toady in France, has now declared the "attacks" (rolling eyes -- let's not even go there) to be "an act of war". Indeed, the French, without Syrian permission, have already begun "bombing ISIS"; Sulzberger's Slimes, and most of the Piranha Press is calling for "an increased American role" in "fighting ISIS; and that capo di tutti capi of Zio-American Neo-Con scum, William Kristol (cough cough -- phlegm phlegm), has just called for 50,000 U.S. troops to be deployed to Syria.

And whilst we are all in the neighborhood, why not take out President Assad? My-oh-my what a HUGE difference 11-13-15 hath made in moving "the international community" closer to an all-out phony war against a phony bogeyman named 'ISIS' -- just when it seemed that Russian-backed Assad wasn't going anywhere.

Play it again, Church Lady:

The Church Lady from 1980's Saturday Night Live knows a devious devil when she smells one (Bill Kristol).

"What's the harm of bombing them at least for a few weeks and seeing what happens? I don't think there's much in the way of unanticipated side effects that are going to be bad there," Kristol said.

So, Billy, "(not) much in the way of unanticipated side effects", eh Zio-Boy? Isn't that what you said about going into Iraq in 2003? Flashback, 2003:

Kristol: "I think we'll be vindicated when we discover the weapons of mass destruction and when we liberate the people of Iraq."

Twelve years, no WMD's, and oceans of blood later, the scheming shyster of PNAC 9-11 "New Pearl Harbor" fame knows darn well what the "side-effects" of bombing Syrian targets, without authorization from Syria, will be because they are precisely what he and his Mossad co-conspirators have planned -- a war between NATO and the Russia-Syria-Iran-China Alliance.

As the map shows, the idea of a 'Greater Israel' (between the Nile and the Euphrates Rivers, as represented by the two blue lines on the flag of Israel) requires the conquest and 'ethnic cleansing' of most of Syria and Iraq. That's what the 'migrant crisis' is all about. Only a major war can bring about this transformation.

Going back 14 months, to September of 2014, we here at The Anti-New York Times summarized the events to date and issued a forecast. Here:

This is all so transparent now. What a brilliant set of strategic maneuvers we have witnessed over the past year or so. Here is a review of the events which have us on the brink of the very same Middle East war that was narrowly averted last year:

- 1. September 2013: Russia and China block an attack upon Syria (and Iran) by openly flexing their military muscle in the Mediterranean Sea*
- 2. March 2014: US / Israel stages a coup in Ukraine*
- 3. Summer 2014: NATO and puppet Ukraine threaten a military operation against Russia*
- 4. Summer 2014: Japan, Australia, Vietnam, and the Philippines antagonize and divert China*
- 5. Summer 2014: Phony controlled ISIS is unleashed in Iraq and Syria*
- 6. Today: Neo-Cons and other assorted warmongers call upon the USA to "stop ISIS"*
- 7. Soon? With Russia and China diverted, NATO slips into Syria to "save the world" from ISIS*

Tooting our own horn once again, from our September 15 issue of 2013:

*"Putin's strong diplomacy (backed by the threat of force), combined with overwhelming public opposition, forced Obongo to back down. But Evil never sleeps. It only changes its tactics. In a sense, the situation is perhaps more dangerous now than it was one week ago. The U.S. now understands that when it returns to the brink of war, it will have to bring a whole lot more firepower to the arena if they want to confront Russia, China, and Iran."

The plan is fluid and has been tweaked here and there to meet the clever counter moves of Vladimir Putin and the lame-duck hesitance of Homo Obongo. But the grand scheme remains in effect, and the "attacks" of 11-13-15 align perfectly with the Zionist plot to bring about the Grand Finale in the Middle East.

Patient little devils!

- 1- World War I led to the British takeover of Palestine and the start of heavy Jewish immigration to that Arab territory (Balfour Declaration).
- 2- World War II and sympathy for the Holohoax led to the establishment of "The State of Israel".
- 3- World War III is intended to lead to the ultimate prize -- the creation of 'Greater Israel' and a World Government ruled by -- cough - cough.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that France has effectively declared war on ISIS.

Boobus Americanus 2: As much as I hate the idea of another Middle Eastern war, we may have to go in and clean up the mess in Syria.

"It'ss another Zionisst trap you $@$# goy imbeciless!"*

(Those who forget the past are condemned to repeat it, Sugar.)

The Anti-New York Times

"Something wicked this way comes", foretold one of the witches from Shakespeare's Macbeth -- an apt warning for events that we fear may be about to unfold. Not since the Globo-Zionist false-flag of 9-11-01 has Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the international Piranha Press hard-sold an emotional false narrative as aggressively as they are selling Paris 11-13-15. Assorted bigmouths and seditious scribblers from all across the phony "political spectrum" are barfing out the same scripted tunes from the same song book: "We are all French now."

From the "Left" -- Boston.com: "A message to Paris from Boston: 'We are all France'"

From the "Right" -- American Spectator: "Nous Sommes Tous Français" (We are all French) -- 4th paragraph in: "We are all French; we are all Israelis; we are all Americans."

A million more nauseating mush-pies where those came from -- trust us! Most annoyingly ominous of all is the ubiquitous tri-color French flag symbolism to show la solidarité with the French.

The Empire State Building is French. One World Trade Center is French, The Calgary Tower is French.

The Sydney Opera House is French. The National Hockey League (US) is French. San Francisco Airport is French.

Vancouver is French. Berlin is French. London is French.

Twitter and Facebook are French. The Israeli Knesset (the perps!) is French. And even Jesus is French (Rio)!

Le puke -- Enough already!

Again, a million more such nauseating tri-color public spectacles of stupidity where those came from! Just as vomit-inducing as the festival of pusillanimous pro-Parisian propaganda are the pathetically predictable spectacles of mouse-like Muslims who, instead of screaming, from the rooftops: "Zionist False-Flag! Zionist False-Flag!", have opted to, as usual, quietly cower in fear as they attempt to assure us all that they "condemn the attacks" and "stand with Paris".

How good of you Muslim folk to so graciously reassure us all that you oppose 'ISIS'. (rolling eyes) -- But until you all 'grow a pair', get organized and aggressively counter-accuse the REAL culprits (cough cough)-- the unjustified hatred directed at Islam will persist.

This post-event marketing blitz is a sure sign that Paris 11-13-15 was pre-engineered to be a history-altering pivot point along the lines of December 7, 1941 and September 11, 2001. And just as was the case with 9/11, 11-13-15 was also cryptically foretold in the media (Economist Magazine) by the psycho script writers who seem to derive some sort of perverted pleasure from hinting at their plans in advance.

Yes indeed, "Something wicked this way comes."

1- "By the prickling of my thumbs, Something wicked this way comes."

2- 9-11 was forecast in 1997 TV cartoon (The Simpsons) -- among others

3- Economist Magazine cover (December 2014)-- Alice in Wonderland stands in front of a Paris-based painting next to arrows which unscramble into 11-13-15.

Boobus Americanus 1: The solidarity that the world is showing with the people of Paris is heart-warming.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. A very heart-warming show of solidarity, indeed. Both the Empire State Building and One World Trade Center are lit up in the tri-colors of France.

"How about a little "heart-warming ssolidarity" for the ssuffering people of Easst Ukraine, Gaza, Iraq and Ssyria -- you $%#@& boneheaded cornballss!"*

NY Times: For France, an Alliance Against ISIS May Be Easier Said Than Done

By STEVEN ERLANGER and PETER BAKER

The United States and Russia have been drawn together against ISIS by the Paris attacks, but disagreements between them remain.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

When skillfully 'read between the lines', this story explains the mystery of the sudden and strange Franco-American-Russian alliance that appears to be forming against the beheading bogeymen of ISIS (Israeli Secret Intelligence Service). From the article's opening line:

"... the Islamic State has seemingly accomplished what diplomats had failed to do. Suddenly, the international order has been scrambled, drawing the United States, Russia and France together in a possible alliance against the terrorist group."

This is strange because, surely, Russia knows that ISIS is a battering ram which the Zio-West created to take down Assad of Syria (while threatening others). How can there possibly be an alliance? Another excerpt:

"Each of the three longtime powers now has its own reasons for wanting to destroy the Islamic State after the pitiless attacks on civilians in Paris and the downing of a Russian passenger jet carrying vacationers."

Translation: Each of the powers has been lured into Syria for different reasons, but by the same hand.

"Take your places, everybody. You all have a role at my Armageddon party in Syria."

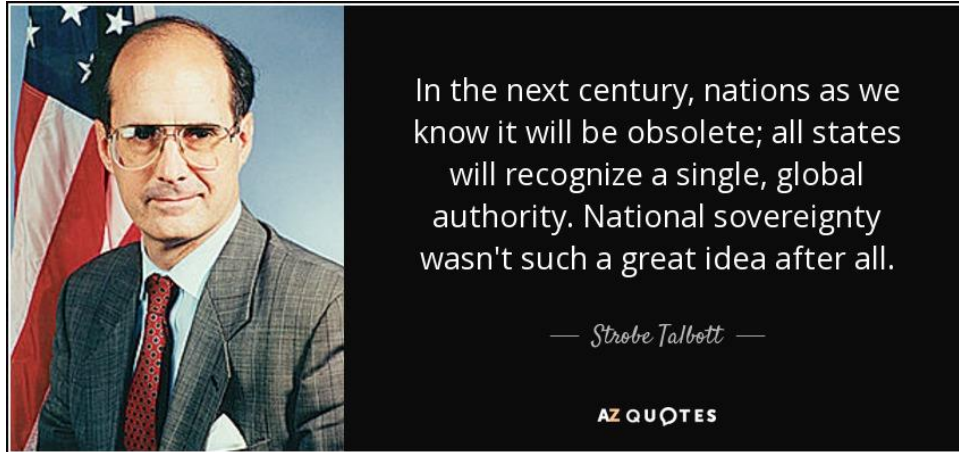

More:

"But so far, that alliance (Russia - France - USA) remains largely theoretical. Even as President François Hollande of France takes on the role of bridge builder with back-to-back trips next week to Washington and Moscow, powerful centrifugal forces are still pulling the would-be partners apart."

Analysis: NATO and Russia are still at cold war and proxy war -- except now, their military forces are dangerously deployed in the same place. Now, here's the clincher:

"Karen Donfried, a former White House adviser to Mr. Obama who is now the president of the German Marshall Fund of the United States. "But how committed Russia really is about taking on the Islamic State, I don't think any of us really knows. I remain really skeptical that our interests converge here."

Strobe Talbott, the president of the Brookings Institution and a former deputy secretary of state, said any real alliance would require a seismic change in the Russians' approach toward Syria, where they say they are trying to fight terrorism but appear more bent on preserving Mr. Assad."

Globalist Talbott says that the deadly game against Russia is still on. Talbott once wrote openly about establishing world government (quote above from Time Magazine)

In conclusion, the master planners of The New World Order not only have zero intention of working with Russia, but their Parisian trick of 11-13-15 has enabled them to set the chessboard of World War III in Syria. Pro-Assad Russia and anti-Assad NATO are poised to be played off against each other. And: if Obongo won't light the fuse, Anglo-Zionist Secretary of Defense Ashton Carter will. (That's why Chuck Hagel was forced out.)

In January, 2015, The Anti-New York Times warned about then possible nominee Carter:

"As for Ashton B. Carter, his 'righteous Gentile' credentials are just as kosher as Flournoy's. In 1998, Carter and radical Zionist Philip D. Zelikow co-authored an article in the Council on Foreign Relations' (CFR) 'Foreign Affairs' magazine. In it, they laid out what changes would need to be made within the U.S. government in the wake of "catastrophic terrorism," which is also the title of the article. The "Catastrophic Terrorism" article begins with the strange subtitle 'Imagining the Transforming Event', and advocates a transformation of the U.S. government and the way Americans live."

Beware of this man Carter. He belongs to Bibi --- and so does 'ISIS'.

Students of body language can detect the smiling & hugging subservience of Asst. Carter in the presence of his stoic superior -- Boss Bibi.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Putin's obsession with supporting Assad may undermine any chance of forming an alliance against ISIS.

Boobus Americanus 2: Putin just wants to control the Middle East. He's another Hitler.

"Putin iss good --- but he'ss nothing like my Hitler."

NY Times (Opinion): Why I Provide Abortions

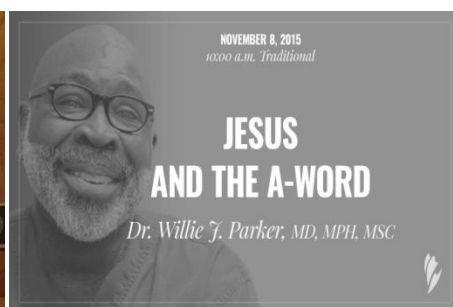

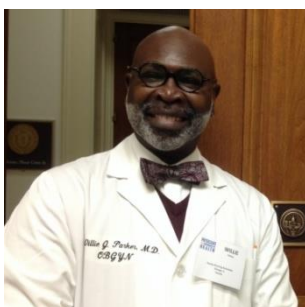

By WILLIE J. PARKER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For today's Anti-New York Times, we break away from the Global Comedy/Freak Show that is geo-politics to dabble in the moral-cultural controversy that is the suffocation, saline burning and bodily dismemberment of babies in utero - and sometimes out! Whatever one may think of the legality of this ghastly killing-for-hire practice itself, one would think -- one would hope -- that the "pro-choice" crowd would at least see it as a tragedy to be avoided and a practice that a society should be ashamed of.

Not so for Dr. Willie Parker, whose self-serving and euphemistic editorial in Sulzberger's pro-death Slimes, in which he attempts to pass himself off as some heroic figure, is shocking to the senses. Let's dissect (no pun intended) the heart of Slick Willie Parker's "I"-infested bit of excessive egoism.

1- Parker, a self-professed "Christian", performs abortions up to the 9th month of pregnancy.

2 & 3- Parker's seminars and writings attempt to reconcile abortion with Christian teachings. One of his events was held in Austin, Texas at Temple Beth Shalom (cough cough).

Parker: In public health, you go where the crisis is. If there is an outbreak and you have the ability to relieve suffering, you rush to the site of the need. This is why, a year and a half ago, I returned to my hometown, Birmingham, Ala., to provide abortions.

Rebuttal: Performing abortions "relieves suffering"? Tell that to these little fully sentient little ones shown below:

It's a medical fact -- unborn babies can feel pain after just a few weeks.

Parker: For the previous two years, I had been flying to the South from Chicago to provide care to women whose access to abortion services was limited to a few clinics, These women face harsh life circumstances and incessant hostility, merely for wanting to exercise their rights.

Rebuttal: "These women face harsh life circumstances and incessant hostility" -- Who are you kidding, Willie? American women walk in and out of abortion mills as if they were getting their nails done.

Parker: My decision to provide abortions represented a change of heart on my part. I had been working for 12 years as an (ob-gyn), and had never performed abortions because I felt they were morally wrong.

Rebuttal: Oh, so you were once pro-life but now you have seen the light. That's one of the oldest tricks in the Marxist-Progressive handbook. Just like all those gun-grabbing libtards who say: "I was once a proud member of the NRA, but now

... blah, blah, blah" or "I once did not believe in Global Warming, but now...blah, blah, blah."

Parker: But I grew increasingly uncomfortable turning away women who needed help.

