JULY 2011

Wild About Horses

Gary Polito brings his love of travel, outdoor living and connection with nature at it's purest levels to all his works of photographic art.

His passion for adventure and subject matter knowledge comes straight from his heart. Gary's specialty is wild animals, bears, birds of prey, wolves, and wild horses to name a few.

Of particular importance to him is the site location where he camps amongst the animals to spend the much needed time to uncover the secrets to their behaviors with themselves and others.

Gary and his family own/operate the working H2Ranch just outside of Tyler, TX.

In his passionately written Father's day 2011 blog, Gary thanks his beloved wife and soul-mate, Cheryl, who 'has been sent by God to save him, his most precious children' and the many who shaped and influenced his life.

PJ Hines Trails Named

"Get Out There" and check out the PJ Hines Wilderness Trail and see if you can recognize: 1) Poison Ivy Lane; 2) Honeysuckle Cove; and, 3) Pecan Tree Hollow :))))

Patty, her Grandmother Maw, and other Ladies that rode back in the day would cross Jackson's Crossing (creek) to the Moss Farms Way (trail that goes all the way to Moss Farms).

P.S. The Peacock on Patty's trailer just gave birth to five babies this week (four are alive, one was not).

Thank you Patty for taking the time to get them inside the pen!

Take the time to explore the results of Gary's cathartically spiritual trips while appreciating his goal of sharing his experiences though his website.
