Word from Our Pastor

If then there is any encouragement in Christ, any consolation from love, any sharing in the Spirit, any compassion and sympathy, ² make my joy complete: be of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind. ³ Do nothing from selfish ambition or conceit, but in humility regard others as better than yourselves. ⁴ Let each of you look not to your own interests, but to the interests of others. ⁵ Let the same mind be in you that was in Christ Jesus, ⁶ who, though he was in the form of God, did not regard equality with God as something to be exploited, ⁷ but emptied himself, taking the form of a slave, being born in human likeness. And being found in human form, ⁸ he humbled himself and became obedient to the point of death-- even death on a cross. ⁹ Therefore God also highly exalted him and gave him the name that is above every name, ¹⁰ so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bend, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, ¹¹ and every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

(Philippians. 2:1-11)

Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

The scripture above is among my favorites. I did a deep dive into these verses during my seminary years and since then it keeps coming to mind when I feel at ends and not sure what to do. When I'm worried or anxious I think about how Jesus was willing to empty himself of all his heavenly glory, being one with the Father and the Holy Spirit, to become a human being. What an enormous sacrifice! We often think that when Jesus willingly went to the cross for our sins, that was his great sacrifice, but I tell you that was just one part of the whole plan. The true sacrifice came when God decided to become a human being and live among us.

When Paul writes to the Philippian Church to make his joy complete by being of one mind, he isn't asking them to get behind their Church Council President, or their Pastor, or the informal leader. He's asking them to be of one mind with Christ Jesus. He's inviting them into a whole new and different way of thinking and acting toward one another and to the world around them. To have the same mind as Christ Jesus is to put God and neighbor first and any consideration for our own selves as subordinate to what Jesus would want us to do. I know it's an impossible task, but that doesn't mean we stop trying. When we fail, and we will fail from time to time, we seek God's forgiveness, the forgiveness of our neighbor if necessary, and get back to the work of the kingdom.

I remember an old country song that went like this, "Oh Lord it's hard to be humble when you're perfect in every way." I assure you, none of us is perfect in every way. Let me tell you, that's hard for a perfectionist to admit! I try to work on my growing edges and build up my strengths, but even in doing that, I often fail. When I consider my own status and shortcomings, instead of getting down on myself and depressed, I reread these words. When I do, I'm so filled with joy that Jesus, who already knew my status, emptied himself of all his Godly Glory for me anyway. I confess I can't understand what God sees in the likes of me, but I remember the saying my mother needlepointed onto a wall hanging when I was a child. It read "God Sees You And Loves You Anyway".

May you find joy in striving to have the same mind as our Lord and Savior, Christ Jesus. May His mercy and forgiveness wash us all clean of our sinful nature that wants to stay separated from God. May the joy of the Lord fill each of us as we take on the mind of Christ and do his will in this part of God's Kingdom. Amen.

In His Grace,
Pr Mel

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

...News for Pre-K through 6th Grade

To Mars and Beyond Bible School has been out of this world. Everything has gone beyond our imagination! We are learning to Go Beyond with Faith, Boldness, Kindness, Thankfulness, and Hope through Bible stories, crafts, games, songs, and snacks. I think we adults can learn much from the kids and the Go Beyond goals. Let's help by setting examples of the above for the kids. Our last week of Bible School is August 7 at 6:30 pm.

Rally Day will be on August 25 and will continue to focus on the Go Beyond theme. The kids have been earning tickets by attending Bible School. A big prize give away will take place during Rally Day. EP3: 20 will be the grand prize. The kids will participate in the service. Don't forget your backpacks for the Backpack Blessing!

Thanks to all the kids and helpers during Bible School. Also, thanks to parents for making Bible School important!

We will be studying Go Beyond with Jesus for the new Sunday School year.

Don't Forget Lutheran Day at The Great Darke County Fair...

Thursday, August 22nd

Once again this year we'll be bringing water bottles to give away to thirsty fairgoers. The call is out for any of the Prayers and Squares quilting ladies, if you would like to bring a few samples of Trinity's quilts to display, you are more than welcome to do so! Thanks to all of you who make this day of Fair Week so special!

ACTION TEAM

TRINITY FAMILY, THE YEAR IS SPEEDING ALONG AND MANY OF YOU ARE FORGETTING TO USE YOUR ABILITY TO GET MONEY FOR OUR CHURCH THROUGH ACTION TEAMS. Each Thrivent Action Team provides a $250 card to use toward your cause. Two Thrivent Cards were used to purchase $500 worth of materials for Bible School. The best part is that the money didn't have to come out of our church budget!

Do you need an idea for a Action Team cause? Here are a few ideas:

1. GRCC Soup Kitchen (We need one every three months.)
2. Annual Christmas Auction (We need at least two before the auction, think October)
3. Upcoming Thrivent Volunteer Celebration Day (September 15, 2019) at Chenoweth Trails in Greenville. Action Teams can include food, prizes, advertising, drinks and ice cream, or to purchase tee shirts, etc. (Please see Pr Mel for information on this event.)

