

Emily Duncan, LCSW, is a Licensed Clinical Social Worker. Emily obtained her Bachelor's degree in Psychology at The University of Mississippi in 2015. She then attended graduate school and earned her Master of Social Work degree from Western Kentucky University in 2019. During her two years in graduate school, Emily worked as a Graduate Research Assistant where she presented at two National Social Work conferences and co-authored three manuscripts, which were submitted to peer-reviewed journals. Emily assisted in the procuring of grant funding and in the ongoing development of an international food assistance initiative in Tanzania, East Africa. She also served as a key member of a collaborative project focused on the recruiting, retention, and well-being of Kentucky's foster parents. Emily served as the Secretary and later President of the Graduate Social Work Student Organization; the Student Representative to the MSW faculty program meetings; Secretary of the Project Rafiki Advisory Committee; and was a member of the Phi Alpha Honor Society. In these roles, Emily organized community outreach and education sessions for National Social Work Month and engaged in fundraising activities to support social service agencies in the community. Emily completed a 500-hour graduate internship with the Recruitment and Certification Unit at DCBS and a 500-hour graduate internship with Wilson Counseling. Emily currently provides adolescent, teen, and adult therapy for Wilson Counseling via Telehealth only.