Ready to earn your High School Diploma?

If you don't have a high school diploma, you can earn a high school equivalency (HSE) at S.A.Y and get the full benefits of a high school diploma

Having your HSE can open a lot of doors. People who have a diploma or equivalency earn more than people who don't. Also, many jobs and training programs require that you have one or the other. You can earn your HSE at S.A.Y.

You must be at least sixteen years old to enroll. If you are under eighteen years old, you must complete a student release form

What is a high school equivalency?

A high school equivalency or HSE is a recognized alternative to a high school diploma. There are three common exams used to determine high school equivalency:

- The General Educational Development (GED®) test
- The High School Equivalency Test (Hi-SET)
- The Test Assessing Secondary Completion (TASC)
