

Ecology Introduction

- OB60 understand that living things are affected by their environment and respond to changes that occur in that environment, and understand that their numbers depend on the availability of food and the presence or absence of other organisms
- OB61 list examples of producers, decomposers and consumers in an ecosystem
- OB62 select a food chain and a food web from a named habitat and identify examples of adaptation, competition and interdependence