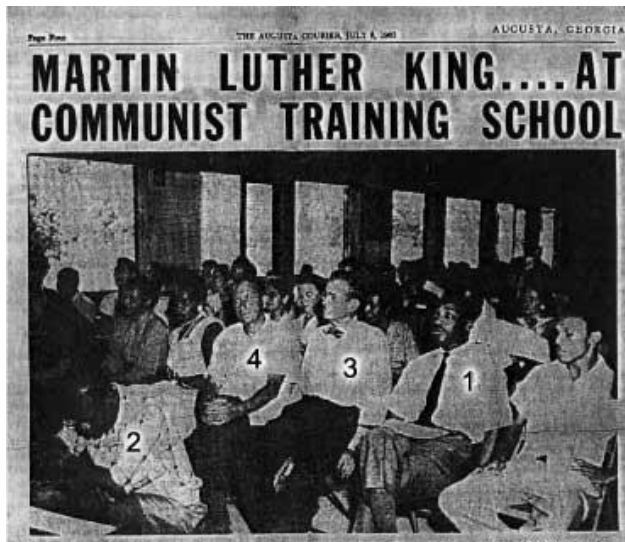

Rebuttal: Your poor tormented man. How were you able to finally resolve this internal moral dilemma?

Parker: Ultimately, reading a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. challenged me to a deeper spiritual understanding.

Rebuttal: Ah yes! When in doubt, pray to St. Martin. Did Marxist Loser King deliver this sermon moments after bedding and 'rough-sexing' his latest White prostitute, or was it just moments before, Willie?

Parker: I was moved by his discussion of the quality of the good Samaritan and of what made the Samaritan "good."

Rebuttal: Our Sunday School lessons are a bit hazy by now, preacher Parker, but when exactly did the 'Good Samaritan' advocate killing unborn babies?

1- When in doubt, a good "Christian" should ask, "What would St. Martin do?"

2- "Blessed are the abortionists, for theirs is the Kingdom of Heaven." ----
NOT!

Parker: I realized that if I were to show compassion, I would have to act on behalf of those women. My concern about women who lacked access to abortion became more important to me than worrying about what might happen to me for providing the services.

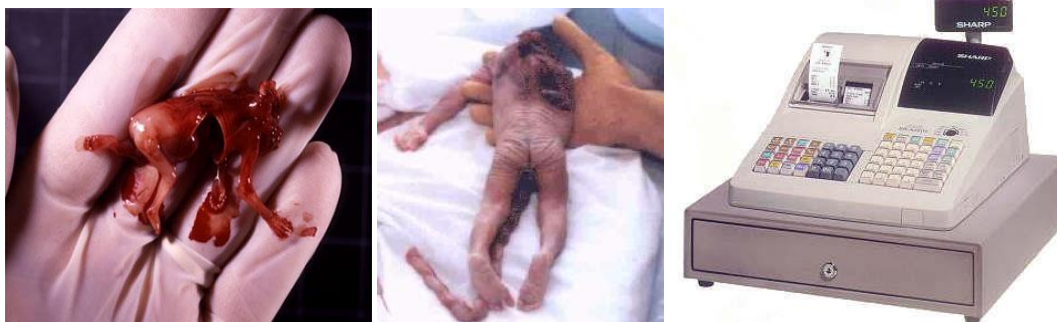

Rebuttal: Willie, your heroic altruism and self-sacrifice for these women is moving us to tears. Knowing full well that you can be murdered by a "pro-lifer" at any time (rolling eyes), you still persist with your do-gooderism. Good for you, Willie! --- By any chance, Willie, do you collect a fee for your service to humanity, or do you work pro bono?

"Abortion Providers Are Heroes" ---- Libtards truly are mentally ill.

Parker: I stopped doing obstetrics in 2009 to provide abortion full time for women who needed help. Invariably I field questions regarding my decision, with the most often asked being: Why? The short answer is: Because I can.

Rebuttal: No Willie, the short answer is because there is a ton of quick and easy money to be made in this brutal business -- which is why you fail to address the question of pro bono work.

Cha-Ching!!! Will that be cash, credit or tax-payer-funded Medicaid?

Trimester 1 -2: $300-$500 / Trimester 2-3: $700 - $1000

Parker: And: Because if I don't, who will?

Rebuttal: A zillion other heartless, soulless and money-hungry "doctors" -- that's who!

Parker: The South has become one of the centers of the abortion crisis. While women across the country are losing the ability to make private health care decisions because states have passed hundreds of laws chipping away at that right, the South is the most restrictive.

Rebuttal: Total lies and typical South-bashing. There is not a single state in the country that has denied women ~~the "right" to have their baby snuffed out~~ er, "the ability to make private health care decisions." Ever hear of Roe vs Wade, Parker? These minor regulations regarding informed consent and 2nd office visit abortion are so reasonable that even many pro-aborts are 'OK' with them. What's the matter Parker? Are you afraid that if a woman has a day or two to think about what she is doing that she may not hire you? Hmmmmmm?

Parker: Legal, properly administered abortion care holds an enviable record in medicine with a 99 percent safety rate.

Rebuttal: 99% safety rate??? Not for the babies! Their fatality rate is 100%! (Except for a few late-term survivors who go through life crippled.

One of the lucky ones-- Nick Hoot lost parts of both legs in an abortion attempt.

Parker: ... and a less than 1 percent complication rate.

Rebuttal: Evidently, Parker does not regard the millions of women who suffer from remorseful depression, anniversary date crying spells, thoughts of what the child would look like had it been born, nightmares, anxiety etc for the rest of their lives --- as part of the "complication rate".

Parker: In the Mississippi and Alabama clinics where I practice, I see women who must travel hundreds of miles for an appointment. Years ago, I saw a patient in Mississippi whom I still think of often because of her intense grief in the midst of pregnancy. I want for women what I want for myself ...

Rebuttal: I, I, I, I, I, I ---- the true hallmark of a psychopath. Parker must have the same ghost-writer as Mr. and Mr. Obongo.

Parker: We who provide abortions do so because our patients need us, and that's what we are supposed to do: respond to our patients' needs. It is the deepest level of love that you can have for another person, that you can have compassion for their suffering and you can act to relieve it. That, simply put, is why I provide abortion care.

Rebuttal: Break out the violins and pass the tissues. -- Final count of self-references: 26!

An ode to the great and compassionate and noble Dr. Willie Parker

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a most fascinating editorial in the New York Times today. It was by a Christian African-American Doctor whose motivation for performing abortions is purely out of compassion.

Boobus Americanus 2: Does he perform the abortions free-of-charge?

Boobus Americanus 1: He didn't say.

"Compassssion my assss! Butcher Parker iss laughing all the way to the bank!"

NY Times: ISIS Women and Enforcers in Syria Recount Collaboration, Anguish and Escape

By AZADEH MOAVENI

Three young women who fled to southern Turkey recalled their experiences as members of the Islamic State morality police in Raqqa, Syria.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Oh to be a fly-on-the-wall at Mossad and/or CIA Headquarters and hear the howls of laughter as the comedy writers churn out this garbage. The only thing funnier than the script are the photos -- such as the above-depicted ISIS "woman" (with some very long fingers) clad in a Hefty garbage bag and plastered front and center of Sulzberger's Slimes for all of sheepdom to cry over.

The overly-dramatic caption reads:

"Aws, 25, a former resident of Raqqa, Syria, used to be a member of the Khansaa Brigade, the Islamic State's female morality police. Her first husband was a jihadist, and when he died in a suicide operation she reluctantly agreed to marry another fighter."

This Slimes propaganda reads like a cheesy suspense novel.

It gets even 'stupider' than that. Get a load of the opening paragraphs:

"SOUTHERN TURKEY: Dua had only been working for two months with the Khansaa Brigade, the all-female morality police of the Islamic State, when her friends were brought to the station to be whipped.

The police had hauled in two women she had known since childhood, a mother and her teenage daughter, both distraught. Their abayas, flowing black robes, had been deemed too form-fitting.

When the mother saw Dua, she rushed over and begged her to intercede. The room felt stuffy as Dua weighed what to do.

"Their abayas really were very tight. I told her it was their own fault; they had come out wearing the wrong thing," she said. "They were unhappy with that."

Dua sat back down and watched as the other officers took the women into a back room to be whipped. When they removed their face-concealing niqabs, her friends were also found to be wearing makeup. It was 20 lashes for the abaya offense, five for the makeup, and another five for not being meek enough when detained.

Their cries began ringing out, and Dua stared hard at the ceiling, a lump building in her throat."

Reading like the character development from a Grade-B suspense-novel, Sulzberger's tear-jerking Soap Opera drones on and on about how three recently

"escaped" (rolling eyes, smirking) women had been forced into morally pure behavior by the big bad Muslims of ISIS. Evidently, ISIS can't decide if they want to rape women or force them to stay chaste. Headline from the New York Slimes, August - 2015:

ISIS Enshrines a Theology of Rape: Claiming the Koran's Support, the Islamic State Codifies Sex Slavery on Conquered Regions of Iraq and Syria and Uses the Practice as a Recruiting Tool

One day, the sex-crazed perverts of ISIS are raping every Muslim girl that they can get their hands on -- the next, ISIS is banning make-up and "whipping" women for wearing "form-fitting" clothing. Extreme sex perverts or extreme sex prudes -- the script writers can't seem to settle on a storyline! And not 1 out of 1000 of the brain-dead sophists who worship Sulzberger's Slimes will even notice this glaring contradiction.

The "female" (rolling eyes, smirking) Morality Police of ISIS: "No form-fitting clothes allowed -- or we will tell the men to gang-rape you!"

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that ISIS is whipping women for wearing form-fitting clothing.

Boobus Americanus 2: Something has got to be done about these Muslim savages. What the hell is Obama waiting for?

"You frickin' mentally moribund morons! Iss there no bit of brazen bull-$@&$ that you will even quesstion?"

NY Times: Crimea in Dark After Power Lines Are Blown Up

By NEIL MacFARQUHAR

Saboteurs blew up the main power lines leading into Crimea early Sunday, plunging the disputed peninsula into darkness and prompting the Russian government to impose a state of emergency there.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The fact that this story is buried on page 3 of the International Section does not mitigate the huge implications of the event. With Russia being drawn deeper and deeper into the war against ISIS (US / NATO / Israel), the threat coming from NATO-Europe not only remains in effect, but grows more aggressive with each passing week. The blowing-up of Ukrainian-based power lines - carried out by unspecified "saboteurs" - has cut off electricity to most of Crimea's population. Though the actual destruction occurred in Ukraine, this is still a soft act of war that has prompted Moscow to declare a state of emergency in Crimea.

An act of war against Russia.

The Slimes article points to two groups as likely culprits. First, Ukrainian "Nationalists" - aka 'Right Sector (cough cough CIA / cough cough Mossad). Here:

"Unknown people presumed to be Ukrainian nationalists knocked out all four of the main electricity lines running through the Kherson region — the first two were severely damaged on Friday and two more by explosions just after midnight on Sunday morning."

Also listed as suspects are Crimean Tatar "activists" (cough cough CIA / cough cough Mossad). Here:

"A Crimean Tatars flag was wrapped around broken power lines near the village of Chaplynka on Sunday."

Like the mercenaries of ISIS, the two groups mentioned as likely culprits behind the blackouts are both CIA-Mossad proxies.

Most of Crimea's electricity supply still comes from Ukraine. The good news for Crimea is that power lines from the Russian mainland are under construction and expected to come on line next year. What this attack demonstrates is that while things continue to heat up in the Middle East, plans for war in Eastern Europe remain on the table.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that saboteurs blew up some powers lines -- causing a blackout in Crimea.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. The Ukrainians are still pissed about Putin stealing Crimea.

"Fools! The Ukrainiansss are puppetss of the CslA -- and nobody 'sstole' Crimea! It was always Russssian."

NY Times: 'The Danish Girl,' About a Transgender Pioneer

By A. O. SCOTT

"The Danish Girl," Tom Hooper's new film, is a story of individual struggle that is also a portrait of a marriage.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Remember the 'good ole days' of semi-sanity when the big moral debate of our time centered around whether or not queers should be allowed to discretely serve in the military -- the so-called 'Don't Ask-Don't Tell' rule? It was only two decades ago that the combined powers of libtardom - with the critical endorsement of the oh-so-esteemed General Colin Powell, were just barely able to squeeze that initiative past a predominately anti-homosexual American public.

Whenever the Globalists need an endorsement for one of their major initiatives, they will trot out their favorite 'house-negro' Republican, the "great" General Colon Bowel

- 1993 -Don't Ask, Don't Tell
- 2003 - The War in Iraq
- 2008 - Endorsement of Obongo

Now, only a few Presidential terms after Bill Clinscum's 'Don't Ask -- Don't Tell' policy, we witness the sorry spectacle of America's "paper of record" reviewing a film about trannies as if this mental sickness was something to be celebrated!

Here's a small whiff of the sophist slime:

"When we first encounter Gerda and Einar Wegener, played by Alicia Vikander and Eddie Redmayne, they seem perfectly matched. Both are painters, living amid the soft colors and sea air of Copenhagen in 1926. Gerda is a portraitist, while Einar's landscapes — drawn from his childhood memories of the fjords and marshlands of Vejle, a town on the Jutland peninsula — have brought him a measure of fame. Like many couples who share a profession, they provide each other with support as well as a bit of competition. Their best friend, Ulla (Amber Heard), a dancer, marvels at their mutual devotion, which combines the easy, egalitarian warmth of friendship with the heat of sexual attraction."

Clearly, not only is the 'slippery slope' to Sodom & Gomorrah a very real phenomenon, but we aren't finished sliding yet. Bestiality brothels have spread throughout Manly Merkel's Germany; sex with horses is on the rise in Switzerland; and; recently, "great men of science" - such as the despicable Atheist activist and

"theoretical physicist" (junk scientist) Richard Dawkins - have been softening up the soil for the eventual "tolerance" of pedophilia. Dawkins:

"I am very conscious that you can't condemn people of an earlier era by the standards of ours," Dawkins said. "Just as we don't look back at the 18th and 19th centuries and condemn people for racism in the same way as we would condemn a modern person for racism, I look back a few decades to my childhood and see things like caning, like mild pedophilia, and can't find it in me to condemn it by the same standards as I or anyone would today."

Everything is "relative" -- is that right, Professor?

TUESDAY, SEP 10, 2013 02:47 PM CDT

Richard Dawkins defends "mild pedophilia," says it does not cause "lasting harm"

The biologist and author described the sexual abuse that occurred among his former classmates as "mild touching up"

BY KATIE MCDONOUGH

Perhaps the great Atheist guru has a thing for the "mild touching-up" of little boys himself?

Loosed from the moorings of God-consciousness and a God-centered worldview, the Judaized Marxified West is in full free-fall mode now. Economic and even political problems are the least of our worries. Lost wealth and even lost liberty can be recovered. Lost souls cannot. Perhaps it is best that whatever is left if the whole damn rotten structure of "civilization" collapses sooner rather than later; and may those with sufficient brains, courage and character come through the chaos all right and rebuild a better world.

"When people are universally ignorant, and debauched in their manners, they will sink under their own weight without the aid of foreign Invaders." -- Samuel Adams to Jame Warren, 1775

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an interesting movie review in the New York Times today. It was about a Danish transgender during the 1920's.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. The transgender movement has really come a long way. Some of them aren't that bad looking, actually.

NY Times: NATO Unveils Plans to Grow, Drawing Fury and Threats From Russia

By STEVEN ERLANGER

For the first time in six years, NATO on Wednesday invited a new member (Montenegro) to join the military alliance, prompting a heated response from Russia

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

With a population the size of Boston, the tiny picturesque state of Montenegro (formerly part of once pro-Russian and now defunct Yugoslavia) is not going to enhance the tactical ability of NATO to menace Russia one bit more than it already is. Therefore, plans to swallow up Montenegro in the NATO Murder Mafia appear to serve only one purpose, namely, a further tweaking of the Russian Bear.

