"Nothing can now be believed which is seen in a newspaper. Truth itself becomes suspicious by being put into that polluted vehicle. The real extent of this state of misinformation is known only to those who are in situations to confront facts within their knowledge with the lies of the day."

- Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826)

About the author

M. S. King is a private investigative journalist and researcher based in the New York City area. A 1987 graduate of Rutgers University, King's subsequent 30 year career in Marketing & Advertising has equipped him with a unique perspective when it comes to understanding how "public opinion" is indeed scientifically manufactured.

Madison Ave marketing acumen combines with 'City Boy' instincts to make M.S. King one of the most tenacious detectors of "things that don't add up" in the world today. Says King of his admitted quirks, irreverent disdain for "conventional wisdom", and uncanny ability to ferret out and weave together important data points that others miss: "Had Sherlock Holmes been an actual historical personage, I would have been his reincarnation."

King is the webmaster of TomatoBubble.com – which also features The Anti-New York Times for select readers. He is also the author of:

- The Bad War: The REAL Story of World War II

INTRODUCTION

Since its founding in 1851 by Republican Henry Jarvis Raymond, The NY Times has been a big player in shaping public opinion. But it was not until 1896 that the Times took a turn to the internationalist Left when it was purchased by a German-Jew named Adolph Ochs. In 1897, Ochs himself would coin the paper's now famous self-serving slogan, printed on its masthead every day ever since: "All the News That's Fit to Print".

Adolph Ochs

Ochs' daughter married Arthur Hays Sulzberger, who became publisher when Adolph died. Ochs' great grandson Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, Jr. is the publisher of the NY Times today. So, for 1.2 centuries, America's most influential propaganda sheet has been in the hands of the same Zionist-Marxist family. Count on The Times to promote big government, Globalism, phony environmentalism, Israel, the Fed, and endless wars.

Just how powerful is what your fighting author likes to refer to "Sulzberger's Slimes"? The erudite writer Gore Vidal may have been a morally degenerate sodomite who was wrong about many things, but his reference to the Slimes as "the Typhoid Mary of American journalism" was as spot-on as it was witty. One need only glance at the morning headlines of "the paper of record", and then take note of how the superficial infomercials known as "the Nightly News" will so often pick up on whatever front page fairy-tale that the Manhattan Mendacity Machine spun that very same morning.

Like some journalistic plague; the virus of lies, half-truths and cherry-picked data then infects the unguarded minds of the whole country, and indeed, the world. Such is the indisputable power and undeserved "prestige" of this dreadful "Orwellian" institution.

The Anti-New York Times was originally established as, and still is, a pay-to-view daily sub-page of TomatoBubble.com. Beginning in 2015, the collected rebuttals to the Slimes' Spin were published in Quarterly book format – which you now hold in your hands. To best understand the bare-knuckled and often humorous rebuttals, it is recommended that readers also purchase and study, Planet Rothschild: The Forbidden History of the New World Order. That will give you a firm grounding in REAL history while The Anti-New York Times informs you of the contemporary world which had grown out of that tragic history.

When gathered in one place, the rebuttals expose The Slimes as a deceitful naked Emperor. If the Slimes is the disease of deception, let The Anti-New York Times be your antidote of truth.

NY Times (Op-ed): When Whites Just Don't Get It

By NICHOLAS KRISTOFF

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Oh how magnanimous, how altruistic, how empathetic, how noble and how humble of two-time Pulitzer Prize winner Nicholas Kristoff to call out his own race of White people for not "getting it" when it comes to the related issues of race and discrimination. Agree with his argument or not, you must admit, it does take a bit of character and courage to publicly go against your own kind and admit what is right, or at least what appears to be right in one's sincerely held view.

Kristoff ain't White! He's a @#7^54

As you can see, irony is lost on Sugar the Mad Cat. Of course we know what ethnic group Mr. Kristoff belongs to (cough cough), and of course we see through his little charade of trashing the hated White (European) people which he and his light skinned Khazarian-Asian supremacist brethren have cunningly camouflaged into. Unfortunately, too many vulnerable Whites fall for his "nobody here but us White guys" routine before themselves becoming "magnanimous-altruistic-empathetic-noble-humble" -- in a self-hating guilt trip type of way.

Kristoff's column amounts to just another typical whine about how "racist" TM that Donald Trump and his followers are, and how bad "discrimination" TM against Blacks still is....blah, blah, blah. It's all so pathetically predictable and so played out that it's not even worth reviewing line by line. The only reason we selected this piece for rebuttal today is to call attention to the "we Whites" trickery that these characters always use. From Kristoff's column:

"In contrast, we whites seem curiously unwilling to shoulder any responsibility for our own part in racial inequity. If we're so concerned with "personal responsibility," shouldn't we show some?"

If Donald Trump wants to make this election in part about race, then let us really talk about race problems in all their complexities. And we whites could spend less time pointing fingers and more time looking in the mirror.

"We" -- eh Kristoff? You dirty sneaky two-faced shape-shifting maggot! And for the handful of "bruthas" and "sistas" that read The Anti-New York Times, you already know by now that this son of Satan is not your friend either!

More examples of the "We White guys" acting routine...

"The point is not to interpret whiteness but to abolish it." -- Harvard professor and self-described "race traitor" Noel Ignatiev (cough, cough), author of "Race Traitor" and racetraitor.org

"If you want to know if racism is a problem in your country, you might not want to ask White people." -- Tim Wise (cough, cough), author of "White Like Me"

Looking through the prism of Kristoff's red-hot hatred for the big bad White Man, we may better understand his long forgotten libeling of an innocent scientist named Steven Hatfill, whom Kristoff had falsely and maliciously accused of having mailed out the deadly "Anthrax letters" of September, 2001 -- letters which were clearly sent out by a Jew in order to false-flag frame the Arabs. The false accusation leveled by Kristoff and an malevolent activist named Barbara Rosenberg (cough cough), turned poor Hatfill's life upside down and inside out.

Beginning in mid-2002, Hatfill became the whipping boy of the Piranha Press after TV cameras showed FBI agents in biohazard suits searching his apartment. His home was repeatedly raided by the FBI, his phone was tapped, and he was kept under surveillance for more than two years. Dr. Hatfill was also fired from his job at Science Applications International Corporation -- all on the basis of the evil Rosenberg / Kristoff smear and the firestorm it kicked up.

An innocent man, wrongly defamed for the Zionist anthrax letters, was put through hell by the vicious Yellow Journalism of "Pulitzer Prize winner Nicholas Kristoff.

When finally cleared of the false charges, Hatfill filed lawsuits against the periodicals and journalists who had framed him. He sued the New York Slimes and Kristoff in particular for defamation and intentional infliction of emotional distress in connection with five of Kristoff's most vicious columns. Incredibly, The Jew courts dismissed this suit, finding that Hatfill was a "public figure" -- ignoring the fact that it was Kristoff who made him a "public figure!" In 2007, Hatfill did settle a similar libel lawsuit against Vanity Fair and Reader's Digest for an undisclosed amount, after both magazines agreed to retract any implication that Hatfill was involved in the anthrax mailings.

Son of Satan Kristoff belongs in jail for what his racial hatred against Whites led him to do to Dr. Hatfill in 2002. Yet here he remains, still defaming Whites again and again and again -- while constantly and sanctimoniously reminding his readers of his own "whiteness."

.... Un--Freakin'--believable!

F -You too, Albert! (cough cough)

Boobus Americanus 1: I read again an op-ed column in the New York Times today by Nicholas Kristoff about thow we Whites still cannot appreciate the institutionalized racism and discrimination that America continues to inflict upon African-Americans.

Boobus Americanus 2: Indeed. The discrimination is not always easy to see from our perspective of privilege. Kristoff is very noble to take up this cause.

Sugar: You stupid @$@!! Krisstoff ain't noble and he ain't White! He jusst wantss our kind blended out and exterminated!

Editor: What do you mean "our kind?"

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Wow! Count em'! A dirty dozen of anti-Trumpian hit pieces contained in a single issue! As regular researchers of old Slimes' archives dating back to 1900, we confidently say with authority that no personage in American history has been subjected to the level of Sulzbergerian slime now being spewed at Donald Trump (often referred to by us as "Orange Man" when he pisses us off with his many imperfections and errors.) Even the late great Senator Joseph McCarthy never got it this bad and this blatantly.

Back in the old days, the ever present bias of "the paper of record" was always present, but not so "in-your-face." In order to maintain the illusion of objective journalism, a surprising amount of truth often made its way into this all-mighty Jewish journal of gibberish -- albeit in the inner pages. Entire press releases from Hitler's Foreign Ministry were published, as were the opinions of Joe McCarthy's defenders.

In the old days, a few balancing truth nuggets would occasionally surface in Sulzberger's Slimes ...

1- The August 28, 1939 headline of the Hitler-hating New York Times confirmed that Hitler sought to avoid war with Britain & France. An entire communique from Hitler was published on the front page

2- December 8, 1941: The entire post-Pearl Harbor Declaration of War by Japanese Emperor Hirohito was published by The Times -- even though it was a damning indictment of FDR's government.

The art of the con job back then involved the publishing of a few solid inner page truths, which would then be overwhelmed with twice as many front page lies. Nonetheless, the gold nuggets of truth were there and can still be mined. Today, however, the Jew York Slimes is all lies (including the deadly lie of omission) all the time. One will search in vain for even a single token defense of a Trump or a Putin.

It's not that the Sulzberger Dynasty has grown any more evil in its intent to deceive. The deceptive nature of these Bolshevik beasts is no worse today than it was 30, 60, 90 or even 120 years ago. The difference is that Boobus Americanus is now dumber and more communistic than ever. Therefore, there is no longer any need to satisfy the inquisitive reader with the occasional and symbolic inner page sheep-dipping of "the other side of the story." Today's "college educated" libtard is so insular and "group-minded" in his "thinking" that he cannot even imagine that there even is another side of matters.

With his readership already having been pre-brainwashed at today's Marxist-dominated colleges, Arthur Sulzberger has a much easier job of public deception than his great grandfather did.

You see, the uppity sophist Slimes has always appealed to the "college educated" reader. But back in the day when universities (and high schools) still taught the classics and the basics of rational thinking, the Sulzberger-Ochs Crime Family knew that any propaganda campaign that was too outrageously and too one-sidedly bold would not work on its readers, even if those readers had a liberal bent. Hence, the veneer of confidence-building "objectivity" in the form of an occasional truth bomb was always a necessary element of the grand deception.

But so many of the post 1980 "college educated" generation are now so far gone -- so stupid -- so brainwashed -- so prideful and puffed-up on their own sophistry -- and so degenerate in both intellect and morality, that the Sulzbergers now feel safe in abandoning any pretense of objectivity. In the past, the Slimes would never have run 12 hit pieces in a single day against anyone -- not even pre-war Hitler! It would have been too damn obvious.

These demonic sons-of-bitches want their war with Russia and China, and they are determined, no, obsessed with stopping Donald Trump from stopping that war. All the while, arch-criminal Killary Clinscum get a free pass (with zero hit-pieces) in painting Trump as a dangerous warmonger!

Un--Freakin'--believable! --- But not to Slimes worshippers. Those ass-clowns will believe that dog-shit sandwiches are nutritious and delicious if Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press tells them so.

No Republican't has dared to so boldly challenge "the paper of record" as Orange Man has done.

Boobus Americanus 1: The New York Times had wall-to-wall coverage of Donald Trump today. None of it was good.

Boobus Americanus 2: The dirt that is coming out on Trump is amazing. These revelations should sink his campaign.

Sugar: Boobuss! You group-thinking lemming! The dirt on Trump iss not "coming out." It's being dug out or concocted by the biassed Sslimes.

Editor: Boobus can't see the difference because he lives in his own closed world of make-believe.

NY Times: Julian Assange, WikiLeaks Founder, Promises Raft of Revelations

By MELISSA EDDY

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

We have been viewing the recent fawning by the "alternative right" over this fake, phony fraud Julian Assange of WikiLeaks with a mixture of amusement and amazement. With bated breath, the likes of Disinfo Wars, the Drudge Retard and Not-So-Brightbart have been eagerly awaiting the mother of all document dumps that would sink Killary once and for all. One promised dump date after another after another has passed with ASSange failing to deliver as promised. Of course, even if WikiLeaks was a legitimate group of activists, what good would come of these dumps if the Piranha Press buries them anyway?

Dumb-asses or part of the game? Alt-Right stars like Alex Jones and Pretty Boy Paul Watson speak of dangerous operatives like Julian ASSange and Edward SnowJob as if they were legitimate.

The idea that Sulzberger's Slimes would pump up a "whistleblower" who could damage the candidacy of that Golden Girl of the PRC (Predatory Ruling Class) is absurd on its face. ASSange himself now admits this. From the article:

"He (Assange) dismissed speculation that the documents related to the United States election would contain information intended to damage the candidacy of Hillary Clinton, the Democratic nominee. The idea that "we intend to harm Hillary Clinton, or I intend to harm Hillary Clinton, or I don't like Hillary Clinton, all those are false," Mr. Assange said.

Thanks for nuthin', ASSange! Far from being Killary's nemesis (in spite of her harsh sheep-dipping comments against him), ASSange and then-Secretary of State Killary were key co-conspirators behind the "spontaneous" uprisings of the deadly "Arab Spring" that caused so much chaos in Tunisia, Yemen, Libya, Egypt and Syria, among others. ASSange himself has even claimed credit for planning and triggering the Arab Spring! Of course, there were many other agents helping the egomaniac ASSange.

When targeting a nation for Globalist takeover, the way the ghoulish game of "leaks" works, with certain variations depending on the actual project, is as follows:

Start with the following ingredients:

- A ton of American cash from the CIA and/or George Soros
- Small army of undercover CIA agents
- Controlled "Human Rights /Pro Democracy" NGO groups
- Idealistic "Western wannabee" college brats
- Easily manipulated do-gooder "libtards"
- Professional signs & banners written in English
- Briable / blackmailable journalists
- Briable / blackmailable politicians
- Briable / blackmailable academics
- Corrupt Union bosses
- Violent "Agent Provocateurs"

After a few years of CIA-NGO infiltration, subversion and brainwashing of students; damaging "leaks" serve as the perfect triggering mechanism and smokescreen for the pre-planned civil unrest and/or "civil war."

With the players in place, WikiLeaks then "leaks" embarrassing secrets about key officials within the target government. The bought-and-paid-for local CIA journalists run with the "leaks." Many pissed-off citizens will then join forces with the CIA-NGO-Student rent-a-mobs. Agents roll out "spontaneous" banners and protest signs, written in English. The western Piranha Press (always led by Sulzberger's Slimes) assists the uprising by puffing it up as a "popular" and "spontaneous" reaction to corruption / tyranny / voter fraud etc.

When "the whole world is watching", an incident will be staged -- often involving fake blood, fake tear gas, and photo shopped images. The destabilized target government soon loses support among some of its own people as well as governments abroad. Violent agent provocateurs continue to FORCE the police into violent acts. This embarrasses and destabilizes the government to the point where it becomes de-legitimized in the eyes of "the world community" TM. Traitorous "opposition" politicians collaborate with the US, UN, & EU to "pressure" the "oppressive" target government into submission. The threat of economic sanctions, "no-fly zones", bombing, or even an armed "rebel" uprising often forces the government to either bend to Globalist wishes, or to step down and call for new elections.

But if the "Color Revolution / Spring" should fail, then it's time for direct military action -- as we are seeing now in Syria. And the whole bloody mess began with the cover story of "leaks" from some geeky guy who, we are told, the PRC can't control (rolling eyes sarcastically). This then is the sinister fiend that the alt-right nitwits are waiting for to deliver us all from the evil of Killary Clinton. Give us a break!

Former Italian President Silvio Berlusconi was targeted for removal because of: 1: His close personal friendship with Vladimir Putin; 2: "Denial" TM of Climate Change" TM; 3: Good relations with Qaddafi of Libya; 4: Opposition to the immigration invasion of Italy.

ASSange's devious dump on Berlusconi triggered the colorful Italian billionaire's downfall and paved the way for Globalist agents Monti, and then Renzi to seize unprecedented power in Italy. Southern Italian ports are now being flooded with "migrants" who then fan out throughout borderless Europe.

So then, what is ASSange's strip-tease really all about? Your guess is as good as ours, but allow us to share two hypotheses with "youse guys."

Hypothesis 1- ASSange's repeated and deliberate failures to deliver the goods on Killary is actually intended to deflect from Killary's scandals by building up expectations and then deflating them. Boobus Americanus Voter will ultimately conclude: "They don't have anything on Hillary, after all."

Hypothesis 2- Perhaps ASSange will "leak" something about Trump -- a revelation that the Piranha Press will surely go into a frenzy over -- leaving the new alt-right fans of ASSange in the impossible position of having to counter-attack the very man they have been praying to for the past three months.

We shall know what ASSange's QFS 2016 plan is all about soon enough. Meanwhile, ignore this obvious criminal intelligence asset masquerading as some crusader for "human rights" TM and "transparency" TM. And while you're at it, ignore the conspiracy-researcher-turned-conservative-mainstreamer Alex Jones and his Muslim-hating new sidekick, Paulie Boy Watson. Stick with Sugar and me --- we won't steer ya wrong.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Julian Assange of WikiLeaks plans to release important information just before the election.

Boobus Americanus 2: Boy, him and that Snowden fella have got some really big balls to defy the U.S. government like they do.

Sugar: Boobuss! You stupid @$^&%! Assange and Snowden WORK FOR the government!

NY Times: Let's Get Putin's Attention

THOMAS L. FRIEDMAN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Before we get into this latest piece of anti-Putin excrement vomited out by the vile specimen of "Pulitzer Prize winning" TM vermin, Thomas L. Friedman, (cough cough) please join the Editorial Board (that's Sugar and me) of The Anti-New York Times in sending a Happy Birthday shout out to Bad Vlad himself.

"Happy frickin' Birthday Pressident Putin! -- Na Zssdorovie!"

Freakman's opening volley needs no rebutting for it is a shocking caricature of itself in which he admits that Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press can and should invent and publish dis-informative propaganda about Putin and Russia. Take a whiff of the fantasy story that Freakman concocts as an example of what he would like to see planted and published by the government-media complex to which he belongs, even though he admits such a tale would be false:

"You may have missed this story, so I am repeating it as a public service:

MOSCOW, Special to The New York Times, Oct. 1 — A previously unheard-of group called Hackers for a Free Russia released a treasure trove of financial records online today indicating that President Vladimir Putin owns some $30 billion in property, hotels and factories across Russia and Europe, all disguised by front organizations and accounting charades.

The documents, which appear to be authentic, include detailed financial records and emails between Mr. Putin's Kremlin office and a number of his Russian cronies and Swiss banks. They constitute the largest hack ever of Mr. Putin. Russian censors are scrambling to shut down Twitter inside the country and keep the emails out of Russian-language media.

At a news conference in Washington, C.I.A. Director John Brennan was asked if U.S. intelligence services had any hand in the cyberleak of what is being called "The Putin Files." With a slight grin, Mr. Brennan said: "The U.S. government would never intervene in Russian politics, just as President Putin would never intervene in an American election. That would be wrong." As Mr. Brennan left the podium, though, he burst out laughing.

No, you didn't miss this story. I made it up. But isn't it time there was such a story? Isn't it time we gave Putin a dose of his own medicine — not for juvenile playground reasons and not to instigate a conflict but precisely to prevent one — to back Putin off from what is increasingly rogue behavior violating basic civilized norms and increasingly vital U.S. interests."

Wow! Evidently, Putin (along with his not-so-secret admirer, Donald Trump) has got these gefilte-fish-eating greaseballs in such a state of hysteria that they are losing their cool and showing their cards. That the Slimes "makes up" stories is nothing new, but for one of its most "respected" scribblers to openly call for such activity comes as a surprise, even to us. What Freakman is advocating amounts to the type of wartime disinfo-journalism which the American press (including mega moguls David Sarnoff and William Paley (Paloff)), in collaboration with the government, engineered during our involvement in World War II.

During World War II, NBC's then-owner David Sarnoff (cough cough) was given the rank of "General" for his important role in spreading war propaganda throughout German-occupied Europe. Soldier boy Sarnoff was so proud of his General's Star that he had it buried with him.

CBS's then-owner William Paley (cough cough) was given the rank of "Colonel" for his service in psychological warfare operations.

There goes that ominous word again -- war -- and its not just us "conspiracy theorists" TM saying it anymore. From Freakman's fecal fable:

"Putin 'is at war with us, but we are not at war with him — both the U.S. and Germany are desperately trying to cling to a decent relationship,' remarked Josef Joffe, editor of Die Zeit, a weekly German newspaper and a leading strategic thinker in Europe. No one should want to start a shooting war between great powers 'in the shadow of nuclear weapons,' Joffe told me.

Freakman immediately transitions to that oh-so-quintessentially Jewish "yeah-but" with false accusations of "war crimes" and "cyberattacks" :

"But we also cannot just keep turning the other cheek. Putin's behavior in Syria and Ukraine has entered the realm of war crimes, and his cyberattacks on the American political system threaten to undermine the legitimacy of our next election."

Freakman doesn't openly call for a shooting war, of course. That would be too obvious at this moment. Rather, his objective here is to have the government-media complex ratchet up the already deceitful propaganda war against Russia to an even higher level as a necessary prelude to the start of the actual shooting. Once Putin has been sufficiently vilified by the strategic lies which Freakman is openly demanding, the dumb-as-dirt public can easily be fooled by either a false-flag attack (another 9/11), or a provocation-induced attack (another Pearl Harbor). That's Friedman's deadly, and we do mean deadly game here, and he needs to have his key punching fingers chopped off and his lying forked tongue ripped out for it. (metaphorically speaking, of course)

The consequences of war, depicted below, are all just fun and games to a "tough guy" fatboy POS like Freakman who probably never even experienced a fist fight or a wrestling match in his entire pampered life. Lord, give us the strength to keep on confronting and exposing this Satanic evil each day without "losing it."

Boobus Americanus 2: Hmmm. Fighting propaganda with propaganda. That's a clever suggestion -- and it might be a better approach than to have a shooting war with Russia.

Sugar: Boobuss! You goofy frickin' @$^#&%! Learn your hisstory! The falsse flag attack and then the sshooting always follow the propaganda!

Editor: Exactly Sugar! The USS Maine, The Lusitania, Germany's unavoidable and justified invasion of Poland, Japan's justifiable attack on Pearl Harbor, the Tonkin Gulf incident, the green-lighting for Iraq to invade Kuwait, the 9/11 attacks --- all war-triggering events which were preceded by vilification propaganda of the targeted country.

NY Times: In Second Debate, Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton Spar in Bitter, Personal Terms

By PATRICK HEALY and JONATHAN MARTIN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Much better this time Orange Man, much better. You hit that nasty hag hard -- real hard -- yet in a calm measured tone. And flying in those women that Kill and Killary Clinscum had abused so horribly added a delightful touch of showmanship to the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show). Now, permit us to drop the other shoe, because there were still many lost opportunities and an evident lack of preparation on your part. Here's how your humble reporter would have responded at key points of the debate.

On Russia and Putin:

Don't apologize or deny the fact that you wish to get along with the Russians. Instead, inform the American public of what Killary wants to do. Try this:

"Hillary. You were all for the war in Kosovo. You were for the disastrous war in Iraq. You were for the war in Libya. You were for the ongoing civil war in Syria, and now, it seems like you want to take us to war against Russia, a nuclear superpower that can wipe us off the map just as easily as we could them. Why?"

(turn to audience) Ladies and gentleman, Hillary Clinton is a dangerous warmonger (with emphasis). If she is elected President, folks, you had better build an underground bunker because World War III will become a real possibility."

On the Iran Nuclear Deal:

The FOXtards are already in your corner and the Jews are 90% opposed to you. Your constant hating on peaceful Iran was effective in the GOP Primary, but for the general election, it only makes you sound like the warmonger. Just drop this subject altogether.

The fact that so many millions of voters remain ignorant of the possibility of World War III and Killary's record of warmongering is unacceptable. Trump MUST change that perception.

On Bill Clinton's Sex Abuse:

You went hard on this, but you still refused to take it to the max. Terms like "abuse" and "sexual harassment" will hurt the Clinscums, but the one word that you refuse to say -- RAPE -- is the one that will score the knockout punch. Damn your girly advisers and go all the way! Try this:

"Some of the women that you and your co-President husband abused are here in the audience tonight. Among them is Juanita Broderick -- (motion toward the ladies) Juanita, stand up please. Juanita's story is a sad one. She claims that days after your husband brutally bit her lip and raped (with emphasis) her, you personally intimidated her into silence. Hillary, is that true? And if it's not true, I want you to face your accuser and tell her she is lying. Go ahead Hillary. Call her a liar."

Can you imagine if Orange Man had done that? The whole country would have been buzzing about it for days. He may not get this chance again.

The perverted evil bastard and Chelsea Hubbel, er, Clinton squirmed when Orange Man mentioned the "abuse" and the presence of the abused ladies in the audience. It was a powerful moment, however, much to the relief of the Clinton Crime Family, the "R" word was still not used. Damn!

On the Missing E-mails:

Too often, people in a certain profession or with a certain level of understanding make the mistake of assuming that what may be "common knowledge" to them is therefore known by everyone else. This is big mistake! You see, whereas the Republican-FOX News base may understand that Killary deleted E-mails to conceal her criminal money-making dealings for her crooked foundation, the average Boobus Americanus is under the impression that she just "made a mistake" by using a private serve when she wasn't supposed to. "What's the big deal?" -- they reckon.

It's up you to inform them, Orange Man. Try this:

"Hillary, even if we were to dismiss the use of a private server as an innocent "mistake" (use air quotes), the fact that you deleted so many of them after receiving a subpoena suggests that you were hiding criminal activity surrounding that phony charity scam that you and your husband run. Take for example the donations for the victims of the Haitian earthquake -- donations that your corrupt organization stole from the poor people of Haiti. I met with prominent members of the Haitian-American community, and some of them are also here tonight. (motion toward audience) Francois, Jean -- please stand up. (turn toward Killary)

Hillary, I want you to either explain to these good people what you did with the earthquake money which you stole, or tell them that they are liars. Go ahead, Hillary."

* Haitians were not there last night.

On Taking Tax Deductions

Ya did good on diffusing this nonsense about the deductions and "not paying taxes." Dropping the names of the evil Warren Buffoon and the even eviler George Soros was music to our ears! But you keep missing the obvious one-liner about tax deductions that would shut this Bolshevik bitch down hard. Try this:

"Hillary, you're one to talk about tax deductions. You and your co-President husband deducted your used underwear!" (make a funny face)

1- Vague talk about Killary's "missing E-mails" is confusing to simple-minded Boobuses. The issue is the criminal activity that could be proved by the subpoenaed E-mails. The Clinton Foundation is a money-laundering fake charity which, among other scams, stole Haiti's earthquake relief money -- an easy scandal to understand.

2- The utter hypocrisy of Killary's underwear tax write-off would also be perfectly simple for the Bobbuses to understand.

As we said, Orange Man did well, but had Mike & Sugar been coaching him, the above bold plays would have dealt devastating blows. Ya can't go 1/2 the way or even 3/4 against the forces of evil. Only bare knuckled audacity, executed calmly and methodically (not like Sugar's approach) will overcome the Jewish Juggernaut behind Killary. As it stands, Killary herself is still standing, and she shouldn't be.

Boobus Americanus 1: What did you think about that debate last night?

Boobus Americanus 2: It certainly was down and dirty. Trump held nothing back this time.

Sugar: Not dirty enough Boobussss! That evil bitch needss to be kicked in her p---- !

Editor: *Sugar! Now you sound like Orange Man!

NY Times: John McCain Withdraws Support for Donald Trump After Disclosure of Recording

Today's rebuttal about McCain the Insane will be shorter than usual, but no less powerful than usual. We have urgent personal affairs to tend to (don't worry, nothing bad) and probably won't be back in action until Friday.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

So, the oh-so-honorable and pure John McCain the Insane was so offended over Orange Man's demeaning use of the P-word that he felt compelled to withdraw support from his fellow Republican. From the Slimes piece:

"Senator John McCain, the 2008 Republican presidential nominee, withdrew his support on Saturday for Donald J. Trump as the Republican Party descended into chaos. On Friday, a recording was released showing Mr. Trump speaking about women in lewd and degrading terms."

Well, three cheers for Soros' darling McCain for taking such a bold stand against "lewd and degrading terms" for a certain region of the female anatomy. There's just one problem, Senator Senile. It's this excerpt from "The Real McCain," by Cliff Schecter -- an excerpt that you declined to refute when you were asked about.

From the book:

"Three reporters from Arizona, on the condition of anonymity, also let me in on another incident involving McCain's intemperateness. In his 1992 Senate bid, McCain was joined on the campaign trail by his wife, Cindy, as well as campaign aide Doug Cole and consultant Wes Gullett. At one point, Cindy playfully twirled McCain's hair and said, 'You're getting a little thin up there.' McCain's face reddened, and he responded, 'At least I don't plaster on the makeup like a trollop, you cunt.'"

Can "youse guys" say: "hypocrisy?" Of course you can. Evidently, Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press cannot.

- 1- McCain dumped his first wife for Cindy -- a much younger beer heiress who he called "cunt" IN PUBLIC.
- 2- Schecter's research was not refuted, and is consistent with McCain's well known record of publicly abusing Senate colleagues.
- 3- McCain the Insane and Killary --- two evil, Russia-hating, warmongering, Soros ghouls make eyes at each other.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that John McCain has withdrawn his support of Donald Trump because of his crude remarks.

Boobus Americanus 2: Good for him. That type of vulgar discourse has no place in our civic life.

Sugar: Aw sshut the #@$% up, you de-balled pusssy!

Editor: Dammit Sugar! If you don't clean up your act, you're gonna be a de-clawed pussy! -- (as in pussycat, that is)

Yet Again, Multiple Front Page Slimes Attacks on Trump

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As much as ~~Sugar and Mike~~, er, the distinguished Editorial Board of The Anti-New York Times would like to get off the tiresome subject of the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show), Sulzberger's Slimes won't allow us to. Day after day, the fallacious front page is filled with nothing other than anti-Trump venom, followed by additional hit pieces in the national and editorial sections. Orange Man is all that they write about these days. Even the crosswords puzzles are anti-Trump! (just kidding).

We learn today that the First Tranny has gotten into the act. Headline:

Voice Shaking, Michelle Obama Calls Trump Comments on Women 'Intolerable'

"Voice shaking," eh ~~Michael~~ Moochochele? Must be from all those estrogen injections. Of course, the fact that some of the "rappers" that he/she/it has invited to the White House "sing" about violence, cop killing and even rape doesn't pain the penis-concealing beast at all.

1 & 2: Hello Mr. Robinson. Is that a gun in your underwear are you just happy?

3: Who let the dog out without its make-up ask? Woof -- woof -- woof.

After Donald Trump, Will More Women Believe Their Own Stories?

"After Trump?" What about after the accused RAPIST Bill Clinton and his cover-up-after-the-fact partner Killary Clinton? Should we not believe the stories of Juanita Broderick, Paula Jones, Kathleen Willey et al? At worst, Orange Man was a covetous dog in younger days. Bill Clinton was a violent sex predator. See the difference, Sulzberger? Of course you do!

Why are the multiple accusers of Kill & Killary Clinscum not worthy of being believed?

Still another story implies that a supposedly "slipping" Orange Man is engaging in desperate "conspiracy theory" TM with his warning about voter fraud. Headline:

Donald Trump, Slipping in Polls, Warns of 'Stolen Election'

You know, it's funny. Whenever Vladimir Putin wins an internationally observed, tightly monitored free and fair election, the seditious scum at Sulzberger's Slimes are among the first to repeat the false claims of a "stolen election" proclaimed by "the Russian opposition." But when the wrong guy - in this case, Trump - brings up the topic, it's dismissed as "racist" TM and "conspiracy theory" TM.

We could go on and on pointing out the easy-to-see hypocrisy of one anti-Trump story after another after another. But it's getting old, so we'll leave that task to the Drudge Retard. The much more important higher truth that "normie" conservatives / alt-right are missing is this: the Piranha Press war on Orange Man is being waged primarily because he will have none of World War 3 with Russia and China. Russian nationalist and Putin ally Vladimir Zhirinovsky sums it up for us:

"Americans voting on November 8th must realize that they are voting for peace on Planet Earth if they vote for Trump. But if they vote for Hillary, it's war. It will be a short movie. There will be Hiroshimas and Nagasakis everywhere."

To which we would add: ... to be followed by The New World Order in its final dictatorial form - assuming there is something left to build upon.

1 & 2: In saying the things that Putin, for geo-political reasons, cannot always say out loud, Zhirinovsky is playing the role of "bad cop." You can be sure that both his endorsement of Trump and his warning of nuclear war were green-lighted in advance by Putin.

3: Zhirinovsky has appeared on Russian TV programs, trashing Killary in the strongest terms while praising Trump.

Boobus Americanus 1: The New York Times is really going after Donald Trump. There is hardly any other news in the paper anymore.

Boobus Americanus 2: There does seem to be a bit too much bias in favor of Hillary.

Sugar: Ya know the bullsh!t is piling up high when even thesse two asss-clowns can ssmell it!

Obama in 2006:

"Raising America's

New York Times: U.S. Deficit Increases to $587 Billion, Ending Downward Trend

By JACKIE CALMES

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As America approaches the Marxist milestone of $20 Trillion in debt, let us recall what Homo-Obongo, that bastard son of a communist whore with the Tranny husband, said about the Bush 43 deficits while campaigning back in 2008. Obongo:

"The problem is, is that the way Bush has done it over the last eight years is to take out a credit card from the Bank of China in the name of our children, driving up our national debt from $5 trillion dollars for the first 42 presidents — number 43 added $4 trillion dollars by his lonesome, so that we now have over $9 trillion dollars of debt that we are going to have to pay back — $30,000 for every man, woman and child. That's irresponsible. It's unpatriotic."

If Bush's $4 Trillion was "unpatriotic," then what shall we call Obongo's $10 Trillion?

Obongo still has 4 months left to crack $20 Trillion.

It was only months before the media-driven installment of Mr. and Mr. Obongo that the National Debt Clock had to be replaced in order to fit the extra digit necessary to write 10,000,000,000,000. Now, nearly 8 years later, we are due to surpass $20 Trillion -- which means that the reign of Obongo will have packed on about as much debt as all previous administrations combined!

Apart from imposing higher taxes on future generations, the debt also contributes to the debasing of our currency because the main buyer of US Treasuries these days is the HNB (Hebrew National Bank). You see, boys and girls, if you or I were stupid enough to invest in T-bills, the purchase of said notes would be completed with pre-existing money. But when the HNB "buys" debt, the electronic funny-money is created out of thin air, putting us all on the hook for added debt burden, compounding interest and price inflation to boot.

Let's dissect this latest bit of economic disinformation, brought to us by a female libtard ignoramus named Jackie Calmes, about the nature and dangers of government debt.

On TV and in print, stupid Jackie Calmes certainly isn't "calm" when bashing conservatives.

Calmes: Obama administration confirmed on Friday that a six-year run of declining annual budget deficits had halted: The shortfall for the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30 was $587 billion, an increase over last year in dollars and as a percentage of the economy.

Rebuttal: Calmes is manipulating numbers here. As bad as a "$587 billion" deficit is, that's only about half of the true annual number. In addition to the budgeted money deficit (the $587 billion), there are the "CR's" -- continuing resolution bills. CR's keep the money flowing after the budgeted spending has run out. These stop-gap spending bills are now the norm to keep federal agencies running.

Calmes: The up-tick, which had been projected last winter by government analysts, largely reflected the revenue loss from expiring tax breaks for businesses and individuals that Congress extended in December. President Obama had proposed to pair the tax cuts with some tax increases on wealthy Americans, to avoid adding to the deficit, but Congress refused.

Rebuttal: Ah yes. The good old "deficits-are-caused-by-the-rich-not-paying-their-fair-share" routine. This myth is easily dispelled by the fact that the Federal Government now extracts the back-breaking equivalent of $40,000 per household per year through various forms of direct and indirect taxation. It is welfare and warfare that are driving up deficits, not lack of taxes!

Calmes: The $587 billion deficit for fiscal year 2016 is equivalent to 3.2 percent of the gross domestic product, the measure of the overall output of the economy.

Rebuttal: Again, the lie of omission. The $587 billion does not include the added stop-gap spending that will push us over the $1 Trillion mark for the 8th consecutive year. Suppose a family budgets $800 per month for groceries, but ends up recklessly spending $1600 month after month, year after year, the true monthly grocery expense is $1600, not the budgeted $800. Only in the land of DC-NY libtardism would the additional $800 be ignored as the grocery deficit is blamed on not enough salary.

Calmes: While the tax cuts were the immediate cause of the return to rising annual deficits, Rebuttal: Bitch, please! The monster deficits have nothing to do with minor tax cuts or increases. You know damn well that it is the Department of Offense - which spends about as much on weapons and armies as the rest of Planet Earth combined - and the skyrocketing costs of Obongo Care and other welfare schemes that are driving our National Debt.

Calmes: Budget shortfalls long had been forecast to climb unsustainably after 2018 because of the costs of an aging population. The number of people 65 years or older is expected to increase nearly 40 percent in a decade, driving up spending for Medicare and Social Security.

Rebuttal: Which is why the Fed-Med Complex morphined my non-suffering and non-terminal mother to death last year -- but I digress.

1- Warfare, welfare, and non-means-tested government support of the elderly -- NOT the lack of taxes on "the rich" are the factors driving us into deeper and deeper debt.

