

Long & Foster Realtors® is committed to protecting you, your family, & your belongings.

When your home is listed for sale, agents from other real estate brokerages will request to show your home to potential buyers.

Most Realtors® subscribe to SentiLock, an electronic lockbox system that allows us to track who enters the property, and it also assures you that only licensed Realtors® enter the property.

Through the SentiLock database we are then able to track who has entered the home.

Some Realtors® choose not to subscribe to SentiLock; they prefer to call the listing agent and ask for access via a “DAY CODE”, which is a 4-digit code the Realtor® can input into the lockbox in order to access the property.

If a day code is used to access the property, Long & Foster Realtors® has no way of verifying who entered your property.

Long & Foster Realtors® does not believe that providing a day code to other Realtors® to access your property is in line with our duty to protect you, your family, and your property.