Admiral Vladimir Komoyedov, defense committee chairman of the Duma, Russia's lower house, put it this way:

"They would even admit the North Pole to NATO for the purpose of encircling Russia."

Mini-Montenegro in NATO? Why such an unnecessary provocation?

In researching for the counter-analysis of this event, your astute reporter and his instinctive feline sidekick here stumbled across another motive for this bizarre maneuver with mini-Montenegro: the encirclement not of Russia, but rather of Russia's close historical ally, Serbia. It's no secret that the Globo-Zion Axis of Evil has always hated Orthodox Christian Serbia. Even today, with Serbia on the brink of joining the EU, there remains hostility toward the pro-Russian Serbs.

1999: With Yeltsin's Russia weak and in turmoil; Serbia was brutally "brought to heel" by the same NWO Globalists that brought Germany "to heel" -- and Japan "to heel" -- and Iraq "to heel" -- and Libya "to heel" etc. Serbians haven't forgotten.

Here is a 2012 headline from the neo-con 'Weekly Standard' of the vile Bill Kristol (cough cough), written by Stephen Schwartz (cough cough):

New Serbian President Favors Putin, Opposes NATO

Enough said. More recently, at the UN General Assembly meeting of October, 2015, Serbian President Tomislav Nikolic stated:

"My conversation with President Putin was largely friendly and familial because we find common ground very easily, and mostly Russia would never ask for anything from Serbia, it is always Serbia that asks for something from Russia, and luckily, Russia is a real backbone and real support to Serbia."

Cozying up to Putin will get you "encircled". Is NATO's looming conquest of Montenegro (west of Serbia) intended to also send a "Sicilian message" to neighboring Serbia?

As for the story's dramatic headline about Russia's "fury and threats", a close reading of the body of the article reveals a bit of mockery from Russia, and also a hint of unspecified "response action", but no trace at all of "fury and threats". Nonetheless, Russians (and Serbians) have every reason to be fed-up with NATO's dirty game of encirclement.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Montenegro was just invited into NATO.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. We must stand up to Putin. -- Where is Montenegro, anyway?

"How would you Boobusess feel if the old Warssaw Pact was sstill around and tried to recruit Puerto Rico?"

(Excellent analogy! You nailed it again, Sugar. And no curse words either - -- much to the dismay of your sycophant brigades!)

NY Times: 95,000 Words, Many of Them Ominous, From Donald Trump's Tongue

By PATRICK HEALY and MAGGIE HABERMAN

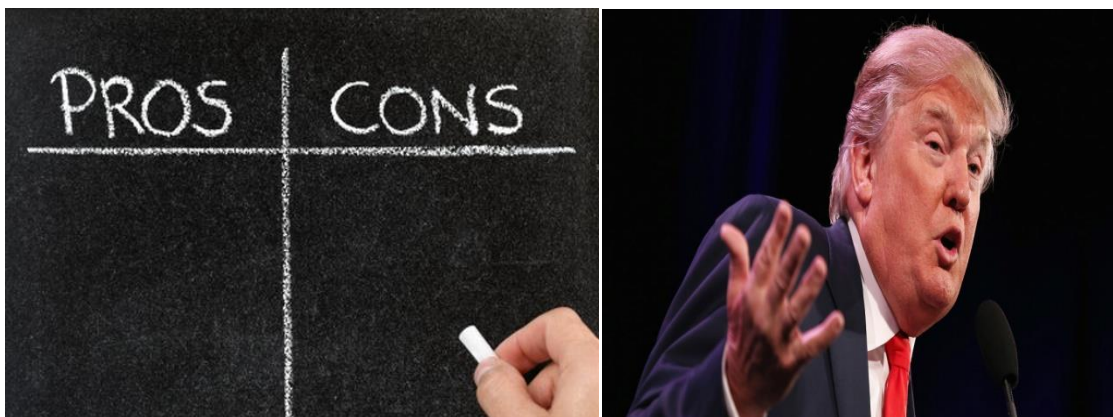

An analysis of 95,000 words Mr. Trump said in public in the past week reveals powerful patterns in his speech which, historians say, echo the appeals of demagogues of the past century.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

This Donald Trump phenomenon has been a very hard riddle for the crack analysts at The Anti-New York Times to solve conclusively. On the one hand, in the 'minus' column, he is financially linked to more big-shot New York Tribesmen than one could shake a Menorah at; he has shown liberal leanings in the past; he loves Bibi Satanyahu; he engages in outrageous Muslim-bashing; he seems to have something going on with that vile Zionist mega-tool Ted Cruz; and he offers up zero specifics as to what exactly he would do to "make America great again".

On the other hand, in the 'plus' column, he is the only candidate who wants to get along with Russia; he favors keeping Syria's Assad in power; he wants to stop illegal immigration cold; he is a competent business leader, he is hated by some prominent GOP & FOX 'neo-cons'; he is financially beholden to no one (or so it seems); and he has even fired back at a Jewish heckler, "You don't support me because I don't want your money. You want a politician you can control."

The enigma of Trump

Perhaps the biggest "plus" to date is this vicious, front page hit-piece coming from the seditious scribblers at Sulzberger's Slimes. In our opinion, this is not a case of strategic "sheep dipping" (mild cosmetic attack intended to enhance Trump's conservative credentials among knee-jerk Republicans). To the contrary, this assault not only seems very real; it ranks right up there with any bit of fecal matter that the Slimes ever slung at Joe McCarthy or David Duke! It's that brutal.

Have a whiff:

"The New York Times analyzed every public utterance by Mr. Trump over the past week from rallies, speeches, interviews and news conferences to explore the leading candidate's hold on the Republican electorate for the past five months. The transcriptions yielded 95,000 words and several powerful patterns, demonstrating how Mr. Trump has built one of the most surprising political movements in decades and, historians say, echoing the appeals of some demagogues of the past century."

Further in:

"This pattern of elevating emotional appeals over rational ones is a rhetorical style that historians, psychologists and political scientists placed in the tradition of political figures like Goldwater, George Wallace, Joseph McCarthy, Huey Long and Pat Buchanan, who used fiery language to try to win favor with struggling or scared Americans."

And that's months away from the first State Primary of 2016! To support their diabolical diatribe, the Slimes called to witness Professor Jennifer Mercieca of Texas A & M and Professor Michael Kazin of Georgetown University -- a pair of libtard 'historians' (is there any other kind in American academia?) cherry-picked to "examine" Trump's speeches for traces of "demagoguery".

The high & mighty Pinko Professors have spoken: Trump is a "demagogue" (and Obongo isn't?)

What are the Jewish-owned media and academic elites so afraid of? Could it be that they fear that a very wealthy and very famous Anglo might break and go his own way on some key issues -- a la John F Kennedy? Or is it that Trump's relatively strong support among Blacks and Hispanics threatens to smash the Left's Democrat coalition?

No one can say for sure. Only time will tell the true tale about Trump. But for now, we here at The Anti-New York Times will continue to strongly distrust 'The Donald' -- even as we strongly root for him at the same time. Pardon our schizophrenia, but such is the desperate state of political affairs that the land of the unfree and the home of the dumb-as-dirt has degenerated to.

Long - McCarthy - Goldwater - Buchanan

Trump should feel honored to be lumped in with such anti-Establishment icons. -- Notice how Life Magazine made it seem like Mr. & Mrs. Goldwater were giving a 'Nazi' salute.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that historians who have analyzed some of Trump's speeches say they are similar to Joe McCarthy's.

Boobus Americanus 2: Indeed, that's how Hitler got started.

"You sstupid &^%$ ^%#@ )%# imbeciles!!!"

(Just when Sugar was beginning to wean off the foul language, you two boobs had to go and bash McCarthy and Hitler -- her two favorite men!)

NY Times: No Reason to Exclude Transgender Medical Care

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

In the aftermath of what is, in 20/20 hindsight retrospect, starting to look more and more like a MediCare-mandated, hospital-imposed, cost-related, morphine-induced, stealth euthanasia of my dear nonagenarian mother -- now is the worst possible time for that putrid piece of propagandizing human vermin ~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board" to be calling upon the government and insurance companies to squander limited health insurance resources for the bodily mutilation of trannie freaks.

Free health care for illegal alien invaders: -- spend, spend spend.

Free genital mutilation for trannies: spend, spend spend.

Save the life of Mamma King --- drip, drip, die --- of "breathing problems!" (read about palliative care killings)

Deep breath --- into the Slimes cesspool we go:

"Move on old lady! We need those resources for more important things."

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": A decade ago, when she was starting to transition genders, the artist known as Our Lady J steeled herself as she called endocrinologists, seeking one who would prescribe hormones. "I couldn't find a doctor," said the classical pianist and singer, who is currently a writer for the television series "Transparent."

Rebuttal: The role of a doctor is to preserve health and save lives -- not to aid and abet the neurotic self-mutilation of badly confused psychopaths.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": (Lady J) "I was treated like a freak."

Rebuttal: A sound medical diagnosis.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Since then, the medical community in the United States has resoundingly concluded that transgender care — which includes hormone replacement therapy, counseling and surgical procedures — is medically necessary and should be covered by insurance.

Translation: The Powers-That-Be got to the "medical community" and forced them to redefine sanity.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Federal health officials say insurers and medical providers that discriminate against transgender individuals by denying transition-related care are violating the law.

Translation: But juicing up pneumonia-weakened 90 year-olds with breath-suppressing morphine while deceiving the flustered family with undue pessimism is not only legal, but encouraged.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": And a recent study by Johns Hopkins University found that providing transgender-related care is cost-effective in the long run because it generally reduces the likelihood of depression, anxiety and other conditions that take a toll on well-being and productivity.

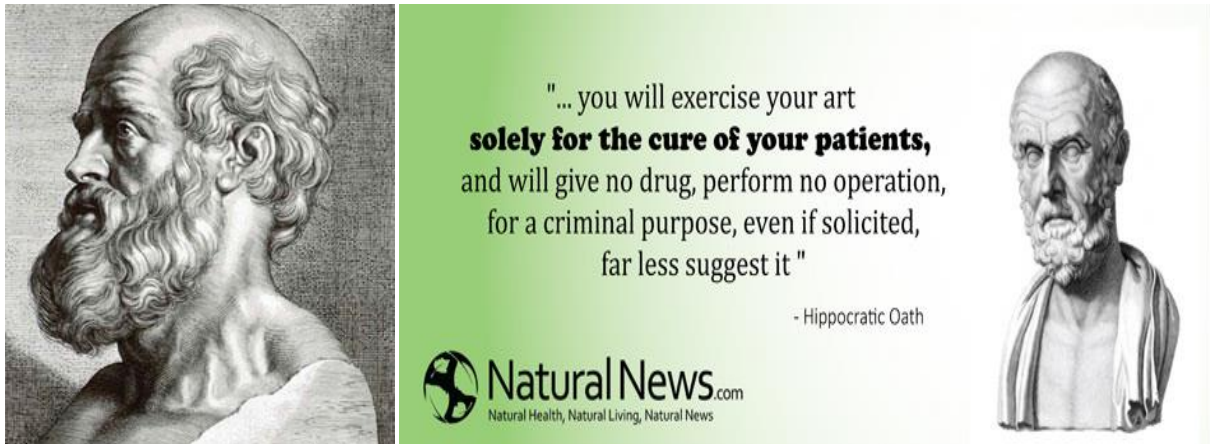

Rebuttal: Oh, Johns Hopkins said this. It must be true.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Moreover, the cost of this coverage for insurers would be negligible.

Rebuttal: Ah yes, the old "it's-only-$9.99-per-month" sales trick. Taken individually, each of the FedGov's million mandates has a cost which is "negligible". But after the costs of the mandates and regulations are tallied up; rationing / triage must take place.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Yet transgender Americans continue to face significant barriers to affordable medical care because of exclusions in health insurance policies

Rebuttal: In what parallel universe does the intake of hormone blockers, the mutilation of genitals and the implanting of fake breasts in what God made male constitute "medical care?"

Hippocrates, the father of medicine, is surely spinning in his grave.

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": ... and a scarcity of specialized providers.

Rebuttal: Perhaps we should pass a law forcing some doctors to change their specialties?

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": When Our Lady J learned this fall that the Writers Guild of America health plan, which provides an insurance plan for writers in Hollywood, does not cover transition-related care, she was distraught.

Rebuttal: The freak was "distraught" because his / her / its health plan won't raise rates to include the "services" he / she / it wanted. Cry me a river, freak.

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": It reminded her of a darker time in her life, when she was suicidal and struggled with substance abuse, largely as a result of being unable to afford the medical care she needed.

Rebuttal: No, Rosenfilth. "Lady J" did not "struggle with substance abuse" because he / she / it couldn't get mutilated. Clearly, he / she / it had serious psychological issues since childhood. If we really want to help these people, lets focus on that so we can build a new God-centered world in which less people lose their minds like this.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": “Having to battle for insurance and having to battle with doctors is overwhelming,” Our Lady J said. “Taking care of your health as a trans person can feel like a full-time job.”

Rebuttal: Waaah! Waaah! Waaah! Thing J may piss and moan like a little girl, but that still doesn't make her one. The fact that ~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board" would even give public hearing to such insane whining is evidence of a plot to destroy western civilization.

Rosenvermin doesn't really believe that the the degeneracy of nut-jobs such a 'Our lady J' is normal. He's laughing at the chumps who do.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": For decades, transition-related care was a fringe medical specialty.

Rebuttal: "Transition-related care", eh Rosenmaggot? Don't you just love how there serpentine scribblers invent innocent-sounding terms to cover up that which is utterly repulsive? Let's cut the crap and speak clearly:

Transition-related care = Genital mutilation

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": There was no consensus among doctors about the wisdom and safety of helping people transform their bodies. Over time, as more people transitioned, researchers recognized that people who got treatment were more likely to lead healthy, productive lives.

Rebuttal: "Happiness" is just a snip-snip and a pair of falsies away, eh Rosenfeces? Sure it is.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": The American Medical Association, the largest group of doctors in the country, published a landmark resolution in 2008 that said barriers to transition-related care needed to be eliminated, citing “an established body of medical research that demonstrates the effectiveness and medical necessity” of transition-related care.

Rebuttal: Classic 'Appeal to Authority Fallacy'. The fact that the vaunted AMA says so proves only that the AMA says so. Nothing more.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Every other prominent medical association in the country has echoed that assessment.

Rebuttal: Classic 'Bandwagon Fallacy'. The "experts" are only following - "echoing" - the politically correct edict of the AMA.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": But a corresponding shift in public policy has begun to take root only over the past couple of years. In 2014, an Army veteran successfully appealed Medicare’s policy of refusing to pay for sex reassignment surgery.

Rebuttal: Medicare now has money for that though!

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": Federal health officials who reviewed her complaint concluded that such exclusions were “no longer reasonable,” in light of the growing body of medical research.

Rebuttal: "the growing body of medical research" --- from the same type of twisted geniuses whose "Palliative Care" schemes may have put my mother on a controlled path to death.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": The ruling changed Medicare policy and was a turning point in the fight for transgender equality, because private insurance providers and state officials often adopt Medicare coverage standards.

Rebuttal: Any diversion of resources from the truly sick, be it physical (hospital rooms) or financial (expensive life-saving attention) must necessarily contribute to higher medical costs and the associated triage that goes with it.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er "The Editorial Board": State officials in at least 12 states — including New York — and the District of Columbia have taken steps in recent years to bar insurance companies from excluding transgender care in policies.

Rebuttal: But they will not "bar" the abominable practice of 'terminal sedation' designed to stop the breathing of the elderly sick -- under the pretext of "relieving discomfort'.

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": The Department of Health and Human Services issued a proposed rule on the issue this summer, saying policies that categorically exclude gender transition care are discriminatory under the Affordable Care Act.

