STRATEGIC PLANNING

• FOOTBRIDGE MAINTENANCE

- ◇ A committee is working on complicated details to get the bridge repainted. As many have noticed that the white paint on the bridge started peeling soon after it was rebuilt.
- ◇ Painting will be a two-stage process: first the old paint needs to be scraped off with protection to ensure paint scrapings do not fall into the river: second the bridge painting needs to be done when the wood is dry, which is not easy to predict.
- ◇ WHA will post a notice asking local volunteers to help once plans are in place.

• RAILROAD DISPLAY - The Wanakena portion of the Western Adirondack Railroad Modelers (WARM) exhibit is being moved from Star Lake SOS to the Wanakena History Center and will also house WHA RR artifacts.

- ◇ A large shed/building donated by Judy Hastings-Keith was placed behind the history center last Fall and construction was started on the display. Reassembling the model train exhibit will continue this Spring/Summer.
- ◇ Anyone interested in assisting with working on the railroad model or joining the WARM group, contact Wayne Allen or email wanakenaha@aol.com.

• BY LAWS REVISION -The WHA By-laws have not been formally revised since the founding of the WHA as a 501(c)(3) non profit organization in 2000.

- ◇ Regulations covering non-profits have been revised and the WHA By-Laws require changes to meet revised state and federal regulations.
- ◇ Every member in good standing (Lifetime members or up-to-date with annual dues) will receive a copy of the revised By-Laws and a ballot to vote on the revisions this summer.
- ◇ Additional revisions are being made to the By-Laws to represent how the WHA Board of Trustees operates. All revisions will be summarized in a cover letter.

WHAT'S IN A NAME

WA well researched story of how Wanakena got it's name.

By: Jack Williams

There are a lot of rumors about Wanakena's name. Some insist that it's an Indian name, some say it was a made-up word that Herb Rich came up with little thought, and some say it was from a Pullman car or trolley that he had seen. I've taken some time to look into the mystery over the years, and here are my conclusions.

"Wanakena" is not an Indian name. First, everyone who insists that it is has a different translation of the word. Some say "Black Water," some say "Pleasant Place," and there are a variety of other translations. If it were an Indian name, it would probably be an Iroquois word, and Heckewelder's definitive 1819 book, "Narrative of the Indians, Volume 1" contains no word close to Wanakena in its extensive dictionary of Iroquois words.

So, let's think about who assigned the name and when. It is pretty well documented that Herb Rich first wanted to name his new village "Cranberry Lake." But the small settlement at the head of the lake thought otherwise, US Postal Service agreed, and Rich had to find another name. His close associates write that he saw the name on a Pullman car or a trolley and adopted it for his new village. So just how well does that fit the times and the person?

Streetcars in Buffalo NY

First trolley in Hamburg NY

Herb Rich grew up and lived in Cattaraugus, NY, an early railroad town at the time. He had easy contact with railroads and trolleys in Buffalo – a railroad hub just to the North – and Pennsylvania with its thousands of miles of track. In addition, in the 19th century most school students studied Latin. This is relevant because "ena" and "ina" are derived from Latin and was sometimes used as a baby's name signifying "small" or "little one." Consider the name of "Thumbelina," who was as tall as your thumb. Hold that thought.

A few years ago Piers Bramham wrote the Pullman company to see if they ever had a Pullman named "Wanakena." The answer was "yes," but the car was built in 1913 and later turned into a diner. So take Pullman off the list. Wanakena was named 12 years earlier. However, the town of Hamburg in the county just West of Rich's Cattaraugus County, opened its first trolley line in 1901. Kim Schneider visited the Hamburg Historical Society historian to see if there was a line with Wanakena on it, and the answer was "probably not." But, I later learned that there was an extensive effort by six different companies to build trolley lines in the lakeside corridor between Lackawanna, a Buffalo suburb, and Erie, PA and on to Meadville, PA, my home town. The trolleys were exceedingly popular.