2- Deficits KILL! Read "The Morphine Genocide" -- by M S King. Just published!

Calmes: Mr. Obama, in his budgets this year and in past years, unsuccessfully proposed significant tax increases for the wealthiest taxpayers and some corporations to offset spending initiatives and reduce deficits.

Rebuttal: Oh if only those stingy Republican'ts would bend over for King Obongo even more than they already have! Just a few more taxes on "the rich" and the deficits will just go away without any adverse side-effects on investment and hiring. Sure, Jackie -- anything you say.

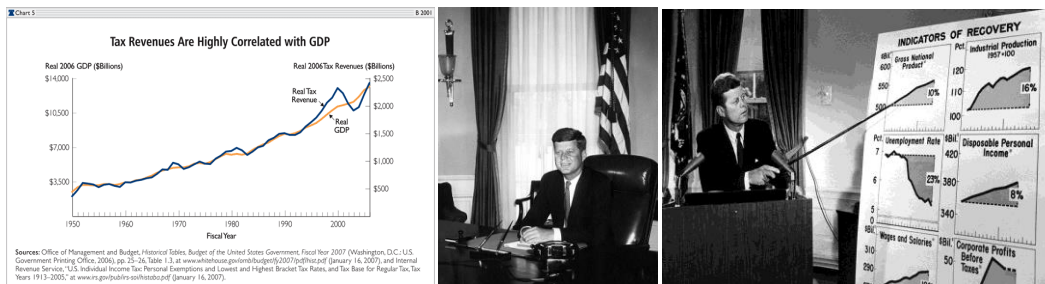

Calmes: Hillary Clinton, the Democratic presidential nominee, proposes some of the same tax increases as Mr. Obama has, and more. But the new revenue is intended to pay for her spending plans, including for education, not to reduce deficits.

Rebuttal: An interesting bit of truth here. Killary's spending schemes will be at least as bad as Obongo's. ... $30 Trillion here we come!

Calmes: Mrs. Clinton's Republican rival, Donald J. Trump, would cut taxes by trillions of dollars mostly for the wealthy and corporations even as he has vowed to sharply reduce the federal debt. His promises to reduce spending enough to cut the debt and pay for his tax cuts have been disputed even by conservative groups, because Mr. Trump has said Medicare and Social Security are off-limits for cuts.

Rebuttal: What wacky Jackie doesn't seem to understand, or perhaps does understand but will not say, is that if Trump can achieve his targeted GDP growth numbers, revenues to the Treasury will pour in to the point where the deficit can be overcome without significant spending cuts. That being said, ~~Sugar and I~~, er, we The Editorial Board at The Anti-New York Times would prefer to see massive cuts in spending in addition to massive cuts in rates.

Even with high levels of government spending, economic expansion alone can still erase deficits and payoff debt. John F Kennedy, a Democrat icon, understood this phenomenon.

"In short, it is a paradoxical truth that tax rates are too high today and tax revenues are too low and the soundest way to raise the revenues in the long run is to cut the rates now. The experience of a number of European countries and Japan have borne this out. This country's own experience with tax reduction in 1954 has borne this out. And the reason is that only full employment can balance the budget, and tax reduction can pave the way to that employment. The purpose of cutting taxes now is not to incur a budget deficit, but to achieve the more prosperous, expanding economy which can bring a budget surplus."

Democrat President John F Kennedy, Dec 14, 1962, New York Economic Club

Calmes: Military spending increased little over all, and dropped for military operations and maintenance. Spending on nutrition for the poor, formerly known as food stamps, was down 4 percent.

Rebuttal: You see what the sneaky little rodent did here? In closing her piece by citing "little increases" in military spending and a tiny reduction in welfare spending, Calmes leads the superficial reader away from rightly thinking that spending is the cause of deficits and debts. She and her communist buddies want us to blame it all on "the rich not paying their fair share."

This article is pure commie crap masquerading as objective fiscal analysis. For that reason, it's probably good enough for a Pulitzer Prize, if not a Nobel Prize in Economics.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times that the deficit is creeping up again.

Boobus Americanus 2: Until the rich start paying their fair share, this problem will never be solved.

Sugar: You sstupid %432& @!!! The IRS is already raking in trillions of dollars year after year after year!

Editor: It's funny how libtards, wealthy or not, never add extra extra money to their own tax payments.

New York Times (Editorial): Victims of Priests' Abuse Face a Choice

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The complete neutering of the once-influential Roman Catholic Church was forecast more than 100 years ago in the riveting pages of The Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion. Whether one believes that the Protocols were indeed genuine documents revealing a worldwide Jewish conspiracy; or that they were just part of a literary hoax designed to serve as a warning is, in the grander scheme of things, irrelevant. That's because just about everything that the spooky-prescient Protocols described and predicted has turned out to be deadly accurate.

"The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, which are so violently repudiated by the Jews. With groans and moans, the Frankfurter Zeitung repeats again and again that these are forgeries. This alone is evidence in favor of their authenticity."

-- The Great One, Mein Kampf, Chapter 11

"The only statement I care to make about the Protocols is that they fit in ... They are sixteen years old and they have fitted the world situation up to this time."

-- Henry Ford, New York World, 1921

One of those many spot-on, long-range forecasts concerned the slow destruction of the Catholic Church and the moral code which it once instilled in its members. It has been a slow methodical kill that very few would have been imagined back in 1905, but an outcome that has indeed come to pass. Here is the relevant passage from the Protocols:

"We have long past taken care to discredit the priesthood of the goyim, and thereby to ruin their mission on earth which in these days might still be a great hindrance to us. Day by day its influence on the peoples of the world is falling lower. ... only years divide us from the moment of the complete wrecking of that Christian religion, as to other religions we shall have still less difficulty in dealing with them, but it would be premature to speak of this now. We shall set clericalism and clericals into such narrow frames as to make their influence move in retrogressive proportion to its former progress.

When the time comes finally to destroy the papal court the finger of an invisible hand will point the nations towards this court. By this diversion we shall penetrate to its very bowels and be sure we shall never come out again until we have gnawed through the entire strength of this place.

The King of the Jews will be the real Pope of the Universe, the patriarch of an international Church.

But, in the meantime, while we are re-educating youth in new traditional religions and afterwards in ours, we shall not overtly lay a finger on existing churches but we shall fight against them by criticism calculated to produce schism."

One need only look at that miserable communist Pope from Argentina to understand the awesome "powers of prophecy" contained in these historical documents. With the Protocols in mind, we can better understand how the once respected MEN of the Priesthood-past have yielded to some of the liberal girly boys, faggots and pedophiles that infest the Church today. The Church was destroyed from within by infiltrators.

Frankie the Fake is a lifelong Marxist (liberation theology)

1- Loved by Communists and Globalists -- accepts a communist crucifix from Bolivia's President.

2- Loved by Zionists and Jewish Marxists --- tucks in his crucifix whenever he is in their presence.

3- Loved by the homos, lesbians and trannies whom he refuses to "judge."

One of the principal means of this subversive destruction came in the form of child molesting priests and the Church's inability to mole hunt the queers and communists within. The purpose of this rebuttal is not to defend the queer clerics and their higher-up protectors; but rather to call attention to the hypocritical silence over the widespread problem of child molestation within the Jewish Rabbinate. Yes, that's right. Rabbis have been playing with prepubescent pee-pees probably since the days of Moses -- and little girls too. But shhhhhh. Don't talk about it. That would be "anti-Semitic" TM.

Just how bad is this problem among Judaism's "holy men?" Grab a large bucket of popcorn and google: "Rabbi Sex Abuse." You'll be entertained (in a twisted sort of way) for weeks as you plow through all of the horror stories. Not only does the silence of the Judenpress protect its randy Rabbis, the many pedo-perverts of Jewish-owned Hollywood get a free pass as well. Compounding the hypocrisy with that quintessential "chutzpah" that the Tribe is so famous for is the fact that the morally ruined Church is now being financially bled by the very same usual suspects. From the Slimes' article:

"If you were sexually abused as a child by a priest of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York, Cardinal Timothy Dolan wants to give you money. He announced a settlement program this month that will be run by an independent mediator, Kenneth Feinberg. It will review claims and decide on an amount, which church officials will not be able to alter or reject. The settlements will not be capped; the archdiocese has promised to pay whatever it takes, by selling assets or borrowing."

By the way, if the name of that shyster Kenneth Feinberg (cough cough) rings a bell, it's because he was the wretched fiend who handled the hush money payouts to the families of 9/11 victims -- payments that came with a no-future-suit clause. No suits = no testimony = no potential discovery process of what really happened. Again, in a twisted sort of way, one has to almost "admire" the grand structure of the colossal scam this ghoulish gang has pulled off over the centuries, no, millenia. Oh if only this troublesome and talented tribe would direct their genius to the service of humanity, instead of to its debasement.

1- 9/11 cash man Feinberg is now shaking down the remnants of the Catholic Church of New York.

2- Rabbi Ephraim Karp of Cleveland was sentenced to 20 years for raping a young girl. Just one of MANY documented cases

3 & 4 - Why no public attention to the abuse crisis within the Rabbinate?

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times that the Archdiocese of New York is paying out money to the kids that were molested.

Boobus Americanus 2: You know. It's a damn shame. The priests I knew when I was a kid were solid men and great teachers. What the heck happened to the Church?

Sugar: It wass a frickin' conssspiracy! Christ-hating communist Jews and their ssodomite libtard dupes ssubverted it from within --- that'ss what happened!

Editor: Amen.

OCTOBER, 2016

Though his heart is in the right place, someone needs to tell this Trump supporter that the "Nazis" had to overcome the same lying Judenpresse that is dumping all over Trump -- (and the swastika is facing in the wrong direction.)

New York Times: Criticism of the News Media Takes On a More Sinister Tone

By JIM RUTENBERG

One of the various and most effective defense mechanisms which psychopathic liars use to counter an accusation is what we will call the "admit & mock trick." For example, a cheating spouse who suddenly comes under suspicion may sarcastically respond in her defense: "Oh sure. In between taking the kids to school and sports, housekeeping and a part-time job, I'm having secret rendezvous with my younger lover at the motel. You got me!" Though the comical mockery may reassure a suspicious husband, the admission may actually be true! The target is left feeling stupid and perhaps even guilty over his suspicions. See the trick?

With the admit & mock routine in mind, let us examine a few select excerpts from Jim Rutenberg's (cough cough) criticism of those who criticize the media.

1- The dashing Jim Rutenberg deceitfully uses an "admit & mock" trick to cover up the fact that more and more people are getting wise to the lies of The Jew York Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press

2- "Yeah, right. I was out with my so-called mistress all night. Ha ha ha ha."

Rutenberg (hence forward to be referred to as Rottenberg): It sure does get exhausting working for the global corporate media conspiracy.

Rebuttal: The gullible reader is expected to now believe that there is no such thing as a "global corporate media conspiracy" -- which regular readers of the Anti-New York Times know damn well there is.

Rottenberg: The hours are horrible (my kingdom for a weekend off). You never know what the puppet masters are going to order up next.

Rebuttal: Again, total truth. The billionaire Sulzberger-Ochs Family (cough cough) has owned the undeservedly hallowed "paper of record" for the past 120 years. Is not the employee, by definition, the "puppet" of the owner?

Rottenberg: I wish that guy from Mexico, What's-His-Face Slim, would get off my back.

Rebuttal: Notice the diversionary cover-up to protect the Sulzberger-Ochs clan. Mexican investor Carlos Slim only owns 16% of Sulzberger's Slimes. It is the Jewish dynasty, not Senor Slim, which retains majority ownership and full control over editorial policy. Nice Straw Man, Rottenberg.

Rottenberg: I probably shouldn't joke. The anger being directed at the news media has become dangerous enough that some news organizations are providing security for staff members covering Trump rallies. "Someone's going to get hurt" has become a common refrain in American newsrooms.

Rebuttal: Cut the crap, Rottenberg! The only people getting hurt at Trump rallies are Trump supporters who have been stalked and beaten up by Demoncrap leftists as they exited. As much as Trump loyalists and every other decent American with any brain cells left hate the Piranha Press, no one is going to physically hurt you --- though it would be a joyous sight to see you get your pansy ass kicked and hard.

Pissed off and passionate? Yes ---- Dangerous? Not at all!

Rottenberg: On Thursday, Jim Acosta of CNN held up a sign left in the press section of Donald J. Trump's rally in West Palm Beach that featured a swastika next to the word "Media."

Rebuttal: It should have been a communist hammer and sickle, but we understand the sign-holder's sentiment. Somebody get that guy a copy of "The Bad War," please.

Rottenberg: Later, in Cincinnati, the crowd met reporters with sustained boos, curses and chants of, "Tell the truth, tell the truth."

Rebuttal: Stop lying and Trump supporters will stop hating you. Very simple.

Rottenberg: It was as tense as anyone had seen it since the candidacy of George Wallace, and yet it was almost understandable given what Mr. Trump had been telling them: The news media was trying to "poison the minds" of voters with "lies, lies, lies."

Rebuttal: You are a bunch of filthy liars. That is why we publish The Anti-New York Times, which documents and rebuts your lies day after day.

Rottenberg: All of it, he said, is part of a "conspiracy against you, the American people" that also includes "global financial interests." The idea that the press is part of some grand conspiracy against the people, presented in such incendiary terms, goes well beyond the longstanding Republican complaints about liberal bias.

Rebuttal: Rottenberg, ~~Sugar the Cat and I~~, er, The Editorial Board of the Anti-Times has been monitoring the Slimes and counting the number of anti-Trump and anti-Putin attacks on a daily basis. That's what we do. Over the past 30 days, the "paper of record" has published an average of seven grossly inaccurate and unproven anti-Trump hit pieces per day, with as many as 12 in a single day. How is that not a conspiracy?

According to Rottenberg's illogic, it's just a coincidence that Nationalist Trump is trashed by the Bildeberger Slimes on a daily basis while Globalist Killary is puffed-up on a daily basis.

Rottenberg: You'd more expect to hear it from Lenin or the pages of the anti-Semitic publication American Free Press than from the standard-bearer of the Republican Party.

Rebuttal: There it is! The worn out and not-as-effective-as-it-used-to-be charge of "anti-Semitism" TM. Why are we not surprised?

Rottenberg: But it is resonating with a large portion of the American electorate. We can debate whether the "corporate" news media is as left-leaning as critics claim. The answer, as I see it, is more than they'll admit to themselves and less than conservatives claim.

Rebuttal: It's a very good sign that the likes of Rottenberg is admitting that there is any bias at all in the Piranha Press. It shows that the "cat is out of the bag" and all he can do now is minimize the reality, but not deny it totally.

Rottenberg: For all their many differences, the right-leaning editorial board of The Wall Street Journal and the left-leaning editorial boards of The New York Times and The Washington Post share the beliefs that global free trade is generally beneficial and that the United States needs to create ways to legalize the undocumented immigrant work force.

Translation: The "left-leaning" vs "right-leaning" thing is all just a charade designed to keep the sheeple under the control of the New World Order gang.

Rottenberg: The newsrooms of The Times, The Journal and The Post operate independently from their editorial pages.

Rebuttal: BULLSH!T!

Rottenberg: There also tends to be a shared sense of noble mission across the news media that can preclude journalists from questioning their own potential biases. “The people who run American journalism, and who staff the newsrooms, think of themselves as sophisticated, cosmopolitan, and, culturally speaking, on the right side of history,” Rod Dreher, a senior editor at The American Conservative, told me. “They don’t know what they don’t know and they don’t care to know it.”

Rebuttal: The obligatory gem buried in the cesspool of filth. Thanks Rottenberg.

Rottenberg: It’s a pretty sweeping generalization. But a considerable percentage of the country believes it. An even larger percentage of Mr. Trump’s voters do.

Rebuttal: A "considerable percentage of the country believes it" precisely because, as documented daily by your humble reporter and his ferocious feline sidekick, it is NOT a "sweeping generalization" -- which is why you lying sons of bitches are starting to get worried.

Rottenberg: No matter what happens on Nov. 8, the notion isn’t going away.

Rebuttal: Good! And for that reason, neither will the Anti-New York Times be "going away" any time soon.

Rottenberg: Reporters can make mistakes, become overly chummy with sources and fall into traps that give the campaigns too much power over their reporting. It is not evidence that the news media, including The New York Times, is working in tandem with “globalists” and Mrs. Clinton’s campaign to deliver her the presidency.

Rebuttal: Oh really Rottenberg? Then what accounts for the Slimes' main front page, the front page of its National Section, and the Op-Ed pages being plastered with one blistering anti-Trump attack piece after another after another, every single day for the past several months? Do you even bother to read your own damn newspaper?

Rottenberg: In the case of The Times, Mr. Trump has made its largest individual shareholder, Carlos Slim, of Mexico, part of the conspiracy. The Times’s publisher, Arthur O. Sulzberger Jr. — whose family controls the company's voting shares — said in a statement that Mr. Slim “has never sought to influence what we report.” The Times's executive editor, Dean Baquet, recently told me that he had never even met Mr. Slim.

Rebuttal: Another nice little gem of buried truth. The Sulzbergers still run the show. Slim is nobody. Thanks Rottenberg.

1- The pro-bailout, pro-Turd World Invasion, pro-NAFTA, pro-Killary Wall Street Urinal may be less communist than the Slimes, but in no way can it be called "right-leaning" --- that is if we define "right" as being pro-limited government and pro-sovereignty.

2- The next time some disinfo artist claims that Carlos Slim (shown above) runs the Slimes, remember Ruttenberg's admission that Sulzberger is still the absolute King.

Rottenberg: Previously, I had mostly noticed suggestions of a Slim-Times conspiracy on sites like Breitbart and alt-right Twitter accounts.

Rebuttal: That is why we refer to that site as Not-So-Brightbart.

Rottenberg: In giving those allegations prominence, the standard-bearer of the Republican Party is adding a sinister, false twist to his press criticism that arguably puts the reporters covering his rallies in danger. In effect, he is painting them as traitors.

Now, who's poisoning the minds of the electorate?

Rebuttal: Oh quit it with the bloody drama of being "in danger." Ain't nobody gonna hurt you at a Trump rally, you sniveling little pussy. Though it would be nice to see some of you seditious scribblers strung up from the traffic lights.

A therapeutic daydream ---- Sulzberger, Soros, Jacob and Evelyn Rothschild

* The Anti-New York Times does not advocate violence.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that because Trump has incited so much hatred against the press, reporters are afraid to cover his rallies now.

Boobus Americanus 2: This type of intimidation is eerily similar to the rise of the brown-shirt Nazis in Hitler's day.

New York Times: Austria Seeks to Seize, and Possibly Tear Down, Hitler's House

By MELISSA EDDY

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

In the hopes of waking and re-balling the once great German / Austrian people, we interrupt this latest spectacle of self-abuse (their proud national pastime) with a dose of historical truth.

1914: The international bankers (cough cough) behind the New World Order crime gang imposed World War I upon peaceful Germany. But that wasn't the worst thing they did to the German people.

1919: By trickery and duress, the victorious NWO then imposed the subsequent inhumane Treaty of Versailles - an atrocity which tore apart chunks of German and Austrian territory and ruined their economies. But that wasn't the worst thing they did to the German people.

1- Woodrow Wilson had no business whatsoever declaring war on Germany and Austria-Hungary.

2- The monetary reparations imposed by the Versailles Treaty were unpayable.

3- After the collapse of Germany's currency, French invaders marched into unarmed Germany and collected physical resources instead. German citizens who complained were harassed at bayonet point and sometimes killed.

1939: The usual suspects then re-imposed World War (Part 2) upon Hitler's resurgent yet still peaceful Germany. But that wasn't the worst thing they did to the German people.

The above headlines confirm that it was Britain & France which started the war against Germany, not vice-versa.

1- "(Britain) Plans For a Long War -- Blunt Reply To Goering's Peace"

2- "(British) War Cabinet Ready For Long War, Will Win At All Costs"

3- "French Invade Reich"

1943-1945: The Allies carpet-bombed and fire-bombed crowded German cities, killing as many as 1 million civilians. But that wasn't the worst thing they did to the German people.

1945-1948: After winning the war and obtaining absolute mastery over the starving German people, the vindictive and victorious Allies (mainly Soviets, but Americans also participated) raped as many as two million women and murdered / caused the deaths of as many as 10 million defenseless Germans. (See "Hellstorm" --- if you've got the stomach for it!) But that wasn't the worst thing they did to the German people.

1 & 2- Relentless fire-bombing of women, elderly and children

3 - Deliberate starvation and disease-killing of 1.5 million exposed German POWs

The aforementioned crimes against humanity killed off many fine Germans, but never even came close to killing a whole people. When the book of history is finally closed on the extinct German race, honest future historians (if there will be any) will, above all, cite the suicidal guilt complex that was instilled in three post-war generations of German (and Austrian) children as the cause of the voluntary extinction. There is no coming back from that psychological atrocity -- a mental sickness, based on trauma and lies, which compels highly infertile German and Austrian libtards to actually welcome the Turd World invasion of one of the few remaining lands of the last pure Aryans. "Vee vere responseeble for zee Holocaust. So vee must velcome effryone." -- recites the obedient Teutonic libtard of manly Merkel's Marxified realm -- which leads us to mention this sad story about the destruction of The Great One's birthplace.

Pathetic German libtards are so very proud of committing national suicide as a means of atoning for the Holohoax.

The Austrian government has moved to seize the house where The Great One was born. Finally wrested from a private owner, the sacred site is to be torn down in order to "demystify a site that has become a magnet for neo-Nazis as well as tourists." Note the pathetic self-flagellation from Austrian politicians, from the article:

"Interior Minister Wolfgang Sobotka has lobbied for the house to be torn down and replaced with an entirely new structure. In a statement on Monday, he repeated that wish, citing the findings of the historical commission, which recommended that "a thorough architectural remodeling is necessary to permanently prevent the recognition and the symbolism of the building."

Johannes Waidbacher, the mayor of Braunau am Inn, said he fully supported the commission's finding, noting that it had further recommended that the site be used by a social or municipal institution, to further emphasize the rejection of Nazi ideology."

Of course, the fact that statues of Jewish communists still stand doesn't trouble Herr Sobotka, Herr Waidbacher, and the vast majority of the brainwashed modern German people, at all. Mein Gott! That doomed country is so messed up.

Rosa Luxemburg (Berlin), Marx & Engels (Berlin) and another Marx (Chemnitz). The international movement which they represented actually killed far more people than The Great One mythically killed. Why is no one calling for the removal of those monuments? Answer: Because the Tribe owns the joint now!

Engels was not Jewish.

I know boss, I know.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the Austrian government is going to buy the house that Hitler was born in and tear it down.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's about time! Hitler was the most evil monster who ever lived.

Sugar: Leave Baby Hitler's house alone!

Editor: You guys make a very cute pair.

New York Times: New York Times Names A.G. Sulzberger Deputy Publisher

By SYDNEY EMBER

The selection, coming at a crucial moment for the company, positions him to succeed his father as publisher.

The opening paragraph of this front page announcement confirms what ~~Sugar the Cat and I~~, er, the Editorial Board here at The Anti-New York Times has maintained all along, that is: in terms of sheer journalistic and political power, the Sulzberger-Ochs clan ranks only a notch below the Rothschild Dynasty. Hear it straight from the Hebrew Horse's mouth:

"Since 1896, when Adolph S. Ochs bought The New York Times, the Ochs-Sulzberger family has controlled the newspaper. It led the company through two world wars, the publication of the Pentagon Papers, labor strife and severe financial challenges, striving to maintain the paper's importance even as new forms of media threatened to overtake it."

"The Times," Arthur Hays Sulzberger said in 1963 when he named his son publisher, "is a family enterprise."

On Wednesday, The Times continued that tradition, naming Arthur Gregg Sulzberger, a member of the fifth generation of the family, the deputy publisher. The appointment positions him to succeed his father as publisher and chairman of The New York Times Company."

The "prestigious" Slimes was instrumental in selling many huge historical lies before any hard data had even been gathered:

- 1- 1915: The Lusitania was NOT "torpedoed twice." The second explosion was caused by ignition of smuggled munitions.
- 2- 1939: Germany did NOT "attack Poland." It was Poland, (at the behest of UK, France & FDR) which drew first blood.
- 3- 1963: John F. Kennedy was NOT "killed by a sniper" (named Lee Harvey Oswald). He was shot in the face from the "grassy knoll."

This article ought to once and for all dispel the lie of the Jewish deniers of Jewish control of Sulzberger's Slimes who often whine: "The Times is a public corporation" -- or -- "Carlos Slim of Mexico now owns the Times." Apart from the fact that the Slimes' roster of Red reporters reads like the guest list for a Bar Mitzvah, the Sulzberger Crime Family owns the majority of voting shares. As for Senor Slim, he only owns 16% of the Slimes. Nice try, Hymie, but the Sulzbergers still run this evil propaganda sheet and their own front page confirms it.

Since its founding in 1851 by Republican Henry Jarvis Raymond, The Times has been a big player in shaping public opinion. But it was not until 1896 that the Times took a turn to the internationalist Left when it was purchased by the German-Jew named Adolph Ochs. In 1897, Ochs himself would coin the paper's now famous self-serving slogan, printed on its masthead every day ever since: "All the News That's Fit to Print".

Ochs' daughter married Arthur Hays Sulzberger, who became publisher when Adolph died in 1935. After A.H. Sulzberger's reign (1935-1961), Orville Dryfoos headed the paper for 2 years before Arthur Ochs "Punch" Sulzberger Sr. took over (1963-1992). He spawned the demon-seed Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, Jr. -- who is still the publisher of the NY Times today, and father of the just-named heir to the throne, A.G. Sulzberger. So, for 120 years, and well into the foreseeable future, America's most influential propaganda sheet has been in the hands of the same Zionist-Marxist family. That's some serious power, and probably not 1 in 250 Americans have ever even heard of this family of fiends!

All the new that's fit to distort is more like it!

Just how powerful is “Sulzberger’s Slimes?” Famed writer Gore Vidal may have been a morally degenerate sodomite who was wrong about many things, but his reference to the Slimes as “the Typhoid Mary of American journalism” was as spot-on as it was witty. One need only glance at the morning headlines of “the paper of record”, and then take note of how the superficial infomercials known as “the Nightly News” will so often pick up on whatever front page fairy-tale that the Manhattan Mendacity Machine spun that very same morning. The historical record is clear; Sulzberger's Slimes is the lead attack-fish of the Piranha Press.

Like some journalistic plague; the virus of lies, half-truths and cherry-picked data then infects the unguarded minds of the whole country, and indeed, the world. Such is the indisputable destructive power and undeserved “prestige” of this dreadful “Orwellian” institution.

1 & 2 - As long as these sons-of-bitches keep lying, the Editorial Board of The Anti-New York Times will keep slinging rebuttals at the Sulzberger Crime Syndicate.

3 – Hitler: "... the magnitude of a lie always contains a certain factor of credibility, since the great masses of the people more easily fall a victim to a big lie than to a little one, since they themselves lie in little things, but would be ashamed of lies that were too big. Such a falsehood will never enter their heads and they will not be able to believe in the possibility of such monstrous effrontery and infamous misrepresentation in others; yes, even when enlightened on the subject, they will long doubt and waver, and continue to accept at least one of these causes as true. Therefore, something of even the most insolent lie will always remain and stick – a fact which all the great lie-virtuosi and lying-clubs in this world know only too well and also make the most treacherous use of."

- The Great One was commenting on Germany's dishonest Jewish-owned press of World War I days.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the publisher of The Times will be handing over control of the paper to his son.

Boobus Americanus 2: Oh. What's his name?

Boobus Americanus 1: Sulzer, Schultsberg --- something like that. I can't remember exactly.

Sugar: Amazing Boobuss! The Ssulzbergerss have owned your family'ss mind for a hundred and twenty yearss. And you don't even know their frickin' name!

Editor: Even many well informed patriots and conservatives aren't aware of this dangerous family. Many of them believe that Carlos Slim "owns The Times."

New York Times: Donald Trump's Threat to Reject Election Results Alarms Scholars

By MAX FISHER, with contrubutions by AMANDA TAUB

Donald J. Trump has claimed, without evidence, that the election will be “rigged” and “taken away from us.” Political scientists say this type of rhetoric erodes popular faith in democracy.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Oh my, the "scholars" are "alarmed." This must be serious! Slimes scribblers Max Fisher (cough cough) and Amanda Taub (cough cough) explain:

Fisher & Taub, along with a handful of select "scholars," spook the sheeple with warnings about Trump and "fascism" TM

Fisher & Taub: Donald J. Trump's suggestions that he might reject the results of the American election as illegitimate have unnerved scholars ...

Rebuttal: There was a time when words like "scholar" or "intellectual" actually meant something. The terms once described learned men who were steeped in "the classics" of Western Civilization -- well-rounded and well-versed in philosophy, literature, applied science, the arts, history, logic; and often conversant in Latin and at least one other language besides their mother tongue. Today, the term generally applies to any diploma-decorated erudite egghead who can recite the top 100 politically correct platitudes on command. The correct term for these puffed-up goof-balls is "sophist" -- not "scholar."

Fisher & Taub: ... on democratic decline, who say his language echoes that of dictators who seize power by force and firebrand populists who weaken democracy for personal gain.

Rebuttal: See that?! What did I just say about reciting meaningless platitudes? --- "language echoes that of dictators" --- "firebrand populists" --- "weaken democracy for personal gain." That's soooo profound. (rolling eyes sarcastically)

* Platitude: a remark or statement, especially one with a moral content, that has been used too often to be interesting or thoughtful.

Fisher & Taub (quoting a professor): "To a political scientist who studies authoritarianism, it's a shock," ...

Rebuttal: I never understood this self-serving term "political scientist." The field of politics, which encompasses things like history, current events, philosophy etc., is indeed a fascinating and legitimate field of study, but it's not "science." It seems like these academic ass clowns gave themselves the title of "scientist" to compensate for some sort of insecurity over the fact they are not men of actual science. It's as corny as it is annoying, but I digress.

Fisher & Taub: ... said Steven Levitsky, a professor at Harvard.

Rebuttal: Levitsky, eh? (cough cough) --- nuff said.

The scholar / scientist in image #1 (Nikola Tesla) was instrumental in developing commercial electricity. The scholar / scientist in image #2 (Wernher von Braun) was instrumental in developing rocket science. The "scholar / political scientist" in image #3 (Steven Levitsky) spews Marxist platitudes in flowery language.

Fisher & Taub: “This is the stuff that we see in Russia and Venezuela and Azerbaijan and Malawi and Bangladesh, and that we don’t see in stable democracies anywhere.”

Rebuttal: Actually, professor Lesshitsky, we do not see that "stuff" in any the countries you just listed. As far as we have been able to determine after scouring the Internet, every "democratic" TM nation on earth requires some form of ID, generally a photo ID, in order to vote. Only in the United States of George Soros (cough cough) can any ole homeless crack-head, enticed with a carton of Newports, walk into an inner-city polling place and repeatedly vote under the names of various dead people.

Fisher & Taub: Throughout October, Mr. Trump has claimed, without evidence, that the vote will be “rigged” and “taken away from us.” At the final presidential debate, he refused to say he would accept the election’s outcome...

Rebuttal: Re-writing the above sentence with a few minor tweaks exposes a hypocrisy and double standard that "the Tribe" is notorious for. Let's try this:

Throughout October, Mrs. Clinton has claimed, without evidence, that the vote will be “rigged” and “taken away from us” by Russian hackers working for Putin. At the final presidential debate, she refused to say he would accept the election’s outcome...

There -- fixed it!

Fisher & Taub: In weak democracies around the world, scholars warned Friday, political leaders have used the same language to erode popular faith in democracy — often intending to incite violence that will serve their political aims, and sometimes to undo democracy entirely.

Rebuttal: "erode popular faith in democracy" -- "intending to incite violence" -- "undo democracy entirely" --- Again:

* Platitude: a remark or statement, especially one with a moral content, that has been used too often to be interesting or thoughtful.

Fisher & Taub: “Almost always, public faith, public trust in institutions is eroded when this happens,” Mr. Levitsky said.

Rebuttal: ... "public trust in institutions is eroded when this happens." --- No, Leshitsky. "Public trust in institutions is eroded" when people are allowed to vote without establishing who the hell they are!

Image 1: Besides voting, there isn't much one can do in America without showing proper identification.

Image 2: Even some of the most corrupt Turd World nations require photo-ID and finger inking to protect the legitimacy of their elections.

Image 3: 2008 - Ooops! Ron Jones of Filthydelphia tells CNN: "I voted a couple of times." (for Obongo) --

Fisher & Taub: By placing blame for his likely loss on electoral fraud, he is telling his supporters not only that the results are flawed, but also that the democratic process has been seized by shadowy forces ...

Rebuttal: And we all know that there is no such thing as "shadowy forces." That would be a "conspiracy theory" TM. --- Unless, of course, we are talking about "shadowy forces" working for Putin. Then it is perfectly permissible to suspect that nefarious Rooskies are hiding under every keyboard.

Fisher & Taub: In this view, “your opponents are not just somebody that you differ with on policy, it’s that they’re somehow trying to undermine the will of the people,” said Sheri Berman, a professor of political science at Barnard College who studies Europe’s descent into fascism in the 1930s.

Rebuttal: Berman, eh? (cough cough) --- to boot, the yapping yenta "studies Europe’s descent into fascism in the 1930s" -- Nuff said.

Fisher & Taub: Rejecting elections as rigged, she said, sends the message that both the winner and democracy itself “fundamentally threaten what the people actually want.”

Rebuttal: "sends the message" -- "democracy itself" -- "fundamentally threaten what the people actually want." --- Once again, class:

* Platitude: a remark or statement, especially one with a moral content, that has been used too often to be interesting or thoughtful.

Fisher & Taub: This strategy, she (Berman) said, is twofold: first, to present the country’s democracy as so flawed that a strong leader is required to step in to restore order; and second, to generate unrest that the strongman can wield as leverage.

Rebuttal: I can't stomach this nasty hag anymore. Next witness.

Fisher & Taub: (quoting another "scholar") “Merely talking about not accepting results sets off a chain of events that weakens the structure of democratic continuity,” Matt Glassman, a political scientist, wrote this past week.

Rebuttal: Glassman, eh? (cough cough) Boy oh boy; the Manischewitz Grapevine is really buzzing like a livewire over Trump's warning of voter fraud. Methinks the seditious shysters doth protest a bit toooo much, eh?

Fisher & Taub: Contesting a presidential election, he said, risks turning bedrock democratic assumptions — rule of law, the peaceful transfer of power, the sanctity of elections — into points of political dispute.

Rebuttal: "bedrock democratic assumptions" -- "rule of law" -- "the peaceful transfer of power" -- "the sanctity of elections" --- Wow. Such "scholarship." Eat your hearts out Messrs. Plato, Socrates, Schopenhauer, Jefferson, Franklin et al. .. One more time, boys and girls:

* Platitude: a remark or statement, especially one with a moral content, that has been used too often to be interesting or thoughtful.

Fisher & Taub: But not all leaders execute this playbook consciously or with an eye toward some specific prize, said Nic Cheeseman, a political scientist at the University of Oxford who studies sub-Saharan Africa.

Rebuttal: Cheeseman, eh? (cough cough) Can we get a little diversity here, please? You know, a token goy puppet or two -- just to make it look good?

Great "scholars" such as Berman, Glassman and Cheeseman may dazzle their captive college kiddies with their glib rap and libtarded cliches, but we are not impressed by such silly sophism.

Fisher & Taub: While Mr. Trump's supporters do not have to fear political oppression if he loses,... If those conditions are taken together, Mr. Cheeseman said, the outlook is not one of doom, but it is worrisome.

Rebuttal: ~~Sugar and I~~, er, The Editorial Board of The Anti-New York Times, are getting the ominous sense that the playbook calls for Killary to win (by fraud) and for the country to be destabilised / demoralized by Trump's rightful claims of "rigging." We shall know soon enough.

Fisher & Taub: America's democratic norms make widespread unrest unlikely, Mr. Levitsky said. Still, because Mr. Trump has spent much of his campaign challenging the legitimacy of the election, should he refuse to concede a loss, that could be "enough to provoke a fair amount of violence" from fringe elements. As he went on, Mr. Levitsky's language lapsed into a vernacular more commonly applied to very different sorts of countries: “American security forces,” he said, would need to move carefully to resolve any “electoral violence.”

Rebuttal: You hear that? --- “American security forces” -- these busy little devils are up to something.

Hymie's wet dream ----- Sooner or later, the Globalists will attempt to unleash the Department of Homeland Security (imposed during the reign of Bush-Cheney in response to the 9/11 false flag scam) upon a rebellious population. Could the coming fury over a stolen election -- along with a "patriot" and / or anti-Russia false-flag -- be used as the pretext?

Fisher & Taub (quoting yet another "scholar"): “I actually can’t believe all of the parallels. I actually can’t believe that it’s happening here,” Erica Frantz, a political science professor at Michigan State University, recently told The Toronto Star, ...

Rebuttal: Frantz, eh? (yet another cough cough) --- WTF man!

Fisher & Taub: “Boy, is Trump giving those of us who study populism, fascism and the erosion of democratic norms ever more to think about,” ...

Rebuttal: (palm to face, shaking head, sighing) -- “populism, fascism and the erosion of democratic norms” -- All together now:

* Platitude: a remark or statement, especially one with a moral content, that has been used too often to be interesting or thoughtful.

Fisher & Taub: “When you start to delegitimize your electoral systems (and) your media ... then you start to have people genuinely questioning the value of the system,” Mr. Cheeseman said. “It takes a generation to rebuild that trust. This is not something that gets done in a year or two.”

