THE TICKET.

The National Republican Convention at Minneapolis did its work wisely and well. It gave to the country as candidates Hon. Benjamin Harrison for President and Hon. Whitelaw Reid for Vice President.

The nomination of President Harrison for a second term meets with the approval of more Republicans than have at any since the organization of the party sponsored a nomination.

Notwithstanding the active and skillful opposition of those known as leaders of the Republican party in the work of organization, the sentiment throughout the country for the renomination of Harrison was so pronounced and so persistent that it was simply overwhelming, and the action of the Republicans at Minneapolis meets with the most cordial, cheerful and hearty response of Republicans in every State of the Union.

President Harrison, during his administration, has displayed qualities of statesmanship rare in the history of American politics. He has been prudent, self-reliant, and uncompromising in the pur, suit of what he deemed to be wise for the country. He has been pure in morals, gifted in honorable expedient, and too brave and manly to do an unjust thing, even when threatened with political opposition, if he refused to do it. Benjamin Harrison honors the man that makes him its leader. He will lead it to victory again, for, as has been well said, there has never been an instance in Harrison being defeated. The best sentiment of the people of the country is with him, and it will see that he is again elected. It is the safe thing to do this year when the opposition in our own country seeks to raid the business interests, and a jealous and zealous foreign opposition seeks to retard the advancement of our commerce in foreign ports.

As such a time a Benjamin Harrison is needed. Tried and true in the past, ever watchful of the interests of his country, he is the man to retain in the Presidential chair, for he is thoroughly an American, and cannot be controlled by people inimical to American interests.

The nominee for Vice President, Hon. Whitelaw Reid, of New York, has made his mark as a journalist and diplomat. Succeeding the great Horace Greeley on the New York Tribune, he has kept that journal in the front rank of American newspapers, is lower throughout the land, a staunch advocate of protective principles, and always for the right. As a diplomat in France he earned for America the respect and admiration of France, and secured from that country favors that had been refused to less skilled diplomats who had made earnest endeavors for the good of this country. Mr. Reid is a fitting companion to President Harrison on the ticket, and the fact that the gentlemen are warm personal friends make the ticket a pol! alliance all the more pleasant.

Republicans of Pennsylvania, give the ticket a hundred thousand majority.

LANCASTER is going to have an umbrella factory. Going to get in out of the wet, at last, as to speak.

THE sad story from Titusville that seven more bodies have been found in the ruins leads to the inference—unwilling though we be to admit it—that there are many more under the debris. There are a number of people missing who were seen on the streets the day of the disaster, and although every effort has been made to find them, no traces of their whereabouts have been learned. They certainly must be in the ruins, and there should be no cessation of the search until something definite is known.

THE Rev. Dr. Talmage is doing a good service for the Russian famine sufferers. He has assisted in the collection of a ship load of provisions and will hold religious services on the vessel as a send-off. Then he will follow in a swift vessel and personally superintend the distribution of the food to the starving Russians. This is a great advertisement for Mr. Talmage, but that is what he likes and lives on, and if he doesn't get it he is not happy.

It seems to be all over but the shouting on the day after election.

JUDSON from all appearances, Grandfather's Hat is in it to a very large extent. The sneers of the Democracy will avail naught this year. That hat placed over them will act as an extinguisher and hide them and their votes from view. The great difficulty with the Democrats is that they never had a symbol as historic or as venerated as Grandfather's Hat. The old Roman's badness was the nearest approach and it was a sign of defeat.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY is a bigger man than the men who tried to use him to pull down the President. He is at the top now in Ohio, and Ohio Republicans will see that he is kept there. For a generous, self-sacrificing man; a steady, honest and wise friend, Mr. McKinley stands in the front rank, and the Nation delights to honor him.

THE KEYNOTE.

Two things stood out clearly at the ratification meeting in the court house last night—(1) that the Republican masses are educated on the question of protection, and (2) that they are sincere and earnest in their demand for a free ballot and a fair count, and that every ballot cast shall have the same force in effect, no matter where cast—North or South.

When the speakers referred to the fact that the Republican party is the champion of the American workingman in the matter of protection, such a cheer went up as must have struck terror to the hearts of the Democratic free traders. It showed that the masses read and reflect and know what is being done for them by the only party that considers their best interests, and that they read, reflect and are educated on that particular subject.

