- Psalm 136
- 1 Corinthians 7:1-24

“God’s law is not a set of constraints; it isn’t a cage; it isn’t a statute book. God’s law is—put at its simplest—God’s communicative presence. It’s God’s Word—that is, God with us, God coming to us, God establishing fellowship with us . . . [and because he has made us “in his own image”] it is God setting before us what it means to be and act humanly.” (John Webster, Christ our Salvation, 20–21.)

- Psalm 150
- 2 Corinthians 2

“This idea that . . . we live within a given order of reality, that God speaks to us and shapes our lives, is pretty remote to the way most of us go about our daily affairs. Why is that? Largely, I think, because . . . one of the deepest assumptions of our culture is that we’ve no given nature. We’re what we make of ourselves, not what God makes of us or intends for us. (John Webster, Christ our Salvation, 20–22.)

Verse of the Month

Ephesians 2: 19, 20

¹⁹ “Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God’s people and members of God’s household, ²⁰built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone.”
