THE POINT

What one point do you want listeners to take away upon hearing this story?

YOUR AUDIENCE

To whom would you tell this story?

BEGINNING

Who is the hero of your story? Who is driving the action? With whom is your audience likely to identify?

What is the setting for your story? Where and when does it take place? Any other important circumstances/conditions?

What is the hero's goal? What do they want to do? What challenge or problems are they trying to overcome?

MIDDLE

What is the barrier standing in the protagonist's way? What are the internal or external barriers?

How does your hero pursue the goal? What happens as the hero encounters subsequent barriers?

END

What is the resolution of the story? Does the protagonist achieve his/her/their goal or is there another outcome?

What is the meaning of the story? Think about the point you intend to make and confirm you delivered on that promise.

Note: be sure to collect pictures and quotes as you compile your story.
