

CELIBACY

According to Hislop, the writer of "Two Babylon's", the higher order of priesthood of Semiramis (Ishtar), adhered to a doctrine of celibacy. This seems strange considering that many called Semiramis the prostitute goddess of Babylon. Most scholars are familiar with the celibacy established in the early years of the goddess Cybele's clergy. The city of Rome was thought to be a holy city because of the Papal existence, but the fact is, of its approx. 100,000 population, about 6,000 were prostitutes. The historians have told us that "all the ecclesiastics had mistresses and all the convents were houses of bad fame".

Semiramis capitalized on man's rebellion against Yah's laws of marriage. She promoted celibacy, which was a religious cover to hide adultery, fornication, homosexuality, sodomy, transgender, and lesbianism. This is where Roman Catholic celibacy comes from. The priests are as far away from celibacy, and the nuns as far from virgin, as east is from west.

There is no way to get around the simple fact that the Roman Catholic Nuns are exist for two reasons only.

1) Poverty vow

They must sign official papers stating that any inheritances given to them by anyone, including their families, is to be donated to the Roman Catholic Church. Their families are not even informed of these poverty vows, or obviously they would object. When the families do find out, it is too late. Everything they do in their lives involves them in some way making money for the Vaticanous demon. They are used as saleswomen to get people to contribute to the great cause of the whore of Babylon in one way or another.

2) Sanctified for sex

The nuns are told the priests represent the holy spirit, that their bodies are sanctified and that it is appropriate for the nuns to allow them to have sex with them, just as the holy spirit made Mary pregnant.

In the case of newly qualified nuns, the priest takes the newly committed nun into a special wedding chamber where he seduces her, and in most cases, takes away her virginity. Failure to oblige the priest will bring serious penance for the nun and she will pay dearly for refusing to submit sexually to the priest. Nuns who do not cooperate with the priests are commonly destined to live underground in the convent, not at the floor level or above ground. They remain there until they die or submit to the priests for sexual servicing.

The bride of their Christ

The young girls are brought into the convent and taught exclusively to obey anything and everything the Mother Superior tells them to do. Once they have proven that they are obedient they go through a ceremony where they wear a special white garment and are proclaimed to be officially a bride of Christ. They are taught that they are special virgin brides forever. They have it explained to them at that point that because of their dedication to the mother church, they and their families automatically receive eternal salvation. Their families can do whatever they desire and be saved because of the sacrifice the girls make when they become nuns.

As official brides of Christ they are taught that the priests literally represent their god and they must do anything any priest asks them to do. They must be obedient to the priests in every way because these are the holy men of god, to disobey them would be to disobey god himself.

History tells us

The violations in the nunneries, convents and monasteries, were so bad in the 9th. century that St. Theodore Studita forbade even female animals (even dogs) on monastery property! In 1477, the night dances and orgies were described by historians as being worse than the public houses of prostitution. The supposed holy men were known as “the husbands of all the women”. Albert the Magnificent, Archbishop of Hamburg went on record exhorting the priests. He said “if you can’t be chaste, at least be careful”. A German bishop charged the priests a tax for each female they kept, and each bastard child that was born because of them. At that time he found through his taxes, that 11,000 women were being kept by the clergy of his diocese.

Our Bible tells us clearly that man should be married and multiply, so that there will be much fellowship upon the earth. The Bible warns us of doctrines of devils that would promote celibacy. 1Tim. 4:1-4 “But the Spirit explicitly says that in later times some will fall away from the faith, paying attention to deceitful spirits and doctrines of demons, by means of the hypocrisy of liars seared in their own conscience as with a branding iron, {men} who forbid marriage {and advocate} abstaining from foods, which YHVH has created to be gratefully shared in by those who believe and know the truth. For everything created by YHVH is good, and nothing is to be rejected, if it is received with gratitude;” The apostles were married, and leaders mentioned were to be the husband of one wife. 1Cor. 9:5 *“Do we not have a right to take along a believing wife, even as the rest of the apostles, and the brothers of Adonai, and Cephas? 1Tim. 3:2 “An overseer, then, must be above reproach, the husband of one wife, temperate, prudent, respectable, hospitable, able to teach,”
