

Conservation, Pollution, Waste

- OB63 understand the importance of conservation, pollution and waste management to the environment, and identify ways in which living things contribute to these, both individually and as a community
- OB64 consider and discuss how human activity affects the environment, both positively and negatively (two examples in each case)