When the speakers referred to the ballot and a fair count there was loud and vociferous cheering, implying very plainly that the masses of the people are for Republican platform met with the hearty approval of the honest voters, and that they could back the effort to defeat those who have for years prevented the expression of honest opinion in some of the States of this Union.

—These will be the keynotes of the campaign, protection and a free ballot. Americans—true Americans—make the demand, and do it not because of blind following, but because they are educated on the subject. Nothing else can carry any can be against them will avail a particle. The cry for free trade and the demand that the American workman's wages shall be reduced to the level of those of European pauper labor, the cry of "free bill" and "bayonet rule" to divert attention from the rule of the shotgun,thieving and fraud, have all failed in the Democracy can pit against the utterances in the Republican platform.

This is Republican year, for the reason that Americans are Republicans, and Americans believe in protection and fair play.

YES, "Four years more." That is settled.

DAVID B. HILL'S friends are very hot in his collar over a story that he has written a letter withdrawing from the contest, and indignantly denying that he intends to do anything of the kind. They further assert that there are some people who want him to write that letter who would aid the party more if they should take upon themselves the duty of withdrawal. All of which is aimed at Grover Cleveland, the great and only American letter writer.

THERE was no mistaking where Harrisburg stood on the Presidential question. Last night's demonstration was proof of that.

OUR CITY MARKETS.

Too much wet weather of late will have a retarding effect on the crops due to ripen about this time. Cherries and strawberries are particularly affected, and a prominent farmer who has enjoyed quite a fancy market, said this morning that the homestead strawberry crop is not as large nor of as fine a quality as that of last year. Even while he was speaking he was selling berries of his own raising at 3 boxes for a quarter, and nice ones, too, at that. He also said that many ripening cherries were now "specked," and that the crop for the season will be poor. Butter and eggs are still selling low enough down to suit the average purse.

WHY EDISON IS A REPUBLICAN.

The father and brother of the great electrical inventor, Thomas A. Edison, were Democrats. Some one recently asked him to explain how he happened to be a Republican when his antecedents were all Democratic.

"I will tell you all about it in a very few words," said he. "I became a Republican in New Orleans. I was on a street corner, where there was a poor devil in intoxicated condition, and he was blind in one eye. He had a big nose and a very red eye. One leg was cut off below the knee. The other leg was severed above the knee. His left arm was cut off above the elbow. His right hand was mutilated so that only the little finger remained. With that finger he turned the crippled handle and ground forth doleful tunes. A big brute of a Southerner came along and stopped in front of the organ, looking the crippled soldier full at him. Then he drew a ten dollar bill out of his pocket and tossed it on the organ. As he started away the old soldier called after him to know if he had not made a mistake, saying that no man had ever given him a bill before. The Southerner turned about with a fierce look and responded that he was willing to give ten dollars any time to see a Yankee sliced up like the organ grinder, because that was the way he would like to see every blankety blanked Yankee carved up. Well, that incident made a Republican of me."

NEW SCHOOL BOARD

Organized Monday Night for the Ensuing Year.

PROF. DAY RE-ELECTED

The new School Board met Monday evening and organized for the year 1892-93. Secretary John W. Young called the meeting to order. Dr. A. E. Epler was chosen temporary chairman. Mr. Leonard, member from the Eighth, in the following able manner nominated Prof. Wm. Howard Day for the office of president of the Board:

Prof. Day Nominated.

"Mr. Chairman: I rise to place in nomination for president of the School Board a gentleman who is well and favorably known to every member of this body. He has labored many years for the cause of education and is deserving of this recognition. No one will question his fitness for the place. A born scholar and blessed with all the educational requirements necessary to perform the duties of the position, his election would reflect great credit upon the Board. I can say of him truly, he is capable. He has a character and integrity which have stood every test and stands before this branch, recommending him, above all other arguments, to our Board."

Seconded by Mr. Swartz.

Mr. Swartz, of the Fifth ward,seconded the nomination, as follows: "In seconding the nomination of Prof. Day, Mr. President, as long as that how of emancipation shall hang in the clouds, tolling to the millions of earth the story of its birth—how a million of brave men went down to the shades of death to rescue a race of men in chains, and under the red and black of the bursting shells baptized them in the blood of the slain and placed them on liberty's plain, I shall never want a more fitting memento of our victories than were won on those battlefields where my comrades died than to fee Howard Day, the representative of that once unhappy race of mankind now, again, and not by chance, the presiding officer of this dignified body of men in the most important of all pursuits, the education of all the children of this land. I will follow wherever he leads; I will stand by his side and strengthen his arm."