Rebuttal: The only people still defending "the value of the system" by supporting Killary are the big money/media interests (cough cough) and their controlled cadres of welfare parasites, imbecilic libtards, millennial morons, bitter vagina voters who have either been ignored, abandoned or abused by some man, envious anti-Whites of every shade, and kept academic eggheads such as the lying communists quoted in this atrocious article. Unfortunately, when illegal aliens and dead bodies are added to this mix (to say nothing of those dreadful computerized voting machines!), it could very well be enough to install that hideous hag from hell into the Rainbow House.

God how we hate you deceiving sons (and daughters) of bitches.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that many eminent scholars are alarmed over Trump's de-legitimizing of our elections.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. It does smack of fascism.

Sugar: Under fascism, you two witless ass-clownss would not have ended up becoming sso vulnerable to sstupid frickin' jewissh platitudess!

Editor: Very true, Sugar. Goebell's Ministry of Public Enlightenment and Propaganda opened the eyes and freed the minds of an entire nation.

An exhibition by the Topography of Terror Foundation in Berlin explores the mass executions after the Nazi invasion of the Soviet Union.

New York Times: Germany Confronts, in Unique Exhibit, Its 'Holocaust of the Bullets'

By ALISON SMALE

"We Germans know the stories and the scars much less well than we like to think," Foreign Minister Frank-Walter Steinmeier said at the opening.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Amazing, isn't it? Even in the midst of their own Jewish-engineered slow motion genocide by immigration and the lowest birth rates on Planet Earth, the de-balled and de-moralized Germans are still whipping themselves over the "Holocaust" TM -- an event which never happened. Hence, it is often referred to by those of us in-the-know as, "the Holohoax." Let's clean up some of this filth vomited out by Alison Smale -- New York Slimes bureau chief in Berlin.

Hazmat suits and goggles on -- into Sulzberger's cesspool we go:

The 100 year old pre-planned genocide of the Aryans is entering its final stage -- as suicidal Germans still whine and self-flagellate over the Holohoax.

Smale: Berlin -- The exhibition, which opened late last month, confronts the mass murder of Jews and other minorities after the Nazis invaded the Soviet Union in June 1941. For all the attention paid to the past here, this display is the first in Germany to focus solely on those executions of more than two million people.

Rebuttal: It's interesting. The Soviets themselves, who helped to originate the Holohoax by issuing a report on their "findings" at Auschwitz on the very day of Germany's unconditional surrender (so that the gagged Germans would not be able to respond to the ridiculous allegations), never mentioned these "two million" outside-of-concentration-camp executions.

Smale: Their bodies fell into pits, which were then covered and left as anonymous mass graves.

Rebuttal: Where are these "mass graves?" Why were they never dug up and shown to the world for propaganda purposes?

Smale: This "Holocaust of the Bullets," as it has come to be known, is deeply familiar to citizens of the former Soviet Union, particularly in Ukraine, Belarus, the Baltics and large parts of western Russia.

Rebuttal: "Holocaust of the bullets," --- LOL! Who writes this corny crap? Steven Spielberg?

There were indeed cases of German SS carrying out executions in the field. But what Smales won't tell you is that the "victims" were Red & Jewish partisan terrorists. These were the same types that committed genocide against anti-communist Russians during the civil war of just 20 years before. Because of their brutality against German soldiers and Russian civilians alike, they were not treated as standard Prisoners of War, but were often executed as war criminals instead.

OSWIECIM KILLINGS PLACED AT 4,000,000

Soviet Commission Reports Death Camp in Poland Was Founded by Himmler.

By C. L. Sulzberger

By Wireless to The New York Times

Smales: In Germany, however, the mass shootings are less known than the gas chambers and horrors of Auschwitz, Treblinka and other camps in Nazi-occupied Poland.

Rebuttal: The reason that "the Holocaust of the Bullets" is "less known than the gas chambers" is that this fictitious mass-shooting of these two million Jews was only recently invented. You see, because the "6 million" TM dead in the "gas chambers" TM fairy tale is becoming logistically unsustainable, the ever-reducing concentration camp death tolls have to be made up somewhere else in order to keep the number at "6 million" TM.

Smales: At the opening of the exhibit, Foreign Minister Frank-Walter Steinmeier used the occasion to link the past and the present. Since 2014, with the outbreak of hostilities in Ukraine, Europe has again had to face "the question of war and peace," Mr. Steinmeier said.

Rebuttal: Notice the subtle, non-spoken linkage of The Great One (past) to Putin (the present) -- a damn fine compliment to Putin in our book!

Smales: He said nine towns that he had visited in the past year in Ukraine and the region lost more than 180,000 inhabitants during the Nazi invasion.

Rebuttal: Actually, many people in the Ukraine region, and Russia proper itself were overjoyed when the Germans invaded! Germany's "winning of the hearts and minds" began to change when Soviet leaders Stalin and Kaganovich (cough, cough) ordered false-flag atrocity attacks against his own people.

Jews and communists may not have been happy to see the Germans arrive, but as the images above show, everyday Ukrainians and Russians greeted the Germans as heroic liberators in 1941. This began to change when Soviet NKVD death squads, dressed in German uniforms, began to commit atrocities and spread doctored photos.

Smales: In these "wounded landscapes" of "the forgotten Holocaust," Mr. Steinmeier said, "this exhibit removes the layers and brings to light, layer by layer, the details of a past which is not just an eastern one, but also ours. Without consciousness of those layers under the landscape, we Germans can never do justice -- "We Germans know the stories and the scars much less well than we like to think."

Rebuttal: "We Germans" did this. "We Germans" did that. Get off your damn knees, man! Sickening.

Smales: The special show — "Mass Shootings: The Holocaust From the Baltic to the Black Sea 1941-1944" — was mounted in cooperation with the foundation behind the nearby Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe.

Rebuttal: Dadgummit! Jews, Jews, Jews. Did no else die in World War II? Can we at least get a "shout-out" for the 1 million actual German civilians bombed and burned to death during the war? Or the many millions killed by starvation, disease and mass execution after the war?

Smales: At the entrance, a map shows 722 places where more than 500 people were killed by the Nazis' firing squads. "The map illustrates how bitter the history is, and how difficult it was to mount this exhibit," Mr. Nachama said.

Rebuttal: If you know where these 722 killing fields are, then where are the 2,000,000 skeletal remains? Hmmm?

Smales: To judge by the solemn and attentive visitors viewing the exhibit on the first Sunday it was open, early this month, it hits home with foreigners and Germans alike.

Rebuttal: Having visited, just out of curiosity, various museum exhibits with "politically correct" themes (Modern Art, Evolution, Smithsonian etc.), your observant reporter here is always struck and humored by the odd way in which obedient libtards will suddenly turn all "solemn and attentive" whenever in the presence of puffed-up crap -- as if they are at a church funeral mass or something. Such frickin' weirdos! It's enough to make one want to gulp down a can of beans and a dozen or so Brussels Sprouts a few hours before visiting the exhibit -- just to add a bit of musical comic relief to the oh-so "solemn and attentive" proceedings.

The uptight "solemn and attentive" German sheeple who worship this commie crap could use a good wake call.

Smales: Joshua Bagetti, 27, an electrician visiting from Brisbane, Australia, seemed dazed.

Rebuttal: "Seemed dazed" --- See what I mean?

Smales: He was, he said, stunned to see how rapidly the Nazis had invaded “and how far down south they went” — through the Caucasus to bump up practically against the Middle East.

Rebuttal: Well Josh, allow us to un-stun you by schooling you on a fact of history that you'll not hear about in some Jewish-inspired "exhibit." The Great One ordered the invasion of the Soviet Union to preempt Stalin's imminent invasion and enslavement of Europe. You do know who Stalin was, and what he did, right? Probably not.

Smales: Three 20-year-olds from around Cologne who were in Berlin for job training included the exhibit in their plans for their visit, said Christine Gronemann, one of the three. their lessons did make one thing plain, she said: “It was very clearly stated that Nazism, and everything to do with it, is not good.”

Rebuttal: "Nazism" (a term invented by Jewish propagandists) is "not good." -- such a profound analysis from the no-doubt "solemn and attentive" 20-year old Christine.

Smales: Being taught about the Holocaust, and Germany's guilt, is a ritual of adolescence here. Students visit former concentration camps or memorials to smaller camps. If a school and its community can manage it, students go to Israel. Holocaust survivors, their numbers dwindling, are honored guests at German schools.

Rebuttal: That entire sentence just makes us want to cry. Pure child abuse.

*Students throughout Germany, the United States, Canada, Australia, and Europe generally do not learn how to think critically, and in many cases, graduate deficient in reading, writing, arithmetic, history, geography etc. ----
- but they sure so know all about the "Holocaust" TM!*

Smales: Margot Friedlander, 94, is one such survivor. Born in Berlin, she was hidden by Germans from 1943 to 1944 and then deported to Theresienstadt, the camp north of Prague where she met her future husband, Adolf Friedlander.

Rebuttal: So, Margot met the man who later become her husband in a concentration camp. Interesting. Did she first bump into him in "zee gas chamber?" -- "Hey baby. You come here often?"

Smales: A rabbi married them in spring 1945 in Theresienstadt, and the next year they left for New York,

Rebuttal: Say what?! --- Mighty kind of those big bad Germans to allow rabbis to marry young interned Jewish couples, even in the closing months of the war when all was lost and you'd think the Germans would be at their most vindictive. Doesn't that sort of contradict the official narrative of a genocidal campaign against the interned Jews? Just sayin'.

Smales: After he died in 1997, she started writing her memoir, eventually published in German.

Rebuttal: Cha ching! Cha-ching! Cha-ching! Ah, show us the shekels Margot, show us the shekels.

Smales: That led to a trip to Berlin, and a decision to stay. Visiting schools is perhaps the most important part of her new life, she said, "because they are the future."

Rebuttal: Oh what demonic glee this old yenta must derive from corrupting the grandchildren and great grandchildren of the kind German people who had, in the decades before World War I, treated the Jews so well -- only to later be repaid by the widespread Jewish / Marxist / Zionist treason which lost the war for Germany. (See "The Bad War" by yours truly)

Smales: In this respect, did Hitler's efforts to mold German culture triumph? Not if you listen to Ms. Friedlander, who has faith in the young. "What was, was," she said. Now, "they are the ones who must shape society."

Translation: "We Jews have trained the youth of Germany to commit suicide, and like it!"

Money-grubbing Margot Friedlander and her fellow Tribesman are GENOCIDING Germany (and all of Whitedom) through the minds of the brainwashed youth.

Image 3: German kids chant: "Long live international solidarity" (world government).

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today of a museum exhibit in Berlin about the "Holocaust by Bullets" -- the little known mass executions of 2 million Jews, committed mainly in the fields of the Soviet Union.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. I read that piece. It is said that German visitors to the exhibit were very "solemn and attentive".

New York Times: A Quick Guide to Rising Obamacare Rates

By REED ABELSON and MARGOT SANGER-KATZ

New York Times: Affordable Care Act Premium Increases Are a Fixable Problem

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

Have "youse guys" noticed that all-of-a-sudden, it has become socially and journalistically acceptable for communists and libtards to state the obvious truth about ObongoCare that opponents of the scheme had been saying all along -- namely, that the monstrosity was going to eventually self-destruct? Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press are notorious for either denying or ignoring that which is inconveniently obvious, especially when it comes to their Golden Boys Mr. Obongo & Mr. Obongo. So, what's going on with all this recent negative coverage about 'The Affordable Care Act' -- aka ObongoCare? It's elementary, dear reader, elementary.

By any measure, ObongoCare, with all its empty promises, has turned to be a disaster. But why are Sulzberger's Slimes the Piranha Press suddenly now so openly admitting, and even hyping up this fact?

You see, ObongoCare was destined to implode -- by design. After the collapse of this halfway measure, just as Obongo departs the stage, President Killary's assigned role will be to step in and save the day with a "single payer system" -- a euphemism for full-scale communist takeover of the entire heath sector, financed by new taxes up the proverbial "waazoo." Hear it from anus-frenching lips of the Joker-In-Chief himself, spoken among friendly supporters while he was an unknown Senate candidate back in 2003:

"I happen to be a proponent of a single payer.. universal health care program. I see no reason why the United States of America, the wealthiest country in the history of the world, spending 14 percent of its Gross National Product on health care cannot provide basic health insurance to everybody. And that's what Jim is talking about when he says everybody in, nobody out -- A single payer health care plan, a universal health care plan. And that's what I'd like to see."

When speaking among fellow co-conspirators, communist liars become very honest.

Because the country, in spite of having just recently elected Obongo, was not yet ready for full blown communism in 2009; ObongoCare was installed to act as a halfway-step toward communist health care. Enticed by the prospect of new forced customers, the short-sighted greedy "capitalists" of the Health Insurance industry ignored this higher reality and foolishly dropped any opposition to their own coming death warrant. After the inevitable implosion of the grand scheme (which is now in process) the private insurance sector (barring a Trump victory) will be wiped altogether, at least for all but the very wealthy.

After Killary and the CIA-media steal the coming election, Americans will come to learn just how expensive "free" health care will actually be. This massive insurer exodus from ObongoCare markets is already creating a shrinking pool of competition that will the stage for the inevitable push for a "single-payer" -- and/or a "public option" to either be added to, or to replace Obongo's monster.

In a recent Journal of the American Medical Association article, one of Obongo's ghostwriters, called for adding a public option and propping up the exchanges with more tax dollars. He also wished for more government bureaucrats to make decisions on how care is delivered; and pharmaceutical price controls which would destroy research and development and deny patients access to promising new drugs.

One need look no further than the Veterans Administration to understand what a communist "single-payer" health-care system looks like. Horror stories of long waits for treatment, bureaucratic delays, fraud, and incompetence are the norm. It's bad enough that the phony Medicare "trust fund" will be broke within 10 years. Only massive tax hikes, more borrowing and more premature killing of seniors with morphine will save that pyramid scheme for the elderly. Just imagine the investment-crushing, job-killing financial burden upon the private economy, and the crappy rationed quality of "care" when the system is expanded to include everyone. Don't get sick, folks, don't get sick!

1 - 1993: Then-president Bill Clinton holds up a proposed "health security card" during a 1993 State-of-the-Union speech.

2 - "Health Care That's Always There" --- First Lady / Co-President headed up the failed effort for commie-care in 1993. Boobus America wasn't ready for such a radical step at that time. They are ready today.

3 - Though psycho-fag Obongo and psycho-dyke Killary personally hate each other, their ideological bonds will soon have made them a devastating 1-2 punch to knockout America once and for all.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that costs for ObamaCare are rising rapidly.

Boobus Americanus 2: Wow. That wasn't supposed to happen.

Sugar: Actually, Boobuss -- it WASS ssupossed to happen!

Editor: Good comeback, Sugar --- and no vulgarity too!

Fighters on parade in 2014 in Raqqa Province in Syria. The city of Raqqa serves as the Islamic State's de facto capital

New York Times: Warning of ISIS Plots Against West, U.S. Plans Assault on Raqqa

By HELENE COOPER and ERIC SCHMITT

For weeks now, Orange Man has been ridiculing the Department of Defense's policy of publicly announcing its next move against phony "ISIS." During the 2nd debate, he said:

"Why can't they do it quietly? Why can't they do the attack, make it a sneak attack, and after the attack is made, inform the American public that we've knocked out the (ISIS) leaders, we've had a tremendous success? Why do they have to say we're going to be attacking Mosul within the next four to six weeks?"

Orange Man went on to explain that such announcements "stupidly" give advance warning to ISIS leaders, thus allowing them to "escape" to another area. Of course, these announcements are not actually the product of "stupidity" -- a fact which Orange Man surely knows but will not, for political reasons, actually say. The advance statements are intended to allow the CIA-Mossad mercenary army that is ISIS to escape unharmed.

From the article:

"The fight to retake Raqqa, the Syrian city that serves as the capital of the Islamic State, must begin soon — within weeks — to disrupt planning believed to be underway there to stage terrorist attacks on the West, senior Defense Department and military officials said on Wednesday.

Defense Secretary Ashton B. Carter said in Brussels on Wednesday that the offensive to oust the Islamic State, also known as ISIS or ISIL, from Raqqa would begin within weeks. This is, as always, a matter when you're positioning forces and so forth, we have a plan to do that and a schedule to do that," Mr. Carter told reporters. "We're going to execute to that plan."

We refer to the warmongering neo-con psycho Ash Carter as Ass Carter.

1- Trump: "How stupid are we?"

2- Defense Secretary Ass Carter works for Bibi Netanyahu. The body language of the handshake between the two clearly shows who is the master and who is the butt-kissing subordinate.

3- Carter walks across the floor to hug Netanyahu, who awaits his embrace like a proud papa waiting for his little boy to run into his arms.

The manufactured phoniness of this controlled bogeyman known as 'ISIS' has three manifestations:

1- The actors in black ski-masks carrying out fake "beheadings" of fellow agents in orange jump suits.

2- The actual mercenary fighters on the ground

3- The "crisis actor" false-flag attacks in places like Brussels, Nice, and Paris

The ultimate goal is to bring the U.S. military directly into the "Syrian Civil War" under the pretext of "fighting ISIS." The true objective is to overthrow the Russian-protected government of President Assad. For today's bit of ISIS-debunking, your child-at-heart reporter here takes you back to the exciting comic-book tales of "The Amazing Spider Man" -- the coolest super-hero ever!

Apart from the fact that both Spider Man and ISIS Man are children's stories; and apart from the fact that both wear full facial masks; there is a third thing the two have in common -- a commonality which gives the game away by exposing their respective identities.

As those of you who read the comics as children, or saw either the TV cartoons or the more recent Hollywood movie versions know; Spider Man is really Peter Parker -- a teen-aged nerd who works part-time as a photographer for The Daily Bugle. Month after month, as Spider Man dispatches one super-villain after another, Peter Parker amazes his cigar-chomping boss, J. Jonah Jameson, with his uncanny ability to be in the right place at the right time to capture photos of Spider Man in action. The photos pay well for young Parker. Scoop after scoop after scoop, and still no one is able to figure out Peter's secret for obtaining such blockbuster photos of New York's favorite Super Hero and the related crime scenes.

Spidey Selfies

Years ahead of his time, Peter Parker places an automated tracking device in his suit so that the camera he sets up always takes great shots of Spider-Man in action.

Who would ever suspect that the masked man and the "lucky" photographer are one in the same!

Now, what has this got to do with ISIS Man? Well, you see boys and girls, ISIS Man also has a photographer - and videographer - with this weird ability to obtain the only images of ISIS Man. Her name is Rita Katz, and her "organization" is known as SITE (Search for International Terrorist Entities). You may have seen the SITE logo on so many of the internationally televised images of ISIS Man. Have a look and see:

ISIS Man "beheads" James Foley. ISIS Man "beheads" Joel Sotloff. ISIS Man "beheads" David Haines.

ISIS Man "beheads" Alan Henning. ISIS Men "behead" a whole bunch of Christians! ISIS Man "beheads" Kenji Goto

1- ISIS Man with ISIS Boy forget their masks and "behead" unknown victim.

2- ISIS Knife-Man hams it up for the cameras -- "Allah Akbar!"

2- ISIS Men and victims change uniform colors for the "beheading" ceremony of a bunch of African Christians.

It's perfectly OK to laugh because NOBODY was actually hurt in these silly SITE "beheading" videos! Even The Times of London reported on the fakeness of the very first "beheading" video -- before suddenly dropping the story the next day.

And there are plenty more such goof-ball scenes where those came from -- and they are still coming! Who is this Rita Katz woman who heads up SITE as its Executive Director? And: how in the world does she pull so many 'Peter Parker' scoop-photos and videos out of her Magic Hat? Well, self-professed 'terrorism analyst' and pathological Muslim-basher Rita Katz is an Iraqi-born Jew whose family moved to Israel after her wealthy father was accused of being a Mossad agent, and then executed for treason. In Israel she served in the merciless IDF (Israeli Defense Force) and graduated from Tel Aviv University. Since 2002, Katz has run SITE out of Washington DC.

Scoop after scoop after scoop after scoop of "beheading videos" that no one else has been able to even get close to. How does the Amazing Rita manage to pull it off? --- Ask Peter Parker.

1- Rita the "terrorism expert" on CNN

2- Spidey says: "Rita & Friends = ISIS"

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that we will be attacking the ISIS stronghold of Raqqa in Syria.

Boobus Americanus 2: You know, Trump does have a point. Why must we publicly announce these attacks? Doesn't that tip the bad guys off as to what's coming?

Sugar: Follow that line of thought Boobuss -- and the mysstery will reveal itsself!

As media-fueled anti-Killary mania sweeps the nation, ~~Sugar and Mike~~, er, "The Editorial Board" of the Anti-New York Times take great delight in watching the apparent destruction of the campaign of Killary Rotten Clinscum. Nonetheless, and don't get mad at us for pissing in your election party's punchbowl, it is clear that a game is being played on us all by the dirty evil agent Julian Assange of CIA-Mossad WikiLeaks, Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press.

Assange of WikiLeaks -- who openly boasts about having triggered the bloody "Arab Spring" -- has been tasked with ruining Killary with leaks fed to him by sources unknown. Why are this evil conspiratorial monster and his secret handlers out to get Killary?

Think about it. After all these years of criminal conduct dating back to the 1980's in Arkansas, all of a sudden, just 10 days before the climax of the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show), the whole of the PRC (Predatory Ruling Class) and their wholly-owned press and FBI have realized that the nasty lesbian bitch is a lying crook? What's really going on here?

FBI boss James Comey works for the Obongo administration, which suggests that Obongo (or perhaps even a higher authority in "deep-state"), and not Comey, is behind this 11th hour crash of the Killary campaign. Anyone who thinks that Comey is his own man is being naive. So, why would Mr. and Mr. Obongo, the evil phony Julian Assange, and Sulzberger's Slimes conspire to help Donald Trump, you ask? Four possibilities.

The object of the game is to either:

- 1- trigger a national crisis which will either cancel the election or lead to an electoral college appointment for a new President other than Trump (Rat Ryan?)
- 2- install Trump -- an unwitting tool in this game -- crash the fragile bubble-system with 2017 interest rate hikes and then blame Republicans
- 3- damage Killary, install her as damaged goods, indict her after the election but before the inauguration, Obongo remains President.

What are "the powers that be" really up to?

4- Another factor to consider, which may overlap with Option # 1 or #2, is Bibi Satanytahu's hatred for the Clintons who, like Soros, are more Globalist than they are Zionist. Indeed, when Slick Willie Clinton was President, he interfered in Israeli politics to such an extent that Satanytahu lost his re-election bid in 1999. Bibi's influential American agents and allies are generally anti-Killary, but that might not account for the Globalist Slimes suddenly dumping on Killary.

Netanyahu Says Clinton's Refusal to Meet Him 'Humiliated' Israel

By DAVID STOUT

"In today's interview, the Prime Minister's anger flared when he was asked, "Do you believe the President of the United States is trying to humiliate you?"

Laboring for a moment over his words, Mr. Netanyahu said: "No Prime Minister of Israel is humiliated personally. All insults are directed to the office of the Prime Minister of the state of Israel, and the entire Jewish state feels humiliated if such action is directed against us."

If any of "youse guys" can come up with another plausible theory as to why the Golden Ghoul just got the rug pulled out from under her, we'd love to hear it. But please, don't insult Mike's intelligence and Sugar's instincts with any nonsense about "FBI agents forced Comey's hand" or "WikiLeaks is a legit whistle-blowing" organization" or "her crimes are so bad that the media cannot cover up for her anymore." No, no and no!

This final week of the QFS is going to be very interesting and will reveal many answers to the questions that have vexed us all year long. The coming events may not be suitable for the weak-hearted. Stay tuned.

Israeli nationalist-terrorist strongman Bibi Satanyahu has humiliated both Globalist Obongo and Killary to their faces. Are we witnessing his ultimate revenge?

Boobus Americanus 2: I know. I understand the Chicago Tribune has called for her to drop out of the race!

New York Times: Xi Jinping Is China's 'Core' Leader: Here's What It Means

By CHRIS BUCKLEY

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Chris Buckley, the Slimes' resident China-basher, offers up a mostly fact-based assessment about Chinese President Xi Jinping being named "core leader" of China. From the article:

"Jinping got a lift when the Communist Party gave him the title of 'core leader' at a party meeting last week. But what does that mean for Mr. Xi and China's political future?"

The title doesn't come with particular powers, but it gives Mr. Xi special stature and sends an intimidating signal that he should not be crossed. By giving Mr. Xi the honor in a formal document, senior Communist Party officials have shown that, willingly or not, they've bowed to his dominance."

Xi's elevation from a strongman to a very strongman might cause a few New York libtards to soil their pink panties, as might the repeated references to "the Communist Party." But for those opposed to the Soros-Rothschild-Rockefeller-Sulzberger New World Order, it is welcome news. Not only is the China-Russia

Axis of resistance the world's last line of defense against the Globalists, but the Chinese "Communist" Party, in spite of its name and the continued use of Stalin's agent Mao Tse Tung's mug on their currency, is now totally pro-business, pro-tradition, pro-peace, pro-people, pro-morality & ethics and even pro-religion. The system is actually much closer to the ideals of The Great One's National Socialism or Mussolini's fascism than it is to communism -- and that's a good thing in our book. From the pit of hell, Chairman Mao (a real "communist") must be spinning in his grave.

1- Chris Buckley of the Slimes is the CIA's mouthpiece on China.

2- Members of the Politburo Standing Committee on stage at the Chinese Communist Party's Central Committee meeting in Beijing. The party elevated Xi to the position of "core" leader, giving him great power to shape the leadership of the party.

3- Myths die hard! Although Mao's Mug is still prominently displayed in Beijing and on currency, the new China bears little resemblance to his Stalinist ideology.

As for Mr. Xi, ~~Sugar and I~~, er, "The Editorial Board" of the Anti-New York Times have developed a "man-crush" for him similar to the level of admiration and esteem that we hold for his Russian buddy, President Vladimir Putin. Let's have a look at Xi's impressive resume.

- Banned Sulzberger's Slimes from circulating in China
- Kicked Globalist NGO's out of China
- Teamed up with Putin to block US / Israel's planned overthrow of Assad in Syria
- Strongly advocates for a return to Confucian values and ethics
- Promoted religious freedom and even the growth of religious practice (but not western CIA missionaries!)

- Emphasized the need to respect and protect the sovereignty of all nations
- Presided over continued economic growth achieved through business friendly policies
- Cracked down hard on corruption and internal traitors who serve US / NWO interests
- Repealed the harsh and destructive "one-child policy"

In short, Xi Jinping is the Vladimir Putin of China. No wonder the two get along so well on both a professional and personal basis.

1- Xi loves Confucius -- whose moral teachings are virtually identical to those of Jesus Christ. -- "He who rules by virtue is like the North Star. It maintains its place, and the multitude of stars pay homage." -- Xi, quoting Confucius

2- Xi and Putin are at the center of BRICS -- a trading bloc which, unlike the EU, does not require its members to surrender their sovereignty.

3- Xi and Putin's formidable military alliance is the only thing standing in the way from the final planetary takeover by the New World Order.

Buckley cites "economic challenges" as the reason for such unusual powers being granted to Xi. We don't believe that is the reason. The extra powers granted to Xi are more consistent with the authority that a nation on a war-footing would grant to its leader. Peaceful China, like peaceful Russia, has no interest in attacking anyone, of course. Like Germany in the late 1930's, their preparation is for defensive purposes, not unprovoked aggression. The Russian Bear and the Chinese Dragon make a mighty awesome pair. And if George Soros and the U.S. Department of Offense of Ass Carter have their way, the next world war will be the last. Now that should cause the people of America, Russia, Europe, Japan, Korea, Australia and China to all soil their underwear, with good reason.

The Devil George Soros has already threatened to unleash World War III against Russia and China. Xi's expanded powers may be a preparatory move to confront the coming crisis.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the Chinese Communist Party just made that Jinping guy like a dictator.*

Boobus Americanus 2: That's because Communist China wants to take over the entire Pacific Ocean.*

Sugar: Wrong ansswer, Boobuss! It's becausse the #@#%#$(@#$$% want to take over the whole frickin' planet!

Members of the Estonian Defense League set off for a patrol competition near the town of Turi in central Estonia. The events are called war games, but they are not intended to be fun.

New York Times: Spooked by Russia, Tiny Estonia Trains a Nation of Insurgents

By ANDREW E. KRAMER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Flashback to 1945 -- At the end of World War II, the U.S. State Department and the OSS (soon to become the CIA) generously showered ambitious "pro-Americans" with boatloads of "Marshall Plan" cash. Suddenly impoverished, hungry and demoralized, the ruined nations of Western Europe became "easy pickin's" for the New World Order's "recovery program." For the most part, Washington DC (Langley, Virginia (CIA Headquarters) to be more precise) has been the political capital of Western Europe ever since. In addition to the political control, it can also be said that Langley's New York affiliate has been one of the major media mind-control centers of America's captive nations; and that Hollywood films (dubbed or subtitled) have had a huge degenerate cultural influence over Boobus Europithicus.

After destroying much of Europe in the first place, America's program for "European Recovery" (aka Marshall Plan) enabled the Globalists to build the skeletal structure of today's NWO-controlled European Union Monster.

Ambitious politicians, journalists and academics quickly realized that serving the wealthy and powerful USA (which serves the NWO) would be a smart career move.

As for the nations of Eastern Europe, Stalin's henchmen gobbled them up and similarly made them Soviet vassal states -- with the Baltic States of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia actually being incorporated with the Soviet Union itself. The New York-DC-London Globalists had hoped that Stalin's puppet states would be allowed to become "democratic" in advance of the eventual East-West merger. But killer Joe had his own ideas for world domination and wasn't going to take orders from the "international community." And thus was born "the Cold War."

After the Soviet Union collapsed and disintegrated in 1991, a similar buyout scheme was rolled out in Eastern Europe -- with the main recipients of Western "generosity" being the Soros affiliated "pro-democracy" TM and "human rights" TM NGO's which instigated the "Velvet Revolutions" that brought "freedom" TM to the East. Soon afterwards came the CIA-approved news programs and newspapers, along with the standard Hollywood filth and garbage. Already accustomed to obedience from the days of communism, it wasn't long before the sheeple of Eastern Europe (though still not quite as morally corrupted as their faggot-loving, migrant-loving western brothers) began to think, talk and act like the bad boys at Langley wanted them to.

The CIA-Soros "Velvet Revolutions" of 1989 transitioned Eastern Europe from Soviet domination to Globalist domination. Like the Marshall Plan, American dollars soon poured in as many ambitious "ex-communist" scoundrels suddenly turned "democratic" and lined up to serve the new master.

With that bit of critical contextual history out of the way, we can better understand this interesting article about how "tiny Estonia" is feeling "spooked by Russia"-- authored by the vicious Russia-hater Jonathan Kramer (cough cough). The following excerpt about "war games" illustrates just how badly the clueless Estonians are being mind-f*d:

"The competitions, held nearly every weekend, are called war games, but are not intended as fun. The Estonian Defense League, which organizes the events, requires its 25,400 volunteers to turn out occasionally for weekend training sessions that have taken on a serious hue since Russia's incursions in Ukraine two years ago raised fears of a similar thrust by Moscow into the Baltic States.

Since the Ukraine war, Estonia has stepped up training for members of the Estonian Defense League, teaching them how to become insurgents, right down to the making of improvised explosive devices, or I.E.D.s, the weapons that plagued the American military in Iraq and Afghanistan. Another response to tensions with Russia is the expansion of a program encouraging Estonians to keep firearms in their homes."

Similar paranoia is spreading among western Ukrainians, Lithuanians, Latvians and Poles. The CIA engineers of this mass madness have the advantage of being able to resurrect the painful historical wounds inflicted upon these peoples by "Russians" like Stalin and his main henchman Kaganovich. The fact that the Soviet Union no longer exists; or that the Russian people themselves also suffered under Stalin; or that Stalin was actually Georgian; or that Kaganovich (cough cough) was Jewish is lost upon these Russia-hating imbeciles who have been led to believe that the big bad Rooskies are coming.

In spite of its childish idiocy, CIA propaganda linking "madman" Putin to Stalin has proved to be very effective in Eastern European nations.

As for the ass-clown who instituted this war game madness that may ultimately lead to his country's destruction; Sugar has sniffed out this gem of data about the "Ivy League educated" TM egghead Toomas Hendrik Ilves, the bow-tied bozo who, for the past 10 years, served as Estonia's President until just a few weeks ago:

Headline from The Baltic Times / September 24, 2013

"Ilves attends Soros Wedding"

"Estonian President Toomas Hendrik Ilves attended the wedding of billionaire and philanthropist George Soros on Sept. 21 near New York, reports Ohtuleht. The private wedding ceremony of the 83-year-old George Soros and 42-year-old Tamiko Bolton was followed by a festive reception in the Caramoor music and art center, where around 500 guests had been invited, among them World Bank President Jim Yong Kim, and also several heads of state. "George Soros, who via the Open Estonia Foundation, has supported the development of the Estonian citizens society for a long time, sent President Ilves as the head of state and his wife an invitation to his wedding," said the president's chancellery PR manager Piret Pert. "Since George Soros has been a founder of the Estonian modern art center, President Ilves gave him as a present a work of Mall Nukke." President Ilves and George Soros have met several times in recent years."

The "Estonian" Toomas Hendrik Ilves was raised in heavily Jewish Englewood, New Jersey and "educated" at Columbia and Penn. -- Above, with his master George Soros, Junior masters Mr. & Mrs. Obongo, and the Frumpy Frau of Germany.

Good people of Estonia! Behold the vile American-raised (rumored cough cough from his mom's side) scoundrel Toomas Ilves depicted above with the Devil George Soros. It is Ilves and others like them who are your enemies, not the Russians! What would Putin, who already presides over the largest national landmass (by far!) on the planet, possibly care about invading Estonia? For what purpose? To steal your snow?

Stop these silly little war games and turn your guns, knives, pitchforks, dogs and ropes on the internal Globalists who now control your banks, news sources, universities and parliament. If "youse guys" stay on the present course, your tiny conservative White nation will, in the not-too-distant future, be flooded with Turd World invaders as your children turn stupid, whorish and homosexual before you can even say: "what-the-heck-happened?" That is what the Soros-Rothschild Axis and their henchmen have planned for Estonia --- assuming you all even survive what's ahead.

- 1- Contrary to Sulzbergerian propaganda, Russia has neither the need nor the intention to start a fight with NATO over tiny Estonia.
- 2- The beautiful Aryans of Estonia have neither any idea as to who their real enemy is, nor the genocidal "DIE-versity" that is already being planned for their children.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that tiny Estonia is training its worried citizens in the art of insurgent warfare.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's a smart precaution. Estonia may not be able to repel a Russian invasion, but insurgent tactics can inflict heavy casualties during the subsequent occupation.

Sugar: My God, Boobuss! You're jusst as frickin' brainwasshed as those retarded Esstonian weekend warriorss!

Editor: Whether its New York, London, Rome, Paris, Berlin, Warsaw or Tallinn (Estonia), the liquefied bullshit all flows from the same source.

New York Times: Volkswagen Parts Ways With the Historian Who Chronicled Its Nazi Past

By ALISON SMALE and JACK EWING

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Apart from the fact, well-known to regular readers of The Anti-New York Times, that the Germans were the innocent victims of World War II, virtually all of the so-called "Nazis" TM were either killed after the war or have since died of old age. This makes the 71-year-old (and counting) German national ritual of self abuse all the more pathetic, perverse and absurd. How can the grandchildren still be held morally liable for the imaginary sins of their unknown grandfathers? Is there some sort of genetic code for guilt now?

The internment and forced labor of Jews and communists during wartime must be viewed within the critical context of an innocent nation fighting for its very survival against the evil, genocidal, merciless Allies of the New World Order.

This latest example of slow German suicide takes inherited guilt to a whole new level. Not only is guilt passed down through bloodlines and national heritage, evidently, non-personal entities such as corporations are also subject to shame and punishment. In this case, we are told, Volkswagen (VW) already found "guilty" of having utilized the forced wartime labor of enemies of the Reich, now stands accused of dismissing a company historian who oh-so-proudly, and with VW's blessing, wrote about the sins of 1940's VW.

From the article:

" ... historians are accusing the company of reverting to secretive ways on a different subject: the Nazi past of German automakers.

Over the past 18 years, Volkswagen became something of a pioneer in revealing the company's employment of thousands of forced laborers during World War II. But it has abruptly parted ways with the company historian who helped make that possible.

When the historian's contract abruptly ended this week, an angry open letter signed by 75 prominent German academics accused Volkswagen of a vindictive punishment. The historian, Manfred Grieger, and the company have declined to comment on the circumstances behind his departure, citing a mutual agreement to end his contract.

But the mystery over precisely why Mr. Grieger left — and whether he was dismissed — has complicated Volkswagen's effort to regain public trust, and risks stirring up a dark chapter in company history."

Ooooooh -- a "dark chapter" --- sounds so scary, doesn't it? Of course, we seldom hear of Franklin D. Roosevelt's direct role in the "dark chapter" of American history in which 100,000 innocent Japanese-Americans (as well as 20,000 Italian-Americans and German-Americans) were rounded up and interned during the war which FDR, at the behest of his Jewish masters, deliberately engineered.

- 1- The historian Manfred Grieger at the Volkswagen archives in Wolfsburg, Germany.
- 2- Forced (but paid) laborers from Eastern Europe at a Volkswagen factory in Wolfsburg in 1943. A little work never killed anybody.
- 3- FDR interned the Japanese-Americans and their children for the duration of the war. Their financial assets were also frozen and they received no compensation after the war.

