

Cemetery tree plantings

Special to The News Journal/EMILY VARISCO

Demetrache Hopkins, 38, of Millsboro (left) and Dennis Cessna, 47, of New Castle, drive supports into the ground Saturday at Wilmington's historic Riverview Gardens Cemetery, at 31st and North Market streets. Officials for the Delaware Center for Horticulture, which organized the event, said about 120 volunteers planted 40 large bare-root trees at the cemetery. Volunteers from the Wilmington Rotary Club also planted 20 trees in Canby Park in the city's Hedgeville neighborhood, they said. View a photo gallery at www.delawareonline.com.