Supported by W. H. Middleton, Esq.

"Fellow members: When I stood here last August and presented to this Board the name of William Howard Day for president, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of our lamented brother, George Nelson Fry; I said that he was "a man of superior qualifications; that he would preside over this body with grace, fairness and dignity, and that he would bring to the position a thorough knowledge of the unfailing zeal and industry. He possesses all the amiable qualities which the successful coachie Board mare money than ever before, and will save to the tax payers. To Mr. Phillips' committee much credit is due.

The movement, now assured, to graduate all the high school text books free to pupils, is one not only in the right direction, but will, I believe, result in a saving amounting of nearly all our citizens. It only needs Late in the deliberations agreed upon and applied to bring blessing to every household. We are sorry the bill failed to become law.

The question of music in the high school course has been touched, it will need early attention. And, immediately connected with the same, if possible, more important, the question of music in all the schools of the city should be carefully considered. The people, the patrons of our schools, are growing themselves to this question. We cannot ignore it. The sentiment is strong. We have found no doubt but that the Board will do just and right in this as in every other matter.

Gentlemen of the Board, pardon my lengthy remarks. I will not detain you these words timely I would not have spoken had I not considered them.

We are making history. May it be such as we can look back upon with pride and in God's great gallery.

Mr. Young, City Controller Wm. K. Verbeke and Secretary John W. Young were re-elected at the following salaries: $2,000, $1,200 and $1,000.

The resignation of W. H. Middleton was received and accepted with regret, and Dr. Paul H. Hartman was elected to fill the unexpired term of Middleton. The first Friday of each month was selected as the regular meeting day.

TOBACCO MARKET.

Lancaster, June 11.—The events of the present week show very clearly that whatever its defects and drawbacks may be the tobacco crop will find its way on the market in due time, and that it will generally bring a better price than it has been represented. We have learned of the following sales: The sale of 1,500 cases of Pennsylvania tobacco reported for the day and this week's transactions was Lancaster county grown and packed, sold by H. F. Hoffman & Sons, through their resident agent, Harry Hoffman, to the sale of the 1891 crop, berg, Bachman & Co., of New York, and Uhrs and Lowe, of Philadelphia, and that city the goods are here. Frank Pennington sold 100 cases; John Zeller, 50 sold 100 cases; D. J. Simson sold 29 cases, and another packer, whose name we are not at liberty to mention, sold his crop, which was one of the best in the city, out clean, realizing the dealer over 20 cents. Hensel Bros. and Frey also reported 400 cases sold; Stoner & Co., of Strasburg, have sold one of the 1891 crop.

The above, including the New York sales, shows about 2,000 cases, according to 2,219 cases, which is 1,177 cases more than were sold last week.

J. S. Gans' Son, tobacco broker, of 13 and 15 North Duke street, reports to the New Era the following transactions in leaf tobacco during the past week:

100 cases 1891 Pennsylvania Havanas	5 @13
100 cases 1891 Pennsylvania Seconds	5 @10
250 cases 1890 Pennsylvania Havanas	15@16
250 cases 1890 Pennsylvania Havanas	15@16
300 cases X. L. seed	19 @20
300 cases 1890 Wisconsin Havana	15 @16
300 cases 1890 Wisconsin Havana	15 @16
350 cases 1891 Wisconsin Havana, extra fine	18@20
150 cases sundries	6@35
4,000 cases.

SUMATRAS.

A good week's business has been done, especially in old tobacco. Over 400 bales of Sumatra, mostly second leaf, have been sold. In all about 250 bales changed hands at from $1 75 to $3 50. The high prices paid in Amsterdam for the fine tobacco, which is turning out to be a very profitable crop, is stimulating the market here for cigar leaf.

A Forcible Plea.

Father—"Hans, you must not go bathing to-day, as you have got the stomach-ache."

Hans—"That won't matter, daddy; I can swim on my back, you know!"

A BRIGHT YOUNG MAN.

Hon. John L. McLaurin, Attorney General of South Carolina.

When Attorney General Y. J. Pope, of South Carolina, was elected an associate justice of its state supreme court, Hon. John L. McLaurin was made attorney general in his stead. He was but thirty-two years of age, and probably the youngest man in the United States holding a similar position. Mr. McLaurin comes of an extremely capable class, involving the right to mine in territory containing millions of dollars' worth of rich deposits, in an unfinished condition. The case had to go to the supreme court of the United States, and the youthful attorney general had the satisfaction of hearing the decision pronounced in favor of South Carolina.