Soon after Kim's visit, my wife and I drove up the corridor from Meadville and Erie to eventually visit Cattaraugus and, would you believe it, there is a small, old lakeside village just South of Lakawanna, named "Wanakah." And Wanakah had a railroad and trolley station. And many early trolley photographs show that trolleys often put the name of their destination on the front of their vehicle. And given the easy and short connections between Cattaraugus and Buffalo, as well as Cattaraugus and Hamburg, Rich had the means to visit often. So the chances that he saw a trolley with "Wanakah" on the front are pretty high. Early photographs show that the "Wanakah" beach was a very popular place. Could Wanakah be our answer or just a coincidence; we shall see.

Perhaps you've noticed now that "Wanakena" could be "Wanakah" with "ena" replacing the "ah" and that Wanakena was certainly a lot smaller than Wanakah at the time. Could Wanakah be our answer or just coincidence? We shall see.

So here's the hypothesis; maybe Herb Rich just made up the word "Wanakena" and it just happened by chance to have five letters that match a hamlet not far from his home town. – letters matching in exactly the same order.

This hypothesis can be tested. Assume that Rich's choice of letters was totally random, that each choice was independent of the others, and that he allowed letters to be used more than once. That's reasonable. For the sake of brevity, I'll just note that the chance of Herb Rich drawing randomly from the alphabet the first five letters of "Wanakah" in the same order, is between one success out of 345,600 random attempts and one success out of 7,962,624 random tries. Not very good odds at all, I'd say.

THOSE WHO HELP MAKE IT POSSIBLE

(Knowing that some have helped and have chosen to remain anonymous)

Without the support of Northern New York Community Foundation, Damoth Fund, Clifton-Fine Fund, and our many donors, and volunteers the WHA would not have been able to build and maintain the J Otto Hamele Historic Walking Tour, rebuild the footbridge, or renovate and fill the Wanakena History Center with displays and exhibits. Below is an attempt to recognize those who make it possible and represents donations and gifts in-kind received since May 2022.

We try our darndest to thank everyone for helping in so many different ways

But ... If there are omissions or errors we want to correct it.

Stories From the Archives: The Significance of 1919

By: Kathy Smith Greenwald—class of '79

In 1919, the Treaty of Versailles signed by Germany and the Allied Nations formally ended World War I. The League of Nations - predecessor to the United Nations - was created. The 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prohibiting the production, sale, and transport of alcohol was ratified. Congress passed the 19th Amendment (ratified in 1920) guaranteeing women the right to vote and established Grand Canyon National Park – one of the earliest successes of the environmental conservation movement. The short-wave radio, pop-up toaster, rotary dial telephone, and the arc welder were invented. 1919 was also a significant year in the Ranger School's history. Following his U.S. Army discharge in 1919, James F. Dubuar turned down a position with the U.S. Forest Service to accept an offer as an assistant professor of forestry at the seven year old Ranger School. Dubuar arrived in Wanakena on June 11, 1919, to begin his teaching duties and his life-long devotion to the School and its alumni.

Although he was not one of the Ranger School's 1912 founders (J. Otto Hamele, Herbert Rich, Dr. Hugh Baker) or pioneering faculty members (P.T. Coolidge, Rueben Pritchard, R.T. Gheen, E.F. McCarthy, Robert Craig Jr.), James F. Dubuar left a lasting imprint on the School. As its longest serving Director (1920 - 1957), Dubuar shaped the curriculum using his military training as a guide, influenced the construction design plans for the 1928 "new" main building, and instilled a strong work ethic still expected of students and faculty today.

During Dubuar's tenure, the Ranger School's curriculum changed and expanded. Courses such as "Elements of Forestry," "Forest Management," and "Photogrammetry" were added and there was an increased emphasis on logging and on tree plantation "cleanings" done by students. The hands-on curriculum included field trips to local forest operations and mills. Other practical skills taught included typewriting, bookkeeping, and commercial law. In 1930 (and lasting until 1970), the academic year was lengthened by several weeks with the new class starting in March and graduating the following February so students would benefit from the extra weeks of training and graduation day (formerly in December) would fall closer to the start of field season for forestry jobs.