See Marge Warner or call 937-623-2544 for questions or more information.

Trinity Lutheran Church has a team called the Mutual Ministry Team which acts as a liaison between the congregation and the Pastor.

Our purpose is to:

1. Strengthen the mutual ministry of all members of Trinity Lutheran Church.
2. Affirm and strengthen the mission of the congregation and the ministry of the staff.

We are here to pray for our congregation, the community and the world. We are here to listen to any suggestions which may make our congregation stronger, and we also listen to any complaints you may have regarding issues within the church. If matters are beyond our control, the issue will be presented to council to be discussed and resolved at their monthly meeting.

Although we are not a business, the Mutual Ministry Team acts as “Human Resources” and the President acts as “CEO.” Any suggestions, ideas or complaints should be presented to the Team.

The Team consists of four members serving a term of three years. Members are appointed jointly by the President and the Pastor. The present Team is Linda Baker, Julie Kossler, Joe Netzley and Pastor Musser. The Team meets on a regular basis to discuss any issues which may have been presented to them. Feel free to call any one of them at any time with your concerns or suggestions. We want Trinity to continue being a loving, caring and sharing congregation.

Our Bible School lessons this year sum up all of this perfectly. The Bible verse is from Ephesians 3:20: “Glory to God, who is able to do far beyond all that we could ask or imagine by His power at work within us.”

- Week 1 – Go Beyond with Faith
- Week 2 – Go Beyond with Boldness
- Week 3 – Go Beyond with Kindness
- Week 4 – Go Beyond with Thankfulness
- Week 5 – Go Beyond with Hope

May we all work together and GO BEYOND!

Prevention Can Keep Young Athletes Safe from Opioid Addiction

Guardians must be gatekeeper to pain medication prescribed for orthopedic injuries

Orthopedic injuries can be very painful, but local physicians are being careful as to when opioids are prescribed to young athletes to prevent potential harm to them and their families. Pain medications known as opioids may be prescribed to young athletes for significant fractures or when they are recovering from a surgical operation.

"The most common opioids prescribed to adolescents are Tylenol with codeine, or Norco, which was previously known as Vicodin", said Jon Sulentic, DO, a sports medicine physician with Premier Orthopedics – a practice in which providers serve as team physicians and orthopedic consultants for the University of Dayton, Wright State University, and many area high schools throughout Southwest Ohio.

"Pain can be significant when a young athlete suffers a fracture or undergoes surgery, but narcotic pain medication is not always the answer", said Dr. Sulentic. "As an example, I have treated four fractures in one day without writing a single narcotic prescription as it was neither required nor desired. There is not always a need for a narcotic. Often the pain from a fracture can be addressed in other ways such as by casting or immobilizing the fracture. Likewise, post-operative pain is not always relieved with opioids."

"Data now shows that opioids may not provide the biggest difference for patients dealing with post-operative pain. Instead, anti-inflammatory medications and treatments, such as Tylenol or ice, seem to be the most effective, said Michael Herbenick, MD, an orthopedic surgeon with Premier Orthopedics.

Drs. Herbenick and Sulentic recommend parents and guardians keep these facts in mind if they are caring for an adolescent who's been prescribed opioids:

Be the gatekeeper – Be the person who handles the prescription for an adolescent and insist that they are not to handle the bottle or dosing by themselves. Make sure you understand the prescription – its purpose, dosage and side effects.

Stick to the prescribed dosage – Keep track of when medication is taken and be careful to administer it according to how it was prescribed. People take prescribed opioids because they are supposed to help their pain, but the reality is that many opioids don't touch the type of pain that causes orthopedic injuries, Dr. Sulentic said. "People will use it because they hurt and then when the pain doesn't go away they will use more and more," he said. "What people do not understand is that opioids are not actually good orthopedic pain solvers."

Limited access is key – It's not too drastic to think of opioids as no different than alcohol. Find a place to store it in your home where it can be locked. Don't make it easy for your child or their friends to get to the medication. "Don't assume a medicine cabinet is a safe place," Dr. Herbenick said. "A lot of drug abuse stems from written prescriptions that may have been taken from homes. It may just be a pill or two so no one notices anything is gone."

Be deliberate about disposal – Properly dispose of opioids as soon as you realize the prescription will not be finished. It can be hard to throw away a prescription that may have cost a lot of money, but the risk that it poses by sitting in a cabinet is too high to ignore. Premier Health offers 24/7 disposal options for unused opioids, with medication receptacles installed at many hospital locations. The best course of action to avoid prescription opioid abuse is prevention, which is why Drs. Sulentic and Herbenick agree it's often best to not prescribe opioids in the first place. "We want to be sensitive to people's pain, but we also need to keep in mind that people do not die from pain," Dr. Sulentic said. "It's important to remember that some pain is safer than putting a young patient at risk for overdosing or experiencing a medication-related complication."