JOHN L. M'LAURIN.

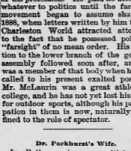
Mr. McLaurin inherits his precocity. His father was a native of Marlboro county, S. C., and though he died in the service of the Confederacy in 1864 at the age of thirty-five he had achieved a considerable reputation as a politician, lawyer and orator. In fact he was a member of the general assembly of the state at twenty-four and was the first junior man when he graduated from college a few years before.

The present attorney general of South Carolina was born in Red Bluff, Marlboro county, where he lived until his mother, having remarried in 1867, removed to Englewood, N. J., a few years later. John's education was received at the primary schools near his stepfather's in Swarthmore college, near Philadelphia, and in the Carolina Military institute in Charlotte, N. C., where he graduated in 1880. He then took the law course at the University of Virginia and was admitted to the bar in 1882, beginning to practice in Bennettsville, where he has since lived.

Mr. McLaurin, although a man of fine attainments, was noted particularly as a jury lawyer, his great eloquence making him particularly effective in this branch of his profession. He paid no attention whatever to politics until the farmers' movement began to assume shape in 1890, when letters written by him to the Charleston World attracted attention to the fact that he possessed political foresight of no mean order. His election to the lower branch of the general assembly followed soon after, and he was a member of that body when he was called to his present exalted position in them is now, naturally, confined to the role of spectator.

Dr. Parkhurst's Wife.

In all the gossip, news, criticism and praise of Dr. Parkhurst's crusade in reform in New York city, the name of the woman who encouraged him by her sublime confidence and unswerving faith to complete the work which he has mapped out for himself has not been mentioned. Mrs. Parkhurst is a distinctly handsome lady, in the second period of womanhood. She has large, soft brown eyes that seem to look into your very soul of sincerity. Her face is indicative of thought and a full appreciation of the keenness of life rather than of great force of character. Her hands are delicate and pretty, and she uses them gracefully.



MRS. PARKHURST.

Mrs. Parkhurst dresses plainly, with very little ornamentation about her apparel, and she gives the visitor the impression of being a thorough "house lady" and an ideal housewife. But the gradonship. She absorbs the characteristic of Mrs. Parkhurst is her devotion to her husband, and her unbounded confidence in the wisdom of all that he does. Every one intimate in the family has passed lightly by him and found lodgment in the gentle heart of his faithful helpmeet. She felt every his kind word, and does not hesitate to admit that she does.

However, this quiet little body can be formidable when aroused, as is evidenced by the following reply which she made to a question as to whether Dr. Parkhurst minded the harsh criticism and violent abuse that appeared in some papers. She said, with considerable spirit: "He was philosophical about it, and considered the source. The unprincipled class hate him as the devil is devil—worse, in fact, for he has no terror for them but as good. He is stronger than the devil. They are morally irresponsible. For truth they do not entertain even a vague regard, and where there is no truth there can be no honor. To notice his vituperation of such persons in court or in print would be folly. They are beneath the dignity of contempt. Liars are generally cowards, and one of my husband's friends said of the anonymous letter." It is said that Dr. Parkhurst consults his wife with regard to his work and has great confidence in her judgment.

Discovery of Turpin.

A dog belonging to Hercules Tyrius was one day walking along the seashore, when he found and ate a number of species of shellfish. Returning to his master the latter noticed that the dog's lips were tinged with color, and in this manner Tyrian purple was discovered. Since that was used in the robes of emperors and no one could wear it without the title of "royal" meant that the person was of high birth. It is strange to think that the exotic color of royalty can be traced to the accidental eating of the dog of Tyre.—Harper's Young People.

Some Snakes Easily Tamed.

The ringed or common snake is easily tamed, and will plainly recognize the voice of her who feeds and caresses it, sometimes even coming spontaneously in some part of his dress. Mr. Bell had one which when he put out of its box would crawl up the sleeve of his coat and bite at any stranger that meddled with it.—Quarterly Review.

Flattened Out.

Haviwayte—I thought of a very funny joke in my sleepy last night, but when I woke up somehow it was as flat as a pancake.

Litewayte—No wonder. I suppose you slept on it.—Kate Field's Washington.

A MAN OF BUSINESS.

Talk With Keyes, the Well-Known Chicagoan.

One of Most Enterprising and Yet Most Conservative.