Rebuttal: When Homo-Obongo talked about "fundamentally transforming America" back in 2008, he wasn't kidding! And nor was his tranny husband.

In her / his / its rare wigless moments, The First Tranny manifests tell-tale signs of male-pattern baldness.

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": Michael Silverman, the executive director of the Transgender Legal Defense and Education Fund, said this could mark a transformational moment.

"But we will still see a period of time when entrenched attitudes and misconceptions continue to prevail," he said.

Rebuttal: Michael Silverman, eh? A nice Italian boy --- or is that Irish? (cough cough)

Andrew Rosenthal, er "The Editorial Board": The collective toll these exclusions take on the transgender community, and American society, is sobering. Researchers have found that transgender people who are unable to transition medically are more likely to suffer from depression, more prone to self-destructive behavior and less likely to be employed.

Rebuttal: Then just put on a damgum dress and some make-up! Stop forcing the rest of us to pay for 'transition'. We have some truly sick people, whose families have paid a fortune in lifetime taxes into the system, that need the resources.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that private insurers are being required to follow Medicare's lead and cover gender transition services.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's good. A person has a right to do whatever he or she wants with their own body.

"Not on my friggin' dime they don't!"

NY Times: Fear of Terrorism Lifts Donald Trump in New York Times/CBS Poll

By JONATHAN MARTIN and DALIA SUSSMAN

Americans are deeply fearful of another terrorist attack, lifting Donald J. Trump to a new high among likely Republican primary voters, the poll found.

NY Times: Voter Insecurities Feed Rise of Right-Leaning Populist Politicians

By DAVID D. KIRKPATRICK

Financial worries and fears about terrorism and immigration are contributing to a rise in right-wing politicians in Europe similar to Donald J. Trump.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Two propaganda poop pies, one aimed at anti-migrant-invasion American Presidential candidate Donald Trump -- the other, at anti-migrant-invasion French Presidential candidate Marine Le Pen -- appear side-by-side on the front page of this edition of Sulzberger's Slimes. Putting aside the dubious "merits" of each of these two enigmatic egomaniacs; and also putting aside the fact that "Islamic Terrorism" is a fictitious bogeyman, the biased language of these articles clearly indicates the 'powers-that-be' are concerned about what is part of a growing backlash against their imposed "diversity" (code language for wiping out White folk in their own countries.)

Note the powerful loaded adjectives asserting that the respective supporters of Trump and Le Pen are driven by paranoid neurosis. From the article about Trump:

Headline: "Fear"

Sub-headline: "Deeply fearful"

Paragraph 1: "Americans are fearful" ... "a gnawing sense of dread"

Paragraph 3: "moment of deep anxiety"

Paragraph 5: "He'll keep a sharp eye on those Muslims," Bettina Norden, a farmer in Springfield, Ore., said in an interview."

Paragraph 8: "renewed fear"

Paragraph 20: "many Republicans are filled with both fury and fear" ... "boiling anxieties"

Paragraph 21: "I'm mad about the Muslims coming in, said Manuel Hart, 71, a retired fire chief in Silver Springs, Fla."

Paragraph 23: "The country's trepidation"

How the Slimes represents Trump's White supporters.

From the article about Le Pen (note the repeated mantra of the terms "right" and "right-leaning"):

Headline: "Voter insecurities"

Sub-headline: "worries and fears"

Paragraph 2: "capitalizing on a climate of insecurity"

Paragraph 3: "some have neo-Nazi roots"

Paragraph 7: "a radical shift"

Paragraph 8: "right-leaning populist parties across Europe"

Paragraph 9: "cultural chauvinism"

Paragraph 11: "jeopardizing the progress she had made in shedding her party's previous image as racist and anti-Semitic."

Paragraph 13: "right-leaning populist parties

Paragraph 14: "a right-leaning populist party

Paragraph 16: "streaks of nativism have surfaced in Western Europe"

Paragraph 17: "nativist sentiment"

Paragraph 18: " a right-leaning populist ... pulled further rightward by a more extreme rival, the Jobbik Party."

Paragraph 20: "insecurity"

Paragraph 25: "what right-wing populist discourses mean"

Paragraph 26: "the core constituencies of the new right-wing parties were working-class men."

Paragraph 29: "and others on the right"

Paragraph 30: his own right-leaning populist presidential campaigns"

"It's right-leaning! Oh my God!"

Though it is a good sign that the "left leaning" scum at Sulzberger's Slimes appear to be soiling their pink panties at all the "right leaning" that's taking place in America and Europe, the vexing question still remains: Do these "right leaning" parties and candidates truly represent a recalibrating of Western politics? Or are these relentless attacks from the Slimes intended to 'sheep-dip' what is actually a controlled and/or watered down opposition?

Trump, Le Pen and other "right leaning" European political parties all talk a good game; and may indeed be sincere in certain areas. But they are still part of "The Establishment", or have at least one foot in the Establishment camp. Always remember that, and proceed with extreme caution.

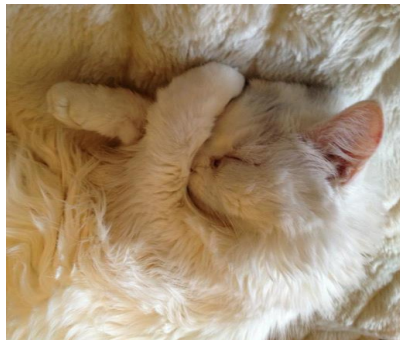

It's a shame -- and a mystery -- that Ron Paul never got the air and print time that "anti-Establishment" Le Pen (one of the TIME 100) is now getting.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that fear and insecurity are fueling a rapid growth in right-leaning nativism.

Boobus Americanus 2: Indeed. This is exactly how Hitler got started.

"Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz"

(I KNEW one you ass-clowns was going to invoke a Hitler analogy over this. So I took the necessary precautions to spare our audience from one of Sugar's patented outbursts of expletives. Sorry for that, you Sugar sycophants.)

NY Times: The Global Face of Student Protest

By EVE FAIRBANKS

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Since the days of the multiple French Revolutions of the 1800's, the New World Order crime gang has, through its agent provocateurs, skillfully played upon the emotion-driven immaturity and stupidity of "students". As tools of higher unknown handlers, college protesters serve as the perfect battering ram to be used against a targeted government or policy.

That's because half-educated young know-it-alls, aka the so-called "best and the brightest", are smart enough to see that matters of state and society can always be improved; dumb enough to not see that they are being used by forces with ulterior motives; and conceited enough to think that their silly little tantrums are what is bringing about the "change" in the world. And after the glorious "change" comes to fruition, the little brats are discarded like used-up lemons - to be replaced for the next "cause" by the next crop of graduating "gifted & talented" High School brats. Naturally, as the world's leading organ of N.W.O. propaganda, count on Sulzberger's Slimes to glorify "student protests" all across the globe.

Without the hype of the Slimes and the rest of Piranha Press behind them, these clueless commie kiddies would never be heard.

At the push of a button, the CIA or some lesser Leftist handling group, can bring out legions of libtarded brats to protest this or that. For the really big stuff, like "Color Revolutions", the student flash mobs can be merged with mobs of factory workers and paid NGO (Non-Governmental Organization) agitators. Agents of the press will then hype the "spontaneous protests" -- drawing in all manner of assorted malcontents, dupes, or just bored passersby suddenly excited by "a cause". In such cases, once the crowds grow large enough, the authorities can be maneuvered into violence, invoking charges of "human rights violations" and calls for "sanctions", or even "no fly zones" (as in Libya) by the seditious scribblers at Sulzberger's Slimes.

This "student protest" scam-scenario has been re-run more times than old episodes of "I Love Lucy" -- and still the commie kiddies never seem to figure it out. You see, the genius of the scam lies in the fact that by the time some of these chumps grow up and shed, or at least partially shed, their libtard ideology and/or activist passion; there is always a new crop of 17 & 18-year old malleable minds arriving on campus. This new crop of pimple-faced idiots, puffed-up in their own minds by high SAT scores and/or the "achievement" of college acceptance, are no match for the smooth-talking and soul-wrecking pinko professors who anxiously await them.

That's how this ghoulish game, this fiendish fraud, this seditious scam of "student uprisings" really works -- and the scheming scum at The New York Slimes all know it.

The University of CIA at Langley offers fellowship programs all across the globe.

Hong Kong / USA / Chile

Egypt / Iran / Italy

Germany / Malaysia / Australia

Ukraine / Hungary / Brazil

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a fascinating article in the New York Times today about the growth in student protest movements across the world.

Boobus Americanus 2: It is heartening to know that so many young people remain intellectually engaged in political matters. There is hope yet for this troubled world.

"You &#$(& @ cretinous credulous corn-ball! You're even dumber than these college kidss if you believe that!"

NY Times: Protests Continue in Brazil Against Dilma Rousseff

By SIMON ROMERO

NY Times: As Economy Lags, Hugo Chávez's Movement Fades in Venezuela

By WILLIAM NEUMAN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

When it comes to New World Order geo-politics, the chess moves and the key pivot points have always played out across the massive Eurasian land mass. In his 1998 book, 'The Grand Chessboard', the cunning demon Zbigniew Brzezinski (CFR, Trilateral Commission, Bildeberger) spelled it out for us (for his fellow Globalists to be more precise).

Zbig:

"Eurasia is the chessboard on which the struggle for global primacy continues to be played ... it is imperative that no Eurasian challenger emerges, capable of dominating Eurasia and thus also of challenging America."

Brzezinski is right. Win Eurasia -- Win the world.

With Canada, the U.S., Mexico, all of Western Europe and most of Eastern Europe all safely caged within the N.W.O.'s maximum security penitentiary, the final conquest of Asia - stretching from Muscovite Russia, to Iran, to resource-rich Russian Siberia, to China - is the main focus of the Globo-Zionist Mafia. If those vast areas and populous powers should ever fall, any African and South American holdouts would be easy 'mop up operations' for the One World Group. That is why we don't hear as much about South American targets as we do about Eurasian ones.

Nonetheless, Sulzberger's Slimes, in service of the Council of Foreign Relations, has neither forgiven, nor forgotten those pesky Latin American governments that had the impertinence to throw a proverbial 'monkey wrench' into their now-dead plan to unify South America with North America. And THAT is why, in spite of their strongly socialist leanings, we see simultaneous attacks on Venezuela and Brazil in this issue of the New York Slimes.

Follow the historical sequence of events and you will clearly see the pattern -- the same pattern we see all over the world whenever nations disobey the control freaks of the New World Order.

1994: Under the guise of "promoting free trade", the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) goes into effect. NAFTA's true purpose is to begin the process of creating a North American Union (similar to the EU) by integrating the economies, and then the political systems, of Canada, the U.S. & Mexico.

Republican Congressional leaders supported Democrat President Clinton's signing of NAFTA.

1998: Soon after NAFTA is established, efforts are made to expand the concept into the Free Trade Area of the Americas (FTAA). All of the nations of Central and South America are to be included (entrapped).

2000's: Several South American leaders come out strong against the FTAA idea. Venezuelan leader Hugo Chavez of Venezuela boldly denounces the scheme as a Yankee conspiracy; declaring that the FTAA is an "annexation plot and tool of imperialism." On a much more low-key level than Venezuela's colorful Chavez, Brazilian President Lula DaSilva (and also Argentinian President Cristina Fernandez de Kirchner) derail the FTAA.

The Globalist scheme misses its initial target goal of a 2005 roll out.

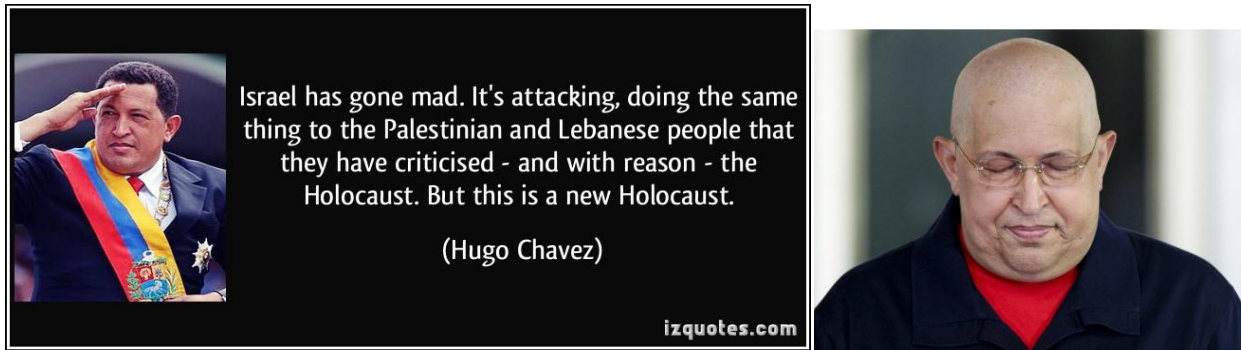

Chavez (VNZ), DaSilva (BRA), Kirchner (ARG)-- far from perfect and very left-wing -- yet unwilling to surrender sovereignty to the FTAA.

2009: After undermining the FTAA, Brazil instead joins up with a trading bloc conceived by Putin & Medvedev of Russia. Up yours America! The group, formed in 2009, is known as the BRIC nations (Brazil-Russia-India-China), and has since expanded to BRICS (South Africa joined in 2010). Members of BRICS work to increase trade amongst themselves, without creating political entanglements. The BRICS nations also support the replacement of the US dollar as the Global Reserve currency.

Brazilian President Dilma Rousseff is a frequent target of Sulzberger's Slimes. Can you see why?

2013: Nationalist Venezuelan leader Chavez, who was also an outspoken critic of Israel and a friend to the Palestinians, dies at age 59 after a lengthy battle with a strange type of cancer. In 2010, Chavez had claimed that Israeli agents were trying to kill him. Many Venezuelans believe that he was poisoned.

More than two years after the strange death of Chavez, Venezuela, under President Maduro, is more vulnerable than ever to CIA-Mossad subversion.

2013: In July of 2013, a CIA-Mossad "spontaneous uprising" breaks out during a Brazilian hosted soccer tournament. This 'Brazilian Spring', complete with stupid students and English language signs, was unleashed to punish Brazil's defiance and destabilize its government.

CIA University has been activating its "spontaneous" student idiot protesters in both Venezuela (left) and Brazil (right).

So you see, dear reader, as a rule of thumb, a 'Rosetta Stone' if you will; anytime you see a negative media spin about any government on the face of the planet; know that the government in question, regardless of whether the allegations being leveled against it are true or not, has been behaving naughtily in the illuminated eye of the N.W.O. masters of the universe. That's our secret formula for deciphering world events, and we are pleased to share it with you.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a pair of articles in the New York Times today about the growing opposition to the current Presidents of Brazil and Venezuela.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. These spontaneous protests have been breaking out with greater frequency in recent years. It may be time for a change.

"The only thing 'sspontaneouss' here is your @!&^%$# sstupidity!"

