Healing ourselves (mind, body, and heart) is one of the biggest reasons we come together to study metaphysics. Like all things we think are important, we tend to take it very seriously. We watch our self-talk, observe our thoughts, and seek to actively shift our beliefs. What if we're missing a key element in the healing process? Humor and Joy bring a lightness into our lives that facilitates healing on a whole new level, and the newest science backs it up. Let's explore the role of laughter, play and fun in revealing Wholeness.
