Thompson Dr. Linda Vaughan Melinda Manore Dr. In some cases, the former Nutrition Debates section is folded into the narrative or recast as a Highlight box such as material on sports drinks in Chapter 9. Highlight boxes provide deeper insight into a variety of compelling topics that students will recognize from the media and popular culture, and have been updated to reflect a current range of diverse nutritional issues.

See For Yourself are self-assessment features offering brief, targeted activities that emphasize active learning and applied skills, and provide opportunities for students to learn about their own nutrition and health habits. Nutrition Label Activities teach students how to read and evaluate labels from real food products so that they can make educated choices about the foods they consume, and enables them to provide informed, balanced advice to potential future clients. You Do the Math boxes provide students with hands-on, practical calculations such as determining their own Body Mass Index [BMI] , presented in a clear, easy-to-use format.

The Food Security, Equity, and the Environment Chapter 16 has been recast to cover food security, equity, and the environment, giving it a timely new approach. In addition, the chapter will now follow the food safety chapter, with the text then ending with the 3 lifecycle chapters. Each element is associated with a Learning Outcome, and has corresponding activities in Mastering. Support Instructors NEW!