NY Times: Why Very Low Interest Rates May Stick Around

By NEIL IRWIN

A 200-year history shows that the real aberration looks like the 7.3 percent average experienced in the U.S. from 1970 to 2007.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

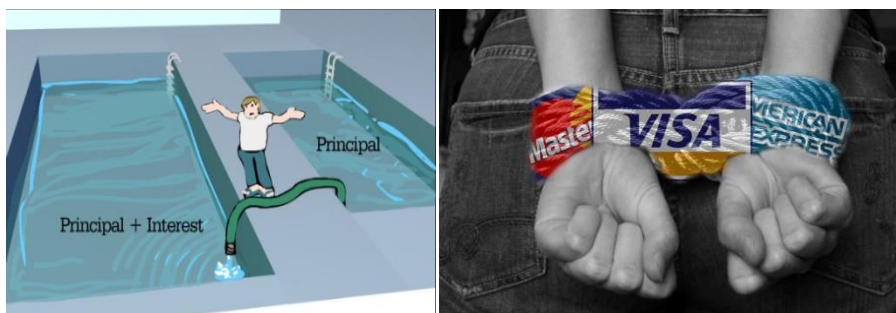

The engineered public ignorance about the true nature of the Federal Reserve's counterfeiting, loan-sharking and market-rigging operation -- along with the Holohoax, the Kennedy assassination, and the Fairy Tale of the 19 hijackers of 9/11 -- ranks as among the greatest and most enduring magic shows of the past 100 years. The fleecing of the working man, year after year, decade after decade, becomes all the more appalling when we realize just how 'out-in-the-open' the basic scam of money lending is. If you haven't yet read 'Bancarotta!', you ~~should~~ must. Trust us, you and your friends / family will be amazed at how simple it is to understand the basic dynamics of the fraud of state-imposed usury -- what the eggheads of academia refer to as 'monetary policy'.

BANCAROTTA! -- A fun and easy to understand allegory that tells how the people of Pizza & Pasta and Beer & Strudel were cleverly defrauded by a slick money lender who stored their coins for them.

We have two main objections to this piece of Sulzbergerian slime. Firstly, the unquestioning tone of the article assumes that the system of debt-based currency (state-imposed usury), in which all currency must be injected into the system at interest, is somehow normal, natural and necessary. In reality, the world monetary system, unbeknown to even most politicians and academics, is steeped in fraud. Indeed, modern banking practices were banned for centuries in many places throughout Christendom and the Islamic world.

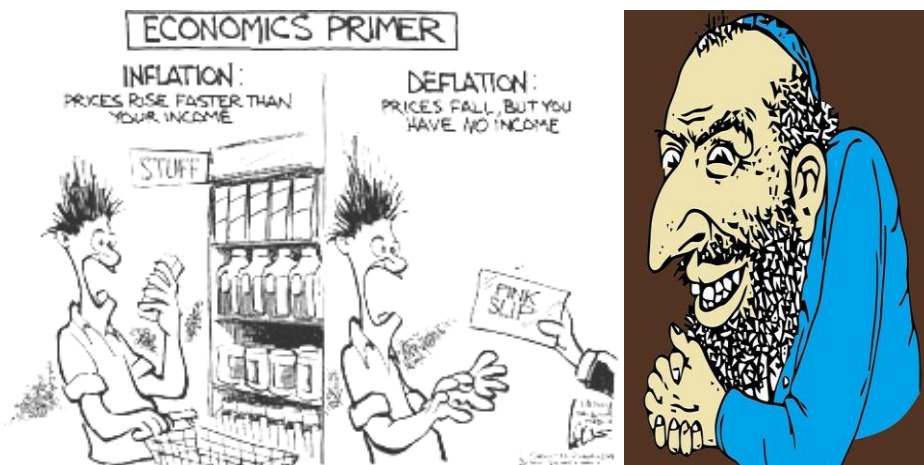

Because all currency must be injected by loans, there must necessarily be, at all times, more debt outstanding than there is money in circulation. This amounts to guaranteed perpetual (and unnecessary) debt slavery for all but the very wealthy. Good for the banksters -- bad for John Q. Public.

Principal + Interest is always greater (by far!) than Principal only. The unpayability of interest necessitates perpetual growth of the Money Supply (more debt)

The second problem with this article, again by deliberate omission, is its failure to elaborate upon the perilous predicament -- the lose-lose financial scenario -- in which the U.S. and Europe today find themselves in. On the one hand, an increase in Federal Reserve interest rates charged to the nation's banks, which would decrease borrowing, would choke off the magic money hose and leave debt-ridden consumers and businesses with less new currency to get their hands on. Bankruptcies and unemployment would necessarily soar and the bubble stock market would crash.

The other choice, which involves maintaining the Fed's Prime Rate near 0% and keeping the new "heroine" flowing into the blood stream, means a continuation of the growing debt-burdens and steady price inflation and/or package "shrinkflation" that any thinking man can, despite the Slimes deceitful claim of "no inflation", easily see at any local grocery store. Either way, the day of painful economic reckoning must surely arrive. Whether the crash comes all at once, or on the installment plan is of little consequence.

An excerpt from BANCAROTTA!

Setting: The money lender has been chased out of the Kingdom of Pizza & Pasta. He arrives in the Kingdom of Beer & Strudel seeking asylum after fleeing from what he claims was "anti-Semitic" persecution.

Mordecai: Would Your Highness be so gracious as to grant me asylum and allow me to settle in your beautiful Kingdom?

King Rudolf: Of course! You may stay at your leisure. I am sure you will find my loyal subjects among the most tolerant and virtuous folk in all of Christendom. But tell, my dear man, how will you earn your keep? What exactly is your trade?

Mordecai: I am a financier, Your Highness.

King Rudolf: A financier? What does that mean?

Mordecai: My business is to store the gold and silver coins of the people in a safe vault, at no charge to them. I then lend the coins to those in need. They in turn repay the loaned coins, along with a bit extra, which I share with savers. Everybody wins, Your Highness!

King Rudolf: What a wonderful idea! I am sure my subjects will benefit from such a service. In fact, if you prove your worth, I may in time deposit some of the public treasury with you. It sounds like an easy money-maker! And don't you worry about anyone resenting you when you become rich again. In my Kingdom, envy is a sin. I wish you great financial success, and you may worship, or not worship, as you will.

Mordecai: Oh great King! Solomon in all his wisdom could not match the correctness of the merciful blessing which you have bestowed upon your newest and most humble subject. May I refer to you as Rudolf the Wise, Your Highness?

King Rudolf: I like your attitude, Mordecai! Since you will be storing gold, from hence forward ye shall be known to all as Mordecai Goldstein. Now, rise to your feet, my good man, and embrace your King.

Mordecai: Mordecai Goldstein -- I like it!

Welcome to the Kingdom of Beer & Strudel!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today saying that this extended period of low interest rates is actually normal.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. With inflation near zero, the Fed is doing the right thing.

"The only thing that is 'near zero' is your $^(%@ I.Q., not inflation!"*

NY Times: Sheldon Adelson Said to Be Buyer of Las Vegas Review-Journal

By RAVI SOMAIYA and SYDNEY EMBER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Multi-billionaire casino mogul Sheldon Adelson (cough cough) already owns the Republican't Party to such an extent that even elements of the "mainstream media" have jokingly referred to the ongoing GOP race as "the Adelson Primary". At the 2012 National Republican't Convention, the zany Zionist and his Israeli-born wife, Miriam, even had a tent named in their honor.

From a recent issue of New York Magazine -- an article headlined 'Sheldon Adelson is Ready to Buy the Primary':

"In 2012, Adelson spent $20 million supporting Newt Gingrich, single-handedly keeping him afloat during the primaries and doing great damage to Mitt Romney in the process; then, after Gingrich finally fell, Adelson shelled out $30 million to plump up Romney. All told, Adelson reportedly spent $100 million against Obama in 2012. In 2016, says one prominent Republican operative, 'every candidate thinks, I can either be the Gingrich of the cycle, meaning Sheldon could give me oxygen, or I don't want to be on the opposite side of who his Gingrich is this cycle. They want to benefit from Sheldon's largesse or make sure no one else benefits from it.' "

More:

Yahoo Politics: 'Millions at Stake, the 'Adelson Primary' is Neck and Neck'

Forbes Magazine: 'The Adelson Primary'

Forward (Jewish Magazine): 'What Happens at Adelson's Primary Stays There'

Politico: 'Rubio Takes the Lead in Adelson Primary'

Las Vegas Sun: 'Ted Cruz Hits the Adelson Sweet Spot'

"This is my Republican Party and its going to be strictly kosher!"

All totalled, 460,000 such "mainstream media" items turn up under the search term: 'Adelson Primary'. So, to the self-professed, self-righteous guardians of 'tolerance' out there -- spare us the worn-out whining about "anti-Semitism" and "conspiracy theories". Sheldon and Miriam Adelson's ownership of this pathetic pack of pandering puppets (Cruz, Bush, Christie, Rubio, Kasich) is as self-evident as Soros' ownership of Obongo and Killary.

Adelson's disdain for Obongo and preference for warmongering Republican'ts has nothing to do with domestic political ideology. He is a single-issue donor and that issue is all about 'Greater Israel' -- an idea which many of the Soros-type / Brzezinski-type Globalists and their Marxist stooges have never been all that enthusiastic about. For scum like Adelson, if faced with a choice, Greater Israel must take precedence over World Government, which can come later as far as they are concerned.

Sheldon & Israeli-born Miriam Adelson invest heavily in politicians in Israel and America.

Now comes word that the odious Oligarch, who once openly stated that he wanted to drop nuclear warning bombs in the Iranian desert, and later on Tehran itself if his demands weren't meant, was secretly (until now) branching out his influence-buying activities to include newspapers. From the Slimes article:

"The billionaire casino magnate and Republican donor Sheldon Adelson is behind the mysterious purchase of The Las Vegas Review-Journal for $140 million, according to two people familiar with the matter

The revelation, first reported by Fortune and later reported by the newspaper itself, solves a riddle that had fascinated those in political and news media circles since the sale, for a lavish price, was announced last week and attached only to a newly incorporated company called the News and Media Capital Group."

At a synagogue event hosted by Zionist extremist Rabbi Shmuley Boteach (left), Adelson was caught, by I-phone camera, saying to the Rabid Rabbi:

"What are we going to negotiate about? I would say 'Listen, you see that desert out there, I want to show you something.' ... You pick up your cell phone and you call somewhere in Nebraska and you say, 'OK let it go.' And so there's an atomic weapon, goes over ballistic missiles, the middle of the desert, that doesn't hurt a soul. Maybe a couple of rattlesnakes, and scorpions, or whatever.

Then you say, 'See! The next one is in the middle of Tehran. So, we mean business. You want to be wiped out? Go ahead and take a tough position and continue with your nuclear development. You want to be peaceful? Just reverse it all, and we will guarantee you that you can have a nuclear power plant for electricity purposes, energy purposes.'

Adelson also owns the large circulation Tel Aviv newspaper Israel Hayom -- a bullhorn of pro-Bibi Netanyahu warmongering propaganda. What accounts for Adelson's sudden interest in investing so heavily in a dying industry at such a "lavish price"? Why was he so secretive about the transaction? Well, you see, dear reader, it's not about making money. Adelson's has his casinos to do that for him. As the new and true owner of the largest newspaper in an early Primary (Caucus) State, Adelson is now well-positioned to enhance his monetary bribes with timely puff-piece endorsements, penned by his hired scribblers, as he and Miriam stay in the shadows.

Where Trump fits into this is hard to say with absolute certainty, but the warning signs are troubling. We do know that Adelson's short list has been narrowed down to the boy Marco Rubio (who is also backed by billionaire Zionists Braman and Singer) and the odious Zio-bootlicker extraordinaire Ted Cruz. We also know that Trump and Cruz have this weird little 'bromance' going on -- one which includes "secret talks" and an oh-so-obvious 'non-aggression pact' between the two (notwithstanding the occasional verbal girly-punches exchanged just to 'make it look good'). And finally, we know, from the Slimes' story of two days ago, that casino-mogul Trump initiated a meeting with casino-mogul Adelson:

Trump:

"Sheldon knows that I'm in town because of the debate, and he's been a friend of mine for a long time. He called to see whether or not we could meet, and we are going to meet."

But three people briefed on the scheduled meeting said it had been initiated by Mr. Trump and his aides, who have repeatedly sought face time with the influential donor during the year."

Perhaps it would be best, and certainly much more honest, if the GOP cuts the bull-shine now and just directly nominates Adelson for President when the 2016 Convention rolls around.

1 - 2015: Sheldon and Miriam rise to give a standing ovation to Bibi Satanyahoo as he addresses the U.S. Congress

2 - 2015: Cruz and Adelson get cozy at the annual Dinner of the ZOA (Zionist Organization of America)

3 - 2014: Chrispy Creme Christie to Adelson: "You gonna finish that, Mr. Adelson?"

1- Cruz refers to Shmuley Boteach (Adelson's bombing buddy) as his "favorite Rabbi".

2- Donald & Teddy -- a love story. ('thumbs-up' photo from July 2015)

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today which revealed that a big Republican casino mogul quietly bought the Las Vegas Sun under the name of a front group.

Boobus Americanus 2: He will probably turn it into a propaganda sheet to advocate for tax cuts for the rich.

"Your half-right Boobuss -- which is an improvement for you!-- The part about turning it into a propaganda ssheet is correct. But it'ss about waging wars for Greater Israel -- not tax cuts.-- You %& @#(& ^#@(& @!"

(You were doing so well, Sugar -- until you got to the very end. Incurrigible. Absolutely incurrigible.)

NY Times: Crimes Against Muslim Americans and Mosques Rise Sharply

By ERIC LICHTBLAU

Hate crimes against Muslim Americans and mosques across the United States have tripled in the wake of the terrorist attacks in Paris and San Bernardino, Calif.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Putting aside for a moment the bloody damn evil of the whole Zionist-Marxist mendacity machine, one has to stand in awe of the sheer genius of it all -- particularly the manner in which these Sons of Satan will so often accomplish multiple objectives with a single play.

Take the War on Iraq, for example. At the behest of the Jewish Power, an enemy ruler, Saddam Hussein, was removed from power in Iraq (and executed) while the "White" Republican't Party got stuck with all the blame for starting the disastrous war. As a result, the Marxist Democrats took control of Congress in 2006 and the Marxist queers Mr. & Mr. Obongo were installed in the White House in 2008.

The most recent illustration of this two-for-one subversion move involves the back-to-back false flag attacks of Paris and San Bernardino, California. As always, Muslims / Arabs were falsely accused while ignorant Whites and the Republican Party walked right into the trap of spouting overtly bigoted rhetoric that will only serve to alienate non-Whites -- pushing them further and further into the Democrat-Marxist camp.

Of course, leave it to the slanderous Slimes to then piss and whine about the very same "Islamophobia" and "racism" which its own seditious scribblers created by selling one false-flag event after another after another after another to the gullible public.

Eric Lichtblau (cough cough) is the Pulitzer Prize-winning author (red flag!) of this piece. He is also the author of the nonsensical 'The Nazis Next Door: How America Became a Safe Haven for Hitler's Men.' By never questioning the authenticity of any of the numerous CIA & Mossad false-flag attacks, scum such as Lichtblau and his Sulbergerian superiors have created the culture in which violent bigotry towards innocent Muslims must surely grow. They then turn around and blame the hatred of Muslims on the intolerance and stupidity of angry FOX News-watching White people. Thus, Muslims look bad and White conservatives look bad at the same time. Genius!

To psychoanalyze the angry Whites who are now themselves terrorizing innocent Muslims, Lichtblau calls to witness Brian Levin (cough, cough), a criminologist at California State University, San Bernardino. Mr. Levin runs a 'hate-crimes' research group at the university, the Center for the Study of Hate and Extremism, which produced an "analysis" and provided the results to Slimes:

Mr. Levin informs us:

"The terrorist attacks, coupled with the ubiquity of these anti-Muslim stereotypes seeping into the mainstream, have emboldened people to act upon this fear and anger."

Rebuttal: Levin fails to mention the fact that the ISIS "terrorist attacks" (real or not) have Zionist fingerprints all over them. He also omits the fact that "anti-Muslim stereotypes" are only "seeping into the mainstream" because the related industries of "mainstream" media and Hollywood are both Zionist through and through.

