Employers are responsible for ensuring that their staff are competent and confident in carrying out their responsibilities for safeguarding and promoting children's and young people's welfare.

Employers should ensure that all those in contact or working with children and young people and/or with adults who are parents or carers have a mandatory induction, which includes familiarisation with their child protection responsibilities and the policies and procedures to be followed if they have concerns about a child's safety or welfare.

Regular refresher training should also be provided at least every three years.

Content

- ♦ Builds on Levels 1 material
- ♦ Documenting and sharing of information regarding concerns.
- ♦ Using the Framework for the Assessment of Children in Need and their Families: Own safeguarding roles and responsibilities.
- ♦ Legislation

Aims and Objectives

- How to identify signs of child abuse and what action to take.
- Understand relevant legislation in respect of information sharing
- Understand roles and responsibilities

Features and Benefits

The purpose of training for inter-agency work at both strategic and operational levels is to achieve better outcomes for children and young people by fostering:

- ◆ a shared understanding of the tasks, processes, principles, roles and responsibilities outlined in national guidance and local arrangements for safeguarding children and promoting their welfare;
- ◆ more effective and integrated services at both the strategic and individual case level;
- ◆ improved communication and information sharing between professionals, including a common understanding of key terms, definitions and thresholds for action;
- ◆ effective working relationships, including an ability to work in multi-disciplinary groups or teams;
- ◆ sound child focused assessments and decisions

Course Structure

All training places the child at the centre and promotes the importance of understanding the child's daily life experiences, ascertaining their wishes and feelings, listening to the child and never losing sight of his or her needs

The course is taught over 5 hours which include sufficient breaks.

Participants are encouraged to share their experiences through group tasks and feedback sessions

The content of training programmes are regularly reviewed and updated in the light of changing policy and legislation, research, learning from SCRs, child death reviews and practice experience, and always reinforce the centrality of the child's welfare is paramount
