1:00-4:30 PM

Music by the Ryan Herman & Karl Hartwich Band

The Pines Ballroom, of Bloomer, Wisconsin, has announced they will be discontinuing their regularly scheduled monthly old-time dances. Their last old-time dance will take place on Sunday, July 28, 2019, featuring music by the Ryan Herman & Karl Hartwich Band with music from 1:00-4:30 PM. While the Pines Ballroom will still be available for weddings, anniversaries and special events, the Pines management has decided to discontinue the decades old tradition of old-time dancing in part due to lack of participation. For generations, the Pines Ballroom has been a social hub of the Bloomer community, a place to gather and enjoy friendship, food and refreshments and some great music over the years. Many memories have been made on the 50' x 150' wood dance floor. Brian Schwab, current owner of the Pines Ballroom is the 3rd generation to run his family business, which he took over from his father, the late Charles Schwab; who bought out his parents in the 1970's. The Pines Ballroom has been a regional cultural center since its opening in 1933 after the repeal of prohibition. They have hosted a variety of social events and some of the all time greats in the old-time music industry including the Whoopee John Band. You are invited to join the party one more time for the last regularly scheduled old time dance to be held at the Pines Ballroom, bring your friends and come out and re-live memories of when old-time music was king.

If you have never attended the Pines, this is your chance to experience a part of Northern Wisconsin history. The Pines Ballroom would like to thank all of the dancers that have supported live music over the years, many life long friends have been made while sharing a dance at the Pines.
