About the instructor:

Roger M. Lutt CNWI, CPDT-KA

Roger became fascinated with the scenting abilities of dogs as he observed hunting dogs hunting. He was amazed at their success in finding birds only by the scent in the air. This piqued his interest while he was still in college completing his Masters' Degree in Human Communication. He became interested in how the dogs communicated to the hunter that a bird was found.

In 2010, while attending a dog training seminar, Roger became aware of a brand-new activity/sport called Nose Work or Scent Work. He joined the NACSW, National Association of Canine Scent Work. He went on to attend the instructional classes including an annual weeklong camp organized by the NACSW. Roger achieved the designation of certified K9 Nose Work Instructor (CNWI) and has been teaching Nose Work classes since 2010. He has the pleasure of watching many of his students win many competitions.

Roger is currently an AKC Scent Work judge and enjoys attending and judging Scent Work Trials.

He recently moved to Sioux Falls and is excited to be teaching and coaching students in the sport of Scent Work.