James F. Dubuar helped to establish the Ranger School's enduring reputation as the best technical forestry school in the U.S. The attitudes and high standards he lived by and set at the School still permeate the place a century after his arrival and may be his greatest legacy. Timeless and critical to success in any career or other challenge in life, they include working efficiently and competently to get the job done and get it done right, working cooperatively with others as a team, thinking on your feet to solve problems, and doing it all with integrity, self-discipline, fair play, loyalty, and responsibility.

At the end of the academic year, each Ranger School graduate leaves the James F. Dubuar Memorial Forest with an Associate in Applied Science degree and self-confidence earned that there is no task in the world that is too hard and no effort is too great to achieve one's professional and personal goals.

Again, a gazillion thanks to the dedicated volunteers and donors of historical items, as well as our financial supporters!

It was the best of years, and ... that's it. 2022 was one of the best of years. With the worst of COVID behind us. In 2022 the town returned to enjoying summer with friends, family and visitors.

The WHA has matured and grown since Bill Gleason enlisted those first 16 volunteers together in late 1999 after he recognized how captivating the history of the little hamlet of Wanakena is. It is addicting. Bill also recognized that many of the 'old-timers', some of whom were the children of the original families that moved here from Granere PA in 1902, were not going to be around to tell their stories forever. He saw how a group of dedicated ladies had spent years leading an effort to get the footbridge recognized on the National Register of Historic Places and the party the town threw when the plaque was unveiled. A lot of water under the bridge, shall we say. Who would have imagined that the Wanakena Historical Association that founded the innovative J. Otto Hamele 'Walking Tour of Wanakena History' would eventually acquire an original Rich Lumber Company home to have archives with thousands of images, articles about its residents, diaries, old home movies, audio recording, logging & railroad tools, and many artifacts from businesses and people who used to live here. Thank-You again Bill.

In mid-August this past summer, in between sharing stories of logging with History Center visitors I was reviewing the visitors log at the history center. After tallying the months guest register I realized that the History Center would probably see our 1,000th visitor in early summer 2023. I mentioned this to a few of the volunteer greeters that it would be fun to prepare something special to recognize this monumental event. And the visitors kept coming. Then the Labor Day Quilt Fest brought a very large number of visitors, and early October was also very busy with the leaf peepers.

Carol Cassidy who is often 'on duty' at the HC welcome desk and gift counter and encourages all visitors to sign the guest register decided to tally up the visitors to see how close we were getting to that magic 1,000th visitor.

Carol was so excited when she exclaimed, "we went over 1,000 visitors today"! She counted and recounted and identified who that 1,000th visitor was. A long-time Wanakena seasonal resident, who had accompanied a friend and signed the guest register. Marty Szotak is our record breaking visitor on October 8, Columbus Day weekend. Many of you know that I am one of several 'official photographers' trying to capture the essence of modern-day Wanakena for posterity. I fantasize that someday my pictures will represent, 'The Good Old Days' to a future generation. Marty has been one of the stars of the Wanakena annual 4th of July parade for many years and thought it would be fun and appropriate to portray Marty in this newsletter as we see him every July 4th (I did call him to tell him the good news and ask permission to include the photo).

So as the WHA has big plans for a third year of welcoming visitors to the Wanakena History Center, it is our first year of rotating exhibits so that the WHA can showcase more of the images and history of Wanakena and Clifton-Fine that are in our collection. I'm looking forward to meeting more visitors in 2023 and hope that they fall in love with this beautiful wilderness, that some of us are lucky enough to call home.

COMMON THREAD QUILTS - In 2021 the WHA Board of Trustees agreed to create a new committee called Common Thread Quilts (CTQ), which is a North Country community building organization sharing the history and evolving art of quilting with members and the public, through creative projects. CTQ is co-directed by Annette Swartz and Kathy Greenwald; other founding members are Primrose McVay, Marsha Smith, Sue Novak, and Lynn Smith; all together this group forms the core Planning Committee for Common Thread Quilt Fest 2023.

