

Tracy Y Washington

Senior Consultant

Tracy is a Leadership Engagement Consultant, Speaker, Trainer, and Coach, and creator, and author of “The Relationship Leadership Philosophy” and Leadership Development Programs including, “Bottom Line Behavior” and “You Be More Confident Executive Coaching for Women.” She is known for helping leaders and organizations to engage and build strong team relationships and improve emotional intelligence competencies to navigate the seamless transition to new and greater challenges for the future.

Tracy has worked with organizations to refine strategies to improve leadership and management effectiveness, employee engagement, interpersonal & communication styles, and customer relationship management skills. Working with diverse groups such as the American Dairy Association, U.S. Department of Labor, World Wildlife Fund, NASA, Professional Women’s Associations, and small businesses, Tracy has increased performance by clearing away real or perceived obstacles by identifying individual, group, and organizational “limiting beliefs,” and eliminating toxic cultures. With a background in business, leadership, marketing, and human behavior, Tracy can share her wit and wisdom with audiences globally on business, life, and leadership.
