

The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society's Man & Woman of the Year campaign is a national 10 week campaign to raise funds to help find cures for blood cancers. The male and female candidates who raise the most funds during the campaign will be awarded the title of Palm Beach Man & Woman of the Year. Candidates are judged solely on their success in raising money, each dollar counting as one vote. Candidates run in honor of the Boy & Girl of the Year, who are local blood cancer survivors and serve as inspiration to the candidates and others.
