

Geocentricity vs. Heliocentricity

really like is for some highly educated, Bible believing Christian to review Bouw's work and reduce it to eighth grade grammar where I could "get it." I practise what I preach. For years I have majored in reducing Manuscript Evidence, Church History, Bible translating, and Philosophy to eighth grade English. But when you launch out into the "Vernal Equinox," "Parallax paths," "Aberration paths," and the Fresnel "Drag," or the Foucault "Pendulum," you have lost me, brother.

Nonetheless, I recognize the footprints of someone who has been off the beaten path for decades, and still knows what he is talking about. This book was not written by some "flat-earth," pre-Copernican Greek philosopher, or Babylonian mythologist. Dr. Bouw is relaxed and quite "at home" undressing Einstein, Mach, Kepler, Galileo, and your friendly neighborhood NEA.

(p. 213 of her work) was so accurate that poor little Davey didn't even know where to go to check her out to see if she was telling the truth. Westcott and Hort certainly DID "deny David as a chronological person." They did. Look at the RV on 2 Samuel 21:19.

Westcott and Hort, and the NIV editor (Larry Palmer), said that David did not kill Goliath. Read it.

David Cloud (in O Timothy) justified three liars and slandered a Bible believing woman who listed an historical fact. The kid was so lazy (and stupid) he couldn't find the reference. I found it in 1950.

If you see Davey, tell him we always run forty years ahead of his teachers. That oughtta get him in "fine trim."

through the book, that one thing is absolutely certain, both in the scientific realm and in the Biblical realm: not one argument for Heliocentricity has ever proved that Geocentricity is not "scientific."

And that is quite a shocking thing to consider. It means that if any Christian took the Geocentric view—that is, the earth is the center of a rotating "firmament" containing the galaxies—he would be just as "scientific" as the relativistic asses who came from "asses" (evolution). Having already encountered this identical phenomenon before, in the battle between Creationists and Evolutionists, I have some strong doubts now about the Heliocentric system. The majority, in both cases, always refuse to examine evidence: scientific evidence. The majority, in both cases, "shut out" any educated professor who disagrees with them (Dr. Bouw teaches Computer Science as an Associate Professor of Mathematics at Baldwin-Wallace College in Ohio. He holds an M.C.I.S. degree from the University of Cleveland: see H. E. Wilder Smith for a similar case). And in both cases, the materialistic atheists are terminally infected with Bibliophobia: they are scared (an old Army expression!) over a printed BOOK.

Now get a copy of that work. Write to The Association for Biblical Astronomy, 4527 Wetzel Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, 44109. The book to ask for is Geocentricity, by Dr. Gerardus D. Bouw.

When you get through studying the Perihelion Precession (p. 266) and the distribution of quasars around the earth (p. 303), and the distribution of galaxies (p. 300), then call the man a "Dark Age Fanatic." But then, let's see you prove it, scientifically. Modern science shows a "wall of galaxies" extending 5,000,000,000,000 light years beyond the earth; but all of them are in a circle around the earth (p. 308).

Personally, I am not yet fully settled in my mind about all of this; but, as I said before, "I smell ararat" somewhere, and there is one place it will never be found: in a King James Bible. "Rats" are ten cents a dozen on any university campus in America, England, or Europe.

Assurance Produces More Work!

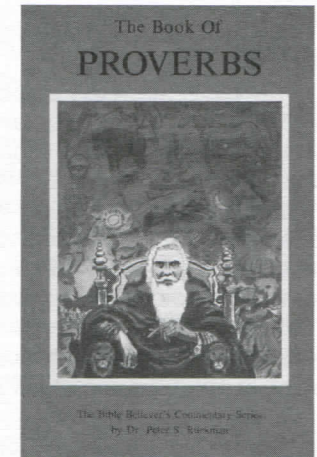

During the first part of the construction of the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, no safety devices were used, and 23 men fell to their deaths. For the last part of the project, however, a large net which cost $100,000 was employed. At least 10 men fell into it and were saved. But an interesting sidelight is the fact that 25 percent more work was accomplished when the men were assured of their safety.

In essence, gambling is a sin against charity; for the gambler hopes to gain at the expense of the total loss of the other competitors.

THE BIBLE BELIEVER'S COMMENTARY SERIES

PROVERBS

One of the longest commentaries, written to cover every area of human wisdom. Over one hundred sermon illustrations are presented, plus a vast amount of data on government, art, music, sports, agriculture, history, domestics, war, and modern living. The ASV has been used extensively in this commentary to show its striking inferiority to the KING JAMES BIBLE.
