Life Sketch

Prepared by Bruce McLeod (a grandson) April 30, 2020.

James McLeod was born on 9 October 1877 at 17 Lawrence Street, Dundee, Scotland. His parents were Robert McLeod and Mary McLeod (Maiden name McGiviney). Robert worked as a Mason Builder

Physical Description: Consistently described in his adult record as 5'7", 160 lbs, Blue Eyes, Brown Hair. In his mid-60s his hair was gray and he needed glasses.

Personality: According to his son he was very quiet, quite old world, dour (stern, gloomy) and very strict. This was in quite a contrast to his wife who was very pretty, sang a lot and was very outgoing. My Dad used to tell me that his Dad would always say to him, "Be canny with the butter lad". Which I guess indicated Scottish frugality. [Note: It worked out well for us because we always had a full plate of butter on our dinner table and we were encouraged to use all we could.]

James was the second eldest of nine children in the family. He went to school in his earliest years, but by the time he was 13 he was a "Halftimer", which meant he went to school half of the day and went to work the other half of the day. This compared with his sister Elizabeth who was two years older and worked full-time in the jute mills and his sister Mary who was three years younger and still a full time "Scholar".

On October 3rd 1891 his father Robert died at the age of 39 of a cerebral hemorrhage that he had suffered three days earlier. Jim was still 13 years of age at this time. His father left behind a 36 year-old wife with seven children ages 0-15 This left Jim with big family responsibilities to help out earning money in order for the family to survive. These were tough times for the family in Dundee.

By 1901, while in his early twenties he was still living at home at 3 Lawrence Street in Dundee, helping his mother and six of his siblings. He was working as a "Spirit Merchant's Assistant".

He worked onboard ships after this and I have a money belt in my possession stitched on it that says "India 1902", so it is possible his travels may have taken him to India.

Scotland onboard the "Columbia".

After Mary Ann and the two children' returned to the United States in 1919, she and Jim and the children next lived in Oakland, California in 1920 where Jim worked as a rigger in the shipyards.

On August 18, 1920, the entire family returned from Sydney, Australia to Vancouver, Washington onboard the "Tahiti" and then on August 20, 1920 arrived in Seattle, Washington, still onboard the Tahiti. The family's final destination was Salt Lake City. On the ship manifest, they indicated they had no friends or relatives in Sydney, Australia and it is unclear how long they were in Australia.

The next records show that Mary Ann gave birth to twins Ronald and Sidney on 5 January 1921. Tragically, one was stillborn and the other died a couple of days later. [Note: They are buried in pauper graves in City Cemetery. It is impossible to find their headstones as they have been eroded away.]

United States Directory records show the family lived in Salt Lake City from 1921 continuously through 1946.

Jim indicated his intent to become a United States Citizen in 1919 and again on November of 1932

1n 1942 Jim was still working for Utah Light and Traction located at 6th East and 5th South operating streetcars and buses. He was 64 at this time. They continued to live in Salt Lake City until at least 1946 and possibly longer.

At some point, Jim retired and he and Mary Ann next resided in San Mateo California in 1950, later moving to Santa Cruz, California. Sometime in this time frame he suffered a stroke that impacted his mobility. In 1954 they lived at 4445 Nova Drive, Santa Cruz. In 1955 they had moved to 721 41st Ave in Santa Cruz. He passed away on 18 September 1955.

Jim had a very difficult life with his father passing away when he was 13 and being the oldest male in the house with seven siblings and the responsibility that went with that. He worked in a jute mill half-time when 13 years of age, just before his father died and then probably full–time upon his father's passing. He was separated from his family for five years during WW I and lost two children shortly after birth. So, if Jim was a bit dour, it is certainly understandable. RIP Jim, we love you. Less

Wikipedia:List of online newspaper archives

Mostly Free-Smaller Papers

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

This is a list of online newspaper archives and some magazines and journals, including both free and pay wall blocked digital archives. Most are scanned from microfilm into pdf, gif or similar graphic formats and many of the graphic archives have been indexed into searchable text databases utilizing optical character recognition (OCR) technology. Some newspapers do not allow access to the OCR-converted text until it is proofread. Older newspapers are still in image format, but may be available as full text that can be cut and pasted and searched like born-digital newer newspapers.

Shortcut
WP:LOONA

Some local public libraries subscribe to certain online newspaper archives. For instance, some UK public libraries subscribe to The Times Digital Archive and any member of one of these libraries is able to access this resource free from their home computer using their library card number. In many instances, library access may be restricted to in-building use, in the confines of the library itself, and not a service otherwise available away from that structure to cardholders.

A limited number of complimentary accounts of the for-profit databases newspapers.com and NewspaperArchive are available to Wikipedians through the Wikipedia Library.

Description
This database contains passenger lists of ships that departed from the port of Hamburg, Germany from 1850-1934 (with a gap from 1915-1919 due to World War I). The database includes images of the passenger lists digitized from microfilm in partnership with the Hamburg State Archive, available here for the first time online. It also includes a complete index for the years 1850-1914 (up to the start of World War I) and 1920-1934. Learn more...

Description
This database contains passenger lists of ships that departed from the port of Hamburg, Germany from 1850-1934 (with a gap from 1915-1919 due to World War I). The database includes images of the passenger lists digitized from microfilm in partnership with the Hamburg State Archive, available here for the first time online. It also includes a complete index for the years 1850-1914 (up to the start of World War I) and 1920-1934. Learn more...
