Christmas | With Canadian Poet Emily Isaacson

Her friends were fidelity.
They were old souls with bent wings who found their solace in paradise
among the water lilies.

– Emily Isaacson, “Portrait of a Young Girl”, LITTOP

Dear Friends,

May the holiday season bring you joy and happiness as you celebrate this year's end with family and friends.

*Merry Christmas!

Emily was nominated for a Literary Arts Award and was honoured at the Arty Awards in 2021. This virtual event this year was hosted online by the Abbotsford Arts Council. Once again it proved to be the “Abbotsford Oscars.”

Emily Isaacson completed six months of full-time studies in the field of Social Work last June 2021. She was taking a year to go to school full-time and be a student again but became ill and was hospitalized in August 2021.

Emily took part in two art exhibits with the Kariton Gallery in 2021. The Women in Art Exhibit ran from March 6-27. The Anonymous Art Exhibit ran online from Nov 6-Dec 24. She submitted a total of five pieces. Here is one work: <https://abbotsfordartscouncil.com/covid-skies-emily-isaacson>
