About the Course

This course takes place over 12 monthly classes and we estimate that you require a further 140 hours over the year of home study to complete the assignments, case studies, assessments and the final exam. You can also study this as an intense study weekend in October 2018. The cost of this course is £375. If you are studying with us monthly, then a £75 deposit secures your place and the balance can be spread over the remaining 12 months.

- There are no pre-requisites to studying this course.

Why listening skills?

Listening skills is an essential tool that every holistic practitioner should have. Studying this course will give you a firm foundation in counselling skills. If your job involves helping others, or if you simply want to be supportive to others, then you'll learn techniques that will help you be more effective in that role. Listening skills is now appearing in the National Occupational Standards of Holistic therapies and is a requirement of study.
