

Dear Doctor,

I have been researching cannabis and how it could possibly help any of my conditions we've been working on. I intend to get my Medical Marijuana card soon and begin the process of understanding how cannabis will effect my conditions.

Reducing the number of meds I'm currently using would also reduce the side-effects of those prescriptions. I hear cannabis can provide relief from several issues at once.

A little research helped me understand more about using cannabis effectively but there are a lot of strategies and choices to make. Perhaps you could help me review some of the current cannabis science regarding my conditions.

I would like for you to monitor my progress on this path, so that we can see what the effects are together, during this trial.

Thank you for helping me investigate new relief through this ancient medicine. I'll look forward to our next conversation about my health and quality of life.

Your patient,