What type of Marxist madness is that has gripped the suicidal libtards of Germany? Again, ignoring, just for the sale of argument, the total innocence of The Great One's Germany with regard to the outbreak of the war and the subsequent Holohoax, how can the current shareholders and executives of an abstract entity such as a corporation be held liable for the actions of shareholders and executives who are long gone? As for the dismissal of this company historian, why should that be considered a "vindictive" move when the current executives of VW, being the good little German pussies they are, proudly confessed to the company's "dark chapter?" Heck, it was VW that paid this ass-clown to write his book!

A bit of cosmetic objectivity from the article:

"In a statement issued on Tuesday, Volkswagen strongly denied that Mr. Grieger had been dismissed, or that his separation signaled a changing approach.

"The fact is that Volkswagen continues to recognize the achievements of Dr. Grieger and to thank him for the work performed," the statement read. "Furthermore, the fact is that Volkswagen has examined its history as an enterprise consistently, honestly and strongly, and will continue to do so."

Mr. Grieger was a co-author of an exhaustive study published in 1996 that exposed how Volkswagen had made extensive use of forced labor during World War II, when its factory in Wolfsburg, Germany, produced an array of weapons and military equipment.

The book, more than 1,000 pages by Mr. Grieger and another historian, Hans Mommsen, was financed by Volkswagen..."

1 & 2- There is no denying, nor "forgiving" the so-called "Nazi" roots of the Volkswagen Beetle.

3- The Great One's original artistic sketch of "the People's Wagen" -- an idea which he handed off to Ferdinand Porsche.

The man who engineered Hitler's vision to create the Volkswagen (Beetle), Ferdinand Porsche, was held by the Allies for nearly two years after the German surrender, but never charged with any "war crimes" TM. Porsche was an important contributor to the German war effort. He was involved in the production of advanced tanks and other weapon systems. Porsche was a member of the NSDAP, a recipient of the German National Prize for Art and Science and the War Merit Cross.

The great contradiction embedded in this story, one which will go right over the heads of the dim-witted sophists who worship Sulzberger's Slimes, is the admission that German factories needed the forced labor of the interned enemies of the Reich. So why would they kill off valuable factory manpower (and womanpower) in "zee gas chambers" TM? It makes no sense, and neither does anything else about the "official story" of what we refer to as "The Bad War."

The aerodynamic design of the Volkswagen Beetle was actually The Great One's idea.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Volkswagen just fired a company historian who exposed the company's role in the Holocaust.

Boobus Americanus 2: It is deeply troubling to see that academic freedom could still be stifled in modern Germany. It is eerily reminiscent of the days of the brown-shirts.

Sugar: Hey Boobuss! How about a little "academic freedom" and mercy for German holohoax deniersss like Ursula Havebeck?! The poor old lady is sstill languisshing in a frickin' prisson cell! Why no tearss for her, butt-head!

Editor: Careful with the logic, Sugar. You'll make Boobus's head explode.

New York Times: ‘Brexit’ Ruling Could Cause Britain to Drag Its Feet, Muddying E.U. Plans

By STEVEN ERLANGER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Your humble reporter and his ferocious feline sidekick take no pleasure in cynically peeing in our friends' celebratory punch bowls all the time -- but we do it for a reason. Observe.

From the opening paragraph of this Slimes article:

"The ruling by Britain's High Court — that she (Prime Minister May) must gain Parliament's approval to begin the process of withdrawal from the European Union, or Brexit — raised the possibility that negotiations could drag on far past Mrs. May's deadline of the end of March.

Now a flashback --

From the opening paragraph of an Anti-New York Times rebuttal dated June 27, 2016 -- a time when virtually the entire "alt-right" and many of our own readers were euphorically popping champagne bottles in celebration of Britain's "liberation" and the coming end of Globalism:

"Ever notice how whenever the Globalists want to change an existing order of things in a target country; they call for "democracy" TM -- often threatening sanctions and even war until "the will of the people" TM is achieved? But when "the people" TM make the "wrong" choice, those same Globalists (and their legions of libtards) will not accept "democracy" TM and will even turn vindictive.

*Working hand-in-hand with George Soros' (cough cough) financial assault on Not-So-Great-Britain, Sulzberger's Slimes and much of the elite Piranha Press appear to be laying the groundwork for either a "redo" or a slow-as-molasses divorce that may actually never go into full effect.

Brainwashed, financed and stirred-up by "powers that be" such as Soros (Image 3), ungrateful Asian / African aliens and Eurotarded millennials will continue to fight the Brexit.

Nailed it! Unfortunately.

So we here we are, nearly five months after the "Brexit" vote, and not only has the two-year emancipation clock yet to be activated, but the start of the two-year process is now also to be delayed indefinitely as the anti-Brexit forces regroup. Honestly, this really wasn't all that hard to forecast, at least not for us. After all, World War II against The Great One (also nationalist Japan & Italy) was fought for the specific purpose of uniting Europe under American command until such time as wholly-owned America itself could pass a unified global system over to a

One World government. Did "youse guys" really think that "they" would allow so many decades, no, centuries of hard work and bloodshed to go for naught so easily?

In order for the NWO's "United Europe" to rise, European nation-state fascism had to fall. And THAT is what World War II was really all about! Read 'The Bad War', by M S King

Did "they" quit after Napoleon Bonaparte (Great One light) handed their asses to them in five consecutive early 1800's "coalition wars" against nationalist France? Did "they" quit after Andrew Jackson killed the 2nd Bank of the United States in 1836? Did "they" quit after the United States Senate killed (after being made to vote three times!) American entry into the League of Nations in 1919? Did "they" quit when "America First" Republican President Warren G Harding and his running mate / successor Calvin Coolidge crushed the Globalist Democrat ticket of Cox & Roosevelt by a whopping 2-1 margin in 1920? Did "they" quit when The Great One shut down their operation in Germany (as did Mussolini in Italy and Franco in Spain)?

No my friends, these sons and daughters of Satan will never quit, never die, and never even weaken for long until a stake is driven through their Draculian black hearts. To use an American football metaphor, the fact that we the ever-losing good guys may from time to time score a touchdown against our mighty adversaries is no cause for an end-zone celebration.

Like Hitler, they all struck mighty blows against the Rothschild NWO, but the beast was not killed!

1- Napoleon Bonaparte was the "Hitler" of the 19th century (read: "Napoleon vs the Old and New World Orders" by M S King)

2- Andrew Jackson --- for killing the Central Bank and paying off the National Debt to ZERO -- his face will be removed from the $20 bill in 2020 (to be replaced by ~~Aunt Jemima~~, er, Harriet Tubman)

Coming soon to an ATM near you!

3- The immensely popular "America First" President Warren Harding is today "universally regarded" (by egghead historians) as "the worst President in American history" (surprise, surprise)

Within 48 hours of the publishing of this piece, we shall all know if the self-professed "America First" candidate Donald Trump will have prevailed over the mighty Globalist forces behind Killary Rotten Clinscum. It will be perfectly fine to celebrate his victory and optimistically hope that he actually turns out to be "the real thing" after he is inauguarated in January, 2017. But understand that when we observe, from a historical perspective, "victories" such as "Brexit," or even a Trump victory followed by a Trump-Putin alliance, the task of liberating humanity once and for all will still remain a huge "Herculian" lift for us. Go ahead and quickly "spike the football" and do a brief "end zone dance" if you must; but then get back to work because these sons and daughters of Satan never sleep -- and nor should we.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the Brexit is being delayed indefinitely.

Boobus Americanus 2: Really? But I thought Britain had already left the EU?

Sugar: You thought wrong, Boobuss! Try reading the frickin' fine print next time!

Editor: Boobuses try to sound well-read. In realty, they seldom read past the opening lines of any written text. I learned that from my marketing gigs of days gone by.

New York Times: Janet Reno, First Woman to Serve as U.S.
Attorney General, Dies at 78

By CARL HULSE

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As we pessimistically anticipate the theft of Quadrennial Freak Show 2016 by Clinton & Clinton, we can at least crack a smile over the departure for Hell of Janet Reno -- the former Attorney General under the Clintons. From the very beginning of her 8-year run during the 1990's, there was something very odd about Giant Janet. The first little mystery, inexplicable back then, but obvious to us now, was the derailment of Bill Clinton's first nominee for Attorney General -- a somewhat attractive woman named Zoe Baird. The strange pretext given for the withdrawal of Ms. Baird's nomination was the "shocking discovery" that she had hired an illegal immigrant as a nanny.

Clinton then nominated Kimba Wood, another attractive female. But Wood's nomination was also withdrawn when it was soon "discovered" that she too had employed an illegal nanny. The back-to-back scandals over nothing came to be known as "Nannygate."

One of these is not like the others (Baird, Wood, Reno)

Probably by design, the pre-planned dismissal of these two liberal but somewhat sane female candidates for "first woman Attorney General" TM made it much easier for the Senate to approve the radical Marxist beast Giant Reno -- generally understood to be a dyke -- with scarcely any scrutiny from stupid conservatives who were all still so excited over the embarrassment that "Nannygate" had supposedly caused to Clinton.

As bad as "the gay nineties" got under lesbian co-President Killary, no one could have foreseen back then that the "lesbian" Reno may not actually have been a lesbian after all. Know what we mean? Standing at 6' 2" tall; and with a ring finger longer than his / her / its index finger; and with the hindsight benefit of living in an age where we now see that the normalization of trannies had been the plan all along --- we now believe that Giant Reno was a tranny. What do "youse guys" think?

1- It stands eye-to-eye with the 6' 3" rapist Bill Clinton.

2- It has very long fingers with the ring finger longer than the index finger.

3- Sing it, boy and girls --- "Yeah, yeah, dude looks like a lady." (Dude looks like a dude is more like it!)

Giant Reno's most evil lasting legacy is not the sexual / transexual disorder nor her Marxist fanaticism. What she was most noted for was her role (most likely at the behest of Killary) in the murder of 76 innocent Americans (including 17 children) at the Waco, Texas massacre of April 19, 1993.

The Waco Siege was a Federal siege of a compound belonging to a group of harmless religious eccentrics known as the Branch Davidians. It lasted between February 28 and April 19, 1993. The Davidians, led by David Koresh, lived at the Mount Carmel ranch in Elk, Texas, about nine miles from Waco. The Davidians were accused of "weapons violations," -- causing a search and arrest warrant to be obtained by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (ATF).

The tragic events began when the ATF attempted to raid the ranch and a gun battle somehow erupted, resulting in the deaths of four government agents -- all ex-bodyguards of Bill & Killary Clinton -- and six Branch Davidian members. Upon the ATF's failure to raid the compound, a siege was initiated by the heavily militarized FBI. Eventually, the FBI (under the command of Clinton, Clinton & Reno) launched a direct assault and initiated a gas and fire attack. The huge blaze quickly got out of control and engulfed Mount Carmel. In total 76 people died a horrific death, including David Koresh.

April 19, 1993 --- one of the most shameful days in American history -- brought to us by Satanic child-killers Clinton, Clinton & Reno.

Adding insult and slander to mass-murder, Reno's Justice Department then claimed that sect members had started and spread the fire in order to mass suicide themselves and their children -- an absurd lie that was dutifully parroted by Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the God-damned Piranha Press. Unfortunately, in those pre-Internet days, huge lies were even easier to sell than they are today. Of course, the Republican'ts, the "Christian" leaders of America and even Rush Limbaugh all lined up behind the Feds and defended Giant Reno.

Waco was a sad and shameful chapter in American history, and a good indicator of what to expect if Killary's crowd steals tonight's QFS like we believe she will.

Having perished in the flames, the harmless (though admittedly weird) sect leader David Koresh could not defend himself against the Piranha Press's false accusation of mass suicide by fire --- a lie put forth by Giant Reno.

Boobus Americanus 1: Janet Reno just died.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yeah. She was one tough lady.

Sugar: Lady my ass! That'ss a man! And what'ss sso 'tough' about burning little kidss alive and then lying about it, eh Boobuss?!

Editor: R.I.H. Giant Reno --- Rot in Hell!

PRESIDENT TRUMP!

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Ding dong, the bitch is dead! Glory to God! That being said, allow us to squeeze out a few drops (just a few!) of piss in everyone's punchbowl.

As delightful as it was to watch the constipated long faces of the communist talking heads of the Piranha Press last night, we cannot help but be concerned by how excited their "conservative" counterparts at Zionist-Neo-Con Faux News are about the Trump victory. Would Faux News have been so excited had Ron Paul been elected President last night? Hmmmmm? And never forget, were it not for the evil agent Julian Assange of WikiLeaks, Trump would not have won.

So, what does this all mean? We will all learn as the Trump Cabinet is named and the Trump presidency unfolds in 2017 -- and that is all we care to say at this time. Should Trump turn out to be another Ronald Reagan-type patsy, the Anti-New York Times will trash him as aggressively and honestly as we did Mr. and Mr. Obongo. In the meantime, we shall hold our fire and stay on the lookout for an intensified effort to kick-off war with Russia sometime between now and Trump's end-of-January inauguration.

Pardon the brief edition today; but we were up till the wee hours following this "historic" event. Like many of "youse guys," we are burnt out from the 18-month QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show) and have already said all that needs to be said.

To close this on a very, and we do mean very positive note -- our gnawing fears about TomatoBubble.com and other "hate sites" being shut down by a President Killary Executive Order have been alleviated. Trump may, or may not disappoint; but we are confident that he will not ban free speech nor intern patriots in FEMA camps. Whew!

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show) has already morphed into November 9th-January 20th IRFS (Inter-Regnum Freak Show). Well, that honeymoon sure didn't last long now, did it?

The Sons of Satan are playing this beautifully. The template is the same one they used in the lead up to the bloody "Arab Spring" (a series of "revolutions" also triggered by the "leaks" of evil agent Julian Assange of WikiLeaks). During his pre-Arab Spring tour of the Middle East, Obongo played the role of the gracious and remorseful penitent -- apologizing for America's past arrogance in foreign policy as his CIA plotted to plunge the very people he was apologizing to into a state of chaos and suffering.

The dirty dealing "American Pharaoh" delivered apology speeches in places like Egypt. Meanwhile, his CIA-NGO co-conspirators plotted to unleash the "Arab Spring" chaos in Egypt, Tunisia, Syria, Libya etc.

We are again seeing Obongo the Gracious extending his hand to Donald Trump and calling for a smooth transition of our "democracy" TM. And just as so many stupid "conservative" commentators condemned Obongo for what they called an "apology tour" in 2009; they are again falling for his act -- this time praising Obongo for his "graciousness" toward Trump.

But as it was with the "apology tour", so it is now. Obongo's "class act" serves as the cover for the violent anti-Trump street chaos that he and his handlers are still attempting to unleash. We don't expect the country to burst into flames because similar efforts (Occupy Wall Street, nationwide race riots etc) failed to ignite as the Soros gang had hoped. Evidently, today's commies aren't as bad-ass as those of the 1960's. Thanks feminism!

Nonetheless, the treasonous undermining of Trump in the press and in Congress is likely to complicate the incoming President's plans for America. The fact that Sulzberger's Slimes dumped 11 attack ads into today's issue tells us what to expect next year. Just wait till you hear the Bolshevik Beast howl in agony when Trump moves to circumvent the Paris Global Warming TM accords: and begins construction on a border wall: and massively deregulates business; and repeals ObongoCare; and, the mother of all sins, meets with Vladimir Putin. "Oy vey! Soon it will be a nudder Holocaust"

Then we have the problem of the HNB (Hebrew National Bank). Just a few .25 bumps in the base rate of usury and the real estate and stock markets will come crashing down "on Trump's watch" -- the blame to be placed on his reckless "tax cut and deregulation proposals."

Yenta Yellen can cause a deflationary stock and real estate bubble collapse; or a hyper-inflationary currency collapse, at will. As was the case with the Fed's deliberate 1929 crash and subsequent Great Depression, a crisis which was erroneously blamed on Republican President Herbert Hoover, a 2017 crash would be blamed on Trump.

The Sulzberger-led Piranha Press, the Soros rent-a-mobs and even the Fed may not be President Trump's deadliest enemies. As it was with Ronald Reagan, -- a good man who was forced to compromise away most of his agenda -- Trump will have to watch some of his "fellow Republicans" whose loyalties are to the Globalists and Neo-Cons. Scum like John McCain the Incane, Paul Rat Ryan, and Vice President Mike Pence -- the neo-con who would takeover should Trump meet some tragic fate at the hands of a "lone gunman" TM, as Reagan almost did in 1981.

America doesn't need another Reagan. We need a Hitler --- but we'll settle for a Putin.

Reagan had railed against the Trilateral Commission to which incumbent President Jimmy Carter had belonged to. But in order to get elected, Reagan had to make deals with these people and invite many of them into his administration. Just 69 days into his Presidency, former CIA Director George Bush almost became President after Reagan was shot by John Hinckley -- whose family has connections to the Bushes.

 After more than 35 years, Hinckley was just released a few weeks ago --- a message to Trump?

Boobus Americanus 1: I saw eleven anti-Trump articles in New York Times today.

Boobus Americanus 2: Wow! They aren't even giving him a honeymoon.

Sugar: You ain't seen nothin' yet, Boobuss!

Editor: Let's hope Trump can use the bully pulpit to finally discredit the Slimes once and for all. Better yet, throw Sulzberger in jail!

'VETERANS DAY' FLASHBACK / 11-11-1918

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Most Americans know November 11 as 'Veterans Day' -- the day we honor the poor chumps who have "died for our freedom" (barf), as well as the living ones who knew not and know not of dark powers that misuse the Department of Offense. We do not intend that in any way as an insult to our vets; but that is the tragic historical reality of the situation.

But what few people know is that the date originated as, and still coincides with, 'Armistice Day'. The date is commemorated every year on the 11th of November to mark the armistice signed between the Allies of World War I and Germany in a railway carriage at Compiègne, France.

Make a mental note of the famous railway carriage of 11-11-1918. It is where Germany was tricked into capitulating, triggering celebrations throughout France, the U.K. and the U.S.

The official cessation of hostilities on the Western Front of World War I took effect at eleven o'clock in the morning—the "eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month" (11-11-11) of 1918. Off topic here for a moment; but three decades later, the Allied 'D-Day' (Devil's Day) invasion of Normandy was launched at the "sixth hour of the sixth day of the sixth month" of 1944 -- 6-6-6. Globalists just love their Satanic symbolism, don't they?

As the above headline of the 1918 Sulzberger's Slimes shows - (yes, even back then, the Ochs-Sulzberger Crime Family owned "the paper of record!") - Berlin was immediately "Seized by Revolutionists" (Communists). Leading the 'German' counterparts of the murderous 'Russian' Bolsheviks who had already seized Petrograd / St. Petersburg and other areas of Russia (October 1917, 'Red October') were Rosa Luxemburg (cough-cough) and Karl Liebknecht (cough-cough).

To make a long story short, the Red Revolution was quickly put down by the brave volunteers of the German 'Freikorps'. Red Rosa and Kommie Karl soon got what was coming to them. In 1919, the bitch was beaten with rifle butts and thrown into a nearby river; while Liebknecht was forced to step out of the car he was being transported in and then shot.

1- Arrogant Communists Luxemburg and Liebknecht strut through Berlin, thinking they were about to brutally lord over defeated Germany. The heroic Freikorps boys put an end to that notion!

2- Freikorps boys party it up after taking care of business. (Wish these MEN would come back and show their pussified great grandsons how to take care of the 'migrants' -- and Merkel too!)

Though spared from Communist takeover, Germany could not be saved from the cruel punishment of the Treaty of Versailles which was to come. The loss of territory, the 'ethnic cleansing' of Western Prussia, the isolation of Eastern Prussia, the hunger, the hyper-inflation, the imposed war guilt, the debauchery and degradation of the Weimar Republic years and so much more -- it all began with the inexplicable and total surrender of 11-11-18.

We say "inexplicable" because, at the time of the armistice / surrender, not one square inch of German territory had been occupied by the Allies. Though it is certainly true that the tide of war had begun to turn (due to America's entry), there was no need to capitulate so easily -- not when 120,000 Americans had already died after just 7 months of fighting (70,000 combat / 50,000 Spanish Flu / other) with an additional 200,000 wounded!

A certain highly-decorated and twice-injured (badly) war hero was not pleased by the treason of 11-11-1918 and its horrible aftermath. He took to political activism in order to right the wrongs.

"We must call to account the November Criminals of 1918. It cannot be that two million Germans should have fallen in vain and that afterwards one should sit down as friends at the same table with traitors. No, we do not pardon, we demand - Vengeance! "

- Hitler, Munich Speech, September 1922

So, who or what forces prompted Germany's bizarre decision to just lay down its substantial arms and suddenly retreat from the Western frontiers?

Three groups:

1. The internal force of Jewish-led Marxists (Luxemburg, Liebknecht et al) and ambitious liberals who wanted Germany to lose and become a "democracy" or even a full blown Communist state.
2. The internal force of Zionists (who overlapped with #1) who wanted Germany to lose so that British forces could be freed up to take Palestine away from Turkey - Germany's ally.
3. The internal force of deluded war-weary fools who trusted in Woodrow Wilson's empty promises of a fair and just "peace without victors".

After the capitulation and collapse of Germany, the Jewish-led home front betrayal - which cost the German military the war - came to be known as 'The Stab in the Back' -- depicted in 1920's cartoons above.

As readers of 'The Bad War' and/or regular subscribers to The Anti-New York Times already know; the railroad car armistice / treason of 11-11-1918 did not sit well with a certain young and unknown war hero. When the Judeo-British-French troublemakers started their crap again in 1939-1940, the revived German Reich put a quick end to World War II on the European continent -- or so it seemed until Stalin and FDR got into the act. And where do you think Hitler arranged for the signing of the 1940 armistice with France to take place? Have a look:

Back to the same railway carriage! Who's 'badder' (in a good way) than The Great One?! No one!

Unfortunately for Germany, Europe, and the whole world, Germany's victory in 1940 was short-lived. The subsequent post-war punishment of Germany would make the post-World War I horrors seem merciful by comparison. The world is still suffering today from the New World Order which was constructed upon the corpses of the many millions who died in those closely-related genocides that were the two wars.

The traitors and fools who delivered Germany to disaster in 1918 set the 'world stage' for the horrors that are still unfolding to this day -- and could soon lead to World War III. What a mess they made in 1918! That is why The Great One coined the term, "The November Criminals" to describe this greasy and pathetic bunch who signed onto 11-11-18. And that is also why your intrepid reporter and his fearless feline side-kick will most certainly not be commemorating 'Veterans Day.'

Boobus Americanus 1: Today is Veterans Day.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. Thank a vet for your freedom.

"Freedom my asssss! The Government takes half of every dollar I earn while the Fed debassess the value of whatever I get to keep!"

(Sweetie, you haven't worked a day in your life. Those are my dollars being robbed.)

New York Times (Editorial): The Danger of Going Soft on Russia

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For readers new to The Anti-New York Times, the loathsome liar Andrew Rosenthal (cough cough) is the putrid little maggot who gets away with posing as the high and mighty "Editorial Board" of Sulzberger's Slimes. This is not to say that this propagandist pens each and every article attributed to "The Editorial Board," but whatever is not personally written by him is controlled and edited by him.

Hazmat suits and goggles on! Join us for another rebutting dive into ~~Rosenthal's~~, er, "The Editorial Board's" latest bit of bloodthirsty anti-Russian excrement.

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise of the Not-So-High and Not-So-Mighty "Editorial Board". It's only a pathetic little word-smith named Andrew Rosenthal typing out lies from behind the curtain.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Among the first world leaders to congratulate President-elect Donald Trump was Vladimir Putin. And why shouldn't he?

Just when relations between Russia and the West are at their most precarious point since the Cold War, ...

Rebuttal: U.S.-Russia relations are "precarious" because it is the policy of the U.S. to encircle, subvert and subdue Russia for the New World Order. (Read "The War Against Putin", by M S King)

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Mr. Trump has been Russia's defender Rebuttal: Trump has "defended" Russia from Sulzberger's seditious slanderers because Russia has done nothing wrong.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... and the beneficiary of Moscow's efforts to influence the presidential campaign.

Rebuttal: Here we go again! The totally unsubstantiated "conspiracy theory" TM about Moscow trying to rig the Clinton-Trump race. Notice how Rosenvermin slickly states it as a given fact in order to fool the chumps who actually attach credence to his felonious filth.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": At times he has seemed almost intoxicated by the Russian president, ...

Rebuttal: "Intoxicated by the Russian president?" --- Oh cut it out, Rosenroach! All Trump ever said about Putin is that he is a strong leader and that we should try to get along with Russia. At no time did Trump ever even remotely go "gaga" over Putin as the Slimes has over scum like Angela Merkel of Germany.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... praising Mr. Putin's firmness and insisting that the two could resolve any differences if they met.

Rebuttal: And "resolving differences" is a bad thing, Rosenfart? Why?

1- "The War Against Putin" is the perfect antidote to the toxic anti-Russian poison spread by Sulzberger's Slimes

2 & 3- A Putin-Trump "bromance" could spare the world the horrors of a potential nuclear war ---- and "toughguy" Andy Rosenscum doesn't like it!

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Meanwhile, he has shown little concern that Russia poses a major strategic challenge.

Rebuttal: "Poses a major strategic challenge" is Globalese for: "Russia is not obeying us anymore."

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Few experts believe that Russia wants war with the West, but many worry that Mr. Putin's aggressive behavior ...

Rebuttal: "Putin's aggressive behavior" is Globalese for: "Russia is not afraid to fight for its survival."

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... as he tries to revive Russian greatness - thus masking problems at home ...

Rebuttal: ... Putin does need to "mask problems at home" because A: His popularity has always been sky-high; and B: The Russian economy continues to grow in spite of the West's sanctions.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... could result in the kind of dangerous miscalculations that often lead to armed conflict.

Rebuttal: To the contrary, Rosenscum, Putin's calmness and skillful diplomacy are the reason why there has not been an armed conflict between NATO and Russia -- an armed conflict that Soros and the Slimes actually hope for.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Russia's hacking of the Democratic National Committee and the Clinton campaign to interfere in the election was brazen.

Rebuttal: No Rosenkike, what's "brazen" is your monstrous lying about "Russian hacking." Cite your evidence to support this accusation NOW!

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Even worse were actions that threatened human life and global stability, like Mr. Putin's airstrikes against civilians in Syria, Rebuttal: Oh spare us your fake empathy for the "civilians in Syria!" The warmongering scum at the Jew York Slimes don't give a rat's ass about "human life." Heck, you criminals have, for the past 5 years, been cheer-leading for the murderous CIA "rebels" who kicked off this tragic bloodbath -- a tragedy that Russia was invited in to help put an end to.

*1- The Russian hackers are coming! --- The Russian hackers are coming! -
--- Total bull-shit!*

2- John McCain the Insane with the "rebels" of Syria -- paid proxies in service of the New World Order.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... his positioning of nuclear-capable weaponry near Poland and the Baltic States, Rebuttal: Which was in response to U.S. positioning of nuclear-capable weaponry near Poland and the Baltic States. Action vs. reaction. See the difference, Rosenfeces? We know that you do.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... his annexation of Crimea ...

Rebuttal: An "annexation" approved of by 97% of Crimeans. What's the matter, Rosenstool? Is "democracy" TM only valid when it produces the results that you want it to?

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": ... and the war he waged in eastern Ukraine.

Rebuttal: The war for independence in Russia-friendly eastern Ukraine began locally, without Putin's assistance, after the U.S. engineered a coup which toppled the democratically elected Russia-friendly President of Ukraine. Another critical bit of context that Rosenvomit chose to conceal from his readers.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": He violated the 1987 Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces Treaty by producing a ground-launched cruise missile and canceled a 16-year-old accord on reducing stockpiles of weapons-grade plutonium.

Rebuttal: After the U.S. violated its empty promise to never expand NATO eastward towards Russia's doorstep. Action - reaction.

1- McCain the Insane stirring up trouble in Ukraine.

3- Who is really the expansionist aggressor here? The map of U.S. bases says it all.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Despite this behavior, despite the obvious need for the next president to be alert to Mr. Putin's mischief and to be willing to resist it, Mr. Trump has so far been Mr. Putin's apologist.

Rebuttal: "Putin's apologist" --- In order words, Trump doesn't buy into the silly slandering of peaceful Russia.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Mr. Trump has dismissed the intelligence community's finding that Russia was behind the hacking, displaying disrespect for the facts and for the security institutions that compile them.

Rebuttal: In other words, Trump does not believe the same characters who brought us the "finding" of Iraq's "Weapons of Mass Destruction" when they now claim, again without evidence, that "Russia was behind the hacking."

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Since Mr. Trump has refused to criticize the Kremlin, it's important that Mr. Obama figure out, before he leaves office, how to punish Russia for the hacking in a way that demonstrates Washington's determination to resist cyberattacks without further escalating the conflict.

Rebuttal: Wow! This greasy little communist piece of excrement is openly calling for Obongo to hurry up and trigger a crisis before Trump can get in and mend fences with Russia. Even by the standards of the Slimes, this is as shocking as it is "brazen."

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": The deteriorating relationship between Moscow and Washington is a long way from what was envisioned when the Soviet Union collapsed in 1991 and there were high hopes that Russia would become a democracy integrated with the West.

Translation: "We had Russia under our thumb back when Yeltsin was ruining the country. But this damn Putin refuses to submit to our New World Order."

For health reasons, we have to end the rebuttal to this atrocious article here. There is only so much of this raw sewage that we can tolerate at one time. These sons-of-Satan want a war with Russia and will do whatever they can to block the coming January marriage between Trump and Putin in order to get it. Understand that, and you'll understand who is behind the anti-Trump rent-a-mobs in a city near you.

As the above Craigslist ads indicate, Soros' rent-a-mobs are paying good money for "spontaneous" protesters to thwart the goals of Donald Trump -- mainly his desire to make peace with Putin (but also his stated plans to undo "Climate Change" TM agreements, slash tax rates, appoint conservative Supreme Court justices, protect gun rights, deport criminal illegals and repeal Obongocare).

Boobus Americanus 1: The New York Times is really concerned about Trump's outreach to Putin.

Boobus Americanus 2: Trump had better be careful not to appease Putin. That was the mistake that Chamberlain made with Hitler.

Editor: The poor thing almost blew an artery while reading Rosenrotten's crap. I had to sedate her before she could hear the Boobuses talking nonsense about "appeasement" TM Federica Mogherini is the foreign policy chief for the European Union.

New York Times: European Leaders Gather to Grapple With Donald Trump's Victory

By JAMES KANTER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Nearly one full week into the IRFS (Inter-Regnum Freak Show) and not only is the nastiness not abating; it appears to be intensifying. Of the dirty dozen anti-Trump propaganda poop-pies that Sulzberger's seditious scribblers have launched in this issue, we find this one about the European Union's "panic" over Trump to be the most gratifying. It offers further evidence that the Orange Man, in spite of his naming of DC Insider Reince Preibus as his "Chief-of-Staff" -- an unfortunately necessary bone thrown to the Republican't heirarchy -- may indeed turn out to be "the real deal" when it comes to dismantling The New World Order. Maybe.

From the article:

"An emergency meeting of European Union foreign ministers on Sunday was the latest sign of the global disquiet in the wake of the election of Donald J. Trump, who has questioned some of the central tenets of American foreign policy.

Federica Mogherini, the European Union's foreign policy chief, hastily scheduled the dinner meeting after Mr. Trump's victory, which threatens to foment further division in a continent already reeling from crises over Greece's debt, migration and Britain's decision to exit the bloc."

The leading Globalist Communists of Europe, such as the clownish Pinko Pope, Jean Claude Juncker, and the Frumpy Frau of Germany have all expressed "concern" over Orange Man -- and that's a good thing!

Now, for a bit of more "advanced placement" level New World Order studies.

A few of our eagle-eye readers have written us to express their own concern and dismay over that fact some of the most hard-core nationalist elements of the gangster state of Israel -- including Satanyahu himself -- are clearly optimistic over the good things that they believe Orange Man is going to do for them. Indeed, as we have speculated all along, evil agent Assange of WikiLeaks was "leaking" in order to help the Zionists stop Soros' agent Killary -- a woman that Satanyahu hates because he knows that she, like Obongo and like her husband Bill, would have continued to pursue statehood for the Palestinians.

We are now convinced that it was the Israelis who also leaked the "Climategate" E-mails that so damaged the Globalists cherished cause of "Global Warming" TM back in 2009. We also believe that Bibi Satanyahu's gang - which includes his agents and allies at The Drudge Retard, Faux News, Disinfo Wars, Not-So-Brightbart and the British Nationalist Party - promoted the "Brexit" as well as the candidacy of Orange Man. The "alt right" came on board partly out of sincere nationalism, but also to assist Satanyahu.

As horrible as all of this might sound, it's may actually not be a bad thing -- at least not necessarily.

1- Ultra-Nationalist Bibi hates the Globalist Clintons!

2- Geo-political realities dictate that men like Putin, Erdogan, Sisi (Image 2) and even Orange Man (depicted above doing a campaign ad for Satanyahu) need the help of the Jewish nationalist crazies if they are to defeat the Globalists.

No my friends, your intrepid reporter here not gone soft on Likud Party Zionism; and we damn sure ain't ever gonna forgive Bibi and his boys for their secondary role in carrying out and covering up the 9/11 conspiracy. What is being hypothesized here, and we could be wrong, is that because of the fact that Satanyahu of Israel, Trump of America, Putin of Russia, Erdogan of Turkey, Sisi of Egypt and others are all standing against the sovereignty-busting Globalism of George Soros and his crowd; a scumbag with the global reach and influence of Satanyahu has become very useful for the "good nationalists" of other nations.

Could it be that in exchange for an end to the idea of that "two-state solution" which the Jewish Globalists have been trying to force upon Israel since the days of Jimmy Carter at Camp David, the ultra-nationalist Likudniks have joined forces with the nationalists of other countries? Could we as American and European patriots live with such a dirty alliance of convenience with the lesser devil that is Satanyahu? (no one is more dangerous than Soros!)

The Jewish One Worlders and their agents (Carter, Clinton, Obongo above) have been trying to get the extremist crazies of Israel to make deals for the past 40 years. That is why the hard-core Likudniks support Orange Man -- and engineered the Monica Lewinsky affair to ruin Bill Clinton as well as the WikiLeaks attacks that sank Hillary's campaign.

If the Great One was able to make nice-nice with Stalin (for a while) when it served German interests, can these leaders perhaps reach a deal with Satanyahu -- a grand bargain in which the war in Syria ends, peace with Iran is guaranteed and Israel's borders (including Gaza and the West Bank) are declared final as the Globalists are crushed once and for all? Is this a realistic scenario? Or is it an alluring pipe-dream destined to end in betrayal of the "good nationalists" by Satanyahu?

These are very intriguing, yet troubling questions -- both logically and ethically. Nonetheless, if Orange Man were to go beyond just the issue of preventing NWO / Soros' much desired plan for Palestinian statehood and say, start trouble with Iran; we will not hesitate to open rhetorical fire on Orange Man and condemn him as a fraud. As for now, given his friendly phone call with Putin and the genuine "concern" that he is causing the communist scum of United Europe and libtard America; and in spite of Satanyahu's pro-Trumpism; and in spite of some of the scum surrounding Trump (Giuliani, Woolsey, Gingrich, son-in-law Kushner), we say: "So far so good, Orange Man! --- But we're watching you!"

"Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz. Zzzzzzzzz"

Editor: No Sugar! I didn't say we should become allies with Satanyahu! I'm simply pointing out that politics makes for strange bedfellows sometimes.

Tongtianlong limosus, an unusual birdlike dinosaur, was unearthed in the Ganzhou region of China.

New York Times: A Dinosaur With a Beak and Feathers Unearthed in China

By KENNETH CHANG

We here at The Anti-New York Times can't rebut Sulzberger's anti-Trump filth every day. Our readers would get bored after a while. Just know that today's issue of "the paper of record," like the other seven post-election issues of the week gone by, is again loaded with propaganda poop pies hurled at the Orange Man and the latest villain-of-the-month, "alt-right" adviser Steve Bannon.

Today's rebuttal focuses on the Darwin's deluded dogma of "Evolution" TM -- specifically as it is said to relate to a new dinosaur find in China. Before we begin to analyze a few select excerpts, let's us remind "youse guys" of what you probably learned in 8th grade, but may or may not have forgotten -- namely, the classic textbook definition of the "Scientific Method."

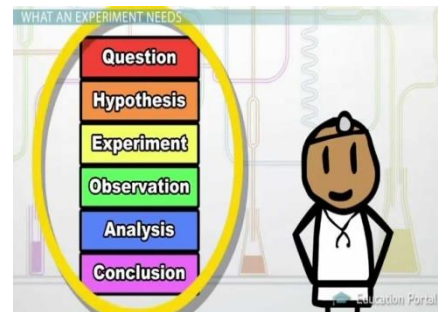

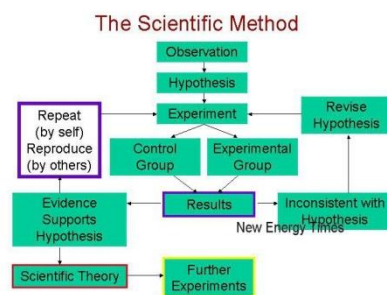

From the Oxford Dictionary:

Scientific Method: a method of procedure that has characterized natural science since the 17th century, consisting in systematic observation, measurement, and experiment, and the formulation, testing, and modification of hypotheses.