Levin, again:

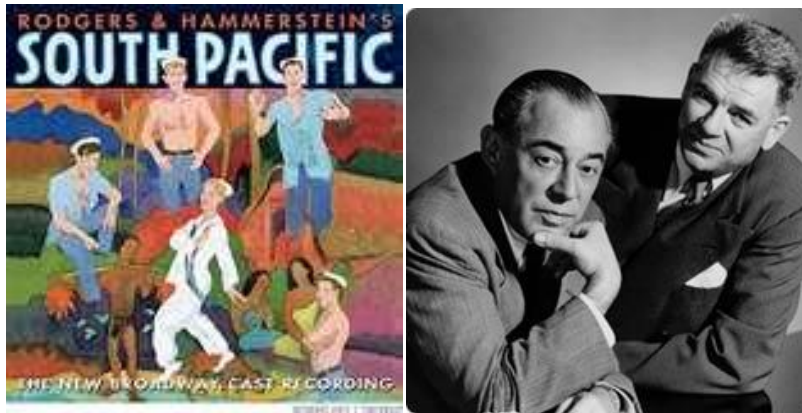

"I'm saddened by this but not surprised. Whenever we see intergroup conflicts making headlines, we often see a spike in hate crime accompanying it."

Rebuttal: If Levin is indeed so "saddened" by this latest "spike" in anti-Muslim hate crime, then why won't he finger his fellow tribesmen in the Piranha Press and Hollywood as the main culprits? No, let's blame the blind bigotry on ignorant "White guys", eh Levin?

Though they feign compassion and empathy for wrongly persecuted Muslims, tribesmen Eric Lichtblau and Brian Levin will never name the true culprits behind anti-Muslim paranoia and hysteria.

It is so ironic -- hypocritical to be more precise -- to hear these crooked characters lecture us about the very "hatred" which they themselves have taught uninformed Whites / Christians to have against Muslims. It calls to mind the sanctimonious lyrics of 'You've Got to Be Carefully Taught', a famous song from the hit 1949 musical, 'South Pacific', composed by Richard Rodgers (cough cough) and Oscar Hammerstein (cough cough). The subject was about the acceptance of interracial relationships.

Tribesmen Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein graciously warned us Whites about teaching "hatred".

You've Got to Be Carefully Taught

You've got to be taught
To hate and fear,
You've got to be taught
From year to year,
It's got to be drummed
In your dear little ear
You've got to be carefully taught.

You've got to be taught to be afraid
Of people whose eyes are oddly made,
And people whose skin is a different shade,
You've got to be carefully taught.

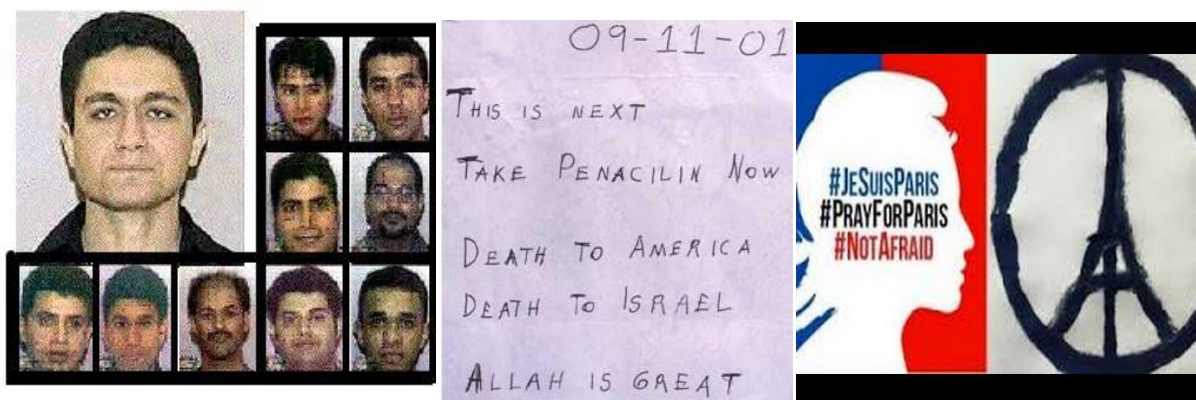

You've got to be taught before it's too late,
Before you are six or seven or eight,
To hate all the people your relatives hate,
You've got to be carefully taught!

Who was it that "carefully taught" these fools to "hate and fear" innocent Muslims with such a murderous passion? We know who --- and so does Sulzberger, Lichtblau, Levin, and the late Rodgers and Hammerstein.

It was the Zionist Press that "carefully taught" Americans that Muslims carried out the false-flag attacks of 9/11, the Anthrax letters, and the Paris massacre.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today about the disturbing outbreak of violent hate crimes being perpetrated against Muslims in America.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's just terrible. Who taught these ignorant people to hate so much?

"It was the %$#(& #@#'s!!!"*

(face to palm --- deep sigh)

NY Times: Disputing Korean Narrative on 'Comfort Women,' a Professor Draws Fierce Backlash

By CHOE SANG-HUN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

By now, regular readers of TomatoBubble.com and The Anti-New York Times understand very well the long litany of lies and omissions of the "official" World War II narrative. Though most of the content we have to date assembled on the subject deals with the European theater of the grand history-altering event; make no mistake -- the tsunami of lies fed to us about Imperial Japan is just as breathtaking in its moronic mendacity as the tall tales spun about the big bad "Nazis" (a term of Jewish propaganda).

There is the big lie of "the Rape of Nanking" -- a case in which a handful of unintended civilian casualties was spun by both Chinese Communists and Nationalists into a deliberate genocide of 300,000 civilians.

There is the big lie of "unprovoked surprise attack" on the U.S. military base at Pearl Harbor -- a justified first strike that peace-seeking Japan was methodically maneuvered into to by FDR and the gang of demonic advisers surrounding him.

There is the big lie of "the-Atom-Bombs-saved-lives-by-ending-the-war" -- spun at a time when a collapsing Japan was actually trying to surrender!

LIES! LIES ! LIES!

Now comes a claim from, of all people, a South Korean female researcher / author that the well-known story of the Korean "comfort women" - long said to have been forced into sex-slavery by the Japanese military - is not exactly accurate. And furthermore, according to this surprisingly fair story in the Slimes, the author, Ms. Park Yu-ha, is catching all manner of hell from her fellow Koreans. (Welcome to the academic outcast club, sweetie.)

From the article:

"In February, a South Korean court ordered Ms. Park's book, "Comfort Women of the Empire," redacted in 34 sections where it found her guilty of defaming former comfort women with false facts. Ms. Park is also on trial on the criminal charge of defaming the aging women, widely accepted here as an inviolable symbol of Korea's suffering under colonial rule by Japan and its need for historical justice, and she is being sued for defamation by some of the women themselves.

The women have called for Ms. Park's expulsion from Sejong University in Seoul, where she is a professor of Japanese literature. Other researchers say she is an apologist for Japan's war crimes. On social media, she has been vilified as a "pro-Japanese traitor."

Ah yes! Silence the heretic! Then hang her for "treason". Nothing strikes a raw nerve like a brazen bit of truth. The violent reaction against Ms. Park is alone evidence that she has stumbled onto some inconvenient truths.

According to the "traitor" Ms. Park, the conventional story of the "comfort women" is mostly war propaganda.

Ms. Park is quoted:

"They do not want you to see other aspects of the comfort women," the soft-spoken Ms. Park said during a recent interview at a quiet street-corner cafe run by one of her supporters. "If you do, they think you are diluting the issue, giving Japan indulgence."

The main forbidden revelations of Ms. Park's book are:

- It was private profiteering pimps (both Korean & Japanese), not the Japanese government or military, that organized the prostitution operation that "serviced" Japanese soldiers.
- Many of the prostitutes were willing participants.
- There were also women who freely cavorted with and sometimes fell in love with Japanese soldiers.

Think about it -- Ms. Park's alternative history of the "comfort women" makes perfect sense. For if prostitution is indeed "the world's oldest profession" -- then pimping the whores out for profit has got to be the second oldest. Like flies drawn to Moochele Obongo's armpits, so too do pimps and prostitutes buzz towards a well-funded army of single men in their twenties. What is so bloody gosh-darn hard to believe about that?

1- "Me love you long time." --- Scene from the film 'Full Metal Jacket' depicts Vietnamese prostitutes soliciting U.S. servicemen -- a very common occurrence!

2- Real Vietnamese War prostitutes. The Vietnam War was great for business.

ADDENDUM: After first publishing this piece, 'T.O.', a TomatoBubble / Anti-NY Times reader and veteran who was once stationed in South Korea, sent in the following testimonial about his own observation of the "comfort women".

"Yes, there were many comfort women in Seoul while I was there in 1966-7. They weren't typically "pimped" by any organization; rather they most often were pimped by their families -- who took most of the money they made and vilified them to their siblings. Most of them turned tricks to support the rest of the family knowing that they were not allowed back into their homes. Unless they "hooked up" with a GI, many ended up committing suicide at some point since Korean men wouldn't have them for anything other than blowing a load."

Great testimonial T.O. -- and thanks!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today about some crazy Korean author. She claims that the Japanese government did not force the comfort women of World War II into sex slavery.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's ridiculous! The tragic story of the comfort women is a well-known historical fact --- just like the Holocaust.

"And just like Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny and the Tooth Fairy too --- you gullible #^%$#@ nitwits!"

(Well, Sugar, since you no longer believe in Santa Claus; then + he can cross you off of my his Christmas list.)

NY Times: Donald Trump Campaign Lags in Mobilizing Iowa Caucus Voters

By TRIP GABRIEL

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As an astute businessman and savvy public relations genius, surely candidate Donald Trump understands that if he is to beat the Republican't Establishment, success in the early primary states is absolutely essential. And surely he must know that poll numbers can be rendered meaningless if your 'get-out-the-vote-operation' is not primed and ready to roll like a well-oiled machine come Election / Caucus Day.

*Poll numbers are important, but without a strong telephone & "ground game" to get voters to the polls, Trump will lose -- and Trump knows it!

It may therefore come as an unpleasant surprise to those of you who have not heeded our repeated, though qualified warnings about this man Trump and his true intentions. From the article, a very telling, and very ominous excerpt:

"Trump has dominated much of this political season, excited an often-ignored part of the electorate, filled huge arenas with followers and upended the rules of how modern campaigns are run.

But now he faces an urgent question: Can he actually win crucial early contest states?

Translating a personality-driven campaign to the voting booth is no easy feat.....

*But here in the state with the first nominating contest, about six weeks away, Mr. Trump has fallen behind in the nuts and bolts of organizing. A loss in Iowa for Mr. Trump, where he has devoted the most resources of his campaign, could imperil his leads in the next two nominating states, New Hampshire and South Carolina, where his get-out-the-vote organizations are even less robust.

A successful ground game is crucial in Iowa because of the state's complicated method of caucus voting, but the Trump campaign has lagged in reaching some of its own benchmarks."

In the key early voting states of Iowa, New Hampshire and South Carolina; Trump has "less than robust" ground games. Why is that Donald?

How are we to account for this strange lack of a "ground game" in Iowa, New Hampshire and South Carolina? It can't be due to stupidity because Trump is quite competent at business and marketing. It can't be due to lack of money because Trump is a billionaire. It can't be due to lack of time because Trump has been the "front-runner" for about 5 months.

Our hypothesis? After systematically wrecking every Republican't in the field - the first and foremost being Rand Paul - Trump is going to sit back and allow the superior ground game of the odious Ted Cruz to get out Iowa's Christian Zionist vote in such force as to defeat Trump in the Iowa Caucus. Cruz's victory, combined with Zionist Mogul Sheldon Adelson's expected cash; and more of Trump's get-out-the-vote weakness in New Hampshire and South Carolina, would then propel the Texas Senator, whose wife, Heidi, is a member of the N.W.O.'s Council on Foreign Relations, even further.

Could Trump's sudden "carelessness" regarding the inexplicable failure to build an organization be related to his "secret talks" with Ted Cruz and his ongoing communication with Adelson? Sorry Trump fans. We hope to be proved wrong; but we are beginning to smell a fixed-match.

2- Donald & Teddy -- a love story. ('thumbs-up' photo from July 2015)

Oh -- one more thing. While Trump was "sleeping", can you guess who has quietly amassed the most formidable early-state "ground game" since the German Waffen SS? Headline from the Slimes, October, 2015:

Ted Cruz Amasses Ground Game That Covers Every County in Four States

"For every county in the first four voting states of Iowa, New Hampshire, South Carolina and Nevada, the Cruz campaign has locked down county chairs in charge of not just lending their names to the campaign, but of spearheading outreach and organizing efforts."

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today that Trump has so far failed to build a strong get-out-the-vote operation in any of the early primary states.

Boobus Americanus 2: I'm surprised that Trump would make such a huge oversight.

"Oversight my assss! The game iss fixed!"

NY Times (Op-Ed Column): Germany, Refugee Nation

By ROGER COHEN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

When the likes of Slimes columnist Roger Cohen (cough cough) begin singing the praises of Germany, it can only mean one thing -- Germany is committing national suicide! Just get a whiff of this fallacious fecal matter:

"There's a new can-do nation. It's called Germany. The United States, fear-ridden, has passed the torch.

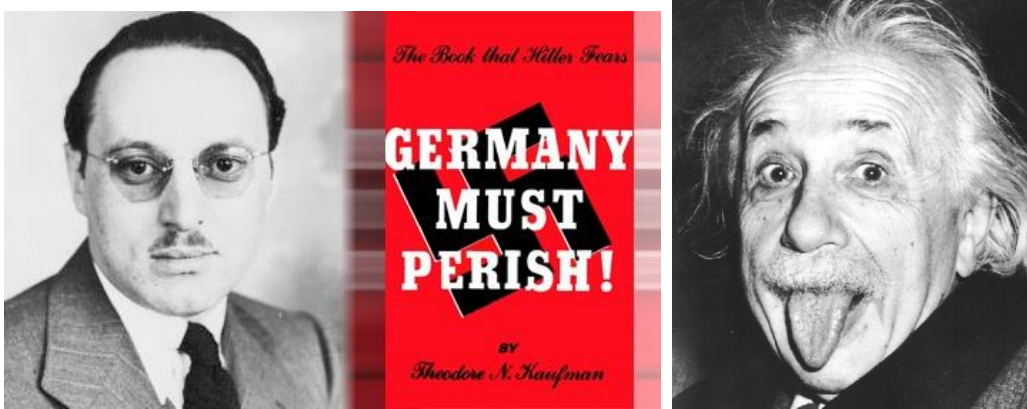

Throughout the extraordinary process that has seen roughly one million refugees arrive in Germany this year, Chancellor Angela Merkel has had a consistent refrain: "Wir schaffen das" — "We can do this." The gesture in question is the most extraordinary redemptive act by any European nation in many years."

Translation

(imagine a hushed-tone midnight conversation between Cohen and Soros in a Jewish cemetery):

Cohen: Under the influence of our media power, the guilt-ridden Nazi goy filth are now doing to themselves what we had only dreamed about with our Bubonic Plague, European wars and post-World War II Morgenthau Plan. Now, with the lowest birth rates in the world and the highest immigration rates in the world, only a few decades separate us from the complete extinction of the pure Aryan race of Germany. L'Chaim!

Soros: Mazeltov! And the same goes for the Scandinavians.

1- Theodore Kauffman: *"How can you get peace if Germany exists? The only way to win an eternal peace is to make the punishment of waging war more horrible than war itself. Human beings are penalized for murder, aren't they? Well, Germany starts all the wars of magnitude. Let us sterilize all Germans and wars of world domination will come to an end!"

