

Jennifer Cann, MDSpecialty: Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation

Dr. Jennifer Cann received her MD from Wake Forest University School of Medicine in North Carolina. She completed her internship in internal medicine at Temple University Hospital and her residency in Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation at Thomas Jefferson University, both in Philadelphia, PA.

Drawn to rehabilitation medicine by her experiences in exercise and fitness, Dr. Cann focuses on working with her patients to improve daily function and to enable them to resume the activities they enjoy. Dr. Cann's special interests include sports-related concussion and injury, non-surgical management of musculoskeletal injuries and osteoarthritis and non-pharmacologic pain management. She is also interested in using Botox for spasticity management and performing EMGs

In her leisure time, Dr. Cann enjoys outdoor activities, yoga, dance and painting.