From the Merriam-Webster Dictionary:

Scientific Method: principles and procedures for the systematic pursuit of knowledge involving the recognition and formulation of a problem, the collection of data through observation and experiment, and the formulation and testing of hypotheses

The key word is "the O Word" -- OBSERVATION. Darwin's deluded devotees can scream "SCIENCE!" in your face all they want; but if a theorized phenomenon is not OBSERVABLE, it does not meet the standards of the Scientific Method. N.O. = N.S. (Not Observable = Not Science) --- End of discussion. --- Got it? Good.

The "O Word" is more than just synonymous with science, it IS science; and no amount of fancy math equations, artistic renderings, and computer models and academic bullying can ever substitute for it.

Now that 8th Grade Science class is complete, let's "observe" what Kenneth Chang's article is claiming.

Kenneth Chang: It had feathers and a beak.

Rebuttal: How do you know for certain that this creature had feathers? Only bone and beak fragments were discovered in the rock. A platypus has a beak but no feathers. The scientists are assuming feathers, not OBSERVING.

Kenneth Chang: It was the size of a donkey, and it did not fly. It was not a bird, but a dinosaur that was a close relative of birds.

Rebuttal: How do you know that this skeletal remnant this some odd-looking creature was "a close relative of birds?" Did anyone actually OBSERVE the transition of the alleged common ancestor into this feathered and beaked dinosaur on one branch; and birds on another branch? (Answer: No) To assume so merely on the basis of a few common characteristics amounts to reckless inference based upon wild conjecture.

Kenneth Chang: In a paper published on Thursday ... a team of scientists described a fossil of Tongtianlong Limosus, a new species in a strange group of dinosaurs that lived during the final 15 million years before dinosaurs became extinct.

Rebuttal: How is it possible to chronicle events of "the final 15 million years before dinosaurs became extinct" when there was no one around to OBSERVE and document the the life and times of Tongtianlong Limosus? (Answer: It is not possible) Do these "theoretical scientists" have some sort of magic time-machine that allows them to go back and forth through the ages?

Kenneth Chang: Oviraptorosaurs are not direct ancestors of birds, but share a common theropod dinosaur ancestor with the lineage that later evolved to birds.

Rebuttal: Again, we must ask: who OBSERVED this common-ancestor to bird & dinosaur progression? (Answer: nobody)

Times Caption: An artist's rendering depicts the oviraptorosaur, flailing while mired in mud more than 66 million years ago.

To hell with the Scientific Method! The "theoretical scientists" and their hired artists have got it all figured out without the need for actual OBSERVATION!

Kenneth Chang: Some features like the feathers come from the common ancestor,

Rebuttal: A classic logical fallacy that is often, no, always made by Darwin's deluded devotees is the prior assumption that "Evolution" TM is an established fact. All subsequent data is then interpreted to fit the pre-determined conclusion, rather than the other way around. They therefore assume that if this creature has a characteristic that is very similar to that creature, the two species must have had a "common ancestor" TM. This is like saying that an Italian sports car and a school bus must have a "common ancestor" TM because both have wheels and a transmission.

Kenneth Chang: The common ancestor had teeth, though, not beaks.

Rebuttal: And exactly how the frickety-frack do you know that? So, not only are we to believe that these "scientists" have established the existence of a "common ancestor" TM without any OBSERVABLE evidence as such; but now they claim to be able to tell us what physical characteristics that said "common ancestor" TM has or didn't have. And, not only is the transition from the "common ancestor" TM not OBSERVABLE, the fossil of what is alleged to be the "common ancestor" TM is also not OBSERVABLE.

Arthur Conan Doyle's Sherlock Holmes could teach these academic egg-heads a lesson in logic and sound reasoning.

Kenneth Chang: For oviraptorosaurs, the beaks were “convergent evolution,” when similar features evolve independently among different groups of animals.

Rebuttal: "Convergent Evolution," eh? Sounds like some seriously heavy "science" there. (palm to face, sighing, shaking head) --- Again, not OBSERVABLE --- Just new bullshit to prop up the old.

Kenneth Chang: One of the unknowns is what Tongtianlong and other oviraptorosaurs were eating.

Rebuttal: Aw heck! Let's just say they were eating Peanut Butter & Jelly sandwiches. Why not? Everything else is made up.

Kenneth Chang: The six oviraptorosaur species discovered so far are also very different from each other, and the scientists argue that this shows rapid evolution of these dinosaurs.

Rebuttal: No, it just shows that breeds of the same species (a gene pool) can vary greatly. Just look at the differences in size, shape, fur and temperament among French Poodles, Golden Retrievers, Pit Bulls, Great Danes, German Shepherds and Chihuahuas.

Kenneth Chang: That runs counter to the assertion of some paleontologists that dinosaurs were already in decline long before they became extinct 66 million years ago, most likely from the global devastation following a large asteroid impact.

Rebuttal: How do these eggheads come up with this number of "66 million years?" Did anyone OBSERVE the passage of time? (Answer: No) -- Did anyone OBSERVE the killer asteroid, or even the hole that it made? (Answer: No)

Kenneth Chang: "One of the interesting things about these specimens that are coming out of southern China is that they show this diversity of body forms."

Rebuttal: Yeah. So what? Dogs, cats, humans etc. also vary in body forms. And has it occurred to you geniuses that at least part of the reason for the variance could just be due to the fact that some of the fossilized specimens may have been small cubs; others were medium-sized adolescents, and still others were full grown adults?

Kenneth Chang: She was less certain about whether the rate of evolution is as fast because the scientists lack precise dating of the layer of rock hundreds of yards thick where the fossils have been found. "You don't know if it's a million years or 10 million years,"

Rebuttal: This nonsense about measuring time by correlating it to rock thickness assumes a steady rate of silt accumulation. In reality, a catastrophic flood can deposit as much sediment in a few days as normal conditions can over the course of many centuries. This magical method of time-keeping is totally unscientific simply because there is no way to go back in time and OBSERVE if the sediment-to-rock-formation-time formula is accurate.

Furthermore, the bones would have dried up, turned to dust and blown away long before centuries of sediment accumulation and hardening could completely encase and petrify them. Try dumping your Thanksgiving Day turkey bones in a nearby wooded area and see how long it lasts before nature's elements and insects cause it to disintegrate and disappear -- months or a few years at the most! Intact bones found inside of rock layers are evidence of a catastrophic, silt-depositing event such as a flood, volcano, landslide, tsunami or something else.

1- Dog breeds differ greatly among themselves too. It doesn't prove that poodles "evolved" Dalmatians!

2- The "science" of rock dating is flawed to begin with. Dating fossils from the erroneously-aged rocks then leads to circular reasoning.

3- Darwin's scam is exposed in "God vs Darwin" by M S King.

This cooked-up commie crap would actually be funny, were it not for the fact that millions of young malleable minds are being corrupted by the "theoretical scientists." For that reason, these diploma-decorated dorks need to be driven out of Academia by the thousands.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times Science section today about a new species of birdlike dinosaur recently discovered in China.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. I understand that there is an emerging consensus now among the scientific community that dinosaurs and birds shared a common ancestor.

Sugar: You frickin' birdbrain! "Consenssus" ain't science! Obssservation iss!

Editor: You tell em' sabre-toothed Sugar!

Rudolph W. Giuliani speaking at the United Nations in 2001.

New York Times: Rudolph Giuliani's Worldview Still Shaped by 9/11 Attacks

By ALAN FEUER and MARC SANTORA

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The scuttlebutt among the talking heads of the Piranha Press is that former New York City Mayor Rudy Giuliani may be nominated to serve as Secretary of State. If that should turn out to be the case, it will be a clear indication that Trump's orthodox Jew son-in-law, Jared Kushner, (Ivanka's husband) is wielding waaaay too much power behind the throne, after all. You'll not find a more hard-core Zionist stooge than Rudy. Say it ain't so, Orange Man!

Just how slavish is Rudy's disgusting devotion to the terrorist state of Israel? From the article:

"In October 1995, the Palestinian leader Yasir Arafat settled into a seat at Lincoln Center in Manhattan for a gala performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. But before the third movement started, Mr. Arafat was told to leave.

The order had come from the top: Rudolph W. Giuliani, the mayor of New York at the time. And though the Clinton administration referred to the ejection as “an embarrassment to everyone associated with diplomacy,” Mayor Giuliani was unmoved. Calling Mr. Arafat a terrorist and a murderer, he said the next day: “I would not invite Yasir Arafat to anything, anytime, anyplace. I don’t forget.”

No class, Rudy!

Obedient Rudy is a 100% certified kosherized butt-boy of the Likudnik wing of the terrible Tribe.

If Ghouliani's Zionist butt-kissing was merely just a case of politicking for votes in the Jew capital of the world, we could dismiss it as a necessary job requirement. Heck, even our boy Vladimir Putin has been known to light a "keep-em'-off-my-back" menorah candle or two for the cameras. But in Rudy's case, it's more than just public relations, much more. You see, this double-dealing dago (your 3/4 Italian reporter here is allowed to use that derogatory term) was a conscious agent of the conspiracy to blow up the Twin Towers on 9/11/2001 -- particularly in the essential role of cover-up operative after the fact.

A stunning excerpt from Dr. Albert D Pastore's "Stranger Than Fiction: An Independent Investigation of the True Culprits Behind 9/11":

"Now this whole controversy between the "melted steel" scenario and the detonation scenario is one that could be very easily resolved. All we have to do is dig up the steel beams and examine each and everyone of them. If an explosive device caused the steel to fail, there will be tell-tale indications for the engineers to see. But if it was intense heat that caused the steel to "melt" or "buckle", there will be tell-tale signs of that as well. All we have to do to put an end to this controversy is to closely examine the steel. Right?

Well, don't hold your breath. That's never going to happen. Thanks in large part to Time Magazine's "Person of the Year 2001", New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani, the steel beams were quickly recycled before investigators even had the chance to look at them! A media darling and lifelong supporter of Israel, Saint Rudy Giuliani made sure that all of the "smoking gun" evidence was destroyed and right quick too. Much of the steel was recycled in America, but an additional seventy thousand tons of WTC steel was sold to Metals Management - a New York company with a jewish president named Alan Ratner. Ratner then turned around and shipped the unexamined steel to China and India for recycling!

China Radio International's English Edition also reported:

"New York's Metals Management is among the firms taking steel from the huge project to clear Ground Zero. The company says it has bought 70,000 tons of scrap from the ruined twin towers. Some of the scrap has been shipped across the Pacific to Asian, including China and India. Among the consignments of scrap are the "very dense" steel girders from Ground Zero, which could finally yield 250,000 to 400,000 tons of scrap for recycling."

Imagine that! The largest criminal investigation in history and the investigators weren't even permitted to see the most important evidence of all - the steel! During the whole time that Saint Rudy the Recycler and Ratner the Rat were destroying evidence, many of the most respected engineers in the country openly complained not only about the recycling, but also about the Federal government's suffocating control of their investigation. On December 25, 2001, the New York Times ran a story about the frustrations of some of the engineers who were called in to study the cause of the collapse:

"Interviews with a handful of members of the team, which includes some of the nation's most respected engineers, also uncovered complaints that they had at various times been shackled with bureaucratic restrictions that prevented them from interviewing witnesses, examining the disaster site and requesting crucial information like recorded distress calls to the police and fire departments..."

They made their concerns known publicly. Bill Manning, editor of the 125 year old Fire Engineering magazine, noticed a strange difference between the WTC investigation and other major fire investigations in New York City's past. Manning wrote:

Did they throw away the locked doors from the Triangle Shirtwaist fire? Did they throw away the gas can used at the happy land social club fire?...That's what they're doing at the World Trade Center. The destruction and removal of evidence must stop immediately."

One investigator told the New York Times:

This is almost the dream team of engineers in the country working on this, and our hands are tied," said one team member who asked not to be identified. Members have been threatened with dismissal for speaking to the press. "FEMA is controlling everything," the team member said. "

Dr. Frederick W. Mowrer from the Fire Engineering department at the University of Maryland told the New York Times:

"I find the speed with which important evidence has been removed and recycled to be appalling."

Finally, the Times story made this interesting little revelation Recycling Rudy.

Officials in the mayor's office declined to reply to written and oral requests for comment over a three- day period about who decided to recycle the steel and the concern that the decision might be handicapping the investigation."

Wow -- just wow. Thank you, Dr. Pastore!

1- Ghouliani was seen running away from the area BEFORE the first tower collapsed.
He later admitted:

"We were operating out of there (local fire station), when we were told the World Trade Center was going to collapse."

2- For his role in the treasonous false-flag attack, Recycling Rudy was puffed-up to Super Star status.

3- Bill Manning of "Fire Engineering Magazine" was livid over Mayor Ghouliani's rapid recycling orders:

"The destruction and removal of evidence must stop immediately."

Not only did the lisping cross-dressing traitor know about the looming collapse of the towers in advance -- a fact which he carelessly admitted on camera -- and not only did he destroy the forensic evidence of the event soon afterwards -- he even went so far as to unleash his police department on the New York City firefighters to physically force them stop digging for the remains of their fallen comrades! For his service to this horrific crime against his own people, Rudy "Julie-Annie" was dubbed "America's Mayor" and exalted to "rock star" status for his "handling of 9/11."

This greasy ghoul is an ambitious scoundrel of the lowest rank -- just the type that the bosses of Zion love. Heck! We might as well bring back Dickhead Cheney and name him as Secretary of State! As we have already pleaded -- say it ain't so, Orange Man -- say it ain't so!

Rudy Julie-Annie, who once moved in with a pair of homosexuals after his wife had kicked him out of the Mayor's mansion for cheating, has publicly cross-dressed on multiple occasions. Image #1 shows Orange Man pretending to kiss "America's Mayor" in drag-- his long time friend.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that Trump is considering Rudy Giuliani for Secretary of State.

Boobus Americanus 2: Giuliani's moral leadership during the aftermath of 9/11 should never be forgotten.

Sugar: Wrong again, Boobuss! What musst never be forgotten is how that half-a-faggot Rudy the Recycler deliberately removed the forenssic evidence at the crime sscene.

Editor: Exactly! The 9/11 false-flag would not have been possible without the Mayor of New York City being "in on it."

Neel Kashkari, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis, at the Economic Club of New York.

New York Times: Minneapolis Fed Chief Proposes Eliminating 'Too Big to Fail' Banks

By: MICHAEL CORKERY

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As we passed over the usual dirty dozen anti-Trump headlines to again find something different to write about, a headline about one of the "sub-capos" at the Federal Reserve System warning about banks that are "too big" stood out for its comical irony. You see, there is no bank on earth that is as big and as dangerous as this criminal counterfeiting, loan sharking and market rigging syndicate we prefer to refer to as the HNB (Hebrew National Bank).

From the article:

"Wall Street banks are still too big to fail, and the hundreds of thousands of pages of regulations created in the eight years since the crisis are not adequate protection against another financial shock, says Neel Kashkari of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Mr. Kashkari, a Republican who has run the Minneapolis Fed for about a year, delivered an unusually blunt and sweeping indictment of financial regulation in a speech before the Economic Club of New York on Wednesday."

Is sub-capo Kashkari hinting at a coming crash? Should such a crisis come to pass, be assured that it would surely be blamed on Orange Man.

What "anti-Semitic" TM Congressman Charles Lindbergh Sr. (father of the great aviator) predicted in 1913, came to pass in 1919 and again in 1929 (Great Depression) when the HNB tightened the money supply following a period of easy money bubble-blowing.

Actually, the non-Jew Kashkari (parents came from India), as Director of the Minneapolis "branch" can't even be considered a "sub-capo" (Mafia lingo foe sub-head) because the various "branches" outside of New York City hold no real power when it comes to the HNB's day-to-day operations. Decisions such as the interest rates charged to the nation's banks, bond purchases, reserve requirements etc. are made mainly by the the triumvirate of Chairman, Vice-Chairman and the Director of the New York City branch. The others are just there to camouflage New York's central domination of the DC-housed HNB.

The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) is the branch of the HNB that determines the direction of "monetary policy" (counterfeiting & loan sharking). The FOMC is composed of the "Board of Governors," which has seven members, and five Reserve Bank presidents. The president of HNB / New York serves continuously, while the presidents of the other "branches" (Boston, Philadelphia, Richmond, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Atlanta, Dallas, San Francisco, Kansas City and Minneapolis) rotate one-year terms.

The "branches" were originally set up as "window dressing" to create the illusion that all geographic regions of the United States were fairly represented in a decentralized system. You see, back in the day (1913), Americans were very skeptical of a "central" anything -- especially a New York Central Bank. That is why the scam was given the word "system" as part of its name. In reality, the HNB is not "Federal" (it's private) -- it has no real "reserves" (it prints money out of thin air) -- and it is indeed "central" (not a decentralized "system").

1- Pre-Fed cartoon shows that early opponents of the coming Central Bank "Octopus" were not at all fooled by the false claims of "decentralization."

2- Woodrow Wilson signs the criminal Central Bank into law in 1913. With the funding mechanism for big government now in place, World War I was kicked off in 1914 -- U.S. entry followed in 1917.

3- The "decentralized" FOMC convenes. It's all fake because the policy decisions come down from Rothschild London to the Fed Chair, Vice Chair and New York boss.

Any talk about "reining in the Fed" misses the higher point of the institutional criminal usury of a Central Bank which, along with its member banks (all the nation's banks) injects every dollar of currency into the economy at interest. By design, public, corporate and personal debt can never be paid off because, like some game of monetary musical chairs, there will always be more (many times more!) outstanding debt than there is available currency to pay it off.

Not only must the HNB be "killed," -- as Andrew the Great (Andrew Jackson) proudly boasted of having done in 1836 -- institutional money lending at interest should, in most cases, be abolished. Exceptions might include zero-interest state bank lending to municipalities for useful public works projects, or low interest investment loans for commercial / business development. Anything less than such radical reform amounts only to a less severe form of the debt & inflation slavery which the HNB has us under.

Fed Chairman Greenspan (cough cough), followed by Bernanke (cough cough), followed by Yellen (cough cough), Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that one of Fed's regional presidents warned that many banks are too big.

Boobus Americanus 2: At least it is reassuring to know that the Fed is monitoring the situation.

Sugar: Boobuss! You dumb-asss!!! That'ss like ssaying it iss reassuring to know that the fox is monitoring the chickens. Read my book, "BANCAROTTA" and learn.

Editor: Your book?! (shaking head, sigh)

But "your book" is exactly right (and funny too), Sugar. Prior to the establishment of the HNB, the national "panics" caused by money-lenders were limited in scope and brief in duration. The very same crooks who engineered these episodes then proposed setting up "The Federal Reserve System" as a means of preventing them in the future!

New York Times: How Fake News Goes Viral: A Case Study

By SAPNA MAHESWARI

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The latest buzz-term that's been humming throughout the Piranha Press these past few days is "fake news" (TM pending). Google that term and see for yourself!

You see, due to the fact that a fast-growing percentage of Boobus Americanus is growing wise to the Marxist manipulation of the news, the panic-stricken purveyors of pinko propaganda have taken to counter-attacking in the classic manner that psychopaths are notorious for -- by projecting their evil behavior onto innocent others!

From the article:

"Eric Tucker, a 35-year-old co-founder of a marketing company in Austin, Tex., had just about 40 Twitter followers. But his recent tweet about paid protesters being bused to demonstrations against President-elect Donald J. Trump fueled a nationwide conspiracy theory — one that Mr. Trump joined in promoting.

Mr. Tucker's post was shared at least 16,000 times on Twitter and more than 350,000 times on Facebook. The problem is that Mr. Tucker got it wrong. There were no such buses packed with paid protesters."

It is ridiculous and illogical to suggest that one bit of sloppy reporting from an unknown "tweeter" -- about the protester buses -- somehow discredits every other story from the entire "alternative" media. Actually, it HAS actually been confirmed that anti-Trump protesters are indeed being hired via Craigslist ads.

Just because the Slimes was able to cherry-pick an erroneous "tweet" about buses - - a tweet which caught on in parts of the "alternative media" (now known as "the fake news"); it does not therefore follow that all stories reported on in the "alternative media" are also "fake." In the field of Logic, such illogic represents a variation of 'The Fallacy of Composition.' It would be like saying: "The weatherman had forecast rain for today but it turned out to be sunny. Therefore, meteorologists are never to be trusted."

But the reasonable man understands that every story should be analyzed on its own merits, even if the source gets things wrong from time to time. Heck, even Sulzberger's Slimes, as evil and deceitful its roster of writing red rascals are, will occasionally let an interesting and honest story slip through every once and a while.

Apart from the stupid 8th grade illogic, there is the supreme irony, no, hypocrisy of the Jew York Slimes accusing any website of disseminating "fake news". Regular readers of The Anti-New York Times already know about the astonishing criminal mischief Sulzberger's seditious slanderers and loony libelers have been making day in and day out for the past 120 years. Following are but a few of its famous fakest headlines from recent history.

- 1- FAKE NEWS! -- 2003: The "Weapons of Mass Destruction" lie started the Iraq War.
- 2- FAKE NEWS! -- 2011: The "Killing of Bin Laden" lie enabled Obongo to divert attention away from Donald Trump's relentless "birther campaign." Bin Laden, who was under Fake accusation for 9/11, had already been dead for 10 years!
- 3- FAKE NEWS! -- 2014: The "Invasion of Crimea" lie kicked off the new Cold War between NATO and Russia. In reality, there was no "invasion" -- at all! Pro-Russian Crimea declared its independence from the puppet gangsters that had just been installed in Ukraine and its very own National Guard dispersed the Soros rent-a-mobs.

Obongo himself, the biggest beneficiary of "fake news" has now joined the assault on the "alt right" -- telling reporters in Berlin:

"In an age where there's so much active misinformation, and it's packaged very well, and it looks the same when you see it on a Facebook page or you turn on your television, where some overzealousness on the part of a US official is equated with constant and severe repression elsewhere, if everything seems to be the same and no distinctions are made, then we won't know what to protect. If we can't discriminate between serious arguments and propaganda, then we have problems."

Echoes of former Secretary of State Killary Clinton who, in 2011, whined:

"We are losing the information war."

And Secretary of State John Kerry, from 2013:

And Senator Jay Rockefeller (D-WV), from 2009:

"It really almost makes you ask the question would it have been better if we had never invented the Internet."

And the since-disgraced and replaced anchor Lyin' Brian Williams, who made this incredibly condescending remark in 2007"

"You're going to be up against people who have an opinion, a modem, and a bathrobe. All of my life, developing credentials to cover my field of work, and now I'm up against a guy named Vinny in an efficiency apartment in the Bronx who hasn't left the efficiency apartment in two years."

What an arrogant and pompous prick! By the way, Mr. Williams, "Vinnie" left the Bronx for the suburbs of Long Island and New Jersey a loooong time ago.

There is no doubt about it. The PRC (Predatory Ruling Class) has had about all it can take from "this little thing called the Internet." You can be sure that if the Hildebeast had been elected, aggressive measures to "regulate" the "fake news" would have been forthcoming, and soon. As it stands, we do not foresee Orange Man threatening the truther blogosphere which benefited him so much. But in the long run, we must remain vigilant because evil never sleeps.

All hail "Vinnie from the Bronx!" The bathrobe-clad scourge of elitist scum like Brian Williams (Image #2) and Jay Rockefeller (Image 3)

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that fake news is becoming a real problem for policy makers.

Boobus Americanus 2: Indeed. You can't trust anything on the Internet. I'll stick with the Times.

Sugar: Sso ssays the ssame genius who still complainss about how we were lied into the Iraq War.

Editor: Yep! Libtards love to focus on the warmongering lies of the Bush-Cheney gang while ignoring the fact that Sulzberger's Slimes ran hundreds of non-questioning "WMD" articles and editorials during the run-up to the war.

New York Times: Rally in Brooklyn Park Condemns Swastikas and 'Go Trump' Graffiti

By SARAH MASLIN NIR and ASHLEY SOUTHALL

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

It is one of the most transparent tricks in the Jewish play-book. Draw or paint a swastika, whip-up a media storm, shed a few crocodile tears -- and then lecture us all about the big bad "anti-Semitic" TM bogeyman -- in this case, Trump supporters.

From the article:

"On Friday, swastikas and the words "Go Trump" were discovered in graffiti on a jungle gym in Brooklyn Heights. By Sunday, the scrawl had been erased and in its place was a pile of marigolds, chrysanthemums and tiny paper hearts as a rally echoed across the playground, condemning the failure of President-elect Donald J. Trump to address a rash of hate crimes linked to his name."

1- Adam Horovitz (cough cough) of the Beastie Boys spoke at a rally at the park on Sunday, condemning the graffiti and other acts of hate.

2- Hundreds of communists and libtarded chumps gathered at the park, some holding signs.

The park where the graffiti was found is named after the rapper Adam Yauch (cough cough), better known as MCA of the Beastie Boys, who died in 2012. At the rally, his longtime bandmate, Adam Horovitz (cough cough), called on New Yorkers to reject the recent "hate crimes" TM against Muslims, blacks and other minority groups.

"This is homegrown terrorism for real," Horovitz said. Speakers at the rally, including local New York politicians, blamed Mr. Trump, "If hate is carried out in his name and he says nothing, it becomes his hate," shouted one speaker through a megaphone.

There are so many precedents, many of them actually confirmed by "mainstream media" and/or Jewish publications after the perps were caught on camera, of Jews carrying out these sorts of "false flag" swastikings.

JTA (Jewish Telegraph Agency): Five Jews Arrested for Painting Swastikas on Israel Consulate

Five Jews were arrested early this morning by police who charged that they caught the persons painting swastikas on the front of the Israeli Consulate-General building at 11 East 70th Street. The building also houses the Israel mission to the United Nations.

JTA (Jewish Telegraph Agency): Jewish Student Behind Dorm Swastikas

"Sarah Marshak, a George Washington University freshman, was caught on tape by a hidden video camera in the sixth incident of swastika drawing on her dormitory door."

The Telegraph (London): Jewish Man Arrested After Posting Swastikas On Doors

"A Jewish man was arrested on hate crime charges after making anti-Semitic telephone calls to his mother and other elderly women and putting swastikas on apartment doors, police said."

Northwestern University Freshmen Allegedly Spray Paint Slurs, Swastika and "Trump" In Campus Chapel

"Northwestern University Freshmen Anthony Morales (hispanic) and Matthew Kafker (Jew) allegedly vandalized the school's chapel."

1- The poor "distraught" Sarah Marshak, a journalism major, caused a firestorm at George Washington University. She was finally caught as the mystery "swastiker" herself.

2- Kafker and Morales, recently busted at Northwestern

There are many more such cases, and many more will occur in the coming months. Just Google around for "Jewish students swastika" and "Jews draw / paint swastikas" and see for yourself. But don't dare suggest that this latest graffiti attack is also fake. That would be "anti-Semitic" TM -- even though there are as many "Nazis" in Brooklyn as there are penguins in Texas.

As humorous and seemingly harmless as this recent rash of pathetic Trump-swastika stunts may be, what they portend for the near future may turn out to be something far more serious. False flag spray paintings are one thing. False flag terror attacks, carried out by much more capable members of the Terrible Tribe, is a different story.

The sinking of the USS Liberty and 9/11 --- Same trick as the spray paintings, but with much higher stakes.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read a most disturbing story in The New York Times today about a swastika being spray-painted in a Brooklyn Park.

Boobus Americanus 2: That was a disgusting hate crime committed against all of us who cherish freedom and democracy. There seems to be a resurgence of neo-Nazi and racist hate crimes in the wake of Trump's election.

Sugar: *Neo-Naziss my asss! It was the ^@&%$#@ &^%!!!

Editor: Notwithstanding the incorrigible kitty-litter-mouth, Sugar's feline instincts are pretty darn accurate when it comes to these things.

Green Party presidential candidate Jill Stein has raised over $3 million to fund a recount effort.

New York Times: Experts Ask Clinton to Seek Recount in 3 Battleground States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Within a matter of just several days, a dangerous thought turned into a whisper that turned into a murmur that has now officially turned into "news that's fit to print" --- fit to manufacture to be more precise. Because this particular "conspiracy theory" TM of a hacked election has been printed up by Sulzberger's Slimes, there is actually a chance that a phony recount of the recent election might indeed take place.

Is the goal here to flip votes and their corresponding electoral votes away from Trump and to Killary's column instead? Or perhaps to suddenly "discover" a boatload of previously uncounted early-voting or absentee ballots? Or are the Globalists merely seeking to create enough doubt about "Russian hackers" to provide some of the electors with the protective cover they need in order to reverse their mandated commitments when the Electoral College actually convenes on December 19th?

1- Killary's large margins of victory in the huge Democrat states of Mexifornia and Jew York may have given her the majority of the nation's popular vote, but the goal is to win enough states to get the necessary number of electoral votes.

2- Will they still try and sell the Putin-hacked-the-election "conspiracy theory?"

It is hard to imagine that such a bold plan could actually be successful -- but it is not impossible, especially if the "controversy" links Trump to Putin right at a time when controlled events in Eastern Europe and/or Syria really start to get interesting. One breathless headline / sub-headline from NBC recently declared:

Trump's Son Reportedly Talked Syria with Russia Supporters

Donald Trump Jr. had private talks in Paris last month that partly related to working with Russia to end the ongoing war in Syria, The Wall Street Journal reported Wednesday.

The Trump-Putin "bromance" is going to happen, and it poses huge problems for the Rothschild (cough cough) Soros (cough cough) Globalists. And if Syria is pacified with Assad remaining in power, the anti-Globalist Zionists who leaned toward the Trump/Kushner ticket ain't gonna like it either -- though they might swallow it in exchange for Orange Man "looking the other way" as the Israeli Likudniks build more settlements on Palestinian territory and abandon even the pretense of talking about a "two-state solution" TM.

Running parallel to this bold effort to recount votes in certain key states are the news reports, now increasing in frequency, of Killary's ever-expanding margin of victory in the popular vote -- alleged to be up to 2 million as of today. Of course, the fact that millions of illegal invader and cemetery votes are what accounts for this "victory" does not trouble Sulzberger's Slimes or their myriad other co-conspirators of the Piranha Press.

Actual and easily provable Democrat voter fraud doesn't concern scum such as Stein and Sulzberger, at all!

A final interesting element to this recount nonsense is the point-person who is instigating and leading the effort, namely, Jill Stein (cough cough) -- the presidential candidate of the Red, er, Green Party. Yapping yenta Stein, who posed as "anti-Establishment" in order to make Killary seem "moderate," is clearly "in cahoots" with the very same commie-pinko Wall Street Establishment that she cynically railed against. In this respect, she played the same role as Bolshevik Bernie Sanders (cough cough).

Stein's seditious scheme enables Killary to avoid looking like a sore loser as Stein does the dirty work on her behalf. Clever Yenta! It truly seems as though these kosher characters are lurking under every rock, doesn't it?

(Sanders, Stein, Soros)

"On putting the probing knife carefully to that kind of abscess one immediately discovered, like a maggot in a putrescent body, a little Jew who was often blinded by the sudden light."

-- The Great One, Mein Kampf

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in The New York Times today that there may have been discrepancies in certain key swing states. Jill Stein of the Green Party is organizing an effort to fund a recount.

Boobus Americanus 2: I wonder if Putin hacked the computer systems.

Sugar: No Boobussss. But the Slimess did hack into your frickin' poop-filled brain!

Editor: And the damage is beyond repair.

New York Times: Miami's Cuban Exiles Celebrate Castro's Death

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Most decent Americans over the age of 40, and certainly all readers of The Anti-New York Times, already know that Fidel Castro was a brutal communist dictator who ruined the once-developing island nation of Cuba -- driving its mostly White upper and middle classes to flee to Florida while the communist state and its rabble hordes dispossessed any productive Cubans who stayed. All we care to say about the unrepentant old bastard is "good riddance" and "rot in Hell."

Of more interest and value to our beloved students of real history is the long-since forgotten story of the mighty media organization that dusted off the badly defeated rebel, put him back on his feet, and helped to install him as dictator. That's right, boys and girls. Without the maneuvering of Sulzberger's Slimes -- namely the pro-communist correspondent Herbert Matthews (cough cough) -- and the Evil Eisenhower State Department, Fidel Castro's Marxist revolution of 1959 would never have succeeded.

Herb & Fidel: a true love-story!

In February 1957, the fugitive Castro invited Matthews down to Cuba for a one-on-one interview. Ruby Phillips, the Slimes' correspondent in Cuba, was told through a communist contact that Castro wanted to meet with a big name reporter. An interview with Matthews was arranged and held in secret so that Cuban President Fulgencio Batista would not find out about their meeting place and thus capture Castro.

Matthews' interview confirmed that Castro, contrary to what the Cuban government had been claiming for strategic purposes, was indeed still alive. This news gave the demoralized communists of Cuba hope that the revolution could continue. Matthews also claimed that Castro's force was much bigger and more powerful than previously thought. Because Castro and Matthews understood how surprising the news of his survival would be, they took a picture together. Batista, still trying to crush the communist revolution, claimed the photo was a fake and that Castro really was dead.

The secret interview with Matthews saved and resurrected the "rebel" Castro's dying communist revolution -- a fact which Castro and his Argentinian sidekick Che Guevara (with Castro in image 3) openly admitted later on.

"When the world had given us up for dead, the interview with Matthews put the lie to our disappearance."

— Che Guevara, January 1958

Keep in mind that the interview, later published in a 3-part part series, took place during the era of the Cold War. Therefore, any hint of Castro being an actual communist had to be suppressed by the Red rascals at Sulzberger's Slimes. Referring to Castro only as a "rebel" and his gang of thugs as a "revolutionary force," Matthews wrote in the article published February 24, 1957, that:

"[Castro's] program is vague and couched in generalities, but it amounts to a new deal for Cuba, radical, democratic, and therefore anti-Communist. The real core of its strength is that it is fighting against the military dictatorship of President Batista."

More of Matthews' lies romanticizing Castro followed:

"Fidel Castro has strong ideas of liberty, democracy, social justice, the need to restore the Constitution....but it amounts to a new deal for Cuba, radical, democratic and therefore anti-Communist." (February 1957)

After the 1959 overthrow, back when National Review was still somewhat conservative, the magazine published a caricature of Castro over the caption, "I got my job through the New York Times,"

A subsequent book by Anthony DePalma referred to Matthews in the title as "The Man Who Invented Fidel."

1- "The Man Who Invented Fidel" was about Herbert Matthews of the Slimes.

2- The once-influential Slime Magazine also lionized Fidel Castro while concealing his communism

Of course, The Slimes' lies, on their own, would not have been sufficient to topple the pro-American, anti-communist government of Cuba. Newspapers only make propaganda, not the actual policy. The Slimes' goal was to give the lame duck communist-loving President Dwight D. "Ike" Eisenhower the protective cover that he needed to turn Cuba Marxist -- just as he, as "General Eisenhower" had done to eastern Europe at the end of World War II. Ike's treason was resented by the man who would follow him -- the anti-communist John F. Kennedy.

The "Jackie Kennedy tapes" later revealed that JFK agreed with the view of one of their family friends, Ambassador Earl E.T. Smith, --- that the Slimes and the State Department were mainly responsible for the fall of Batista and the triumph of Castro. Smith wrote that the Eisenhower State Department facilitated Batista's downfall by withdrawing support for his government. Smith also claimed that, "Until certain portions of the American press began to write derogatory articles against the Batista government, the Castro revolution never got off first base."

He added: "Matthews eulogized Fidel Castro, portrayed him as a political Robin Hood, and compared him to Abraham Lincoln" and that the Fourth Floor (at the State Department) had a "close association" with Matthews, "who gave the impression by his editorial conduct of advocating Batista's downfall."

Jackie revealed how her husband thought it was "awful" that Eisenhower had allowed Castro to visit the U.S. after his seizure of power in Cuba. She went on to cite Smith's book, The Fourth Floor, on how the State Department (emboldened since Eisenhower's destruction and murder of Joe McCarthy just a few years earlier) had paved the way for Castro's takeover.

1- 1945: Supreme Allied Commander Eisenhower parties atop Lenin's tomb with Stalin himself in a parade which featured doomed German prisoners being force-marched through Red Square.

2- 1959: Just months after Castro's overthrow of Batista, Eisenhower allowed Castro to visit the US -- he is shown above chatting with Vice President, Richard Nixon.

3- "Ike and McCarthy" details how the Globalist-Leftist Eisenhower destroyed Joe McCarthy from "behind the scenes." The decline and unexpected sudden death of the heroic Senator emboldened the communists in the State Department who would later sell out Cuba.

Ambassador Smith and the Kennedys knew the truth about the Eisenhower State Department's betrayal of Cuba.

Smith: “It cannot be maintained that the government of the United States was unaware that Raul Castro and Che Guevara, the top men of the 26th of July movement, are Communists, affiliated with international communism. There was ample evidence to that effect. I have shown in this book that it was impossible for Assistant Secretary of State Roy Rubottom, his associate William Wieland, and the Fourth Floor not to be aware of Fidel Castro’s communist affiliations.”

Jackie Kennedy: “We knew Earl Smith then, who’d been Eisenhower’s ambassador at the time. When we were in Florida—that’s all Earl could talk about. Yeah, then Jack was really sort of sick that the Eisenhower administration had let him [Castro] come in and then The New York Times—what was his name, Herbert Matthews?”

Ambassador Smith also wrote:

“To make my point clear, let me say that we helped to overthrow the Batista dictatorship, which was pro-American and anti-communist, only to install the Castro dictatorship which was Communist and anti-American.”

Digressing and fast-forwarding for a moment, JFK authorized an invasion of Cuba at the Bay of Pigs in April 1961. Jackie talks about the failure to follow through with adequate military force. “I mean, the invasion in the beginning and then no air strike—half doing it and not doing it all the way...” The result of the CIA's betrayal of both JFK and the anti-communist Cubans was a slaughter of the invasion force and a huge propaganda victory for Castro.

