

Exercise Design

Crisis Prepared Business

VS

Crisis Prone Business

5-25%

Ready for Crisis

75-95%

21

Average # of Crises

33

Preparing for crises includes not only preparing plans but exercising them to ensure they work.

ACTIVE SHOOTERS/INTRUDERS

69%
REQUIRED
THREAT

69% of businesses view an active shooter event as a required threat but, 79% responded that they were not prepared.

79%
NOT PREPARED

61%
NEVER RUN
DRILLS

61% said they never run active shooter preparedness drills and 39% said they didn't have a communications plan in place for such an event.

79%
NO PLAN IN PLACE FOR AN EVENT

73% of businesses said that the employees or students would be willing to exchange some privacies for enhanced security

Q5 Consulting has the solution!

From a single shooter to trained team scenarios, our experienced and highly trained team can create a realistic experience in any exercise. We begin with basics and build skills and competencies for all management, staff, or students to use in case of a real event. By running realistic exercises and drills, muscle memory is created and skills become second nature. Let Q5 help your business change the nature in which you see an active shooter.

EXERCISE DESIGN PLANNING

HOW DOES IT FIT INTO YOUR BUSINESS?

Exercises come in many forms and range from simple (fire drill) to complex (evacuations with multiple stakeholders). By exercising on a regular basis your company and employees will know what to do in a real emergency. Lives may depend on taking action and having employees that understand what to do and when is beyond measure.

WHY DO WE EXERCISE?

Exercising is a vital component of emergency preparedness;

Exercises are customized to meet and achieve specific objectives;

Exercises are conducted in a stress-free, no-fault environment;

Exercising allows players to train and practice for real emergencies; and,

Exercises are used to validate training, policies, plans, and procedures.

TYPES OF EXERCISES

Discussion Based Exercises

Seminars

Workshops

Tabletop Exercises

Operations Based Exercises

Drills

Functional Exercises

Full-Scale Exercises

Call or email today to discuss your options with our Exercise Design Specialists to find out how we can create a customized exercise plan together for you.

information@q5consulting.ca

(306) 291-4576