Rita J. Taylor debuts as a published author with the release of ‘The Toxic Sting of Deceit, Deception, and Lies’

New book tells a story that highlights the importance of self-acceptance and self-worth

HOUSTON – Following on from the great response to her stage play “A Woman’s Worth A Man’s Value” and having received many positive reviews, Rita J. Taylor felt the need for its message to be put in a book in order to help others who struggle with their self-worth. This led her to the publication of “The Toxic Sting of Deceit, Deception, and Lies” (published by WestBow Press).

Sometimes, people do not realize the pain they project onto others from their past or unresolved issues. In this book, readers get to see hurt but also the power of accountability, healing and forgiveness through the lives of Vanessa Sanders and Reggie Thibodeaux. These two individuals experience internal struggles despite their accomplishments and learn that their unresolved and rooted issues can not only damage themselves but everyone closely connected to them.

“Healing can never come from what we conceal,” the author states. “We sometimes have to face the ugly truth about ourselves and be willing to do the work to be better. My prayer is that every person reading this book will understand the importance of knowing your worth and that knowing that starts with you. Also, the power of forgiveness.”

“The Toxic Sting of Deceit, Deception, and Lies” is the first book of a three-part series.

About the Author

Rita J. Taylor was born and raised in Texas. She has a bachelor’s degree in business management and is a producer, writer, director and speaker. She is the founder and president of RitaJ Enterprises LLC and its subsidiaries RTaylor Productions and RTaylor Publishing. She first started writing plays as a teenager in her hometown and would recruit the youth and some adults in her home church for the productions. It was then she realized her passion with writing, producing, directing and literally taking nothing and creating a story that would inspire people. She is grateful to God for the gifts he has given her and passionate about encouraging and telling people about God and also doing her best in inspiring people to be all that they can be through hard work, determination and faith. Taylor is so excited about this next chapter in her life of becoming an author and she looks forward to writing not only more scripts but many more books.
