

The safety of our children is something that we should always be vigilant about. November is Child Safety and Protection Month. As our children grow and change, they require different levels of protection. They are going to fall, crash, slip, and tumble; It's all part of being a kid, and we wouldn't want it any other way. But there are little things we can all do to ensure that kids avoid the more serious injuries!

Thank you all, Miss Julie, Center Director
