

POPE KISSING THE GROUND

Whenever the pope goes to another country he is often shown kissing the ground of that country, as an act of humility. This is far from the truth. He is in fact, claiming the land as his own, because of his so-called temporal power.

When the pope visits a country and kisses the ground, many believe it to be an act of humility. In reality, he is claiming the land as his own . . . because of temporal power.		The Catholic system today stands on those two phoney pillars . . . And the world has bought it.
--	--	---

The Bible says: ". . . and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication." (Rev. 17:2)

(Mar 23/16) Jerry Hennig