Experience in Commercial and Private Life in the World's Fair City.

No business man in Chicago stands higher, says the Post of that city, than H. D. H. Keyes, of the well-known firm of Keyes & Thatcher.

Mr. Keyes is very wealthy, and his holdings of city real estate are large, but, while he is one of the most enterprising, he is one of the most conservative business men in town.

"For upward of 30 years," says Mr. Keyes, "I have been engaged in active business in this city, having come here from the good old State of Vermont. At the age of 24 I found myself completely broken down, poisoned by the rare gas, full of malaria, followed by slow and persistent blood poisoning. The latter affection was the result, and I was compelled to leave my business. I traveled from Chicago to the Pacific coast and back again to the Atlantic, stopping here and there, wherever I could find good medical attendance, visiting sanitariums, water cures, and health resorts of every kind, and yet with all the effort I found that, while I was apparently under medical surveillance, I had no faith in the ultimate result.

"I was almost insane from the loss of time, almost every known remedy I had tried with but little good effect. The most diligent attention which I paid to my health and the outlay of thousands of dollars only procured for me faint hope that I might grow at least a little better.

"It has been four years since I began the struggle for the retaining of my health, and in all that time I can honestly say that nothing has proved of such great benefit to me as Paine's celery compound. Since I began to use it I sleep very well and have regained a healthy color and am in excellent flesh.

"I attribute my present condition to the use of this compound."

Mr. Keyes' experience, says the Post, is but the story of thousands of others who have written Paine's celery compound. It made them well!

It is a scientific, common sense remedy that cures disease. It is the result of the life's study and experience of one of the most able physicians of the day, Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth College.

It is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a cure-all nor tonic; it is not an ordinary nervine—it is as far beyond them as the sun is superior to the cheap glass

Mr. W. J. Hamilton, of 318 Austin avenue, says he first commenced using the compound about three months ago.

"I am now using the second bottle," he wrote to the Pen, "and I can candid when I say I have received more benefit from these two bottles than all the doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines I have taken for the last four years, and they have been many and varied.

"The complaints of which I have been afflicted are kidney trouble and pains in the region of the kidneys and bearing down and headaches and chronic dyspepsia. I have doctored in London, England, and in America for all these years, but never found anything to do me much good. At this week I began after taking Paine's celery compound, I thought I might grow at least a little better, and glad I came to hear about it. I shall not hesitate to recommend it, as I cannot say too much in its favor."

Mrs. Mary A. Parcell, of 1004 West Twelfth street, is another Chicagoan:

"I had no appetite," he says, "felt weak and tired all the time, and could not sleep. After taking two bottles of Paine's celery compound I was glad to say that I feel like a new person. Two more of the bottles are taking, and we recommend it to all our friends."

Prof. Phelps, even to the medical profession a celebrated remedy, which has since come to be known the world over as Paine's celery compound.

As a well known physician in this city says:

"It is the one—the best—remedy for nervous diseases known to our profession."

ARE TURNED THIS WAY.
The Western North Carolina Railroad (just opened this year), from Murphy to Asheville, penetrates one of the richest mineral and timber sections yet opened for development, and
The Nantahala Marble and Talc Company
Own 8,000 acres of the choicest property along the line. On it there are millions of cubic feet of the FINEST MARBLE of beautiful variegated colors from white to black.
THE FINEST TALC, worth from $15 to $20 a ton.
THE RICHEST HARD WOOD TIMBER, such as walnut, poplar, hickory, beech, cherry and oak. All this undeveloped property is situated on the railroad, ready for the quarry and mill as soon as factories of the Nantahala company.
The Nantahala river furnishes 12,000-horse power to run these mills and factories without the cost of a dollar for fuel. Labor is cheap and abundant. Living is cheaper than in any of the Northern states. NANTAHALA IS THE QUEEN of mineral and timber wealth and natural resources and facilities.
A limited number of shares of Nantahala stock are now being sold to develop the property and build a city at Nantahala. The building of a city is a necessary adjunct to, and sure to follow, the development of such an immensely rich property, and Nantahala is bound to be a LARGE city and a RICH city from the start.
KEEP YOUR EYE ON NANTAHALA.
Those seeking investments that are safe and sure to make big dividends and profits are invited to take stock in the Nantahala company.
Price of stock is $100 per share, subscriptions payable $10 monthly on each share for ten months. Rapid dividends allowed for cash. Every purchaser of two shares (which secures a lot in the new city of
