“What the Devil is This!”®

Then Ed bit into one and the plot thickened...

One evening in 1945, Ed Cushman and his family were waiting for a truckload of grapefruit. When it finally arrived, there on the back of the truck — with the grapefruit — were 20 bushels of the strangest looking, fiery-orange, bell-shaped oranges anyone had ever seen.

Ed took one look and said, “What the devil is this?”

When everyone had peeled and tried one, the consensus was that these were the sweetest oranges in the world. “Sweet as honey,” someone said. And Cushman's® HoneyBells (●) were born.

Actually, ● are not oranges at all. They're an extraordinary hybrid of a Dancy Tangerine and a Duncan Grapefruit, both seeded fruit. But mysteriously, ● usually are seedless. The plot thickens.

Here's the clincher.

● are available once — and only once — for a few short weeks in January. We sell and ship every one we pick!

Indulge yourself with this delightful post-holiday treat.
