

The independent tank and process equipment integrator for the complete food industry.

Nilsco supplies brewhouses and stainless steel tanks for small to medium-sized brewers. We ensure that our brewhouses are optimally functional and the aesthetics are also of great importance. The brewing equipment that we supply have a number of characteristics that we, as a company, highly value, such as quality, innovation, functionality and user-friendliness.

Our customers can count on us for the management of their entire project from concept to completion of a finished brewhouse. Our engineers, designers and our technically skilled brewhouse builders that we use as partners ensure an efficient and effective brewing process that will match your expectations.

We are therefore able to make very complete offers with everything included. Our offers consist all equipment from malt mill to bright beer tank.

We are also able to only offer brewhouses or fermentation tanks.

Nilsco offers standard and custom build brewhouses made to the customer needs. Our company provides a number of services that can facilitate brewing so we provide start-up assistance from an experienced brewer when brewing the first batches. After the project is fully delivered, you can logically count on us for the maintenance and solving of urgent failures under the 24 hour service.

Also know that we have experience in other beverage industries like Kombucha, hard seltzer, cocktails, juices,... So for this products we have custom made tanks in our portfolio.

In short, you can count on Nilsco from the design to the completion of your project!

In a brewing (-beverage) industry is also a lot of process equipment needed.
