

The Benefits of Hosting a Women's Learning Circle

In Your County

WOMEN'S LEARNING CIRCLES PROVIDE:

a unique opportunity for women landowners in your county to engage with each other and conservation staff to learn about and adopt sustainable and profitable conservation practices. It is an ideal match for any district's outreach efforts and W4L encourages every district to host at least one circle. Take advantage of the support we offer and see for yourself the positive impact on your district's goals.

WOMEN'S LEARNING CIRCLES GIVE A DISTRICT:

- A program to reach a growing but underserved demographic.
- The chance to reach new landowners who often give in to development pressures and are hungry for information about conservation.
- Contact with a group who in general feel a strong commitment to conservation.
- A single proven process to reach all women - operators, absentee, or cooperators.

Districts who host a circle are not alone - there are detailed plans with timelines, sample agendas, a trained facilitator and handouts and activities for each of the curricula program areas. And, additional support is only a phone call away.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Getting started is simple! To learn how to start your own learning circle, contact:

Heather Bacher
Women4theLand State Coordinator
Email: hbacher@women4theland.org
Phone: 317-514-4634