The Wanakena History Center ready for Quilt Fest opening day.

What's Next for Common Thread Quilts

In September of 2022, the Singer Sewing Machine Company donated 20 sewing machines to CTQ. This donation enabled expansion of the CTQ Community Quilting Program. Interested community members meet weekly at the Western Adirondack Presbyterian Church (WAPC) to quilt together, often making items for use by the greater Clifton-Fine community. Projects include crazy quilt tablecloths for shared use by the community, over sixty double sided table runners for the weekly Community Meal Program, and holiday pillowcases for the Clifton-Fine Angel Tree Program.

Table runners made by CTQ for the Clifton-Fine weekly Community

Planning for Quilt Fest 2023 is well underway. The theme for this year's fest is Stitched Stories: Quilts that Speak. The two-day event will be held September 1 & 2, in Wanakena. For more details about this event, and other CTQ activities, go to <https://www.birdhavenquilting.com/> and click on Common Thread Quilts or Quilt Fest 2023. To be added to our email update list send email to info@commonthreadquilts.org. To follow us on Facebook, go to <https://www.facebook.com/CommonThreadQuilts>.

Many of the members and participants helped to make these crazy quilt blocks last summer (2022), that are now part of a set of tables cloths available for use by community members and organizations. Contact the Clifton-Fine Community Library in Cranberry Lake for details. Their first use was at the WOW weekend celebration.

FUNDS FOR THE NEW DOCK HAVE BEEN RAISED

Below are communications from Dave Ziemba thanking the WHA for contributing towards replacing the town dock at the beach. The dock was in poor condition and soon could have been dangerous to use. The dock is used by many visitors who reside on the lake. WHA joined the Cranberry Lake Boat Club and the Town of Fine in supporting the project. Work on the new dock is scheduled to begin early this Spring.

February 10, 2023

To The Wanakena Historical Association,

I would like to send a letter of sincere gratitude for the generous donation and support in the project to replace our community boat and swim dock in Wanakena.

I am confident that this was a positive move and will improve the experience for our community. I hope that everyone has a chance to see it this summer. It will be installed sometime this Spring.

Enclosed is the breakdown of the contributions.

Thank you again for your support.

VOLUNTEER GREETERS NEEDED

WHA cannot thank the volunteers who volunteered on weekends that welcomed 661 visitors to the History Center. There were days when it was slow and other days when there was a constant stream of visitors. Everyone who worked the History Center in 2022 found it to be a fun and rewarding experience. One of the most common feedback from last year was, "the best part is hearing the personal stories that visitors share with me about their own Wanakena experiences or their parents or grand parents."

Thank-you to the seventeen greeters that kept the History Center open on the 37 regularly scheduled days. Thank-You to Wayne Allen, Ron Capone, Michael Cappuccilli, Carol Cassidy, Stephanie Cervelloni, Beth Daut, Allen Ditch, Paul Flynn, Kathy Greenwald, Judy Hastings-Keith, Jeannette Kiser, Jack Kreckel, Primrose McVay, Glenn Phillips, Lynn Smith, Marsha Smith, and Marty Szotak.

We welcome new faces to join us in WHA's mission "to share the stories of our local communities' and the Ranger School's vibrant history in order to celebrate our enthusiasm and pride with residents and visitors".

- ⇒ Would you like to learn more about the History of Wanakena, or logging, or Clifton-Fine, or the Ranger School ?
- ⇒ Could you volunteer time on a Saturday or Sunday to welcome visitors to the History Center and also keep exhibits secure?
- ⇒ email wanakenaha@aol.com or call Allen at 315-848-2428

Become a Wanakena Greeter. Volunteer 2 or more hours on a Saturday or Sunday meeting visitors and/or Wanakena residents & their guests.
