TWISTED TALES: A CURSED FATE

THE STORY

Once upon a time there lived 5 young girls all living in different kingdoms...

We find Rapunzel's mother struggling to resist the allure of the magical flower in the witch, Gothel's, possession, and with this power Gothel was able to bargain the flower for her unborn baby. When Gothel comes to collect the now baby Rapunzel she is reluctantly handed over, her parents scared to go back on the deal now. Rapunzel was raised in the highest tower and kept locked away frightened by Gothel's stories of evil people from the outside world wanting to steal Rapunzel's magical hair.

Another young baby is the beautiful princess Aurora who is having a christening celebration thrown for her by her doting parents, the King and Queen of the land. Villagers from all classes are invited to celebrate with them and meet the sweet new baby. The Fairies are honoured guests who have travelled to bestow gifts of beauty, grace and song. All is going well until Carabosse, the evil fairy storms in, furious at not receiving an invitation to attend.

Out of spite Carabosse decides to curse the baby Aurora to grow up to prick her finger on a knitting needle and die. Fortunately, the Lilac Fairy has not yet given her gift and is able to bend Carabosse's curse to send Aurora into a charmed sleep instead of death, to be awoken by true love's kiss.

We then meet little Cinderella who is a happy and loved child until her father remarries and cruel and money hungry woman. Not long later he passes away leaving Cinderella with her evil stepmother and stepsisters becoming their slave. Beautiful Snow White also lives a pretty good life surrounded by animals that love her up until her father passes away, leaving her at the mercy of the Evil Queen. Jealousy overcomes the Evil Queen when her magical mirror on the wall tells her Snow White is the fairest of them all. The Evil Queen imprisons Snow White in the dungeon, hoping this will stop her being fairest in the land.

And then we come to Little Red Riding Hood who is happily on her way to see her grandma when she encounters the Big Bad Wolf on her travels through the forest. The wolf tricks her into trusting him, then races ahead to beat her to granny's house. The wolf eats well that night, managing to capture both Granny and Red Riding Hood.

In an attempt to be better members of society our villains all attend weekly Villains Anonymous meetings, nothing like a bit of peer support to try to work through problems.

Time passes, years go by, and we find the wolf struggling to keep something down. Such a strong fighter is Red Riding Hood that she had held on and managed to escape. However, she finds that many years has passed but she hasn't aged a day, the wolf's stomach acted like a time warp! She sets off to warn the others.

We now see all the princesses grown up, dreaming of escaping their lives, hoping they one day meet each other. As it is nearly Aurora's 16th birthday, she is planning a spectacular party, she will hold a ball that all of the other princesses will come to.

Now that she has grown up Snow White's beauty has put her in danger from the Evil Queen, she is released from the dungeons but quickly exiled from the kingdom, with the Royal Huntsman sent after her with instructions to bring back her heart.

As she runs from the Huntsman Snow White finds herself in the dark forest, this seems to come alive attacking her. Luckily the Huntsman grows fond of Snow White during the pursuit and decides to let her go, using a wild boar's heart to fool the Evil Queen. On the other side of the dark forest Snow White collapses from fear and exhaustion only to be found by the 7 Dwarfs and taken to live safely in their cottage.

On his way back to deliver the faux heart the Huntsman finds Rapunzel trapped alone in her tower hoping for a way to get out and make it to the ball being held at the castle. The Huntsman manages to find a secret way out for Rapunzel and promises to meet Rapunzel at the ball after he has completed his mission. The Evil Queen also receives an invitation to the ball, however this is the one intended for Snow White. This prompts her to check if Snow White is indeed dead as she ordered, to her horror she finds the Huntsman has betrayed her. Frustrated she plots to take matters into her own hands by infiltrating the ball.

Cinderella is also invited to the ball and has just the dress, her mother's with a few alterations. But her excitement is ruined when her stepmother and stepsisters catch her with the dress, destroy it and steal her invitation. Cinderella is distraught and hopeless when the fairies find her and bring the Lilac Fairy to act as her Fairy Godmother. With some quick thinking and some resourcefulness Cinderella ready for the ball and sent off to the castle in style.

At the ball everyone is having a fantastic time, enjoying good company and dancing the night away. Just as Red Riding Hood has made it to warn everyone, trouble strikes. The wolf has tracked her down and the other villains use this chance to attack the princesses. It does not look good for the princesses, Gothel cuts Rapunzel's hair, Cinderella is almost caught by the Stepmother getting away in the nick of time but losing her glass slipper in the process, Snow White is compelled to eat the Evil Queen's poison apple and Aurora moves spellbound into pricking her finger on the needle.

With all this happening in his Kingdom, the King rallies all the heroes of the realm and they battle it out with the villains. In the end the heroes are victorious, either capturing or chasing away all the evil doers. But this does not save our princesses from their cursed fates.

Just when all hope is lost, our little fairies find the princesses and call the Lilac Fairy to help. The Lilac Fairy knows how to break the evil spells and brings the bravest and most noble gentlemen to help lift the curses. In the end love and friendship prevail and they all live happily ever after.
