Rose I. Miller, Owner
DVM, Board Certified Veterinary Dermatologist

Dr. Rose Miller spent her childhood in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, where her days were filled with enjoying the great outdoors, as well as the company of animals and family pets throughout her youth. She attended Washington State University for both her undergraduate and veterinary school educations, where she spent three years on the school's women's rowing team and was selected as an Academic All American Athlete. As an undergraduate at WSU, Dr. Miller was accepted into veterinary school through an advanced honors program. After receiving her Bachelors of Science degree in Animal Science in 2005, she moved across campus to join the veterinary medicine program. She had her first class in dermatology during her second year of veterinary school and knew that it would be the career path she would follow. Dr. Miller earned her Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine from Washington State University in 2008.

Following veterinary school, Dr. Miller moved to Tampa, Florida, where she completed a challenging internship in small animal medicine and surgery at Florida Veterinary Specialists. She began her residency in veterinary dermatology with Dermatology for Animals in 2009 and achieved board certification in November 2012. Dr. Miller became a partner in Dermatology for Animals in 2017.

At the clinic, Dr. Miller enjoys spending time with her clients to discuss their pets' dermatology conditions. She offers progressive and extensive options to make pets comfortable and happy, and she takes pleasure in working closely with the family veterinarian to determine the most appropriate dermatological care. Her own adopted Chihuahua, Maybelle, developed liver disease and taught Dr. Miller the importance of patience when caring for an animal with a chronic disease.

When not at work, Dr. Miller enjoys beautiful Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, her hometown, and spending time with her family.