Matthews' Marxist mendacity continued even after the revolution had succeeded in January, 1959. Addressing claims that the new boss in Cuba was actually a communist, Matthews wrote:

"In Cuba there are no Communists in positions of control.... Fidel Castro is not only not a Communist, he's decidedly anti-Communist." (July 1959)

For his service to Castro's communism, both before and after the revolution, Fidel presented his friend at the Slimes with a medal during his 1959 visit to New York. That's the sad but real history of what happened to Cuba -- and you'll not find it mentioned in today's Slimes, which is still playing the same game of deadly deception.

"Thank you Comrade Matthews."

Castro was so grateful for Matthews' help in overthrowing the pro-American Batista (Image 2) that he awarded him a medal. Cuba has been a backwards communist hell-hole ever since.

Boobus Americanus 1: So, Castro finally died.

Boobus Americanus 2: Yes. It was amazing how he was able to come to power and then defy the U.S. for so long.

Sugar: It'ss called "having friendss in high placcess" -- Boobuss!

Editor: Indeed! Friends like Matthews, Sulzberger, Eisenhower and Dulles.

New York Times: Trump Claims, With No Evidence, That ‘Millions of People’ Voted Illegally

By MICHAEL D. SHEAR and MAGGIE HABERMAN

The president-elect made the unsubstantiated claim as part of a storm of Twitter posts voicing anger about a 3-state recount push.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

When Killary Rotten Clinscum falsely accused Vlad the Bad Putin of plotting to rig the QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show), nobody at Sulzberger's Slimes or the rest of the Pink Piranha Press demanded "evidence" or denounced the claim as "baseless" or "unsubstantiated." Noooooo, anything a commie-pinko Demonrat politician says is always taken at face value and dutifully repeated without challenge.

But when anti-Globalist Orange Man claims that millions of corpses and aliens voted illegally, the rigged referees immediately break into their oh-so-predictable mantra: "no evidence -- no evidence -- no evidence" and also "baseless -- baseless -- baseless" and also "conspiracy theory -- conspiracy theory--conspiracy theory."

From the article co-authored by Slimes scribblers Michael Shear (probable cough cough) and Maggie Haberman (definite cough cough), paragraph 1:

"President-elect Donald J. Trump said on Sunday that he had fallen short in the popular vote in the general election only because millions of people had voted illegally, leveling the baseless claim as part of a daylong storm of Twitter posts voicing anger about a three-state recount push."

and then, from paragraph 5:

"Claims of wide-scale voter fraud have been advanced for years by Republicans, though virtually no evidence of such improprieties has been discovered."

from paragraph 6:

"Late on Sunday, again without providing evidence,"

from paragraph 9:

"Mr. Trump at times promoted other conspiracy theories..."

Michael Shear & Maggie Haberman use word games and mantras to diffuse Trump's allegations.

Apart altogether from the outrageous double standard and moronic mantras, there is an important element to this allegation of voter fraud which Michael and Maggot are missing -- or rather, omitting, to be more precise. You see, boys and girls, the question at this point should not be: "Is there any evidence for voter fraud?" -- but rather: "Is there probable cause for voter fraud?" The answer to that question is a resounding "yes!" There is probable cause based upon known historical precedent. There is probable cause based upon California's recent issuance of driver licenses to illegal aliens -- which then enables unverified "motor-voter" registration. There is probable cause based upon inner city voters having boasted about voting multiple times in 2008 and 2012.

After probable cause should come the investigation. Investigation then uncovers the "evidence" -- if it exists. But investigation never seems to happen when Demonrats come under the reasonable suspicion of probable cause. So, in answer to the illogical libtarded argument of "no evidence," we say, there is no evidence at this time because the Pink Piranha Press and the Obongo Justice Department refuse to investigate the matter, even though there is ample probable cause!

PRECEDENT = PROBABLE CAUSE

Pennsylvania: Ron Jones -- on camera: "I voted twice (for Obama)"
 Virginia: Melowese Richardson -- on camera: "I voted twice for Obama"

Imagine a murder suspect fitting the general physical description provided by an eye-witnesses. That in and of itself would not suffice to put the killer away behind bars -- "no evidence," as they say. But it does establish enough probable cause needed for detectives to execute a search warrant. If they find the murder weapon in his home, along with personal belongings of the deceased, then you have the "evidence!"

But don't hold your breath waiting for the likes of Michael and Maggot to explore the possibility that Orange Man is correct. That's because these sneaky little devils know bloody damn well that any real examination of the voter rolls would quickly transform probable cause into absolute "evidence" of guilt, and right quick too.

Hey Sulzberger! All we are asking for is an investigation, based upon the clearly established probable cause. Let us then see if the "evidence" turns up or not.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Trump is claiming, without any evidence, that millions of illegal votes were cast for Hillary.

Boobus Americanus 2: To make baseless accusations without evidence smacks of modern day McCarthyism.

Sugar: *It'ss about probable cause, Boobusss! You stupid #@$^ %&#$ @!
^%$@!!!!*

Editor: *Two people you don't want to disrespect in Sugar's presence --
The Great One and Joe McCarthy.*

New York Times: Latest Fed Discussion Reflects More Confidence in Raising Rates

By BINYAMIN APPELBAUM

Janet L. Yellen, in testimony to the Joint Economic Committee last week, said that an interest rate increase “could well become appropriate relatively soon.”

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

So, after the 8 long Obongo years of keeping the "Prime Rate" -- the rate which the HNB (Hebrew National Bank) charges to the nation's banks -- at near 0%, Yenta Yellen and friends will soon be removing the artificial bubble-blowing life support by finally raising the rates. And just in time for the swearing in of Orange Man. Tell it, Conspiracy Cat -- and tell it, Church Lady from old Saturday Night Live fame, tell it!

Sugar: "It's a frickin' conspiracy!"

Trump, 2016: "We are in a big, fat, ugly bubble.... And we have a Fed that's doing political things.... The Fed is being more political than Secretary Clinton."

Without intending to, the article actually reveals the game being played here:

*"When Federal Reserve officials convened just before the presidential election, they talked like people who were ready to raise interest rates, although they decided to wait a little longer.

They fretted about the growing risks of keeping borrowing costs at a historically low level, according to an account of the meeting that the Fed published on Wednesday. They also expressed confidence, albeit with some reservations, that the economy was ready for higher rates.

The early November meeting was something of a placeholder. The Fed was seen as unlikely to move on the eve of the election."

It's very simple, boys and girls. A pre-election rate hike would have triggered the inevitable correction in the bloated stock market. The ignorant public would have held Obongo, not the HNB, accountable for any substantial dip. Because Killary was running as an extension of Obongo, Yenta Yellen (her Rothschild handlers to be more precise) delayed the very hikes that they now claim are so essential.

Again, the article reveals the scam by describing the all-of-a-sudden "urgency" that the HNB has discovered:

"But the latest meeting's account portrays a sense of growing urgency among the Fed committee that sets the course of monetary policy.

Get ready, Orange Man! The HNB and its mouthpiece media are fixin' to pull a Herbert Hoover on you in early 2017.

The Fed's sudden and prolonged money tightening (preceded by a period of easy money) crashed the stock market bubble and brought on the Great Depression. The Piranha Press then put the blame on Republican President Hoover (Image 2, cartoon)--- which is how we ended up with Franklin D Roosevelt in 1932.

The big difference between 1929 and what may happen in 2017 is that Orange Man will have an "alternative media" to battle the HNB with. He has already prepped the nation for a popping of the artificial bubble and will surely open fire on the corrupt Central Bank counterfeiters should they try to take him down.

Of course, tweaking how the HNB operates won't address the real problem of legalized counterfeiting, market rigging and loan sharking. The Central Bank must be killed altogether, a la Andrew Jackson! On that note, we are heartened by the fact that Orange Man recently met with former banker and "End-the-Fed" proponent John Allison in a private meeting that was ignored by the Piranha Press. Although it remains unclear what the two talked about, it is a damn good sign that free market anti-Fed thinkers like Allison will have access to the incoming President.

Channeling Andrew Jackson? John Allison arrives at Trump Tower.

Allison, in 2012: "I believe that as long as the Fed exists, Congress can print money. And it doesn't matter if they are Democrats or Republicans; they would rather print money than tax people. They want to spend because that buys votes, [but] they don't want to tax people because that loses votes."

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the Fed may finally raise interest rates.

Boobus Americanus 2: The Prime Rate has been near zero for many years now. I wonder why they haven't raised it for so long?

Sugar: Frickin' witlessss Boobusss! Thisss issn't that hard to figure out! They needed to prop up Obongo'ss illussion for ass long ass possible!

Editor: Trump had better be ready for whatever monetary sabotage that Yellen is going to throw at him.

NY Times: Austria's Far Right Sees a Prize Within Reach: The Presidency

By ALISON SMALE

Norbert Hofer, 45, above, is running neck and neck with Alexander Van der Bellen, 72, for Austria's presidency. The vote will be on Sunday.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Hide the women and children! The "right" is rising in Austria, and Europe in general. And not just any plain ol' right --- the "far right." Ooooooh. Sounds scary, doesn't it?

Sulzberger's Slimes would never refer to their Golden Boys and Girls such as Italy's Renzi, France's Hollande, or The Frumpy Frau of Germany as "far left" -- even though they are all as Marxist as Marx himself ever was. But when it comes to labeling the harmless milk-toast center-righters of the lost continent, out come the thesaurus of "TM's" -- "Nazi" TM, "fascist" TM, "anti-semitic" TM, "Auschwitz" TM, etc. etc. ad barfdom.

Hofer is the new Hitler? -- I know, boss. I know.

And being the good little de-balled European "conservatives" that they are, our "far right" friends take the bait every time by dutifully and apologetically denying the smears instead of boldly counter-attacking the treasonous accusers.

From the article:

"In his office in Austria's grand old Parliament, Norbert Hofer, the man who would be Austria's next president, presents himself as anything but a threat.

(Hofer) enters with a pronounced limp as a result of a 2003 paragliding accident. ... He then spends much of the next hour professing that he is not nationalist and certainly not anti-Semitic, insists that he is too young to have anything to do with Nazism and says that he is no part of any populist wave."

Hofer, a leader of the "right-wing" Freedom Party, is hoping that Austrians will make him the head of state in when they vote on Sunday. He is said to be running neck and neck with Alexander Van der Bellen, a former economics professor and ex-leader of the Greens party in an election that is actually a rerun of a contested vote earlier this year in which the Reds, er, "Greens" cheated Hofer out of victory.

Of course, Mr. Hofer is far superior to his communist opponent. ~~Sugar and I~~, er, The Editorial Board of The Anti-New York Times are pleased with Hofer's tough stance on the immigration invasion and his desire to normalize relations with Russia. In those respects, Hofer, is much like the Orange Man, whom Hofer has praised for his sensible position on Russia. But please, let's not compare him to the Great One --- neither the evil Hitler of mythology nor the great Hitler of actual history.

The Pinko Professor stole a close election. Will he be booted out in favor of a centrist Trumpian nationalist?

Hofer's deceitful opponent is playing the usual dirty tricks that filthy communists always play. Last week, Van der Bellen posted a video appeal for votes from an 89-year-old Viennese Jewess who "survived" TM Auschwitz TM in which the yapping yenta said she was horrified by Hofer and his Freedom Party. Identified only as Gertrude, she recalled seeing Viennese residents "mocking the Jews" who had been forced to scrub the streets with "toothbrushes" after the "Nazis" TM took power in Austria.

Digressing for a moment, it's time for a quick bit of historical clarification about that legendary "toothbrushing" of Vienna:

After Hitler liberated his home state of Austria without firing a shot (1938), the long-suffering people of Vienna turned on their Jewish-Marxist-Liberal tormentors and forced them to clean up their leftist political graffiti from the sidewalk. Note the SCRUB-brushes --- not "toothbrushes."

The article closes on an interesting note that tends to confirm our developing hypothesis that the hard-core Zionist nationalists of the rotten "State of Israel" TM and the Trumpian nationalists of America and Europe have formed an uneasy alliance of convenience against the Soros / Marxist One Worlders. Here it is:

"Daniel Kapp, a Vienna-based consultant who holds American and German passports and knows Austrian and Israeli politics, noted that Mr. Hofer and other Freedom Party leaders had made it part of their strategy to draw closer to Israel."

A shared apprehension about Muslims is one impetus, Mr. Kapp suggested. Another is that it blunts eventual criticism of the Freedom Party if it takes power."

Be careful who you crawl into bed with, Mr. Hofer. The real "Nazis" TM (National Socialists is the correct term) -- in an apparent effort to keep the Marxist-Globalist Jews off of their own backs -- once tried that tactic as well. And for a little while, the ultra-Zionists and the "Nazis" TM seemed to be getting along rather well. But in the end, the Zionists turned out to be fair weathered friends, at best.

Partly to encourage self-deportation, and partly to blunt Jewish criticism of Germany from abroad, the National Socialist government originally facilitated Jewish immigration to British-held Palestine. (see "The Transfer Agreement," by Jew Edwin Black) -- A Swastika & Star of David coin was minted by a German newspaper to commemorate this "alliance." In the end, the Zionists joined their Marxist Jewish brethren in waging war against Germany anyway.

*The "Nazi-Zionist" medallion was issued by the Berlin daily Der Angriff to commemorate a joint visit to Zionist Palestine by SS officer Leopold von Mildenstein and Zionist Federation official Kurt Tuchler. A series of articles on their tour, appearing under the heading "A Nazi Travels to Palestine," appeared in Der Angriff in late 1934.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that a far right politician may soon be Austria's next President.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's scary. You know, Hitler was actually Austrian, not German.

Sugar: Ausstrians are Germansss, Boobus! They are jusst forbidden by the Globalissts from ever uniting with their brothers again.

Editor: Those are some awesome posters depicting the 1938 merger and the departure of liberal politicians and Jews from Austria. Where do you sniff those out, Sugar?

NY Times: Carrier Jobs, Saved by Government

By "THE EDITORIAL BOARD"

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

"Saved by government," eh Rosenthal?

For the benefit of readers new to The Anti-New York Times, the word-smith Andrew Rosenthal (cough cough) is the putrid little maggot who gets away with posing as the oh so high and mighty "Editorial Board" of the "paper of record." One would think that after a full year of spewing venom at the Orange Man, the likes of Rosenthal would at least "lay low" for a few months whilst munching on some kosher humble pie. But then again, humility and self-introspection aren't exactly characteristics one generally associates with New York chosenites. Instead, Rosenvermin continues to crap out anti-Trumpian hate and nastiness from his mendacious mouth and crooked keyboard.

This particular propaganda poop pie is aimed at smearing the salvation of 800 good-paying jobs at a Carrier Air Conditioning plant in Indiana -- an achievement made possible by Orange Man's determination and deal-making.

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise of the Not-So-High and Not-So-Mighty "Editorial Board". It's only a pathetic little word-smith named Andrew Rosenthal typing out lies from behind the curtain.

Before we commence to rebut some of Rosencrap's mischief, let's give a shout-out to Willis Carrier -- the forgotten inventor of modern air-conditioning and refrigeration (1902). The sad fact that a real scientist and inventor (not a mathematical masturbator like Einstein), whose work so fundamentally improved life for all of humanity, can remain so unknown and unappreciated says much about the times we live in.

Thanks for my refrigerator and air-conditioner, Mr. Carrier.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": The holidays came early this year for workers at a Carrier furnace plant in Indiana, who learned on Tuesday that 800 of their jobs would not be moving to Mexico after all. Their good fortune is also an early triumph for the incoming Trump administration.

President-elect Donald Trump had promised during the campaign to stop the offshoring of American manufacturing jobs, and true to that pledge, he ...cut a deal with Carrier to keep the jobs in the state.

For the people whose jobs were at stake, the details of the deal are secondary. If they had become unemployed, most of them would not have found new jobs that pay anywhere near the $20 to $25 an hour that veteran line workers earn at the Carrier plant.

Rebuttal: A fair and accurate opening. Can you smell the "yeah-but" coming?

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": For everyone else, however, the details do matter, both in themselves and for what they say about how a Trump administration will do business with big business.

Rebuttal: There it is! How well do we know the greasy game of Semitic semantics, eh?

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": For starters, the populist appeal of the deal far outweighs its practical effect.Over all, factory employment in Indiana is down by more than 20 percent since 2000; nationwide, it is down by nearly 30 percent. Stopping the outsourcing of jobs is a worthy goal, but it does not address the underlying trends in technology and public policy that are behind the demise of blue-collar jobs.

Rebuttal: So, just because those 800 jobs represent only a small fraction of the jobs that have been lost, the deal should not have been made? That's like telling a person who just adopted an abused dog, "Big deal. There are still many more dogs that don't have a home." What an arrogant butthole!

Trump's accomplishment at Carrier is driving seditious scribblers like Rosefungus mad with hate and envy.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": It would be naïve to believe that United Technologies — which had estimated it would save $65 million a year by moving the Carrier jobs to Mexico — would give in to Mr. Trump without an expectation of something in return. The State of Indiana has reportedly offered the company $7 million in tax breaks over 10 years to keep the jobs in the state.

Rebuttal: "Something in return?" -- Notice how the little communist speaks of "tax breaks" as though they are a public handout to the company. It was Carrier's money to begin with! Now, by keeping more of it, they can keep the plant operating in Indiana instead of Mexico.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": The most significant benefits could well come in the form of corporate tax cuts ...which Mr. Trump has promised, without supplying details. Can there be much doubt that this deal will ultimately save United Technologies more than it would have saved by moving the Carrier jobs to Mexico?

Rebuttal: Again, note the communist arrogance. To someone like Rosenscat, who evidently believes that Carrier's revenues and all of our incomes belong to the state, a tax cut is a handout!

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": Mr. Trump campaigned against crony capitalism, but one-on-one deals like this are at best inefficient and at worst riddled with just that kind of corruption.

Rebuttal: How is this "crony capitalism?" Carrier isn't receiving any taxpayer money. Moreover, Orange Man intends to slash (in half!) tax rates for all businesses -- not just select "cronies".

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": As a result, the Carrier deal on its own doesn't offer a template that can be scaled up to protect millions of workers whose futures are threatened by offshoring or technological change.

Rebuttal: Actually, Rosenscum, the Carrier deal does "offer a template that can be scaled up." Many other businesses will stay in the USA if the tax rates and regulatory burdens (like ObongoCare & EPA regs) are slashed. Duh!

It is not rocket science, folks. High taxes and excessive regulations (which are both overhead costs) place a heavy burden on economic activity. Reducing the tax rates and regs alleviates the burden and stimulates commerce and investment.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": But there may be ways to get closer to that goal. Senator Bernie Sanders has proposed denying future federal contracts to businesses that plan to move more than 50 jobs out of the United States.

Rebuttal: Rosenvomit! It is precisely because of tax-crazed, regulation-crazed communist mad men like your beloved Bernie Sanders that so many businesses want to escape Soviet America in the first place!

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": The Carrier deal stands as an interesting argument against longstanding Republican economic orthodoxy. In making the deal, Mr. Trump and Mr. Pence have embraced the idea that the government does indeed have a role to play in the free market. They intervened, and as a result, 800 people will keep their jobs.

Rebuttal: No, Rosenrectum. Trump and Pence did not "intervene" in the market place. Exactly the opposite is true. The original "intervention" consisted of the high corporate taxes, Federal support of labor unions, and all unnecessary regulations. Another artificial intervention would have involved direct taxpayer subsidies paid the Carrier. That is not what happened here. A tax cut actually amounts to a reduction of state intervention, nitwit. Tax cuts are not welfare schemes!

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": If they applied the same interventionist approach to other labor issues — raising the minimum wage and expanding overtime pay come to mind — millions of working people might actually stand a chance.

Rebuttal: Actually, Rosenscum, "millions of working people" would lose their part-time service sector jobs if the minimum wage were to be jacked up to $15.

And the manufacturing jobs that Trump intends to save and bring back often pay to $25 per hour and up.

This just in, from the Wall Street Urinal. Read it and weep, Rosenbarf----- and then bitch and whine some more over the fact that Orange Man is already running economic rings around your Golden Faggot Boys Mr. & Mr. Obongo:

Trump Targets Second Indiana Plant Over Plans to Shift to Mexico

Rexnord is expected to move production of industrial bearings from Indianapolis to Mexico next year, eliminating about 300 jobs

One gets the impression that if Orange Man were to make the heavens open up and rain down milk & honey, the nay-saying libtard scum of Sulzberger's Slimes and the Piranha Press would complain that the milk was a bit too warm and the honey not quite sweet enough. Such disgusting and heartless little people!

Trump's next job-loss-prevention project is Rexnord. --- The Slimes and some self-described "free market" purists will surely attack him for that as well.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Trump gave away millions of dollars in order to keep Carrier in Indiana.

Boobus Americanus 2: I knew there had to be a catch.

Sugar: You frickin' imbecile! Trump didn't give away @$%^ because tax breakss are not corporate "ssubsidiess!"

Editor: Libtards would prefer to see these good folks in Indiana work in McDonald's or go on welfare.

NY Times: Italy's Premier, Matteo Renzi, Says He'll Resign After Reform Rejected

By JASON HOROWITZ

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Here is all you need to know about this past Sunday's referendum in Italy: The brash, cocky, silver-tongued Globalist Golden Boy Matteo Renzi asked the Italian people to allow changes to the constitution which would essentially make him the Rothschild-installed dictator of Italy. Cocksure of his "popularity," and with the CIA-commie Italian media fully behind him, the classic narcissist threatened to resign if the referendum didn't go his way -- and he lost. Ciao ciao Renzi!

The cocky young commie with the cross-dressing "wife" took the "NO" vote hard.

Said Renzi in a rambling post-referendum speech riddled with the pronouns "I," "my," and "me":

“The ‘no’ won in an incredibly clear way... I assume all the responsibility of the defeat ... my experience of government ends here.” Good riddance!

Beppe Grillo, the leader of Italy’s anti-establishment Trump-like Five Star Movement gloated:

“The propaganda of the regime and all its lies are the first losers of this referendum.”

Matteo Salvini, the leader of the anti-immigration Northern League, who campaigned vigorously against Mr. Renzi’s proposal, called the result “not just a defeat for Renzi but also his lackeys, bankers, financiers.”

The main beneficiary of Mr. Renzi’s defeat is Grillo's anti-establishment Five Star Movement, a party that advocates ditching the Euro and restoring Italy's monetary sovereignty. Indeed, Renzi once compared Grillo to Trump, “Populism is always the offspring of fear,” Mr. Renzi said at the time. “And in Italy, the answer to fear is the courage to not be defensive, to not be like all the others.”

1- Grillo, the comedian-turned-political leader, openly celebrated Trump's victory.

2 & 3- The by-sea invasion of Italy was primarily the work of Renzi, with a huge "blessing" from the communist Pope

Chaotic Italy with its numerous political parties, institutionalized corruption, abysmal native birth rates, libtarded academics and CIA-controlled news media still faces a bleak future. As is the case with the election of Orange Man in America, the outcome of Renzi's referendum represents only a hopeful reprieve, not a salvation.

Nonetheless, ~~Sugar and I~~, er, The Editorial Board of the Anti-New York Times celebrates the imminent departure of this vile CIA charlatan and his beastly-looking big-mouthed "wife".

1 & 2: The fact that Premier Renzi was so shamelessly puffed-up by CFR-Bildeberger member Charlie Rose on both his CBS & PBS programs constitutes all the evidence one needs to prove that Renzi is a traitor to Italy.

3: Renzi's openly professed admiration for and fawning over the Frumpy Frau of Germany also tells us who he really works for.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that a populist uprising in Italy will result in Prime Minister Renzi stepping down.

Boobus Americanus 2: That's a shame. I saw Renzi on Charlie Rose a few years ago. He seemed like a very impressive man.

Sugar: You frickin' cretin! Renzi is nothing but a ssmooth-talking ego-maniacal clown who iss married to a frickin' tranny!"

Editor: The parallels between the Obongos and the Renzis are striking. Good riddance to them all!

NY Times: A Warning for Americans From a Member of Pussy Riot

WARNING -- OBSCENE MATERIAL ASSOCIATED WITH THIS STORY

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Well, well, well. Look at what Slimes' scribbler Jim Rutenberg (cough cough) has dredged up from the septic tank. The dirty skanks of the Russian "band" Pussy Riot have resurfaced to graciously "warn America" about the danger of Trump.

The cultural vandals of "Pussy Riot" continue to be treated like martyrs by the Globalist media of America and Europe.

From Rottenberg's article:

".... I went to a little cafe here to meet with Nadya Tolokonnikova of the Russian punk band and activist art collective Pussy Riot. The group's 2012 guerrilla performance at the Cathedral of Christ the Savior in Moscow, which viciously mocked Vladimir Putin and the Russian Orthodox Church, resulted in a two-year prison sentence for Ms. Tolokonnikova and another of its members.

Pussy Riot became an international symbol of Mr. Putin's crackdown on free speech; of how his regime uses falsehood and deflection to sow confusion and undermine critics.

Now that the political-media environment that we smugly thought to be "over there" seems to be arriving over here, Ms. Tolokonnikova has a message: "It's important not to say to yourself, 'Oh, it's O.K.,'" she told me. "It's important to remember that, for example, in Russia, for the first year of when Vladimir Putin came to power, everybody was thinking that it will be O.K."

The Pussy Riot girls had friends in high places (with Killary, Image #2 / with Madonna, Image #3).

A major anti-Putin media offensive surrounded the 2012 case of the all-girl band named after the vulgar term for a certain part of the female anatomy, not our furry little feline friends. The girls, we were told, were arrested merely for entering a Moscow church and singing a “Punk Prayer” to protest Putin. After being handed a 2 year jail sentence, the “International Community” (bow your head in solemn reverence as you speak those words) exploded in self righteous indignation. Singing from the same hymn book, these 10,000 or so eggheads based in New York, DC, Hollywood, London, Paris, Brussels & Berlin all decreed that Putin was paranoid ‘tyrant’ who had orchestrated the harsh sentence against the harmless feminist “artists”. A rallying cry for this phony cause celeb soon emerged, “Free Pussy Riot!” The affair grew into a real public relations disaster for Russia.

But a few essential details were deliberately omitted, and continue to be omitted from the popular narrative.

Pussy Riot was not actually a “band”. The girls were just a group of NGO-financed agitators who would don bright colored ski masks while strumming on electric guitars which they knew not how to play. Their screaming “songs” consisted of loud obscenities calling for things like “gay rights”, the downfall of Putin, and for Russian housewives to stick their vacuum cleaner hoses up their vaginas.

Pussy Riot is an offshoot of an NGO funded Anarchist “art collective” known as VOINA, whose members (including Nadezhda Tolokonnikova of Pussy Riot – whose own parents threw her out!) had previously engaged in such outrageous “artistic” stunts as having a group sex session in a public museum and painting an image of a huge penis on a draw bridge (which later “erected”). Another “art project” involved the filming of a female member shoving a chicken carcass into her vagina and walking out of the market as the refrigerated creature’s legs dangled out from her canal like a breech birth.

The sex-crazed little Marxists believe that public indecency and vandalism are a "civil right."

The vandals of VOINA have also been known to spray urine filled water guns, and throw urine filled balloons, at police officers, disrupt court proceedings and smash up police cars. Upon deliberately provoking their own arrests, VOINA cult members will scream about “police brutality” and then post online photos & videos of their “human rights” being violated by “Putin’s thugs”. The Western Yellow Press will then dutifully show the out-of-context images to their horrified worshippers (readers/viewers). That’s how the NGO “protester” game is played!

Contrary to the scripted image of a repressive Russia, members of VOINA and Pussy Riot endured only brief arrests and fines, at worst. In spite of being warned to stay away from the cathedrals, the Pussy Riot “band” continued to push the Moscow police. On February 21, 2012, members of the gang invaded Moscow's Cathedral of Christ the Savior. The advanced student of real history will recall the story of the Stalin-Kaganovich dynamite destruction of this historic Grand Cathedral in 1931. During the 1990’s, it was rebuilt to the close specifications of its original glory. This new Cathedral holds special religious, cultural and historic meaning for Russian faithful. It was attacked for this very reason.

Destroyed by the Bolsheviks --- rebuilt during the 1990's -- attacked by Pussy Riot in 2012.

As horrified worshippers and priests looked on, a flash mob of as many as a dozen VOINA radicals stormed the Christ Cathedral. Four of these deranged tools of the Globalist NGO’s (the Pussy Riot girls) then took to the alter itself. They mocked the stunned worshippers by kneeling and crossing themselves. As supporting members blasted their music from the side, the “singers” then belted out an obscene “protest prayer” aimed at Putin and Church Patriarch Kirill (the Russian Church’s version of the Pope). They screamed that Putin is "Shit! Shit! The Lord's shit". Patriarch Kirill was denounced as a "bitch" and Mother Mary was urged to "become a feminist."

Now the patient Russians had tolerated enough! The lead “singers” were finally arrested and charged by the local authorities (not by Putin!), with “hooliganism motivated by religious hatred” The arrest and subsequent trial drew international attention and massive criticism. Not only did the feminist radicals not show an ounce of remorse, but they laughed and mocked the court itself throughout the entire trial. The deranged and defiant “activists” continued laughing as Judge Marina Syrova handed down her sentence! It was evident that the girls (and their handlers), actually wanted a prison sentence. It would be great anti-Putin propaganda for the Globalists; and certain fame and fortune for the celebrity “heroines” when they get out (in December 2013).

Indeed, only 3 months after Pussy Riot’s release, one of America’s most artificially puffed-up pseudo “journalists” - the oh-so-serious and ever so “thought provoking” Charlie Rose of PBS fame - debased himself by interviewing two of the deranged subversives at a public forum held in New York in April of 2014. On bended knee and with bated breath, the duplicitous charlatan lobbed one sugar-coated soft ball after another to the “courageous” degenerates who dared to defy the “tyrant” Putin. Not once did the pious fawning sophist think to ask the “ladies” about any of the key data points we have just reviewed.

And now you know "the rest of the story" of the NGO terrorists who have been protesting Putin, and are now "warning America" about Orange Man.

Millions have heard the official story of the poor persecuted little girls of Pussy Riot -- but very few know the whole story.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the activists from Pussy Riot are warning of the similarities between the Trump movement and the Putin phenomenon.

NY Times: Shinzo Abe to Become First Japanese Leader to Visit Pearl Harbor

By JONATHAN SOBLE and DAVID E. SANGER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

It's that annoying time of year again when malignantly self-worshipping America solemnly commemorates the "Day of Infamy" TM which forced a "reluctant" President Roosevelt to ask for, and receive, a declaration of war against Japan from the U.S. Congress. -- a declaration which necessarily and deliberately entailed war against Germany and Italy.

What's surprising this year is that a few weeks after our sick national ritual of remembrance, Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe will be paying a visit to Pearl Harbor as he meets with the soon-to-be-departing (we hope) U.S. President during Mr. & Mr. Obongo's annual end-of-year, taxpayer-funded extravaganza in Hawaii.

A rebutting refresher course of the history-altering event is in order here.

HARRY STIMSON'S CONFESSION!

"We face the delicate question of the diplomatic fencing to be done so as to be sure Japan is put into the wrong and makes the first bad move. ... The question was how we should maneuver them into the position of firing the first shot."

"When the news first came that Japan had attacked us my first feeling was of relief that ... a crisis had come in a way which would unite all our people. This continued to be my dominant feeling in spite of the news of catastrophes which quickly developed."

From the diary of Henry Stimson, FDR's Secretary of War

Slimes: Prime Minister Shinzo Abe said on Monday that he would visit Pearl Harbor, becoming the first sitting Japanese leader to go to the site of Japan's attack 75 years ago that pulled a stunned United States into World War II.

Rebuttal: The people of the United States were indeed "stunned," but FDR and his gang of communist ghouls knew it was coming because they deliberately provoked it in order to drag America into World War II.

Slimes: By visiting Pearl Harbor, Mr. Abe will in effect be reciprocating a historic trip Mr. Obama made in May to Hiroshima, where the United States dropped a nuclear bomb at the end of the war with Japan in 1945.

Rebuttal: Shame on you puppet boy Abe! There is no moral equivalence between the strategic self-defense (preemptive) bombing of a military installation and the incineration of women, children, elderly and other non-combatants.

Slimes: Mr. Abe's visit will be one of a series of efforts by Japan to come to terms with its wartime history, without engaging in direct apologies.

Rebuttal: Japan doesn't need to "come to terms" with anything. Like its wartime ally, Germany, Japan's only "crime" was to resist the New World Order and its minions in the far east.

Slimes: "We must never repeat the horror of war," Mr. Abe said on Monday. "I want to express that determination as we look to the future, and at the same time send a message about the value of U.S.-Japanese reconciliation."

Rebuttal: Abe is not apologizing, but even the perception of some type of Japanese regret offends truth and reason.

Slimes: Mr. Abe's visit will come just a few weeks after the 75th anniversary of the attack, which occurred on Dec. 7, 1941.

Just as the decision to drop the bomb on Japan to end the war has long been the subject of a fraught moral and political debate in the United States,

Rebuttal: There is no moral comparison between a justified preemptive attack on a military base and the incineration / radiation of hundreds of thousands of women, children, elderly and other non-combatants.

Slimes: .. the decision to attack Pearl Harbor has been enormously delicate in Japan.

Rebuttal: The question is "enormously delicate" because there is a debate between the traitor academics of Japan and the honest ones. Because the Japanese was not mind-raped to the extent that the big bad Germans were after the war and ever since, such debate is actually permissible in otherwise de-balled Japan.

Comparing Pearl Harbor to the atomic bomb and firebombing attacks upon Japan is as dishonest as it is disgusting.

Slimes: For decades, politicians have been reluctant to make any statement resembling an apology for the attack, which many in Japan argue was the natural outgrowth of an American-led oil embargo that would have starved the Japanese empire.

Rebuttal: The prefacing term, “Many in Japan argue” implies that this is an opinion. But it is not an arguable opinion. It is a fact! Japan was being choked to death and threatened with war if it sought to obtain oil elsewhere in southeast Asia.

Slimes: “Indeed, the oil embargo cornered Japan,” Hirohito said, referring to the American-led blockade. “Once the situation had come to this point, it was natural that advocacy for going to war became predominant,” he said. “If, at that time, I suppressed opinions in favor of war, public opinion would have certainly surged, with people asking questions about why Japan should surrender so easily when it had a highly efficient army and navy, well trained over the years.”

Rebuttal: Ah, the obligatory truth nugget buried in the pile of Sulzbergian shit. We’ll take it though. It’s real gem of a quote from the Emperor --- as is the following from 1941.

Emperor Hirohito / Charred remains of the firebombing of Tokyo

"It has truly been unavoidable and far from our wishes that our Empire has been brought to cross swords with America and Britain.... Eager for the realization of their inordinate ambition to dominate the Orient, both America and Britain, giving support to the Chungking regime, have aggravated the disturbances in East Asia. Moreover these two powers, inducing other countries to follow suit, increased military preparations on all sides of our Empire to challenge us. They have obstructed by every means our peaceful commerce and finally resorted to a direct severance of economic relations, menacing greatly the existence of our Empire.

Patiently have we waited and long have we endured, in the hope that our Government might retrieve the situation in peace. But our adversaries, showing not the least spirit of conciliation, have unduly delayed a settlement; and in the meantime they have intensified the economic and political pressure to compel our Empire to submission."

Emperor Hirohito -- December 8, 1941

Slimes: In August, Mr. Abe's wife, Akie, paid a quiet visit to Pearl Harbor and the Arizona memorial, fueling speculation that her husband would follow.

Rebuttal: That's just wonderful! Now even the traditionally soft-spoken sweet women of Japan, like their western counterparts, are starting to get mouthy and political. (They aren't having babies anymore either!)

Slimes: Mr. Abe did not elaborate on Monday on his plans for the Pearl Harbor visit, which will be carefully choreographed with American officials. He said he hoped to "comfort the souls of the victims."

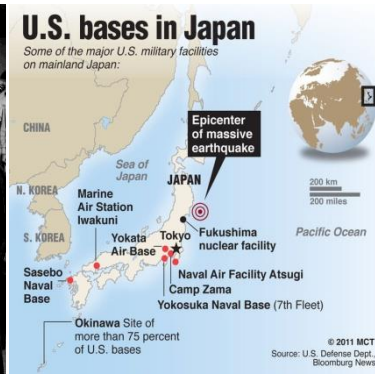

Rebuttal: Again, though the words are measured, the optics are horrible. Abe is apologizing without literally apologizing.

Slimes: Several American veterans groups said they welcomed Mr. Abe's visit, regardless of whether he apologizes or not.

Rebuttal: How sad that after all these years, Pearl Harbor survivors and their families still haven't learned about FDR's treachery in both provoking the attack and then denying advance warning to the commanders at the base who were later shamelessly scapegoated (Admiral Kimmel & General Short).

Slimes: The two leaders' visit will showcase the power of reconciliation that has turned former adversaries into the closest of allies, united by common interests and shared values.

Correction: The two leaders' visit will showcase the power of ~~reconciliation~~ domination that has turned former adversaries ~~into the closest of allies~~ a master-vassal complex united by ~~common interests and shared values~~ force and the ongoing occupation of Japan. (There, fixed it!)

Japan's genocide-induced surrender of 1945 remains in effect. Unlike their brainwashed German counterparts, many Japanese know it and resent it.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the President of Japan intends to visit Pearl Harbor.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's about time Japan confronted its fascist past and apologizes for attacking us at Pearl Harbor.

