1 STAR OF SEVILLE (Gosden) Dull coat. Bordering on very fit. Seas deb. Alert / relaxed. Attractive / strong filly with scope. Looks classy, easily the pick of the paddock. OK canter. Impressive front-running performance. Blowing: 1

Recommended Win bet at 4-1

New Notebook horse

This daughter of Duke Of Marmalade looks a Group winner in the making. The plan is to come back here for her Oaks Trial, and she looks a contender for the Oaks in June.

Ante Post 12-1 looks decent value but we may as well wait until after the Guineas meeting, when new names are likely to affect the top end of the market.

2 OOTY HILL

Fit. Seas deb. Relaxed / alert. Leggy colt. Free canter. Blowing: 2

3 WINTERS MOON

Very fit. Seas deb. Very relaxed / mature / alert. Taken slowly down. Blowing: 0

Third in a so-so edition of the Fillies Mile (G1) at Newmarket last autumn, behind Forever Together and Agnes Stewart.

4 LORD BEN STACK

Bordering on very fit. Seas deb. Bright. Big colt. Blowing: 0

L GIBEON

Fit. Seas deb. Relaxed. Good sort but one of those who looks quite a bit better than he is.

2014: Western Hymn (J Gosden)

*Elm Park on the way out for his racecourse gallop after racing.

ELM PARK'S RACECOURSE GALLOP – NOT IMPRESSIVE

Classic contender Elm Park worked after racing. He was very fit and looked well. Very relaxed / bright in the pre-parade ring with a group of horses (also some from Eve Johnson Houghton). One of his workmates looked much better, however, but as always the trainer would not tell the press the name of that horse. It was another bay, with a white blaze and long white socks on both hind legs. He was very fit, very shiny.

This companion worked much better than Elm Park in my opinion. A trio set off with a lead horse (of lesser quality) making the running ahead of Elm Park, with the horse mentioned sitting last of the three a few lengths behind Elm Park. Ridden by Oisín Murphy, he moved up to join Elm Park at the finish, and seemed hard held not to go by the G1 winner. He also galloped out much better than Elm Park.

Jockey Andrea Atzeni looked disappointed after the gallop. The ground was probably too firm for the Racing Post Trophy winner – but I have my doubts about this colt now. He has filled out and looks strong and scopey but perhaps he hasn't trained on. I remember seeing him here on his debut, when he was already extremely fit (before being sold) and his juvenile campaign may have been quite a hard one. GS
