

Deb Tucker's Rulers

We have all seen Deb Tucker's booth at Mid-Atlantic, and many of us have bought her rulers with the promise of beautiful, even-sized blocks with matching points. But then we get home, and we can't remember how she did it and don't even take it out of its packaging.

On November 23, 2019 Rhonda Gianturco will be conducting a hands-on seminar on how to use your Deb Tucker rulers. Bring your rulers, and we'll spend the day learning how to use them. I will bring my rulers also, so you can try your wish list items. I'll also bring my Deb Tucker technique sheets to try some advanced techniques if we have the time.

Please bring the following supplies:

Your Deb Tucker rulers (please label them so we can share as needed) and your accompanying directions. If you have lost the directions, you can find copies at www.studio180design.net under "Free Downloads".

Rotary cutter and mat

Long rulers to cut WOF and a 6-7" square ruler

Sewing machine, thread, extension cord, general sewing supplies

Pencil (to mark sewing lines on fabric)

Fabric: We will be playing, not making a particular project, so fabric from your stash is great! Please pre-iron your fabric.

A yard (or 2 half yards or more) of a white or cream

At least 3 or 4 different, contrasting fabrics in fat quarters or half yard pieces (solids or tone-on-tone will show off your points to their best advantage!).