Sugar: Hey Boobuss. Read "Day of Deceit" by Robert Sstinnett

Editor: A classic!

NY Times: Trump Picks Scott Pruitt, Climate Change Denialist, to Lead E.P.A

By CORAL DAVENPORT and ERIC LIPTON

NY Times: Trump and Pruitt Will Make America Gasp Again

By PAUL KRUGAN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Even by the Slimes' low standards, bold headlines tagging the nominee for EPA chief as a "denialist" who will "make America gasp again" are surprising to behold. Why not just label him as a "jerk," or some other childish term?

The funny thing is that Scott Pruitt, the Oklahoma Attorney General, doesn't even deny the Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM hoax -- at least not publicly. Pruitt wrote earlier this year:

"Scientists continue to disagree about the degree and extent of global warming and its connection to the actions of mankind. That debate should be encouraged — in classrooms, public forums, and the halls of Congress. It should not be silenced with threats of prosecution. Dissent is not a crime."

What worries the Slimes' communist Demonrats like Paul Krugman (cough cough) is not that Pruitt's de-regulatory agenda will make sea-levels rise (nobody actually believes such nonsense) -- but that such policies would make employment and income levels rise. The aims of the Left are to suppress living standards, restrict freedom, diminish national sovereignty and keep the masses dependent upon government. Because a rollback of senseless environmental regulations will surely unleash positive economic forces, the Demonrats fear that the people coming off of the public welfare roles may credit Orange Man for their new jobs and/or rising incomes.

The known communist Bernie Sanders (cough cough) has already announced his intention to throw a Marxist monkey-wrench into Pruitt's confirmation process"

"At a time when climate change is the great environmental threat to the entire planet, it is sad and dangerous that Mr. Trump has nominated Scott Pruitt to lead the E.P.A....The American people must demand leaders who are willing to transform our energy system away from fossil fuels. I will vigorously oppose this nomination."

Krugman the child wear a T-shirt mocking Trump's hair. Communists like him and Sanders (Image 2) promote phony "environmentalism" as a back-door towards a more communistic planet.

Let's us complete this rebuttal with a quick crash-course-bullet-point debunking the New World Order's cherished sovereignty-busting, tax-raising, power-grabbing fairy tale of Global Warming TM, aka Climate Change TM (for when it gets cold out).

- The warmists began making "10-15-years-in-the-future" doom & gloom forecasts about 35 years ago. None of them have come to pass as the 10-15 year disaster keeps getting moved up.

- Satellite based temperature reading show no warming for 19 consecutive years. The warmists have been finally forced to acknowledge this fact, but now claim that the satellite readings were not done properly.
- The Arctic and Antarctic ice sheets expand and contract year-to-year. There has been no observable net shrinkage over past 50 years.
- The world's glaciers expand and contract year-to-year. Some are currently receding and other are currently expanding.
- Sea-levels have not risen. All of the world's low islands and tiny atolls are still here.
- In spite of the manipulative images of Polar Bears stranded in pieces of ice, the Polar Bear population is NOT in decline.
- There has been no increase in hurricane or typhoon activity over the past 50 years at least.

It's all LIES!

- All Global Warming research is conducted by scientists who are on the payroll of either some government entity or a left wing CIA/Soros affiliated NGO (Non Governmental Organization)
- Scientists have been caught red-handed attempting to fudge their research in favor of "proving" Global Warming TM.
- The myth of "95% consensus" has been exposed as a fraud.
- Man-caused CO2 account for only 2-3% of total CO2. Termites and geo-thermal activity account for more than man does.

- The natural annual variance of all atmospheric CO₂ is + or - 5%. So, even a total elimination of man-caused CO₂ could easily be erased by a slight upward trend due to natural causes.
- The earth has passed through solar-activity-based numerous ice ages, mini-ice ages and warming periods long before we became industrialized.
- Factors such as water vapor, solar activity, Axis-tilt-variation, unpredictable ocean currents and wind patterns impact climate far more than CO₂ emissions (natural or man-made).
- Scientists who dispute Global Warming TM are often subject to vicious attacks and career damage.

For a more in-depth understanding of just how bad the "junk science" supporting the Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM hoax really is, we would refer our readers to Mark Morano's excellent and very comprehensive website climatedepot.com

On a closing note, the clever manner in which Orange Man made a big show of meeting with prominent Global Warming TM / Climate Change TM con-men Al Gore and Leonardo DiCaprio, just as he was nominating Pruitt and also "denier" Cathy McMorris Rogers for the Department of Interior, is the stuff of marketing genius. Orange Man "outreach" to Al & Lenny served the purpose of mitigating the hate from the libtards, soccer moms and millennials who actually believe in such crap, thus allowing him to more easily pick "deniers" anyway. Genius!

Trump the "Troll" --- generates good liberal publicity for himself by summoning Global Warmists Trump and DiCaprio to Trump Tower; then turns around and appoints "deniers" Pruitt and Rogers (Image 3) to his cabinet. Hahahahahahaha!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Trump just picked a climate denier for EPA chief.

Boobus Americanus 2: Ridiculous. Doesn't Trump know that 95% of scientists now believe that the planet is warming?!

Sugar: Hey Boobuss. Don't you know that 95% of what comes out of the media and academia is communist bull-@#%&?

Editor: Closer to 99%, I think --- and clean up the kitty-litter mouth, please.

NY Times: Holocaust Survivors Score Victory in Reclaiming Stolen Art

By EMMARIE HUETTEMAN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Both in TomatoBubble articles and in "The Bad War," ~~Sugar and I~~, er, "The Editorial Board" of The Anti-New York Times have thoroughly exposed the scam that is the "Nazi looted art" routine. What we were not aware of, as this article reveals, is that the usual suspects appear to have been, and evidently still are, cashing in on the big lie. Why are we not surprised?

Hazmat suits and goggles on, boys and girls. Join us for a rebutting historical swim in Sulzberger's cesspool as we examine young Gentile Emmarie Huettman's latest journalistic turd sandwich. But first, a bit of historical context.

29-year-old Slimes scribbler Emmarie Huetteman is probably not a knowing Marxist conspirator -- and most likely just a dumb millennial libtard who not-too-long-ago cried her eyes out during mandatory Middle School Holocaust TM education. Very soon, her lost generation will outnumber the baby-boomers.

"Looted Art" -- The Historical Context

Under Kaiser Wilhelm II during World War I, the highly cultured Germans go to great lengths to protect and preserve artworks located in enemy territory or near a zone of combat. The German word to describe this principal of saving Europe's cultural and artistic treasures during wartime is "Kunstschutz" (art protection). At the end of World War I, rescued artworks are returned voluntarily. Unlike World War II, anti-German propaganda actually fades away following World War I. As a result, Germany is later praised for "Kunstschutz" / art protection during "The Great War".

Kaiser Wilhelm tried to avert the war which was forced upon Germany. Even while winning the war, the Kaiser held out an olive branch to the Allies, while his soldiers protected artworks belonging to enemy nations. World War I was very destructive. Thanks to Germany, many works of art located in Belgium and France were saved.

A talented painter himself, The Great One had a great appreciation for art and culture. He sees Churchill and FDR as uncultured barbarians with merciless disregard for innocent life, architecture, and works of art. As the Germans under Kaiser Wilhelm II had done during World War I, Hitler also orders the protection of artworks throughout the combat theatres of Western and Eastern Europe. The task of protecting the art of Europe is handed over to Air Force Marshal Hermann Goering.

As men of culture, Hitler and Goring placed high priority on art protection.

As Allied terror bombing ravages Europe, thousands of paintings and sculptures from Italy, France, Belgium, Russia, Romania, and Poland are gathered and meticulously inventoried by the Germans. After the war, the American Art Looting Investigation Unit (ALIU) of the Office of Strategic Services (OSS) issues 13 reports on the German plundering of art. By the way, this is the same OSS whose other “findings” accuse the Germans of using the bodies of dead Jews to make “shrunk heads”, “lamp shades” and “bars of soap” - allegations which are today universally acknowledged to have been false. The OSS is the forerunner to the CIA.

Now, on to our analysis of the article.

The "Cloak & Dagger" Logo of the OSS says it all! An Agency whose stated purpose involves strategic deception and propaganda crafted the "looted art" lie. The mass murderer Eisenhower (shown examining "looted art") also helped to sell the post war lie.

Huetteman: A group of Holocaust survivors and their families notched a crucial victory on Friday,...

Rebuttal: They always "notch crucial victory," don't they?

Huetteman: ... as Congress approved legislation that would make it easier to reclaim art confiscated during World War II.

Rebuttal: Gimme, Gimme, Gimme ... Mine, Mine, Mine. Amazing. Only years of life remaining for these nonagenarian money-grubbers and yet the materialistic avarice remains as strong as ever.

Huetteman: The unanimous vote was the culmination of a bipartisan effort to help victims whose art was taken by the Nazis and their allies. The House passed the bill on Wednesday.

Rebuttal: "Unanimous vote," eh? Only one group in America has the clout to corral a very unusual unanimous vote. (cough cough)

Huetteman: Should President Obama sign it into law, as expected, ...

Rebuttal: "As expected," eh? Gee. Really? Ya actually think Homo-Obongo, who owes his political success to these characters, would even consider not signing it?

Huetteman: the measure would loosen, and standardize across the country, the statute of limitations on claims for the return of looted art. Survivors and their families would have six years to make a claim after identifying pieces taken from them and proving their right to them.

Rebuttal: Exactly how, 75 years after the fact, would these "survivors" TM be able to "prove their right" to any of the artworks called into question? We suspect that a mere uncontested "that's mine" will suffice. After all, what museum curator who values his career would dare to call a "Holocaust survivor" TM a liar? That would be "anti-Semitic" TM -- don't ya know?

Huetteman: The legislation is considered a critical tool as Holocaust survivors and their heirs have faced a bureaucratic and legal tangle of governments, museums and collectors to recover art taken from them more than 70 years ago.

Translation: Museums and even private collectors are now at greater risk of being dispossessed of any piece for which they cannot establish a definitive historical line of ownership.

Huetteman: Ronald S. Lauder, president of the World Jewish Congress and an advocate in the fight to recover looted art, said that, under the bill, future claims would be more likely to be judged on their merits.

Translation: The World Jewish Congress is the same criminal gang that shook down Switzerland for "stolen gold" back in the 1990's. The Swiss resisted at first, before a downed airliner in 1998 and a deadly tunnel fire in 2001 "persuaded" them to pay up!

The current "stolen art" shakedown follows a similar template as the late 1990's "stolen gold" shakedown.

Huetteman: A treaty signed by 44 countries in 1998, known as the Washington Conference Principles on Nazi-Confiscated Art, urged an expeditious “just and fair solution” to what advocates have described as an ongoing injustice to an already grievously wronged group.

Rebuttal: This is the sad song that never ends: "ongoing injustice to an already grievously wronged group." --- wa wa wa!

Huetteman: Some legal experts had pointed out that the new legislation has some deficiencies, particularly that it does not ensure restitution. But supporters cheered that it would make it easier to make claims in American courts.

Rebuttal: In other words, the new law will make it easier for scoundrels to file a lawsuit against a museum or private collector -- a critical legal step which is usually 3/4 of the battle because most defendants would prefer to settle rather than fight an expensive and uncertain custody battle in front of a Jewish judge or even a career-minded Gentile judge.

Huetteman: The quest for justice for Holocaust survivors united lawmakers from both parties in a remarkably combative election year. Senator Chuck Schumer of New York, the incoming Democratic leader, and Senator Ted Cruz of Texas, a Republican and former presidential candidate, teamed up on the bill.

Rebuttal: "... united lawmakers from both parties," eh? You see, boys and girls, when it comes to groveling at the feet of the chosenites, there is only one political Party.

Huetteman: “Artwork lost during the Holocaust is not just property,” said Senator John Cornyn of Texas, the Senate’s No. 2 Republican and another backer of the bill. “To many victims and their families, it is a reminder of the vanished world of their families.”

Rebuttal: Hey Senator! How about a little sympathy for the "vanished" lives of millions of Germans and "the vanished world" of 10's of millions of Germans? Now dead and forgotten, or still alive and emotionally scarred, all because these very same characters demanded and got their unjust war of genocide upon Germany. (See images below)

Then and now, they always get their way.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Congress just passed a bill that will make it easier for Holocaust survivors to reclaim any art stolen from them by the evil Nazis.

Boobus Americanus 2: Well it's about damn time! It should not have taken this long to help them recover what was rightfully theirs.

Sugar: The reasson it took sso long is probably becausse the scheming @#%^&$ had to wait for true original ownerss to die off.*

Editor: A very plausible and astute hypothesis there, my feline friend.

President Vladimir V. Putin last month at the Kremlin. The C.I.A. believes he deployed computer hackers with the goal of tipping the election to Donald J. Trump

NY Times: C.I.A. Judgment on Russia Built on Swell of Evidence

By MARK MAZZETTI and ERIC LICHTBLAU

The conclusion that Russia intervened in the election to help Donald J. Trump was based on what many believe is overwhelming circumstantial evidence, which is often the most intelligence analysts have at their disposal.

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The false accusations being leveled at Vladimir Putin and his phantom "hackers" are so preposterous that even Boobus Libtardus shouldn't need us to rebut this piece of "fake news." Nonetheless, this remains a very useful piece for analytical dissection because, when stripped naked, it features some of the classic tactical tricks often used by journalistic deceivers -- mainly, the "sell-the-sizzle-but-not-the-steak" marketing trick. By catching and exposing the subtle Sulzbergerian subterfuge of Messrs. Mark Mazzetti & Eric Lichtbblau (cough cough), we thereby inoculate the reader against future false stories which utilize the same mendacious magic.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau (author of "The Nazis Next Door") -- masters of journalistic sleight-of-hand.

Sub-Headline: The conclusion that Russia intervened in the election to help Donald J. Trump was based on what many believe Analysis: "based on what many believe" --- sounds impressive but tells us nothing. "Many" also believe that the allegation is false, and the word "believe" implies opinion, not hard evidence.

Sub-Headline: ... is overwhelming circumstantial evidence, ...

Analysis: And yet, this "overwhelming circumstantial evidence" -- (sizzle sizzle) -- has still not been released! We are left to blindly trust an unnamed (imaginary?) CIA source that the "evidence" is indeed "overwhelming."

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: American spy and law enforcement agencies were united in the belief, in the weeks before the presidential election, that the Russian government had deployed computer hackers to sow chaos during the campaign.

Analysis: "were united in the belief" --- apart from being an untrue statement, that claim still does not provide the reader with any evidence of the "Russian hacking." Oh waiter --- Where is my damn steak, please?

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Last week, Central Intelligence Agency officials presented lawmakers with a stunning new judgment that upended the debate.

Analysis: "Stunning," eh? -- "upended the debate," eh? Those are mighty strong words. But you two ass-clowns still haven't described the nature of this "overwhelming" and "stunning" evidence that so "upended the debate". How do "youse guys" know that it is so "stunning" if you aren't actually privy to it? Sizzle sizzle, but still no steak.

"Overwhelming" --- "stunning" --- "upended the debate" --- sounds good, yet still no steak.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Russia, they said, had intervened with the primary aim of helping make Donald J. Trump president.

Analysis: "they said," --- again, tells us nothing. We don't care what "they say." In fact, we still don't even know who "they" even are! We want to see what the "overwhelming" and "stunning" evidence says. Stop with the sizzle and bring us the steak!

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: The C.I.A.'s conclusion was an analysis of what many believe is overwhelming circumstantial evidence —

Analysis: "many believe." --- There "youse guys" go again! We don't care about the "many" and nor are we impressed by the word "belief." Tell us what "youse guys" actually KNOW!

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: ... evidence that others feel does not support firm judgments

Analysis: "others feel does not support firm judgments" --- Ah! A tiny little truth gem slipped in to give the appearance of objectivity. So, there are "others" in the intelligence community who do not buy this tale. Interesting. But didn't "youse guys" just say that the intelligence gencies "were united in the belief?" ... Hmmm? Gotcha!

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: -- that the Russians put a thumb on the scale for Mr. Trump, and got their desired outcome.

Analysis: Even if the Russians did "put a thumb on the scale for Mr. Trump," --- the entirety of the "mainstream media" put their collective bodies on the scale for Killary! Why is that not considered to be a scandal?

CNN -- the same network that fed Killary debate questions in advance -- uses camera effects to literally made Killary glow like a saint. Meanwhile, the whole Piranha Press attacked Orange Man 24/7. That was the real scandal to tilt the election -- not "Russian influence."

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Mr. Trump's response has been to dismiss the reports by citing another famous intelligence assessment — the botched 2002 conclusion that the Iraqi leader, Saddam Hussein, had weapons of mass destruction —

"I think it's ridiculous. I think it's just another excuse. I don't believe it," Mr. Trump said on Sunday in an interview on Fox News.

Analysis: Hard to argue with Trump's logic there.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Yet there is a loud chorus of bipartisan voices, including Senator John McCain, Republican of Arizona, going public to accuse the Russians of election interference.

Analysis: Ah! A "yeah but" to offset Trump's observation. And of course, the devious duo cites every libtard's favorite Republican't, John McCain the Insane, to support their deceitful journalism.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Both intelligence and law enforcement officials agree that there is a mountain of circumstantial evidence suggesting that the Russian hacking was primarily aimed at helping Mr. Trump and damaging his opponent, Hillary Clinton.

Analysis: "mountain of circumstantial evidence" and "suggesting" are contradictory terms. If there is truly a "mountain of circumstantial evidence," then why not use the word "proving" instead of the weasel word "suggesting." By the way, when are "youse guys" or your CIA "sources" going to allow us riff-raff to actually see this mythical "mountain of evidence?" Sizzle, sizzle.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: American intelligence officials believe that Russia also penetrated databases housing Republican National Committee data, but chose to release documents only on the Democrats. The committee has denied that it was hacked.

Analysis: If the RNC denies that it was even hacked, then doesn't that discredit these "American intelligence officials" and their other "beliefs" as well?

Unseen CIA source to Slimes newspaper man:

"Pssst. The 'mountain of evidence' is 'top secret' --- but trust me. It really does exist, and boy-oh-boy is it 'stunning' and 'overwhelming' and 'upending.'"

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Beyond the specific targets of the hacks, American officials cite broad evidence that Mr. Putin and the Russian government favored Mr. Trump over Mrs. Clinton.

More generally, the Russian government has blamed Mrs. Clinton, along with the C.I.A. and other American officials, for encouraging anti-Russian revolts during the 2003 Rose Revolution in Georgia and the 2004 Orange Revolution in Ukraine.

Analysis: The fact that the Russians preferred Orange Man over Killary speaks only to possible motive. It does not constitute evidence of anything. Just because I often enjoy a glass of red wine with my dinner; that doesn't in anyway prove that I was the one who shoplifted from the local liquor store last week.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: Russian television, which is tightly controlled by the government,...

Analysis: Actually, that's totally false. Russian media is a mixed bag consisting of pro-Putin media and pro-"Atlantacists" who subtly work against Putin.

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: ... has generally portrayed Mr. Trump as a strong, friendly potential partner while often airing scathing assessments of Mrs. Clinton.

Analysis: Again, motive does not equate to action --- and God forbid if we should step back from World War III and become "friendly" with Russia. Oh horrors!

Mazzetti & Lichtblau: And yet, there is skepticism within the American government, particularly at the F.B.I., that this evidence adds up to proof that the Russians had the specific objective of getting Mr. Trump elected.

Analysis: Another buried truth gem --- useful to the astute line-by-line reader, yet lost on the majority of hurried and trusting skim-readers. Evidently, the "mountain of evidence" against Putin does not appear to be all that "overwhelming" and "upending" and "stunning" to the F.B.I. This can only mean that the F.B.I. has been taken over by the K.G.B.

How "stunning" is that? --- sizzle, sizzle.

Make the world peaceful again.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the CIA has accumulated a mountain of overwhelming evidence proving that Russian hackers influenced the election.

Boobus Americanus 2: Stunning. Absolutely stunning.

Sugar: You're frickin' sstunned all right, Boobus! As in brain damaged.

Editor: He's also 'overwhelmed.'

NY Times: A Trump Economic Boom? The Fed May Stand in the Way

By BINYAMIN APPELBAUM

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Without intending to do so, (or perhaps intending to send a message to his comrades-in-crime?) Slimes scribbler Binyamin Appelbaum (cough cough) performs a great service for some of us more advanced "conspiracy theorists" TM who have been warning that the HNB (Hebrew National Bank) intends to pull the rug out from Orange Man before he can turn the economic ship around. It's actually quite a shocking read -- not so much because it teaches us anything new, but because of its unusually brazen portrayal of just how powerful and how subversive the Central Bank of America really is. Let us examine a few excerpts.

Bennie lets a huge "cat out of the bag" for us.

Appelbaum: Investors in financial markets, and those predicting faster economic growth in 2017, would do well to remember the famous words of William McChesney Martin Jr., the former Federal Reserve chairman, uttered way back in 1955: "The Fed's job is to remove the punch bowl just as the party gets going."

Analysis: A former Fed Chair admits that the bank has the power to kill an economic expansion (generally done in order to kill the inflation that the Bank itself has ignited).

Appelbaum: President-elect Donald J. Trump's promises to cut taxes and regulation and to increase spending on infrastructure and defense have convinced many that a sugar high in the near term will goose the economy. But Fed officials say the economy is already expanding at something close to its maximum sustainable pace, meaning faster growth would drive inflation toward unwelcome levels.

Analysis: "Maximum sustainable pace?" -- Do these gangsters at the HNB realize how many people are out of work or underemployed or earning crap for wages? Answer: Of course they know what's going on, and they want to keep it that way in order to ensure that Orange Man fails!

Appelbaum: To avoid overheating, the Fed could respond by raising interest rates more quickly. The more Mr. Trump stimulates growth, the faster the Fed is likely to increase rates.

Translation: The more Trump succeeds, the more aggressively the HNB will move to thwart that success by tightening the money supply with rapidly rising rates.

Today's Slimes confirms that "conspiracy theorist" Congressman Lindbergh Sr. was right when he warned that the new Central Bank (enacted in 1913) would come to dominate the economy through its issuance and contraction of debt-based currency:

“The new law will create inflation whenever the trusts want inflation. From now on depressions will be scientifically created.”

Appelbaum: The rate sits in a range of 0.25 percent to 0.5 percent, a low level intended to stimulate economic growth by encouraging borrowing and risk-taking. Analysts predict the Fed will shift the range upward by a quarter of a percentage point, modestly reducing those incentives.

Analysis: Sooner or later the base rate was going to be increased. It is the fact that it will happen so soon after the election that is disturbing. Clearly, the HNB delayed the inevitable rate hike in order to prop up Obongo's sick economy as best as possible and also to help elect Killary.

Appelbaum: The rate increase is widely regarded as a foregone conclusion. ...The looming question is how quickly the Fed will continue to raise rates in 2017.

Analysis: We predict that the rate hikes will come however fast and large as necessary to prevent a Trumpian economic boom.

Appelbaum: Economic forecasts always require large assumptions, but that is particularly true in the present case because Mr. Trump has provided relatively few details about his plans.

Analysis: To the contrary, Orange Man's economic plans with regards to taxation, regulation and trade have been quite specific -- which is why economic optimism, as confirmed by surveys of businesses large and small, is now soaring.

Appelbaum: During his campaign, Mr. Trump predicted 4 percent annual growth, and his actions since Election Day point to a single-minded goal of short-term job creation. “Our No. 1 priority is going to be the economy, get back to 3 to 4 percent growth,” Steven Mnuchin, Mr. Trump’s pick to serve as Treasury secretary, said last month.

Analysis: A return to 3-4% growth rates, for an economy as massive as America's, would erase the annual deficits (assuming spending is controlled) and lift millions out of poverty. Of course, our moral, cultural, educational and political problems won't be solved, but we should at least rejoice at the prospect of such long overdue economic expansion.

Appelbaum: Many economists regard such growth predictions as fanciful;...

Analysis: What is so bloody damn "fanciful" about achieving 3-4% growth after a period of massive tax cuts and massive regulatory relief? Privately, Orange Man is probably expecting 6-7%.

1- History shows that 3-4% growth rates were common up until the age of Obongo. But now, the Fed won't allow it?

2- Orange Man: “It is so important to audit The Federal Reserve, and yet Ted Cruz missed the vote on the bill that would allow this to be done.”

Appelbaum: Some think Mr. Trump is more likely to push the economy into recession than to catalyze a new boom.

Analysis: And who exactly are these pessimistic "some?" Answer: The very same Keynesian communists who drove the economy into a ditch by loading it up with too many taxes, regulations, law suits, money printing and "free trade" schemes.

Appelbaum: Even if Mr. Trump is right, however, the Fed does not want 4 percent growth.

Analysis: Wow! Just wow! That one bears repeating, with some bold emphasis!

Appelbaum: Even if Mr. Trump is right, however, the Fed does not want 4 percent growth.

Analysis: Speechless. Just let that admission sink in.

Appelbaum: The central bank's outlook has become increasingly gloomy. Officials estimated in September that annual growth of 1.8 percent was the maximum sustainable pace, Analysis: A "maximum" growth rate of 1.8%" is actually a negative growth rate because the inflation numbers, which factor into the GDP formula, are cooked downwards. This can only mean, as it did during the HNB's Great Depression, that Yenta Yellen and her gang actually want millions of Americans to continue struggling in perpetuity.

Sorry my friend. The HNB doesn't want you to have a job. You wouldn't want the economy to "overheat" now, do ya?

Appelbaum: Fed officials also are increasingly convinced that steady job growth has substantially eliminated the post-recession backlog of people seeking work. The unemployment rate fell to 4.6 percent in November, a level the Fed regards as healthy.

Analysis: Any policy-maker or journalist who knowingly spreads the LIE of a 4.6% unemployment rate ought to have their lying tongues ripped out with a set of rusty pliers. The actual rate of unemployment / underemployment remains at about 20%! (long term unemployed + underemployed + phony disability cases --- see shadowstats.com) Moreover, many of the full-time-employed now work for service-sector wages so low that they'd be better off on welfare!

Appelbaum: Stanley Fischer, the Fed's vice chairman, said last month the Fed might still benefit from fiscal stimulus because it could raise rates more quickly. That would increase the Fed's ability to respond to future downturns by reducing interest rates.

Translation: The HNB creates the booms, and then "corrects" the "overheating" (inflation) by creating a counter-balancing deflationary bust, which it then "corrects" by creating a counter-balancing boom, which it then "corrects" by creating a counter-balancing bust, which it then (yeah, it really is that insane!)

Appelbaum: Mr. Trump has promised to press for rapid changes in government policy, but Congress is not built for speed. The impact of new cuts, and any increase in infrastructure spending that Mr. Trump can persuade dubious Republicans to embrace, would be felt mostly in future years.

Analysis: We're afraid that Benny is correct about Orange Man's fellow Republican's. Some of the same crowd that is already pushing back on the issue of Putin and Russia (McCain, Graham, Rubio et al) can be expected to drag their feet on economic policies as well -- particularly if such obstructionism will gain then a few love letters from the Jew York Slimes or the Washington Compost.

Appelbaum: Mark M. Zandi, chief economist at Moody's Analytics, predicted that tax cuts, regulatory rollbacks and deficit-financed spending would fuel faster growth in the first half of Mr. Trump's four-year term. But he said that the Fed's rate increases,... would gradually begin to take a larger toll. By the end, Mr. Zandi predicted, the American economy would be "unnervingly close" to recession.

Analysis: The HNB will keep the economy in the toilet as the Piranha Press pins the blame for undoing the "Obama recovery" on Orange Man.

Appelbaum: "The Fed and markets in general will ultimately wash out any benefit," Mr. Zandi said Monday. "The economy under President Trump ultimately will be diminished."

Analysis: Again, we say, wow! The sons-of-bitches, via their mouthpieces, are actually admitting to us what they intend to do. That's another line worth repetition in bold..

Appelbaum: “The Fed and markets in general will ultimately wash out any benefit,” ---- “The economy under President Trump ultimately will be diminished.”

Analysis: If Orange Man is serious about "making America great again," he had better be prepared to pull an "Andrew Jackson" by battling the Central Bank, and killing it. Good luck with that!

Like Andrew the Great Jackson, Trump will have to defeat Rothschild's banker agents if hopes to succeed.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that the Fed won't allow Trump to achieve his target growth rate of 4%. The Fed wants 1-2%.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's the smart play by Yellen. Too much growth leads to overheating.

Sugar: Boobuss! The only thing 'overheating' is my temper! Your sstupidity is gonna give me a frickin' heart attack, you know that, Boobuss!!!!

Editor: Come here sweetie. I have a treat for you that will make you feel better.

NY Times: Amid Rain of Shells, Aleppo's Civilians Offer
'Final Scream'

NY Times (Editorial): Aleppo's Destroyers: Assad, Putin, Iran

NY Times (Op-ed): What Comes After Aleppo Falls?

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

The Slimes' empathy for the long-suffering people of the Syrian city of Aleppo is so touching, isn't it? Of course, there were no such crocodile tears shed when the city was conquered and then held by the murderous mercenary CIA scum which the Slimes continues to romantically describe as "rebels" or "the moderate opposition." No, only now when the Russian-backed / Iranian-backed Syrian Army has finally liberated the city do we hear such sanctimonious wailing about "the children."

Now is a good time to briefly review the history of what was done to Syria -- in that signature distilled style that TomatoBubble / The Anti-New York Times is known for. Though the drama dates back more than 100 years, we begin our crash course in that history-altering year of 2001.

- In response to the false-flag terror attacks of "9/11" TM the neo-cons seize upon the opportunity as an excuse for restructuring the Middle East nearer to the black heart of expansion-minded Israel's desire. To that end, Iraq, Iran and Syria (and sometimes their tech supplier North Korea) are labeled as "The Axis of Evil." Plans to militarily topple these regimes, and others, are set into motion.

George Bush used the Globo-Zio 9/11 attacks to define and target "the Axis of Evil" -- which included Assad of Syria.

- The Bush/Cheney war on Iraq ultimately achieves its objective of conquering Iraq, but at a great cost of blood and treasure. The Globalist faction of the PRC (Predatory Ruling Class) -- which, unlike the neo-cons, always prefers internal subversion and proxy wars to open military assault -- throws its support behind a Globo-Zio scheme that will come to be known as "The Arab Spring." The "spontaneous" uprisings throughout the Arab world are triggered by the embarrassing leaks published by likely Mossad agent Julian Assange of WikLeaks.

Assange boasted of triggering "The Arab Spring" protests which were hyped up by the international press in order to destabilize the Arab world.

- As foretold by General Wesley Clark about a decade earlier, beloved Libyan leader Muammar Qaddafi is toppled and eventually murdered in the streets by the CIA mercenaries. A similar uprising (The Green Revolution) quickly fizzles out in Iran, and a successful CIA coup in Egypt is overturned by General Sisi.

1- In 2007, General Wesley Clark publicly revealed that he had been told by a Pentagon official (in 2001):

"This is a memo that describes how we're going to take out seven countries in five years, starting with Iraq, and then Syria, Lebanon, Libya, Somalia, Sudan and, finishing off, Iran."

2- Killary cackles over the street torture-murder of Libya's Qaddafi: "We came. We saw. He died."

3- The Egyptian government was toppled, but then a counter revolution reversed the revolution.

- Under the cover of peaceful protests that the CIA launched in Syria, an armed "rebellion" against the government of President Bashar al Assad soon breaks out. Though dutifully described as a "civil war" by Sulzberger's Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press, the entire operation is actually a CIA-Mossad-Saudi engineered proxy war utilizing mostly foreign mercenaries recruited from all over the Arab world. Elements of Turkish and Jordanian Intelligence are also in the mix.
- As the bloody proxy war drags out for 5 years, the only thing keeping the "rebels" afloat is massive logistical, financial and military support mainly from the CIA. This fact is not widely known to the American public, but nor is it totally hidden by the "mainstream media" either. Google: "CIA Syria rebels" and see the many MSM stories confirming the CIA-"rebel" open alliance.

McCain the Insane poses with Syrian "rebels." Where do these "rebels" get their high-powered arms from? Answer: The CIA!

- As a ploy to draw the United States into the conflict in a direct manner, the Mossad invents a sub-rebel faction dubbed "ISIS" (Islamic State in Iraq & Syria). The viciousness of the group's "beheadings" and its open threats towards America are intended to pressure Obongo into direct intervention in Syria under the pretext of "stopping ISIS" -- but with the true intention of engaging the Syrian army.

From the first small "spontaneous" protests -- to the armed "uprising" -- to the sudden appearance of an "ISIS" faction among the "rebels"-- the entire human tragedy in Syria is a CIA-Mossad-New York Slimes operation from start to finish!

- The strong hand played by Russia (and also China and Iran) prevents Obongo from engaging in direct military involvement. Nonetheless, American aid and arms to the mercenaries (aka "moderate rebels") continues to flow.

- Thanks to the military support of Russia and Iran, it appears that Assad's government has prevailed. And boy-oh-boy are the Globo-Zionists pissed-off at Mr. Putin for saving Assad!

Putin's timely air-support for Assad's Army has made him a big hero in Syria.

And that, boys and girls, is why the sleazy scribblers at Sulzberger's seditious Slimes are, all-of-a-sudden, so concerned with the human suffering in Aleppo and other regions of Syria -- a tragedy which they are now falsely and maliciously blaming on Putin. The good news is that the Russian-Syrian-Iranian alliance appears to have finally won the proxy war. The potentially bad news is that the New World Order gang, in fearful anticipation of the coming Trump-Putin "bromance" -- may trigger something some nasty anti-Russian move in eastern Europe between now and the January inauguration.

These Sons of Satan never quit!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today about the human suffering that the Russian Air Force and the Syrian military caused in Aleppo.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's horrible. I understand that the Russians bombed all the hospitals. And who can forget that iconic photo of the little Syrian boy sitting in the back of an ambulance while covered in blood and dust?! Horrible. It's just horrible what these Russians are doing.

Sugar: Fake! Fake! It's a @#%^& fake! Theatrical blood and dusst!*

Editor: Definitely fake! These evil bastards always cite "the children" in order to pull on Boobus's heart strings.

NY Times: David Friedman, Choice for Envoy to Israel, Is Hostile to Two-State Efforts

By ISABEL KERSHNER and SHERYL GAY STOLBERG

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

No one gets to become President of the United States without at least a partial blessing from one of the rival factions that constitute the kosher "powers that be." Unlike some of our brethren in the "conspiracy theory" TM community, ~~Sugar and I~~, er, "The Editorial Board" of The Anti-New York Times, as much as we have supported the campaign of Orange Man, have always cautioned that elements of the ultra-nationalist, anti-Globalist Zionist International have thrown their weight behind Orange Man. The likes of the thoroughly despicable warmongers Sean Hannity, Not-So-Brightbart News, Matt Drudge (cough cough) and Julian Assange work primarily for Bibi Satanyahu, not the American people.

- 1- "Conceived in Israel," Breitbart News (Image 1 shows original cast posing with Bibi) boasts of its Jewish credentials: "Breitbart was founded by Jews, is largely staffed by Jews, and has an entire section dedicated to reporting on and defending the Jewish state of Israel." -- Breitbart's Jewish CEO Larry Solov -- responding to an attack from the Clinton camp after Orange Man had hired Breitbart's executive chairman Steve Bannon as campaign manager.
- 2- Orange Man won the endorsement of mega-Zionist Sheldon Adelson (cough cough) -- the casino mogul and "long-time friend" who once suggested that the U.S. drop an atomic bomb in the Iranian desert as a warning shot.

Matt Drudge is a Zionist agent, as are Gentiles Sean Hannity (shown in image 2 viciously attacking peace candidate Ron Paul for being an "isolationist") and Hannity's new friend, Julian Assange --- whose latest "leaks" helped to sink Hillary Clinton.

With regard to Orange Man, the question here is not whether or not he will reward his Zionist-Likud backers; but rather: how far will he go to keep them happy? Will he limit the payoff merely to the controversial relocation of the U.S. embassy from Tel Aviv to contested/divided Jerusalem and the killing of any "two-state solution?" Or will Orange Man's Zionist agents, either with or without his consent, set us on the path toward war with Iran? --- an event that would turn into a disaster and certainly derail the expected "bromance" between Putin and Orange Man.

Only time will tell -- but the appointment of a Zionist fanatic who has already, on his own, started talking about "tearing up the Iran deal" and "increasing aid to Israel" -- as Ambassador to Israel is cause for us to tone down our on-again-off-again applause machine for Orange Man. Some excerpts from the article itself, co-authored by Isabel Kershner (cough, cough) and Sheryl Gay Stolberg (cough, cough) are very revealing.

Yentas Kershner & Stolberg tell us about how extreme David Friedman is. You see, only Jews are allowed to write critical articles about other Jews.

Kershner & Stolberg: He is president of the American fund-raising arm for a yeshiva in a settlement deep in the West Bank headed by a militant rabbi who has called for Israeli soldiers to refuse orders to evacuate settlers.

Analysis: Friedman is not content with what was already stolen from the Palestinians. He wants more and more and more.

Kershner & Stolberg: He writes a column for a right-wing Israeli news site in which he has accused President Obama of “blatant anti-Semitism,” dismissed the two-state solution to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, likened a liberal American-Jewish group to “kapos” who cooperated with the Nazis, and said American Jewish leaders “failed” Israel on the Iran nuclear deal.

Analysis: Evidently, even these yentas think Friedman is nuts.

Kershner & Stolberg: Now, David M. Friedman, an Orthodox Jewish bankruptcy lawyer from Long Island, is Donald J. Trump’s pick for ambassador to Israel,.

