NOTES FROM FR. VANDEWALLE

Is there enough? In this Sunday's Gospel, Jesus tells the Apostles "Give them something to eat yourselves." They could not imagine providing enough from their own resources. What they had yet to learn was God's amazing "provide-ance", or Providence. He showed this to the Apostles that day and was preparing them for their future roles as servant-leaders to distribute God's riches to all peoples. The delightful thing is that God also wishes to share His riches through little, ol' us! The keys to our response include (1) trust in His providence: that the Lord has all the riches; that He wants to be generous with them; that He wishes to use us to provide for others and (2) our own generosity: Will we be willing, without impoverishing ourselves, to sacrifice some of our own resources for the good of others. We ask the Lord to help us discern where and how to be generous.

St. Ignatius Valuable Spiritual Guidance – July 31st we celebrated the Feast of St. Ignatius of Loyola who is one of my favorites as a guide for the spiritual life. Ignatius' goals were originally overly-romanticized, aiming at self-glory through Knight-errantry. However, after being injured in battle he had, during his long convalescence, no knight-errantry books, but only a Life of Christ and Lives of the Saints. Though he would get excited for a time thinking about knightly glory, this would fade and leave him weary and empty. However, when considering saints serving Christ, even through rigor and sacrifice, this left him with an enduring peace. He thought "Perhaps I could be like St. Francis or St. Dominic!" Discerning this, Ignatius developed two valuable treasures for the Church: (1) The Spiritual Exercises – a retreat with a series of guided meditations about God and one's own spiritual journey. Highly recommended. (2) The Discernment of Spirits – rules to recognize God's good influences vs. influences of evil and how to choose the former which lead to joy and reject the latter which lead to sadness. A great resource for The Discernment of Spirits, very applicable to daily living, is the interview series of Fr. Timothy Gallagher on discerninghearts.com "The Discernment of Spirits: Setting Captives Free." A simple understanding of the Discernment of Spirits is: (1) Take some moments to recognize what is going on in one's heart: Am I anxious about something? Sad? Peaceful? Fearful? (2) Understand why: Is it because I am stressed? ... not trusting? ... have some sin to confront? And then ask: Is this from God and therefore to be accepted and move forward? OR is it from evil influences which should be rejected? (3) Choose accordingly. Here is a small example. In the middle of the day, Robert, who takes a moment to reflect with God during his lunch break at his job, recognizes that he is anxious. Upon reflecting, he realizes that it is because in his hurry out the door this morning, he was short with both his wife and child. He accepts his fault, and rejects the falsehood in it along with any falsehood of the Enemy, the Accuser - who would say that Robert is bad and Robert chooses good instead, asking the Lord's forgiveness, calling his wife, apologizing, and telling her he loves her. He goes on with his day in the Peace of Christ.

Daily Mass beginning August 13th – If you plan to attend daily morning mass beginning August 13th, please call and let us know so that we can reserve a place for you. We will be having mass in the gymnasium on school days and need to implement social distancing. Please call Fr. Vandewalle or the office.

SEMINARIAN OF THE WEEK

This week please pray for Patrick Winter from St. Joseph, Lincoln.

SPIRITUAL CORNER

"Have courage and do not fear the assaults of the Devil. Remember this forever; it is a healthy sign if the devil shouts and roars around your conscience, since this shows that he is not inside your will."

-St. Padre Pio

A LITTLE BIT OF HUMOR

A duck walks into a bar, and asks the bartender, "Do you have any grapes?" "Nope" responded the bartender, "try somewhere else." The duck walks out and back in, "do you sell grapes?" "I told you already I don't" responded the bartender, "stop bothering me." The duck walks back out and then back in again, "stop right where you are" the bartender screams "you ask me again if I have grapes I will take a hammer and nail your feet to the floor." The duck walks out and then back in again, "do you sell nails?" he asks. "No" responded the bartender. "Do you sell grapes?"