2- Albert Einstein: "The Germans can be killed or constrained after the war, but they cannot be re-educated to a democratic way of thinking and acting.".....it is hoped that by war's end, they will largely have been killed off."

Trust us on this one, folks --there are plenty more such shocking hate-quotes where those came from. Let there be no doubt that the leading elements of 'The Tribe' have always had, and still do, a burning desire to phase out the big bad White Man in general, and the German people most of all. And let it not be said that this death wish is the result of a misinterpretation of Hitler and World War II -- for the unprovoked Jewish tormenting of the gentle Germanic peoples dates back to the Middle Ages.

Moreover, the chosenites ran into conflict with the ancient Egyptians, Persians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Greeks, and Romans; as well as the medieval and post-Renaissance French, Spaniards, Portuguese, Italians, English, Russians, Poles and others. Whatever excesses and overreactions may have been committed by the various peoples of Europe, the word "reaction" necessarily implies an original "action" -- which we are all supposed to obediently pretend never happened as we go on group-whining about "The Spanish Inquisition" or "The Russian Pogroms" or "The Holocaust" -TM.

1- Due to the Jews' history of poisoning wells, and because they were largely unaffected ("passed over") by the Black Death, many medieval Germans became firmly convinced that the plague was deliberately man-made. In the 1330's, Jewish villages were burned down and many Jews were killed in retaliation.

2- The popular allegory, BANCAROTTA! - by M S King- explains how Jewish money lenders abused and confounded simple German (and other) folk of the Middle Ages.

The real "crime" of the German people has always been the envy they have brought upon themselves for being so darn industrious, smart, tall, good-looking, cultured, talented and, most of all, difficult to conquer. Only now that the badly brainwashed Germans are eagerly conquering (and exterminating) themselves upon the altar of the New World Order do they earn the sudden "praise" of Satanic scum such as Mr. Cohen.

Oh great and gentle Germania! Hear it from this 3/4 Italian, 1/4 Irish boy in America: Wake up and smell the murderous matzo-ball soup in which you are slowly but surely being boiled alive in. Wake - the - hell - up!!!

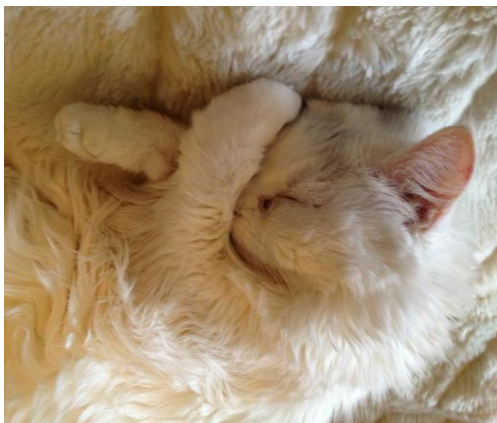

*The Firebombing of Dresden (1945) -- Manly Merkel's organized "migrant" Invasion (2015) -- Berlin Sodomite Parade (2013) ---- Different tactics but with the same goal -- and the same planners!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today praising Germany for taking in over one million refugees.

Boobus Americanus 2: The German people have indeed come a long way. The racial hatred promoted by Hitler will never rise again in Germany.

"Zzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzz"

(Stupidity-induced heart attack; or, cirrhosis of the cat liver -- a tough spot you office ass-clowns have put me in!)

NY Times (Op-Ed Column): N.B.A. Lends Its Name and Its Stars to Campaign Against Gun Violence

By ZACH SCHONBRUN and MICHAEL BARBARO

The league is teaming up with Everytown for Gun Safety, an organization that advocates gun control, and 30-second ads will air during a series of marquee games on Dec. 25.

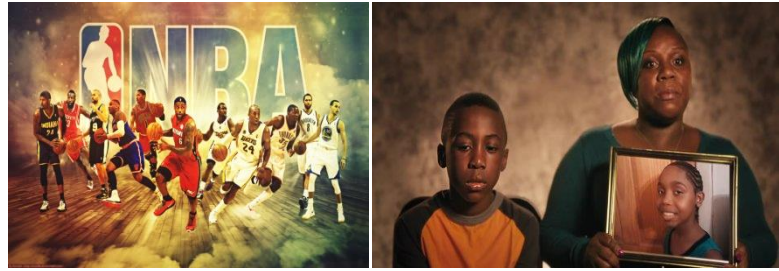

An image of the Warriors' Stephen Curry from an ad that is the result of a partnership between the N.B.A. and the organization Everytown for Gun Safety.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The NBA (National Basketball Association), now said to be so "alarmed by the death toll from shootings across the country", is stepping into the gun control "debate" with an aggressive advertising campaign in partnership with 'Everytown for Gun Safety', one of the nation's most aggressive advocates of striking down the Second Amendment.

The geniuses and scholars of the NBA will lecture the Boobus Sports Nuts of America about "gun violence."

From the article:

"In a move with little precedent in professional sports, the N.B.A. is putting the weight of its multi-billion-dollar brand and the prestige of its star athletes behind a series of television commercials calling for an end to gun violence.

The first ads, timed to reach millions of basketball fans during a series of marquee games on Christmas Day, focus on shooting victims and contain no policy recommendations."

"The prestige of its star athletes?" Only in such a decadent and degenerate age as this could a collection of barely literate jocks be tagged with the label "prestigious". Of course, the athletes aren't the ones pushing this garbage. It is always the administrative 'head honchos' who organize this cheesy crap and then spoon-feed it down the throats of their captive audience.

And who is it exactly that controls professional basketball in America? We really hate to sound so obsessive on this subject of Jewish domination of this, that and the other thing; but gosh darnit, the chosenites ~~seem to be~~ are under every rock! Let's flip a few of these slimy stones over and see for yourself.

Immigrant Invasion Fag/Tranny Power Anti-Gun Rights Economic Ruin

Middle East Wars Anti-Russia / China War on Whites Media Control

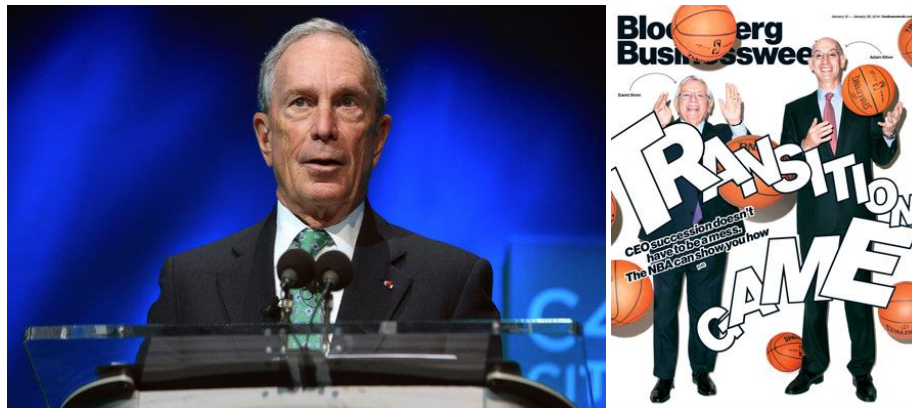

Professional Sports Pornography Academia Global Warming Hoax

Seek and ye shall find them -- again and again and again and again and

The anti-gun-rights organization that paid for the expensive ads, Everytown for Gun Safety, was founded by billionaire media mogul Michael R. Bloomberg, (cough-cough) the former Mayor of New York. The anti-gun-rights Commissioner of the NBA is Adam Silver, (cough-cough) who only just last year succeeded long time anti-gun-rights NBA Boss David Stern (cough-cough). It was Stern, you may recall, who presided over the ridiculous anti-gun-rights name change of the Washington DC team in 1997, a franchise owned by Abe Pollin (cough cough) -- from the Bullets to the 'Wizards'.

ALL IN THE TRIBE

Bloomberg's Business Magazine ran a nice puff-piece on the NBA's "transition" of power from Chosenite David Stern (1984-2014) to his deputy, Adam Silver (2014 - present)

To give this Yiddish affair a more "grass roots" smell to it, Bloomberg, we are told, in typical string-pulling front-man fashion, enlisted the aid of the degenerate Communist film director -- the rabidly Anti-White Spike Lee. Sulzberger's Slimes reports that it was Lee who "brokered the Bloomberg-N.B.A. partnership" -- as if Bloomfilth and his synagogue buddy Silver really needed this worthless little piece of urban street trash to bring the two together and "broker" a deal. (rolling eyes)

Spike Lee, left, with Al Sharpton in New York at a protest against "gun violence". Lee "brokered" the Bloomberg-Silver deal to run the emotionally manipulative ads on Christmas Day.

What is this obstinate obsession that the Big Jews have, and have always had, with "gun control?" We can safely rule out any heart-felt concern about the mostly Black "victims" -- privately denigrated as 'schwartzas' at the Hanukkah table. Trust us on this one -- this push, at its highest levels, is not about well-meaning but stupid "liberals" innocently pursuing misguided ideas. And any "conservative" who claims that it is (FOX News, Limbaugh, Hannity et al) is doing their devotees a deliberate disservice.

You see, Messrs. Bloomturd, Silver and Stern couldn't possibly care any less about degenerate 'gang-bangers' shooting each other or even innocent Black bystanders. The same can be said about Spike Lee, Al Charlatan, Jesse Jerkoff, Mr. & Mr. Obongo and the rest of that greasy bunch of ambitious Black front-men -- true 'Uncle Toms' if ever there were. So then; what is the real reason for the never-ending push to ban firearms?

Answer: When "they" (cough cough) finally drop the Homeland Security / NWO martial law hammer down on top of us; "they" want to be sure that a few million angry 'good ole boys' (White ones) won't have anything left in their hands to shoot back with. It's that simple -- and it's that serious.

The house-to-house searches that followed the Boston Smoke Bomb were a martial law test-run -- and the obedient sheeple of Boston passed with flying colors! Other parts of the country might not be so compliant -- and THAT is why "they" want the guns.

The three most notorious and fanatical gun-grabbers in the U.S. Senate -- Schumer (NY), Blumenthal (CT), Feinstein (CA) -- all have something in common. Can you guess what it is?

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today about the NBA teaming up with Mike Bloomberg to promote gun control.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's a great idea. Famous athletes have influence and a moral obligation to be good role models.

"Role modelss my ass! Those sstupid thugss can't even read the Ssecond Amendment -- let alone interpret it!"

(Yes, but they can dunk a basketball. Sheeple respect that.)

NY Times (Op-Ed Column): Drought Deepens South Africa's Malaise

By NORIMITSU ONISHI

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Whether the primary motivation for the Slimes' decision to run this sad story has to do with South Africa's affiliation with BRICS trading bloc or not is unclear. Putting that issue aside for now, the harsh impact of the drought in South Africa is very real. What's interesting about this article, however, is that, when read 'between the lines', it essentially admits what a disaster the Jewish-Globalist overthrow the big bad South African White Man has been for both the White minority and the Black majority of this once prosperous nation -- a 'First World' state that was sold out by the New World Order and its loony legions of "anti-Apartheid" libtard activists.

1- Ever since South Africa was handed over to the Marxist ANC of the late Nelson Mandela - shown above with S.A. Communist Boss Yossel "Jos" Slovo (cough cough) -- it's been a downhill slide for both the Whites and Blacks.

2- The terrorist Mandela was treated like royalty by "conservative" President George Bush I (an ex-CIA Director). Under the watch of Bush I, and with his full blessing- South Africa's Whites became dispossessed of the great nation that their Dutch forefathers had built from scratch.

Let's examine some of the more revealing excerpts of this article:

EXCERPT: The worst drought in more than a generation has gripped South Africa and other African nations as El Niño, a weather phenomenon believed to have been intensified by climate change, brings record high temperatures and low rainfalls across much of the continent.

ANALYSIS: The part about the drought is true; and the part about the naturally-occurring phenomenon of 'El Niño' may have some merit to it; but this rubbish about "believed to have been intensified by climate change" is the Slimes way of adding a touch of propaganda to the story. In science, there is no "believed to have been" - it either is, or it isn't.

EXCERPT: The full impact of the drought and resulting poor harvests will be felt only in the months ahead, but they have already left 29 million people in southern Africa without reliable access to food, according to the United Nations.

ANALYSIS: No worries. The Frumpy Frau of Germany will take them in.

EXCERPT: ... the drought has deepened an economic and political malaise in South Africa ...The country is close to slipping into recession, the result of falling commodity prices and the erratic economic policies of President Jacob G. Zuma's administration.

ANALYSIS: This is an admission that South Africa is being misgoverned by the post-Apartheid neo-Marxist ANC (African National Congress). The "racists" have been denounced for saying this all along. Evidently, now that Jacob Zuma has economically allied South Africa with the Russia-China bloc, it is finally permissible to state the obvious, namely, that the ANC sucks!

Zuma and his ANC gang are indeed a bunch of incompetent clowns; but South Africa's membership in BRICS is the real reason why the the father of 20 children from multiple women often gets negative coverage in the Western JudenPress.

EXCERPT: The drought, the worst since the end of apartheid in 1994, has hit black farmers the hardest.

ANALYSIS: Why would Black farmers be more vulnerable to the effects of drought than the White farmers? More on that to come.

EXCERPT: For many, years of investment and work have evaporated in recent months, with minimal help coming from provincial governments led by Mr. Zuma's party, the African National Congress. If losses continue or deepen, the drought could eventually pose a challenge to the African National Congress...

ANALYSIS: More Zuma-bashing -- interesting. Again, Zuma is indeed an incompetent crypto-commie scumbag, but his BRICS membership is problematic for the Globalists.

EXCERPT: Some of the A.N.C.'s most loyal supporters are small-scale black farmers who benefited from the government's land redistribution policies. Since 1994, the government has taken more than 200 million acres of agricultural land owned by whites and distributed it among 235,609 black South Africans ...

ANALYSIS: Aha! So, experienced White farmers whose expertise fed southern Africa and beyond were kicked off their land so that novice Black farmers could have their farms.

EXCERPT: The figure is far below the A.N.C.'s goal of redistributing 30 percent of the land....

ANALYSIS: In other words, the policy of confiscating and redistributing White-owned farmland was so destructive and counter-productive for all that the anti-White ANC was forced to come to its senses and slow down the practice.

Many farmers who have not been dispossessed have been killed by more radical elements of the ANC youth mobs.

EXCERPT: White South Africans still dominate commercial farming. Many black farmers have been unable to move beyond small-scale or subsistence farming because of a lack of capital, experience and land.

ANALYSIS: In other words, Affirmative Action Farming has been a failure.

EXCERPT: Still, between 30 to 40 percent of Black-owned farms were profitable before the drought...

ANALYSIS: The corollary of "30-40 percent of Black-owned farms were profitable before the drought" is that 60-70% of them were NOT profitable. That's a horrible record!

EXCERPT: The drought is wiping out many of the gains black farmers made after the end of apartheid, said Mandla Buthelezi (the leader of a farming association) ... He said he had lost 300 cows out of a herd of 800 in recent months on his farm in the eastern province of KwaZulu-Natal. "This knock will take black farmers not less than 15, 20, 30 years to recover," Mr. Buthelezi said. "We didn't do our homework very well. We weren't proactive. We're just reacting to the drought."

ANALYSIS: This is an clear admission of incompetence, coming from Mr. Buthelezi himself.

EXCERPT: Willem de Chavonnes Vrugt, a white farmer and an official at a farmers' association that runs workshops for black farmers, called the drought an "act of God," but said that problems such as overstocking or overgrazing had aggravated the situation. "Nobody can plan for the severity of the drought the way it is," he said, "but the drought is more severe if you've got bad farming practices."