Analysis: Orthodox, eh? Just like Orange Man's trusted and influential son-in-law, Jared Kushner.

Kershner & Stolberg: Their (Trump & Friedman) relationship was cemented in 2005, friends said, when Mr. Trump traveled three hours in a snowstorm to pay a condolence call on Mr. Friedman after the death of his father, a prominent Long Island rabbi.

“He was very taken by Trump spending almost all day just to pay the shiva,” said Yossi Kahana, one of the two friends who described the visit, using the Hebrew term for the week of mourning. “Barely any people came, and here is Trump, coming and sitting with him and talking about things that are important to both of them, their values, their fathers and their legacies.”

Analysis: An admirable gesture on the part of Orange Man, but such personal closeness is not a good sign for the people of Palestine or Iran.

Kershner & Stolberg: A person close to the Trump transition who spoke on the condition of anonymity said the ambassadorship had been negotiated directly between the two men over many months. Mr. Friedman, who donated a total of $50,000 to the Trump campaign and the Republican National Committee in 2016, according to federal election records, had been openly saying even before the election that the job — one of the most sensitive and high profile in the diplomatic corps — would be his, according to friends.

Analysis: So, "the ambassadorship had been negotiated directly between the two men?" Since when does the boss "negotiate" with the prospective appointee? And the talks took place "over many months?" That means that the negotiations happened during a time when few believed that Orange Man could win. Perhaps the "two old friends" and other parties unknown (cough cough) knew something in advance that the rest of us did not?

Kershner & Stolberg: Israel's conservative settlement supporters and their American backers rejoiced at the selection, Analysis: It's true, boys and girls. Orange Man is a hero to the Likudniks of Israel.

Trump has a huge fan club in Israhell!

Kershner & Stolberg: He refers to the West Bank by its biblical name, Judea and Samaria, ...

Analysis: As an "ortho," Friedman literally believes that the Almighty gave him "Judea and Samaria."

Kershner & Stolberg: something hard to imagine his predecessors doing publicly. Upon being nominated Thursday night, he said he looked forward to working "from the U.S. Embassy in Israel's eternal capital, Jerusalem," rather than Tel Aviv, where the American Embassy has been for decades, under the State Department's insistence that the holy city's status be determined as part of a broader deal between Israel and the Palestinians.

Analysis: Orange Man to the dispossessed Palestinians: "Kiss my New York ass!"

Kershner & Stolberg: Baruch Gordon, the director of development for Bet El Institutions, told Arutz 7 on Friday that it was "proud to be closely associated with Mr. Friedman," calling him "a pioneer philanthropist and builder of Jewish institutions and housing projects in Judea and Samaria (a.k.a. the 'West Bank') and throughout the country."

Analysis: a "builder of Jewish institutions and housing projects in Judea and Samaria," eh? Ya can't get any more "to the right" than this Zionist!

Brave Orthodox Israeli settlers mock and abuse Arab woman.

Drunken Orthodox Israeli settler to British film crew: "Screw you, you Nazi! We killed your fucking Jesus and we are proud of it. .. This is my land you son of a shit. God gave it to me. ... I'll kill you and the Palestinians. Fuck you, Nazi.... God gave it to me and fuck you."

Kershner & Stolberg: Mr. Friedman's connections to Israel date back to his bar mitzvah at the Western Wall.

Analysis: Friedman is not really going to be America's Ambassador to Israel, but rather, Israel's Ambassador to Israel. Talk about "rigged," eh Orange Man?

Kershner & Stolberg: A senior Palestinian cleric, Sheikh Ikrama Sabri, said during Friday Prayers that if Mr. Friedman managed to move the embassy to Jerusalem, "the U.S. is declaring a new war on the Palestinians and all Muslim Arabs."

Analysis: What does Orange Man care about offending Muslims? Pardon the liberease-sounding lingo here; but anti-Muslim bigotry won Orange Man a whole lot of FOXtard voters.

Kershner & Stolberg: Daniel C. Kurtzer, who served President George W. Bush as ambassador to Israel from 2001 to 2005, was alarmed by the appointment.

“He has made clear that he will appeal to a small minority of Israeli — and American — extremists, ignoring the majority of Israelis who continue to seek peace,” “Friedman’s appointment as ambassador runs directly contrary to Mr. Trump’s professed desire to make the ‘ultimate deal’ between Israelis and Palestinians.”

Analysis: Orange Man knows damn well that without the Zio crazies and their formidable apparatus in his corner, he would never have been able to overcome the pro-Killary Marxist-Globalist faction of the PRC (Predatory Ruling Class). Let us hope that the political payback will be limited "only" to the sellout of the poor Palestinians, and not to a new collision course with Iran.

But if Orange Man, on the basis of some future false-flag attack, decides to start the usual crap with peaceful Iran, count on the The Anti-New York Times to write some really nasty stuff about him.

And Orange Man, if you're reading, be assured that if and when your "long-time friend," is faced with a choice between serving your interests or those of Satanyahu's ghoulish gang, you will be outmaneuvered and dumped like a red-hot matzah-ball quicker than you say, "Oy vey!" And the same goes for that snake-in-the-grass Orthodox son-in-law of yours.

Ivanka had to convert to Orthodox Jewry in order to marry fellow billionaire Jared Kushner. The influence of the young couple on Orange Man is common knowledge, as is the affection that Bibi "9/11 was good for Israel" Satanyahu and Orange Man have for each other.

THIS JUST IN!

HEADS OF MOSSAD COME TO TRUMP TOWER!

December 18, 2016

"The staff of U.S. President-elect Donald Trump has met with the head of Israel's international intelligence agency, the Mossad and a high-ranking security delegation in a visit quietly arranged by Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, according to Ynet.

Mossad chief Yossi Cohen traveled to New York with Israeli National Security Council head Yaakov Nagel, where he was joined at Trump Tower by Israeli Ambassador to the United States Ron Dermer.

Trump's team was briefed on the Iranian nuclear deal, the situation in Syria, current terror threats and the situation with the current situation with the Palestinian Authority."

-- JewishPress.com

Mossad Chief Yossi Cohen visits Orange Man to collect a debt. Though the CIA (Globalists) and Mossad (Zionists) collaborated on 9/11, the two agencies are now at war with each other, with the latter backing Orange Man.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Trump just nominated a hard-liner as Ambassador to Israel.

Boobus Americanus 2: It would be a shame if they undid the Iran nuclear deal. Trump may lead us to war again, after all.

Sugar: Boobuss. You have just demonsstrated how even a broken clock can be correct twice-a-day. Congratulationss.

Editor: This is one time I actually hope that Boobus is wrong.

NY Times: The Climate Refugees of the Arctic

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

For readers new to The Anti-New York Times, the word-smith Andrew Rosenthal (cough cough) is the putrid little maggot who gets away with posing as the high and mighty "Editorial Board" of Sulzberger's Slimes. This is not to say that he pens each and every article attributed to "The Editorial Board," but whatever is not personally written by him is controlled and edited by him.

Hazmat suits and goggles on! Join us for a rebutting dive into ~~Rosenthal's~~, er, "The Editorial Board's" latest bit of "Global Warming" TM / "Climate Change" TM bullshine.

Be neither afraid nor impressed by all the smoke and noise of the Not-So-High and Not-So-Mighty "Editorial Board". It's only a pathetic little word-smith named Andrew Rosenthal typing out lies from behind the curtain.

Rosenthal, er, "The Editorial Board": "The polar bear, the largest bear of them all and a fearsome predator, is the poster animal of climate change, and for good reason: While most threatened animals, such as the rhinoceros, are victims of localized threats like poaching or human encroachment, the polar bear is threatened most gravely by global emissions of greenhouse gases.

A polar bear was the star of Al Gore's celebrated 2006 film on climate change, "An Inconvenient Truth," and it has its own conservation organization, Polar Bears International, which has designated Feb. 27 as International Polar Bear Day."

The true purpose of the deceitful propaganda contained in Al Gore's "Inconvenient Truth" and David de Rothschild's "Global Warming Survival Handbook" is to promote World Government (in order to "save the planet" TM)

One of the most enduring and heart-string-pulling component myths of the colossal fraud that is "Global Warming" TM is the lie about the vanishing Polar Bear.

According to the felonious fairy tale, the "melting ice cap" TM has diminished the size of the Polar Bear's habitat and forced him to have to swim further and further away for his also-diminishing food supply -- mainly seals. The truth of the matter is that Polar Bear populations, according to several scientific studies, have increased over the past 12 years.

Rosenvermin is aware of this fact, which is why the tricky little rat-bastard is compelled to vaguely allude to it before dismissing it. As he summarizes the lies of a Slimes "science writer" Erica Goode, observe the Marxist magician's mendacious little rhetorical move of casually mitigating a critical objection:

"Using the bear as an icon to raise consciousness and funds ... does more than arouse support from conservationists. It also presents a ready target from climate change deniers who are only too willing to use inevitable uncertainties about the polar bear's actual numbers to challenge the facts of climate change."

Rosenfilth! You may be able to pass by your libtarded readers with that split-second reference to "inevitable uncertainties" -- but ~~Sugar and I~~, er, "The Editorial Board" of The Anti-New York Times catch everything. So, with that in mind, let's elaborate a bit on these "inevitable uncertainties" --- shall we, Rosenstool?

Daily Express (UK) / 2015

POLAR bear populations are recovering despite the climate change warnings of environmentalists, a Canadian zoologist claimed yesterday.

Dr Susan Crockford said: "On almost every measure, things are looking good for polar bears."

In a report for the climate sceptic Global Warming Policy Foundation, she said: "Scientists are finding that polar bears are well distributed throughout their range and adapting well to changes in sea ice."

"Health indicators are good and they are benefiting from abundant prey. It really is time for the doom and gloom about polar bears to stop."

Dr Crockford, of the University of Victoria in British Columbia added: "Polar bears are still a conservation success story. With a global population almost certainly greater than 25,000, we can say for sure that there are more polar bears now than 40 years ago."

“The global estimate is too high to qualify the polar bear as ‘threatened’ with extinction.”

Dr. Susan Crockford and many other researchers insist that Polar Bears are doing well. Why are their voices never heard in the Piranha Press that professes to be free?

From PolarBearScience.com

Survey Results: Svalbard polar bear numbers increased 42% over last 11 years

"Results of this fall's Barents Sea population survey have been released by the Norwegian Polar Institute and they are phenomenal: despite several years with poor ice conditions, there are more bears now (~975) than there were in 2004 (~685) around Svalbard (a 42 % increase) and the bears were in good condition.

Apart altogether from the facts that: 1. There is no observable trend of retreating ice in the Arctic and 2. Polar Bears are doing just fine --- there is another annoying little "inconvenient truth" that although seldom mentioned, is as undeniable as it is ironic. You see, boys and girls, because Polar Bears hunt for seals by breaking holes in the ice, thickening ice actually poses a serious threat to our furry friends to the North. Ice and snow that become too thick, due to extremely cold weather, becomes unbreakable. It's common sense. Again, PolarBearScience.com explains:

"Thick spring ice due to natural causes is currently the single biggest threat to polar bears. Not declining summer sea ice – thick spring ice. That could change in the future but right now, the evidence supports that statement.

marked polar bear population declines have virtually always been associated with thick spring ice that reduced local ringed seal prey, although in some areas (like Hudson Bay) thick snow on top of sea ice have produced."

Ha ha ha ha ha --- Extreme cold, not warmth, is killing Polar Bears! Who knew?!

Rosenrectum's propaganda poop-pie also claims that Polar Bears photographed scavenging whale bones and garbage dumps constitutes clear evidence of a species in danger. Nice try at "fake news," but not exactly, Rosenfungus. Though certainly true that Polar Bears are talented hunters, they, like their Grizzly Bear and Black Bear counterparts, have always been known to scavenge for food as well. Only a communist propagandist or a raging libtard would use manipulative images of scavenging Polar Bears as "proof" of Global Warming™ / Climate Change™. If anything, excessive reliance on scavenging is a sign of too much (too thick) ice, not a shortage of it!

Such illogic is akin to claiming that someone has become a vegetarian because he was recently photographed while eating a salad. But that's libtard logic for ya--- the funniest, yet scariest freak-show on earth.

1- "Global Warming my ass! This ice is so damn thick that I can't bust through it to get my dinner!"

2 & 3 - White or Black, all bears scavenge!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today how endangered Arctic Polar Bears have turned to scavenging for survival.

Boobus Americanus 2: Al Gore has been warning about this for years. Polar Bears are doomed if the ice melts.

NY Times: Russia, Iran and Turkey Meet for Syria Talks, Excluding U.S.

By BEN HUBBARD and DAVID E. SANGER

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

Much to the dismay of Sulzberger's Slimes and Globalists everywhere, the foreign ministers of Russia, Iran and Turkey met in Moscow on Tuesday to establish the framework for a political agreement to end the CIA/Mossad proxy war that has been raging in Syria for nearly six-years. The United States and the European Union were left out of the process. Not only was Secretary of State John Kerry not invited, nor was the United Nations consulted. Globo-monster Zbigniew Brzezinski's worst nightmare has come to pass. From his 1998 book, The Grand Chessboard:

"To put it in a terminology that hearkens back to the more brutal age of ancient empires, the three grand imperatives of imperial geostrategy are to prevent collusion and maintain security dependence among the vassals, to keep tributaries pliant and protected, and to keep the barbarians from coming together." (p.40)

"The most immediate task is to make certain that no state or combination of states gains the capacity to expel the United States from Eurasia or even to diminish significantly its decisive arbitration role." (p.98)

By golly-- that's exactly what just happened with regard to the 3-Party Syrian negotiation in Moscow! Eat that, Z-big!

From Jimmy Carter to Obongo, Brzezinski has been schooling U.S. puppet Presidents on "foreign policy" TM for 40 years. But now, thanks to Russia, "the barbarians" and "vassals" are rising up.

The new alignment and the absence of the US / EU complex at the table virtually guarantees that Syrian President Bashar al-Assad will not meet the same fate as Saddam Hussein of Iraq and Muammar Qaddafi of Libya. Assad will continue to rule Syria in spite of Obongo's declaration more than five years ago that he "has to go."

As Orange Man prepares to take office, the Globalists are expecting America's "leadership" (dominance) in the world to continue diminishing. Trump's only recent statement on Syria came last week, when he declared that the situation in Syria was "sad" and promised, "We're going to help people" -- vowing to extract funds from Persian Gulf nations to build "safe zones" for Syrian refugees.

Thanks to Putin, the Assad family will NOT meet the same fate as Saddam and Qaddafi!

The commie-Globalists aren't the only ones upset about the new Russia-Turkey-Iran Axis. Though one faction of the Israel Firsters appear to support the neutering of the United States (because there won't be anymore pressure for a "2-state solution" TM), the article quotes Andrew J. Tabler (cough cough), a fellow at the Israel Firster Washington Institute for Near East Policy who studies Syria:

"When the Turks, the Iranians and the Russians all agree on a process without the U.S. being in the room, you realize there is a problem for us."

Emboldened by the election of "isolationist" TM Orange Man, Russian officials are now publicly showing their disdain for American diplomatic efforts under the reign of Obongo & Kerry. Last week, Foreign Minister Sergey V. Lavrov said that working with Turkey on the evacuation deal was more productive than "fruitless get-togethers with the U.S."

Out of necessity, Lavrov patiently danced the phony dance with Kerry for nearly 4 years. Now he can ignore the Globalists as he consults with regional powers Turkey and Iran.

Of course, the reason why talks with Kerry proved "fruitless," was because the U.S., as this article actually confirms, was propping up the terrorist rebels for the purpose of overthrowing Assad. Here's the buried truth-gem:

"But the United States intervened in indirect ways, running covert programs with its allies to give the rebels arms, money and antitank missiles."

The article also confirms that the rise of Orange Man put the final nail in the coffin of the mercenary "rebels" --

"Said Aaron Stein, a senior fellow at the Atlantic Council who studies Turkey. "One of his early signals was that he was going to scale back support for the opposition that the U.S. has supported."

Mr. Trump has not articulated a comprehensive Syria policy, but he has suggested he will work alongside Russia to fight extremists including the Islamic State."

The strong hand and brilliant diplomacy of Putin, combined with unmistakable peace signals sent forth by Orange Man, have brought the terrorist war in Syria to a close and pulled the world back from the precipice of World War III -- an event which certainly would have been a real possibility had the hideous hag Killary Rotten Clinscum been elected and imposed the "no fly zone" TM that she was threatening. If the committee of one-world commies which hands out the "prestigious" Nobel Peace Prize had any credibility, Vlad the Bad and Orange Man would be named co-winners.

From America to Europe to Asia, the One-Worlders appear to be on the defensive. But like some immortal monster from some corny horror film, they always find a way to crawl back to life. Unless and until these sons-of-bitches are rounded up and strung up from the lampposts, the game ain't over -- not by a long shot!

Winning!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Russia teamed up with Iran and Turkey to totally cut America out of the Syrian peace process.

Boobus Americanus 2: This is a very ominous development. In the wake of Trump's victory, Russsia is clearly becoming more aggressive and imperialistic in Syria now.

Sugar: Russsia iss in Ssyria by INVITATION, you frickin' sswine!

Editor: Boobus will never know just how close we actually came to World War III.

NY Times: Famed Russian Military Choir Among 92 Feared Dead After Plane Crashes Into Black Sea

By IVAN NECHEPURENKO

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

With the beginning of the President Trump-President Putin "bromance" just weeks away (inauguration Day is January 20), what appears to be a horrible act-of-terrorism has struck the heart of Christian Russia on Christmas Day. We had warned of such an 11th hour escalation aimed at driving a wedge between the U.S. and Russia before Orange Man is inaugurated. As the Church Lady of old Saturday Night Live fame would say: How conveeenient!

How conveeeenient that just as the Establishment's media campaign to mock and undermine the Putin-Trump alliance is heating up, the bulk of the Red Army choir is wiped out in "an accident."

Because so many well known and recognizable personages were aboard the doomed airplane, and also because the Russians have been very quick to cite "technical failure" as the probable cause of the crash, we calculate that this was not a fake false-flag using fake identifies and crisis actors. No, this was the "real deal" and we declare, with 99% certainty, that it was a deliberate act-of-war intended to bait Putin.

The aircraft bound for Syria carried many members of the world-famous military band known as the Alexandrov Ensemble -- internationally known as the Red Army Choir. The choir was headed to Syria to entertain Russia's forces on New Year's Eve. The plane crashed into the Black Sea, close to the coast of U.S. ruled Georgia, moments after takeoff. The cause of the crash is under investigation, although initial Russian news media reports indicated it was a technical failure rather than terrorism.

Passengers on the flight, which originated in Moscow and stopped in Sochi to refuel, were traveling to Russia's Khmeimim Air Base in Syria. The band planned to serenade Russian personnel in Syria on New Year's Eve. Three journalists from Channel One, Russia's main television station, were on the plane, as were journalists from the Zvezda and NTV television networks. Dr. Yelizaveta P. Glinka, a prominent and popular Russian philanthropist, was also on board.

On the loss of key choir members, the article quotes the grandson of a famous Russian composer:

"The best members of the ensemble died. All the best soloists, the whole choir. Everything will collapse now. The best ones are gone."

The Red Army choir and Dr. "Liza" Glinka (Image 2 with Putin) --- huge names in Russia, lost over the Black Sea.

The heavy moral burden that the New World Order warmongers are placing on Putin's shoulders parallels the outrageous provocations of Hitler during those fateful pre-war years of 1937-1939. In the interest of protecting the greater good (by avoiding war), The Great One was also compelled to pretend that the "spontaneous" blowing-up of the Hindenburg Air-Ship in Jersey was due to "static electricity." And oh how hard it must have been for Him to "look the other way" as gangs of Polish ultra-nationalists and Jewish Bolsheviks slaughtered ethnic Germans trapped in Poland's "Danzig Corridor!" The evil-doers kept pushing and pushing and pushing until Germany could take no more and justifiably invaded Poland to liberate the captive Germans there.

This type of relentless baiting is exactly what "they" are doing to Vlad the Bad. "Fortunately" for Russia, they only have to endure one more month of this crap before Orange Man can arrive and hopefully begin the process of cleaning out the warmongering rats from the bowels of the CIA and the Pentagon. Let's hope Putin's patience can hold out that long.

Evil --- just plain evil.

Image 1: (May 6, 1937) The Hindenburg mysteriously explodes just as the photographers arrived to witness its mooring in New Jersey. For the sake of peace, Germany quickly went along with the "official explanation."

Image 2 & 3: Now its Russia's turn!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today about how the bulk of the Russian Red Army choir was wiped out in that plane crash over the Black Sea.

Boobus Americanus 2: I don't think it was a crash. It was probably Islamic terrorism.

Sugar: You're half-right Boobusss -- which is a huge improvement for you. It wasn't a crassh, but it wasn't 'lsslamic terrorisssm' either.

Editor: Exactly! NATO and/or the CIA are behind this, maybe Mossad too.

Harrison Browne, a forward for the Buffalo Beauts in the fledgling National Women's Hockey League, came out on Oct. 7 as a transgender man.

NY Times: Fledgling Women's Hockey League Becomes a Trailblazer on Transgender Policy

By MATT HIGGINS

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

As we grasp the last straw of hope that the rise of Orange Man could mark the starting point of a new direction for our cancer-stricken nation, stories such as this remind us just how far, and how irreversible, the disease of "liberalism" may be after all. For what does it profit a nation to restore its manufacturing base and even avoid World War III if it loses its soul?

The death blows that will ultimately finish off whatever is left of Western civilization are mental and moral, not economic. Putin and his spiritual sidekick, Patriarch Kirill, both understand this. Orange Man and the "alt-right" of Breitbart's queer campus superstar speaker, Milo "I love Black dick" Yiannopoulos, evidently do not.

Image 2: Putin and Kirill understand that there is more to a healthy national life than just dollars and cents.

Putin: "Many Euro-Atlantic countries have moved away from their roots, including Christian values. Policies are being pursued that place on the same level a multi-child family and a same-sex partnership, a faith in God and a belief in Satan. This is the path to degradation."

Kirill: "This is a very dangerous apocalyptic symptom, and we must do everything in our powers to ensure that sin is never sanctioned in Russia by state law, because that would mean that the nation has embarked on a path of self-destruction."

"We can have parades for the sexual minorities - that is supported - but a million French Christian protesters defending family values are broken up by police, ... the "godless civilization is reaching maturity"

This latest bit of "transgender" news is so tragically comical that it actually caricatures itself. There really isn't any need to rebut such manifest insanity. For your "entertainment," we will simply present a few excerpts, as is:

"With social change moving quickly across the professional sports landscape, the National Women's Hockey League was playing catch-up. For the past three months, the only professional sports league in North America with an openly transgender player had no transgender policy in place.

Now, the architects of new guidelines for such players in the N.W.H.L. say the fledgling four-team league, in only its second season of existence, is prepared to take a leading position when it comes to treatment of transgender players.

“This is really a groundbreaking policy in professional sports, and specifically in women’s professional sports,” said Chris Mosier, vice president for program development and community relations for You Can Play, an organization that works to combat discrimination against athletes because of sexual orientation or gender identity. You Can Play and the National Center for Lesbian Rights were consultants for the N.W.H.L. guidelines.

“Being a women’s league, they want to make sure their players are protected,” said Mosier, a professional triathlon and transgender man who competed for the United States national team at the sprint duathlon world championships in June. “This is a really unique opportunity for them on taking the lead that others can look to as one to replicate.”

“The league is unveiling its policy at the end of a year in which the International Olympic Committee revamped its guidelines to reflect the latest scientific and legal attitudes on the issue, making it less onerous for transgender athletes to compete at the Olympic Games. Those I.O.C. guidelines — which no longer require athletes to undergo sexual reassignment surgery — served as a template for the N.W.H.L., Mosier said.”

“It’s a unique opportunity to continue to move the conversation forward and accelerate that social progress and to be that benchmark,” said Dani Rylan, the N.W.H.L.’s commissioner, “and to remain approachable and available for these discussions.”

The N.W.H.L. was propelled into the national conversation on transgender issues on Oct. 7, when Harrison Browne, a 23-year-old forward for the Buffalo Beauts, came out publicly as a transgender man in an article on ESPN.com that was published hours before the start of the season. Browne played as Hailey Browne during the league’s inaugural season, 2015-16.”

“It was a nudge in the right direction after Harrison approached us this fall,” said Rylan, who oversaw the changing of Browne’s player profile name and pronouns on the N.W.H.L. website.”

"The guidelines are three pages with a stated purpose of supporting "athletes choosing to express their gender beyond the binary of female and male."

"The most restrictive conditions relate to those who make a transition from male to female, circumstances that typically have raised questions about fairness. An athlete cannot change her gender again for a minimum of four years and must demonstrate that her testosterone level is "within typical limits of women athletes," subject to testing."

Could a satirical comedy writer have penned anything more mocking than that?

Image 1 - Insane Tranny Harrison Browne doesn't fit "the traditional binary."

Image 2- Dani Rylan, commissioner of the National Women's Hockey League: "It's a unique opportunity to continue to move the conversation forward and accelerate social progress."

The subversive war on the institutions of marriage and family has been raging for decades, and with devastating results. But this war on sexual identity strikes even deeper. You see, normal men are not attracted to butchy manly women; and normal women are not attracted to girly boys. By tampering with natural roles -- transgender confusion being the most extreme manifestation -- the Globalists are screwing up the minds and spirits of our young people so badly that most of them will never attract (beyond the momentarily physical, if even that) and get married in the first place. Loneliness, alienation, depression and state servitude await the vast majority of millennial and subsequent generations to follow -- and it is all by design.

The iron laws of Nature and nature's God can only be flaunted for so long. A society that "tolerates" TM such mental and moral sickness is one that is doomed to be washed away down the toilet bowl of history. And no amount of "GDP growth" TM will save it -- at least not in the long run. So sorry to pee in everybody's "Make America Great" inaugural punch bowls, but that's the truth and we all know it.

Dear God --- Make America Straight Again!

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today about how professional women's hockey is accommodating a transgender player.

Boobus Americanus 2: Oh well. As long as the testosterone levels are kept below a certain level, I don't have a problem with it.

Sugar: You don't sseem have a problem with anything thesse dayss, Boobusss. And that, in and of itsself, IS the frickin' problem.

Editor: Some damn profound philosophy there, Sugar! Compliments.

NY Times: Senators Reassure Wary Baltic Nations That U.S. Won't Abandon NATO

By SEWELL CHAN

REBUTTAL BY

The Anti-New York Times

That miserable warmongering son-of-a-bitch John McCain and his faithful little faggot of a sidekick Lindsey Graham are at it again -- this time, stirring up trouble in the Soros-owned Baltic Sea nation of Estonia. And just to add a bit of "bipartisan" TM spice to the whole sordid affair, the Republican't joined-at-the-hip duo brought along a Demonrat Senator with them -- some obscure and evidently ambitious "Yale-educated" feminist douche-bag named Amy Klobuchar of Minnesota.

McCain, Graham and Klobuchar

Led by McCain the Insane, the trio "reassured" the Estonian Prime Minister of America's commitment to "the defense of" the tiny puppet state from the big bad Russian Bear. The wacky old lunatic declared:

"The presence of United States troops here in Estonia is a signal that we believe in what Ronald Reagan believed, and that is peace through strength, --- the best way to prevent Russian misbehavior."

Translation: Pay no mind to President-elect Trump. Your assigned task of provoking Russia into striking the first blow still stands.

The article informs us that tiny NATO members Latvia and Lithuania, along with non-NATO puppet states Georgia and Ukraine are also on the itinerary of "reassurance." -- Wonderful. Just wonderful. But the most distressing piece of data from this story is found in paragraph nine:

"Spokesmen for the senators and Mr. Trump did not respond to questions about whether they had informed the president-elect about their trip."

Translation: High-powered Senators within Trump's own "conservative" Party -- in league with the Demonrat minority and treasonous elements within the CIA, State Department and Department of Offense -- are still committed to fighting Russia.

Will they, with the help of the fake mainstream newsmedia, be able to maneuver Orange Man into a corner from which he will be forced to fight -- or, at the very least, be prevented from ever breaking bread with Putin? Let us turn to history to examine past precedents for just such a situation.

Seat-belts fastened and helmets on, boys and girls. Into the Tomato-Time-Machine we go. Sugar, set the dial to 1898, please.

McKinley Forced Into Spanish-American War by fellow Republicans in Congress

Although the intensive propaganda campaign of 1897 and early 1898 had succeeded in poisoning the public perception of Spain, the reluctance the conservative Republican President William McKinley to go to war still had to be overcome. It was time for a false-flag attack.

President McKinley was not impressed by the anti-Spanish propaganda of the Piranha Press. Some further "persuading" had to be done.

In 1897, The Globalist "Powers That Be" had arranged for the ambitious control-freak, New York City Police Commissioner Theodore Roosevelt (John McCain's favorite President), to be appointed as Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In February of 1898, TR, on his own initiative, ordered the USS Maine to provocatively sail into Cuba's Havana Harbor (controlled by Spain). In a remarkable "coincidence", the Maine "spontaneously" and oh-so-conveniently blew up, killing 251 American sailors. TR and the Yellow Press wasted no time in blaming Spain for the "mine attack".

Assistant Naval Secretary Roosevelt murdered 251 sailors and then blamed Spain for it.

Spain strongly denied the false charges and invited an investigation into the matter. President McKinley continued to resist the demands and the threats of the Congressional warmongers and the Yellow Press. But by April, the pressure for war -- much of it coming from his own Republican Party -- was just too much for McKinley to resist. On April 25, 1898, America declared war upon Spain -- a war whose rallying cry was: "Remember the Maine and to hell with Spain."

Neither the Pope, nor the innocent Spaniards, nor the U.S. President was able to beat back the insane war mania, press propaganda and Congressional "warnings to McKinley" which followed the destruction of the Maine.

Nice work, Sugar. Now fast-forward to 1939, please.

Chamberlain Forced Into World War II by fellow Conservatives in Parliament

As the tiresome cliched story goes, British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain "appeased" Hitler at the Munich Conference (September 1938) by handing over Czechoslovakia to his domination. War was thus averted, but Hitler was now emboldened by Chamberlain's "appeasement." The truth is, Chamberlain knew that Hitler posed no danger to Europe. He only sought to the second world war that the Jewish-owned "Conservatives" of his own party -- and the British Press -- were pushing for. First and foremost among the Conservative Party warmongers was the drunken cigar-chiming closeted sodomite, former Lord of the Admiralty and MP Winston Churchill, who bellowed about Chamberlain:

"You were given the choice between war and dishonor. You chose dishonor and you will have war."

The bloodthirsty element of Chamberlain's Party was seething in anger over his "bromance" with Hitler.

So then, what finally led Chamberlain, in September, 1939, to go along with a Declaration of War against Germany on the basis of Hitler's justified invasion of aggressor Poland? Well, just like the aforementioned case regarding McKinley, Chamberlain also faced a revolt from within his own party. The "conservative" warmongers demanded that Chamberlain form an alliance with the Soviet monster Joe Stalin, and openly "sniped" at Chamberlain for dragging his feet on the controversial matter.

Some amazing excerpts from the May 10, 1939 issue of The New York Slimes confirm what the "house historians" have long since censored.

Demand for Soviet Pact Rises

By Sir Arthur Willert

Noted British Journalist

LONDON, May 10. - The general British reaction on the feasibility of an international conference to smooth out the troubles of Europe is somewhat lukewarm. This applies to reports that the Vatican has put out feelers regarding the possibility of international action for the settlement of the German-Polish problems.

The predominant opinion here is that if a conference were held at this juncture, the Rome-Berlin Axis powers would try to vitiate it by the same intolerable pressure of fear and menace that Chancellor Adolf Hitler so successfully brought to bear on the Munich meeting.

... This view accounts for the constant sniping at Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, from his own supporters in Parliament, as well as from the Opposition parties on the ground that he is not pushing ahead effectively with the Russian negotiations. It is feared that he may be hanging back partly for fear of giving Herr Hitler another excuse for saying that Germany is being encircled and partly because he has not properly shaken off that exaggerated distrust of "the Reds" that made British policy go so disastrously wrong over Spain.

Nothing is more likely to precipitate a dangerous crisis than failure to reach an adequate agreement with Russia or another spasm of appeasement in high quarters in London. So strongly does the rank and file of Conservatives feel about this that there would be a real possibility of a revolt against Mr. Chamberlain if the Russian negotiations were to fail and if the failure could plausibly be laid at his door."

Peace-lovers everywhere breathed a sigh of relief upon hearing news that the hideous hag had lost the 2016 QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show). But if the McCain-Graham "rebellion" and the lessons of history are any indication, the releasing of white doves over the expected Trump-Putin "bromance" may be a bit premature. Oh, and Orange Man, if you're reading (I wish!) -- McKinley was assassinated in 1901 and Chamberlain died suddenly just 6 months after Churchill had taken his place as Prime Minister. Just sayin'.

*"Peace in our time?" --- Maybe not!
Putin = Hitler / Trump = Chamberlain / McCain = Churchill*

The Anti-New York Times

As expected, the seditious scribblers at Sulzberger's Slimes have gone full-blown retard -- in ecstasy that is -- over Obongo's 11th hour sabotaging of the feared Trump-Putin national reconciliation. Notice how the totally unproven (false, actually) accusation of "Russian hacking" is now presented as a prior assumption (a classic logical fallacy).

You see, it is no longer a question of whether or not the Russians interfered in QFS (Quadrennial Freak Show) 2016, but rather, how should America respond. It's like the slick salesman asking: "How would you like to pay for your new vacuum cleaner, Mrs. Jones -- by check or by credit card?" --- when Mrs. Jones never even said she was going to buy the vacuum cleaner in the first place!

(Your marketing pro turned historian-journalist sold vacuum cleaners door-to-door during one college summer break -- The "assumptive close" worked like a charm!)

The Slimes and the rest of the Piranha Press commonly use "assumptive selling" to manipulate the public mind.

It would be redundant and insulting to the intelligence of our highly informed readers to rebut an accusation which even many Boobuses all know is concocted. The Slime's slime shouldn't even be dignified with a rebuttal. Instead, let us reiterate what Obongo's dangerous game is really all about.

We believe that the stage is being set for a dangerous escalation of events in Europe, and perhaps even America, to occur over the course of the next three weeks. Now that the precedent (phony as it may be) of Russian cyber-warfare has been embedded in the public mind, we suspect -- (not to be confused with "we forecast") -- that a serious cyber false-flag attack against America or the EU is in the works.

And even though Boobus Americanus and Boobus Europiticus may indeed be skeptical about the current little lies being told about Russia, the lessons of history and the laws of human nature inform us that the malleable mobs will never question the big lies fed to them about false-flag attacks. In exactly the same manner that the public had been pre-conditioned to fear Osama Bin Laden -- the Saudi nobody living in an Afghan cave -- so too has the big bad Putin been pre-framed. The reactive mind will instantly blame him for any "cyber-Pearl Harbor" TM. After all, only a crazed "conspiracy theorist" TM would actually believe that our own government would do such a thing.

 The term "cyber-Pearl Harbor" yields nearly 1 million results on Google Search

Although current allegations of "Russian hacking" are still doubted by many, a "cyber-Pearl Harbor" TM would be sold to the public and believed because the lie would be so big.

Hitler (from Mein Kampf): "All this (Jewish press lies) was inspired by the principle—which is quite true within itself—that in the big lie there is always a certain force of credibility; because the broad masses of a nation are always more easily corrupted in the deeper strata of their emotional nature than consciously or voluntarily; and thus in the primitive simplicity of their minds they more readily fall victims to the big lie than the small lie, since they themselves often tell small lies in little matters but would be ashamed to resort to large-scale falsehoods. It would never come into their heads to fabricate colossal untruths, and they would not believe that others could have the impudence to distort the truth so infamously. Even though the facts which prove this to be so may be brought clearly to their minds, they will still doubt and waver and will continue to think that there may be some other explanation. For the grossly impudent lie always leaves traces behind it, even after it has been nailed down, a fact which is known to all expert liars in this world and to all who conspire together in the art of lying."

Again, this is not a forecast of what will happen within the coming weeks, but a plausible warning about what could happen. The International Crime Syndicate known as the NWO cannot afford to see nationalists Putin, Trump and even Xi of China come together to build a "multi-polar world." Like wounded animals pinned into a corner, the "powers-that-be" are capable of anything. The weeks since the election of Orange Man have already witnessed an increased U.S. military build-up in Europe; the take-down of a Russian airplane which wiped out much of its famed Red Army choir; a provocative visit to the puppet Baltic States by McCain the Insane; and now, this mass expulsion of Russian diplomats.

As it was with FDR's relentless poking and threatening of Japan in 1941; this latest diplomatic humiliation of Russia sets up the next escalation move. Could the next play be the "cyber-Pearl Harbor" TM we have been hearing about for years? Whatever the NWO's next move may be, we are confident that it will happen before Orange Man's inauguration -- an event which may be further marred by Soros' rent-a-mobs.

The commie-loving bastard did all that was in his power to force Japan into making the first overt move. Hawaiian newspapers knew what was coming, but FDR played the role of the victim masterfully and the public swallowed it whole. The only difference between Pearl Harbor and the potential "cyber-Pearl Harbor" TM is that the former was an actual attack from an outside party; the latter, if it happens, will be an inside-job, blamed on Russia.

Boobus Americanus 1: I read in the New York Times today that Obama gave Russian diplomats 72 hours to leave the country.

Boobus Americanus 2: It's long overdue. These rooskies need to be taught a lesson.

Editor: A very astute observation, Sugar.
