2. That Girl in the Mohair Vest

Her name was Isolde. She was thin, dark-eyed, always wore black, and carried that sketchpad everywhere.

Her favorite costume was black turtleneck and slacks, made interesting by a crop-length mohair vest of loose weave. And yet another thing made the vest interesting — it was shot through with threads of sterling silver. Not your ordinary girl. Not an ordinary vest. Who knows what will happen when you put it on? With that turtleneck and pants, that little black dress, even jeans. Perfect for the holiday, but don't wait for a special occasion. The mohair tank sweater vest, in black/silver (2A) or pewter/silver (2B) (small/medium/large), $98. Limited quantities; order early.

4. The Woman in the Matte Gold Necklace

Certainly you have seen her before. She has that kind of face.

In the New York society columns? Possibly she was in that movie that appeared quickly, then vanished (but your circle of friends talked about it for months).

Or else she was on that cruise to Argentina. Now she appears at this party, on the arm of that friend of Andrea's.

She is wearing a perfect black dress, but everyone stares at the necklace: it is matte gold (24K plated), consisting of just three slender bands around the throat, gathered in back by a single chain. So simple and beautiful.

The matte gold earrings provide a perfect geometric focal point.

You could wear it to the next party. That special dinner. Or that important presentation in L.A.

Wear it. And someone will wonder where they've seen you before. Necklace (4A), $84. Earrings (4B), $54.

5. Your Own Bit of Old China: the Shard Box

You have traveled thousands of miles by sea and land to see the wonders of China. Now you take in each sight like a long cool drink. The time? Perhaps one hundred, perhaps three hundred years ago. Time will continue to pass slowly here for a long time.

An older man with delicate hands is pouring tea. He smiles and gestures toward the vase on the table, beautifully painted and glazed with rich patterns. This is a fragment of that vase. You can own it now.

Shard Boxes — antique glazed porcelain tops (guaranteed 100-300 years old) on engraved silver boxes. Mini, 1 1/2 inch diam. (5A), $22 or Small, 2-3 inch diam. (5B), $28. Many designs, all beautiful — please allow us to choose for you. (Other sizes available in our stores.)

11. What You Frame Is Up to You

resistible. Exquisite Victorian silver frames. Quantities of filigree, floral and scroll designs on each. It was such a frame that bore the portrait of her ladyship at the turn of the century. You remember the story, no doubt. Her lover carried it with him into battle...some obscure imperial conflict. Only the picture survived.

Or perhaps it was one of those transcontinental romances, held together by the slender thread of letters and a treasured photograph, preserved in a frame just like this.

Such a frame would make an ordinary picture look sensational; it is quite capable of being perfect for your most special photos. Buy one or the entire grouping.

These frames look their best in multiples. All in treated silverplate; no polish, no tarnish.
