CONSENT FOR TREATMENT

This is a consent form for acupuncture & related therapies by Barbara Solomon, Licensed Acupuncturist (LAc). I understand that in the State of Oregon, a licensed acupuncturist is not a primary care provider. Barbara Solomon, LAc, recommends that you have a regular primary care provider.

Your Personal Health Information (PHI) will be held in the strictest confidence, as required by law. All information shared by you is confidential unless otherwise noted.

Acupuncture is performed by the insertion of needles through the skin. Heat therapy is the application of a heating device (lamp or herbal stick) to the skin. These treatments are used to treat bodily dysfunction or diseases, to modify or prevent pain perception, and to normalize the body's physiological functions. There may occasionally be adverse side effects such as: local bruising, minor bleeding, rare instance of burning or scarring, fainting, pain or discomfort, the possible aggravation of symptoms existing prior to the treatment and very rarely, lung puncture (pneumothorax).

Electro-acupuncture may be administered with the acupuncture. There may be certain adverse side effects such as: electrical shock, pain or discomfort, the possible aggravation of symptoms existing prior to the treatment. Cupping or guasha may be administered during the treatment. The possible side effects of these treatments are skin discoloration or rarely, blistering.

Acupressure-massage is used to modify or prevent pain perception, and to normalize the body's physiological functions. There may be certain adverse side effects such as: muscle soreness or achiness and the possible aggravation of symptoms existing prior to treatment.

A red (635 nM wavelength) or blue (450 nM wavelength) laser may be used on your acupoints. They are "cold" style lasers and will not burn you. They offer painless acupuncture but will stimulate the tissue below the skin and you may notice a sensation at the site.

Reflexology is deep massage of the feet to treat bodily dysfunction or diseases, to modify or prevent pain perception, and to normalize the body's physiological functions. Side effects may include: pain or discomfort, the possible aggravation of symptoms existing prior to the treatment.

- All of the above information has been explained to me
- I understand that there is no guarantees concerning treatment, I understand that there may be other treatment alternatives, including treatment offered by a physician
- I understand that I am free to refuse or stop treatment at any time
- I consent to treatment with acupuncture and other treatment modalities as described