ANALYSIS: More confirmation of the harsh reality --- skilled White farmers were replaced by unskilled Black farmers. And now, many Blacks and White will go hungry.

EXCERPT: "The problem with black farmers is the lack of capital, land and skills," said Jeremiah Moiloa, 24, who majored in agricultural sciences in college. "That's why we can't manage the animals during the drought."

ANALYSIS: "Lack of capital?" -- Bull-Shine! The ANC gave Black farmers generous subsidies and livestock to get started.

"Lack of land?" -- Dude! You got 200 million ready-to-farm acres handed to you all on a silver platter!

"Lack of skills?" - Well, Jeremiah, ya got 1 out of 3 right.

EXCERPT: His father, James Moiloa, the chairman of a group representing the 15 families, has lost four cows recently, leaving him with about 100. A former civil servant, Mr. Moiloa, 73, became a full-time cattle farmer 12 years ago.

ANALYSIS: Cheese and Crackers!!! They stole land from White families whose farming roots go back as much as 200 years, and gave it to a then-61-year old "civil servant" with no experience? Are you flippin' kidding me?!

EXCERPT: He (Mr. Moiloo) had attended workshops run by a farmers' association, but his experience, he said, was limited.

ANALYSIS: Naaah. Really? Ya think?

EXCERPT: "When we buy feed from the white farmers, we ask them for advice," he said, looking at a pen that held his cattle, some of them visibly emaciated.

ANALYSIS: No need for your wise-cracking reporter here to comment any further. Even after a whole bottle of Sugar's vodka, one wouldn't be able to produce better comedy than this.

Black farmers may be struggling, but rhino & elephant ivory poachers are flourishing like never before in "the new South Africa."

Boobus Americanus 1: I'd like to try to something new. I'm thinking of taking up commercial farming.

Boobus Americanus 2: You? A farmer? What do you know about farming?

Boobus Americanus 1: I have tomato plants in my yard.

"Just put on ssome black-face and Jungle-Boy Zuma will give you a few 1000 confisscated acres in Ssouth Africa. "

(The sad part about what you just said, Sugar --- it's probably correct!)

NY Times: ISIS Influence on Web Prompts Second Thoughts on First Amendment

By ERIK ECKHOLM

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For the past two years now, we here at The Anti-New York Times have been mercilessly mocking these stupid stories about the Internet-based "recruiting" efforts of the invincible and invisible ISIS.

From our September issue of 2014:

"No one knows where ISIS came from, or where they got their arms, or where they get their financing. They cannot be spotted by satellite. They cannot be infiltrated by covert ops. Their online recruitment activities cannot be tracked by the NSA. Silver bullets, Holy Water and Crucifixes are powerless to stop them. Not even whole garlic cloves can stay the desert-dwelling men in black ski-masks away from their mission of attacking and destabilizing Israel's neighbors (coincidentally, of course)."

From our December issue of 2014:

*"Social media? T-shirts? Mugs? Who is actually manufacturing and selling these ISIS swag items? Where can one buy some? Is there a website address? Are the sales done online, at a local shopping mall, on QVC? Why can't the all-mighty NSA trace the IP addresses of the online networkers and salesmen? Why can't they be tracked down? Who is paying for the Internet service? Who is publishing these "terror websites": GoDaddy.com?"

The online recruitment Fairy Tales are almost as idiotic as the fake beheadings.

Not only have these basic questions about "recruitment" never been answered by the "mainstream media" -- they are never even asked! The long-running joke of ISIS (Israeli or International Secret Intelligence Service) rolls on with this latest piece of Sulzbergerian slime. A few excerpts about the "online recruitment" efforts of ISIS -- followed by our questions / commentary:

EXCERPT: But in response to the Islamic State's success in grooming jihadists over the Internet, some legal scholars are asking whether it is time to reconsider that constitutional line.

REBUTTAL: How exactly are they "grooming jihadists over the Internet?" The Slimes, as usual, fails to cite a single website, chat room post or Facebook / Twitter page.

EXCERPT: Hillary Clinton said the government should work with host companies to shut jihadist websites and chat rooms.

REBUTTAL: Again, not one "jihadist website" or "chat room" is named.

EXCERPT: Some security experts called on YouTube to ban videos of lectures by Anwar al-Awlaki, which helped radicalize the attackers in San Bernardino, Calif., and many others.

REBUTTAL: Alleged "radicalization" by the bogeyman al-Awlaki does not constitute "online recruitment". Mr. Eckholm; please tell us exactly how ISIS is recruiting over the Internet.

*The Bogeyman al-Awlaki looks awfully much like an Ashkenazi ---
hmmmmm*

EXCERPT: In view of the Islamic State's successful use of the Internet to nurture terrorists, he said, "it's worth asking whether that test may be ripe for reconsideration."

REBUTTAL: Oh, so the terrorists are not exactly being recruited -- they are only being "nurtured". I see. (rolling eyes)

EXCERPT: Mr. Posner (cough cough) supported urging companies like Facebook and YouTube to crack down on propaganda by the Islamic State, which is also known as ISIS or ISIL, but said that could never be fully effective.

REBUTTAL: If ISIS is posting propaganda on Facebook and YouTube, why not send a CIA or Navy Seal hit team to the home of the parties posting the propaganda? After-all, it is common knowledge by now that the NSA can track every Internet post or phone call on the planet.

And another thing -- Facebook and YouTube are notorious for censoring "racist" content. So why are they allowing posts and videos from "ISIS" then?

EXCERPT: His proposal would make it illegal to go onto websites that glorify the Islamic State or support its recruitment, or to distribute links to such sites.

REBUTTAL: So, the websites in question actually do not belong to ISIS, but rather to individuals "that glorify" ISIS. This still does not answer the question of how one can get in touch with ISIS recruiters online!

"You just fill out a quick and easy online registration form and click 'submit'. A team of ISIS recruiters will review your application send you a membership card with black ski-mask in the mail. Allah Akbar!"

EXCERPT: He would impose graduated penalties, starting with a warning letter, then fines or prison for repeat offenders, to convey that “looking at ISIS-related websites, like looking at websites that display child pornography, is strictly forbidden.”

REBUTTAL: How exactly does an "ISIS-related website" differ from an actual ISIS website? What exactly does it mean to be "ISIS-related?" Can you give us a web address so we can see for ourselves?

EXCERPT: But if more Americans who were indoctrinated by jihadist videos engage in terrorist attacks, they also agree, the (Supreme) Court’s thinking could change.

REBUTTAL: Sounds very ominous -- like a back-door trick towards Internet censorship. First they come for the jihadists -- then they come for the conspiracy theorists?

What a stinking scam! Adolf the Great was soooo right when he, in opposing the corrupt German government of the 1920's, observed:

"What good fortune for politicians that men do not think".

The joke is on you, Boobus Americanus.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today about how ISIS is taking advantage of our First Amendment right to free speech in order to recruit online.

Boobus Americanus 2: The choice between liberty and security creates a delicate balancing act for our political leaders.

Boobus Americanus 1: Indeed.

"Thosse who would give up esssential liberty, to purchasse a little temporary ssafety, desserve neither liberty nor ssafety. -- You frickin' cowardly cornballss!"

(Great Ben Franklin quote, Sugar -- nice alliteration there too.)

NY Times: New York's ID Card Deserves Respect

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, er, "The Editorial Board" (rolling eyes) , that devious defender of the downtrodden is at it again -- stirring up the unwashed proletariat with cries of "injustice" over the refusal of some banks to accept New York City's new ID cards. The issue itself is relatively trivial, but the editorial serves as a very useful example of how these "champions of the oppressed" like to agitate.

Hazmat suits on -- into the Rosenfilth we go!

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise emanating from "The Editorial Board." It's only a pathetic little word-smith typing out lies from behind the curtain.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": New York City's municipal ID card has been a resounding success. More than 700,000 residents have received one since the program began last January. With the card, called IDNYC, as government-issued photo identification, they can open bank accounts, enter schools and other government buildings, use the library and identify themselves to police officers.

Rebuttal: Sounds 'OK'. What's the catch?

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": But there is one troubling hitch. As The Times reported this month, several of the city's biggest banks, including Bank of America, Citibank, JP Morgan Chase and Capital One, refuse to accept the card as a primary form of identification. They either demand another form of government ID, like a driver's license, from someone seeking to open an account or cash a check — or they refuse to accept the IDNYC at all.

Rebuttal: If they are so great, then why are some banks refusing to accept the new ID cards?

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": Their unwillingness, presumably prompted by concerns about fraud, is outrageous.

Rebuttal: Why are concerns about potential banking fraud so "outrageous", Rosenscum? From the Slimes' own article of just last week:

"In the case of the New York ID cards, those efforts are bumping up against another issue facing the big banks: protecting accounts from fraud and money laundering. In recent years, banks have had to pay hundreds of millions of dollars in fines to settle investigations that found they had failed to adequately prevent money tainted by terrorism or illegal drugs from flowing through their branches."

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": Federal regulators have already declared that the IDNYC may be used to verify a customer's identity, and many smaller banks and credit unions accept the card without hesitation, as does the New York City Police Department.

Rebuttal: The fact that Mr. & Mr. Obongo's Federal regulators have given these cards their blessing is irrelevant. If the banks feel that there is high potential for fraud, it's their business -- not the Slimes.

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": The card's documentation requirements and fraud-prevention features are rigorous.

Rebuttal: "Rigorous" my butt-crack! Communist Mayor de Blasio designed the program for the purpose of blending illegal immigrants into a hidden 'de facto' form of citizenship. From the New York Post, September 21, 2015:

"The de Blasio administration is turning a blind eye to fraud in its new city ID program just so the mayor can tout it as a success, inside sources told The Post.

Supervisors at ID NYC routinely rubber stamp suspicious program applications — and have ignored pleas from investigators that they demand firm proof people live in the city, according to two city fraud investigators probing the initiative.

"In a lot of cases, [applicants] don't have proof of residency," one investigator said. "The burden of proof is very, very low."

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": What good reasons could there be for the city's major banks to resist IDNYC?

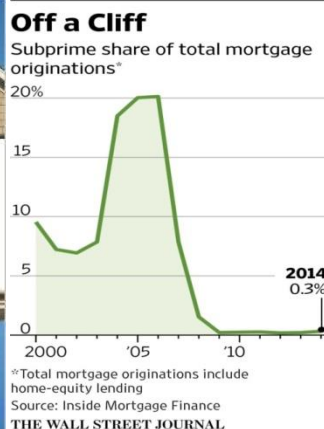

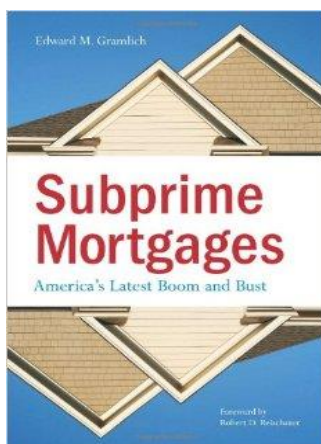

Rebuttal: It's known as BANK FRAUD! Is that reason good enough for you, Rosenvermin?

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": Could it be that those who need to use it as a primary ID card, including undocumented immigrants, might have lower incomes, hence lower bank balances, and thus present less of an opportunity to be squeezed for fees and charges?

Rebuttal: Yes! Of course! That's it! White banking administrators are conspiring against poor Blacks and Browns.

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": Is it really overriding worry about identity theft and money-laundering, or is it more the force of habit in an industry that has long shunned poor neighborhoods and customers?

Rebuttal: This was the EXACT same "discrimination" lament that Rosenretard and his ilk leveled at banks during the 1990's. To appease the press and the Feds, many banks loosened up lending standards and created a "sub prime" mortgage market for the "long shunned poor neighborhoods and customers." When the bad mortgages could no longer be sustained, the bubble popped in 2007 / 2008 -- at which time the pinko press condemned the banks for making bad loans to those very same "long shunned poor neighborhoods and customers!"

Along with then-Fed Chairman and synagogue buddy Alan Greenspan, the greasy gang at Sulzberger's Slimes were among the biggest cheerleaders for the "sub-prime" mortgage programs that were supposed to help "long-shunned poor customers" to become homeowners. After the catastrophic crash of 2008, The Slimes blamed the disaster on "capitalism".

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": Mayor Bill de Blasio and Comptroller Scott Stringer should press the reluctant banks for clear justification as to why they would make it harder for thousands of potential customers to gain an economic foothold.

Rebuttal: Yes, because politicians understand so much about the various methods of bank fraud -- about as much as they understood about real estate and mortgage lending back during the 90's and 00's.

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": As Mr. Stringer has noted, an estimated 825,000 adults in New York City lack even a basic checking account.

Rebuttal: That's because they are either deadbeats, retards or illegal invaders. For goodness sake! I was able to get a bank account when I was 16 years old!

Andrew Rosenthal, "The Editorial Board": That this capital city of banks and bankers should have so many residents without access to simple, affordable banking services — even those who have valid, government-issued ID cards like IDNYC — is deplorable.

Rebuttal: No Rosenfeces. That New York City, (thanks to cough coughs like you) is now home to so many low class invaders who can't even qualify for a basic bank account -- now THAT is deplorable!

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": Typical, given the long history of banking discrimination against minorities and the poor — but still deplorable.

Rebuttal: Rosenscum, you lying Communist agitator; hear it from someone who did a brief stint in the banking world. Banks see only one color -- GREEN! This "discrimination" that you have invented is known as "lending standards" -- aka "The 3 C's" -- Credit, Collateral, Capacity (to repay). If you have "The 3 C's" in order -- trust me -- the money grubbing bankers will kiss your White, Black, Brown, Yellow, Purple or Polka Dot arse and give you any loan you want!

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": IDNYC is one of the de Blasio administration's strongest achievements, a clear example of follow-through on a promise to make practical improvements in people's daily lives.

Rebuttal: It is a "strong achievement", but not for the reasons that Rosendung claims. You see, this card will facilitate voter registration fraud and welfare abuse.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": Anything that needlessly limits its usefulness — and access to banking is a crucial part of the card's great potential — should be resisted.

Rebuttal: Again and again, Rosenvomit refuses to address both the Post's and the banks' detailed allegations of fraud. If these allegations are frivolous as you say, then please refute them -- not with a wave of your hand, but with details.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": Immigrants and the poor need a place to keep their money that is safer than a mattress or coffee can and cheaper than those ubiquitous but extortionate storefront check-cashing places.

Rebuttal: They are mostly illegal invaders. If they don't like having to keep their money in coffee cans, then tell them to go the hell back to whatever Turd World slum from whence they came.

~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board": IDNYC could be an economic lifeline for countless New Yorkers — if only more banks would do their part.

Rebuttal: Rosenstink, banks actually are "doing their part" -- by preventing fraud! But then again, you already know that - you filthy no-good stinking Communist agitator.

Agitator Rosenmaggot can scream "racism" and "discrimination" all he wants, but the serious problems of identity fraud and unrestricted illegal immigration combine to create a very legitimate concern for the banks.

This concludes our latest smack-down of ~~Andrew Rosenthal~~, "The Editorial Board", and our final issue of 2015. After bathing in this cesspool of lies, we're off to take a much-needed bath and enjoy a few days of New Year's R & R.

To all of our readers, from "The Editorial Board" of The Anti-New York Times (Mike & Sugar the Cat) -- Happy New Year to and thanks for your continued support.

See you in 2016!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read an article in the New York Times today about how some banks are refusing to accept the New York City ID Cards.

Boobus Americanus 2: Typical! It's just like the red-lining days when they wouldn't lend money to poor people to buy houses in certain neighborhoods.

"Hey $#@& - for - brainss! I have no income and I want to buy a boarded-up crack housse in the Bronx. Can you lend me ssome money?"
