

For General Public accessing the Society Website (non-members area)

The Society does not collect any personal information from people just visiting the public areas of our site (the ones you can see before you have to log in to the members area), except if you fill in the online application form, it will automatically be emailed to the Society. This data will be used to contact you when a plot becomes available. All we do is gather some basic anonymous information, for example how many people have visited our web site and view each page, so that we can make sure we're doing a good job and to make our site better.

For Members

Rushden Permanent Allotment and Small Holding Society Limited ("The Society") only holds personal data that you, the member, have supplied to the Society. This data is only used by the Society Committee members as per the General Data Protection Regulation Document (available in Rules & Policies) and is not shared with any third party. The data is only used to communicate with you in the running of the Society.

Our website may contain links to other websites, this Privacy Policy only applies to "The Society" website so if you use these links please take the time to check their privacy policies.

CCTV – In order to assist in crime prevention CCTV may be operated on the allotment fields. The CCTV is operated by "The Society" and will only share any footage when requested to do so by law or Police investigation. Only designated Committee members will have access to Cameras and recordings.
