Ponderings From The Pastor

"BEYOND ALL MEASURE"

So we do not lose heart. Even though our outer nature is wasting away, our inner nature is being renewed day by day. For this slight momentary affliction is preparing us for an eternal weight of glory beyond all measure, because we look not at what can be seen but at what cannot be seen; for what can be seen is temporary, but what cannot be seen is eternal. -- 2 Corinthians 4:16-18 (NRSV)

LATELY, IT FEELS LIKE I have been living through an extended episode of the "Twilight Zone" (or if you're a Netflix fan, "Stranger Things" or "Black Mirror"). And not just me, but everyone around me. Between sickness, crazy weather, MORE sickness, falls, horrible news, even crazier weather, and death...one thing after another after another...I find myself whispering that old saying, "STOP the world, I want to get off!"

Maybe it seems that way for you too, here in our St. Paul family. We recently lost several longtime members who'd moved away and joined other churches—but still had SPUCC connections. And THEN, within the span of a week or so, we lost TWO prominent, seminal figures in the life of St. Paul: former staff member Lollie Kasulones, and perennial staff member Evelyn Osterbrock. Talk about a one-two punch to the gut!

Both of these women, loved and respected by so many over the years, had been ill for a while. Evelyn had been a hospice patient since last year at this time—and she surprised us all by bouncing back from being bedridden and unable to walk, and worked another whole season—at age 95—in her capacity as lay minister to children. Lollie fought a long, hard battle with cancer—and she handled that the same when she took on life and ministry when she served here at SPUCC: with courage determination, faith, and optimism. Both of these faithful servants had a huge impact on the life of St. Paul, and in the lives of so many members here; they cannot be and never will be forgotten. We bless and give thanks for them, and continue to pray for their loved ones.

It's just a coincidence, I think, that we are faced with this strange conjunction of loss and bad news during the season of Lent....especially so in this Lenten season, when I am trying to help us experience the sacred time of return in a less somber, less-penitential, and more "grounded" and spiritually-affirming way. We're getting "back to basics"—specifically, the basic elements of creation and life on Earth. We're using Creation as a lens for seeing the Holy, and our dependence upon God—and each other. Deeper than that, even: we're looking at Creation, including our own place in it, as a "container" of God, as exemplars of the Sacred...as INCARNATIONS. What do elements and essences, seasons and cycles, birth and death, joy and suffering teach us? What do these things show us about God? About how we should live?

We're aiming at a more holistic, richer understanding of Lent...Holy Week...of "Cross and Crown"...of suffering and sacrifice...of death, and resurrection.

We need to get below the surface...to go deep. It is below ground, in the deep, where we don't see it, that life begins. In the dirt and ashes. In the muck of life. Think about it...

When we are trying to get established in life, or in a new place, we speak of "putting down roots." Hard work. And, we remember the early church was born "underground" and matured in the catacombs—the underground burial chambers—avoiding the persecutions of the ancient Roman empire. In the disease-ridden, violent Middle Ages, huge cathedrals and entire towns even, were built around the relics of saints—buried in vaults underground in the transepts of churches. Slaves were swept to freedom through the Underground Railroad. Inhumane, unjust, evil systems were toppled with the help of the "Underground." Major social initiatives, like the Civil Rights movement, started as grassroots crusades. Below the surface.

Meaningful change—transformation—is not a common, surface activity, it seems.

Jesus understood. "I assure you that unless a grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it can only be a single seed. But if it dies, it bears much fruit" [John 12.24]. The Passion of the Christ is about seed planting...about what happens underground, in a grave...in the pitch black, amidst grief and tears...when no one is looking. When loss and pain, fear and anger, have taken hold on the surface.

So then...even if you're reeling from loss, hurt, disappointment, confusion...even if you are seeing goblins on the plane wing like Bob Wilson did (William Shatner, in the TZ episode "Nightmare at 20,000 Feet"), or feel trapped in the "Upside Down" like Chief Hopper ("Stranger Things" S2, E5), do not lose heart. When the problems and pain of the present seem ready to overwhelm, remember: these things are only temporary. Or when we think about the future and become anxious and unsure, remember: what cannot be seen is eternal—GOD'S future is even today beginning to reach back into our Now and pull us forward...even if we do not yet see it.

As we continue our walk through Lent, toward Holy Week, let each day be a holy day; stop and remember that your INNER NATURE—your True Self—is constantly being renewed, even as your body and physical self (your "surface self") grows older. Do not lose heart. God's plan for you and me is beyond all measure; think about that...beyond our conception...beyond our seeing and full knowing. And that doesn't mean "when you get to heaven" either—that means here today, NOW, the very moment we learn to "let God and let God," trust God, live and trust in the moment.

Let's learn more of the practices of mindfulness, humility, and gratitude. Let's practice "seed planting" and know that loss is an integral part of spiritual growth. In the moment, mindful living and gratitude may not make the pain hurt less...but it'll put a smile on your face, lift your heart, cause a little uprising of joy from your renewing inner nature, and strengthen you despite the pain. Then you will see the world as Christ saw it—as God sees it.

You'll be participating in Resurrection.

Lord, You have made so many things!

How wisely You made them all!

The earth is filled with your creatures....

All of them depend on You. – Psalm 104:24-27 (a good theme Psalm for Lent).

Press on—and remember: YOU are stardust!

Pastor Barry
